桃岛的老校长

本篇使用 List 1 单词 268/268 个（加粗处为首次出现）

When the summer holiday came, I left my university dormitory, took the railway to the coast, and then caught a small boat to Peach Isle, where I had lived until I was fourteen.
暑假到了，我离开大学宿舍，坐火车到海边，然后搭上一条小船前往桃岛——我在那里一直生活到十四岁。

The island is only four kilometres long, and geographically it looks like a triangular piece of land lying in the sea.
这座岛只有四公里长，从地理上看，它就像一块躺在海里的三角形陆地。

The boat followed the same route as it did ten years ago, and soon the white school building on the hill was visible.
小船走的还是十年前那条航线，不久，山上那栋白色的校舍就映入了眼帘。

On fine days the visibility is so good that you can see the harbour from almost every hill.
天气晴朗的日子，能见度非常好，几乎从每座山丘上都能看到港口。

That afternoon, however, a strong glare came off the water, and the boat seemed to drift slowly toward the shore.
然而那天下午，水面反射出刺眼的强光，小船仿佛在慢慢地向岸边漂去。

As I walked along the narrow lane from the harbour, I noticed that nothing had changed: there was no traffic and no noise, only a few pedestrians on the stone pavement.
我沿着港口边的小巷往前走，发现这里什么都没变：没有车流，没有噪音，只有几个行人走在石板人行道上。

It was the same tranquil sight I remembered, and its quiet beauty almost made me forget the stressful exams I had just finished.
这正是我记忆中那幅宁静的景象，它安静的美几乎让我忘记了刚刚结束的、令人压力巨大的考试。

My grandfather, Mr. Wang, was waiting for me at the gate.
我的爷爷王先生正在门口等我。

He is a war veteran, a former headmaster, and the founder of the only school on the island.
他是一位老兵，当过校长，也是岛上唯一一所学校的创办人。

Although his face is full of wrinkles, he still walks as straight as a young sergeant.
虽然他满脸皱纹，走路却依然像年轻的中士一样挺拔。

Forty years ago the islanders dubbed him "the Master," because he could answer every riddle a child could think of.
四十年前，岛民们给他起了个绰号叫“大师”，因为孩子们能想到的每一个谜语，他都能解答。

He follows the same routine every day: he gets up at five, is always punctual for breakfast, and reads under his old lamp nightly.
他每天都遵循同样的作息：五点起床，吃早饭从不迟到，每晚都在那盏旧台灯下读书。

His favourite books are mostly Confucian classics and some philosophical works, and he likes to say that true manhood is not about strength but about being respectful and responsible.
他最喜欢的书大多是儒家经典和一些哲学著作，他常说，真正的男子气概不在于力气，而在于懂得尊重、敢于担当。

"Why do you think the sea never gets tired?" he asked me at dinner, a rhetorical question he never expected anyone to answer.

“你觉得大海为什么从来不会累？”晚饭时他问我。这是一个反问句，他从不指望有人回答。

Grandma, his spouse for fifty years, was sitting near the window, knitting a garment for me and adding a careful stitch here and there.
奶奶——他相伴五十年的妻子——坐在窗边，正在给我织一件衣服，时不时细心地补上一针。

She said the shirt I was wearing was too thin, and she put a soft pillow behind my back as if I were still a child.
她说我穿的这件衬衫太薄了，还在我背后塞了一个软枕头，好像我还是个孩子一样。

Then she brought out a sweater she had knitted herself, still in its red wrapping paper.
接着，她拿出一件她亲手织的毛衣，外面还包着红色的包装纸。

Her laughter was as infectious as ever, and soon all three of us were laughing.
她的笑声还是和以前一样有感染力，很快我们三个人都笑了起来。

In the evening Grandfather took me to the old school, a small concrete building with only four classrooms.
傍晚，爷爷带我去了那所老学校，一栋只有四间教室的小水泥楼。

Inside, I saw the wooden ruler he used to hold during mathematics lessons, and I remembered how he taught us subtraction with peaches from his farm.
在里面，我看到了他以前上数学课时拿着的那把木尺，也想起了他是如何用自家农场的桃子教我们做减法的。

He also gave us dictation every morning, playing words from an old tape recorder that he had repaired many times himself.
他每天早上还给我们听写，用一台他自己修过很多次的旧录音机播放单词。

He was proud of his ingenuity with gadgets: he could fix any broken hardware, from a radio to a loose electric socket.
他对自己摆弄小器械的心灵手巧颇为自豪：从收音机到松动的电源插座，任何坏掉的硬件他都能修好。

In Chinese class, he taught us that the denotation of a word is only its dictionary meaning, while its real meaning comes from life.
在语文课上，他教导我们：一个词的字面意义只是它在词典里的意思，而它真正的含义来自生活。

"Diligence and dedication," he used to emphasise, "are worth more than any talent you can boast about."
“勤奋和奉献，”他过去常常强调，“比任何你可以拿来炫耀的天赋都更有价值。”

He encouraged us to emulate good people and to learn from our peers, not to look down on them with contempt.
他鼓励我们效仿好人，向同龄人学习，而不是带着轻蔑看不起他们。

"Even a beggar deserves your respect," he told us, and it was one of the most instructive lessons of my childhood.
“即使是乞丐也值得你尊重。”他这样告诉我们，这是我童年时代最有教育意义的一课。

Many students of my generation still cherish his lessons, and I have always felt fortunate and thankful to be one of them.
我们这一代的许多学生至今仍珍惜他的教诲，而我一直为自己是其中一员感到幸运和感激。

The school, together with the farm and the old estate around it, is what he calls his legacy.
这所学校，连同周围的农场和那片老宅地，就是他所说的“他的遗产”。

But that night I heard some bad news: his legacy was in danger.
但那天晚上我听到了一个坏消息：他的这份遗产正面临危险。

A large foreign pharmaceutical company had made a proposition: it would pay a high price for the school land and the forty hectares of farmland around it.
一家大型外国制药公司提出了一个建议：它愿意出高价买下学校的地以及周围四十公顷的农田。

As part of its expansion in Asia, the company wanted to build a new factory there to make synthetic drugs and skin lotion.
作为其在亚洲扩张计划的一部分，这家公司想在那里建一座新工厂，生产合成药物和护肤乳液。

The week before, a young assistant from the company, who wore bright lipstick and carried a thick folder, had spoken to the villagers in the school lobby.
一周前，公司派来一位年轻助理，她涂着鲜艳的口红，抱着厚厚的文件夹，在学校大厅里给村民们讲话。

She showed them a complicated financial analysis with many numbers in brackets and promised that every family would make a few extra bucks each month.
她给他们看了一份复杂的财务分析，里面有很多括号里的数字，还承诺每家每月都能多赚一些钱。

According to her estimate, the factory would hire two hundred employees and raise the island's growth rate by half.
根据她的估算，工厂将雇用两百名员工，并让岛上的增长率提高一半。

She also said the company would pay all the tariffs on its imported materials, so the deal would be lucrative for everyone.
她还说，公司会支付其进口原料的全部关税，因此这笔交易对每个人都是有利可图的。

Quarterly reports, she added, would be sent to the village so that everyone could see the aggregate profits.
她补充说，季度报告将会寄到村里，让每个人都能看到总利润。

She called it a golden opportunity, and her speech sounded good, although it lacked coherence when people asked her difficult questions.
她称之为千载难逢的机会，她的演讲听起来也很动听，尽管人们问起难题时，她的回答就显得前后不连贯了。

Still, many villagers were excited, and they waited for the money with great anticipation.
尽管如此，许多村民还是很兴奋，满怀期待地等着那笔钱。

For a few days, the mood in the village was almost joyous.
有那么几天，村里的气氛几乎是欢天喜地的。

Grandfather, however, did not share their excitement, because his main concern was the environment.
然而，爷爷并不分享他们的兴奋，因为他最关心的是环境。

For hundreds of years, the sea had given the island its nourishment, and most families still derive their income from fishing.
几百年来，大海一直养育着这座岛，大多数家庭至今仍靠打鱼维持生计。

He had read that factories like this release a lot of carbon dioxide, and that their thermal waste water, full of bleach and other chemicals, could hurt the fish near the harbour.
他读到过，这类工厂会排放大量二氧化碳，而它们排出的、含有漂白剂和其他化学品的热废水可能会伤害港口附近的鱼。

Worse still, the company's logistics plan showed a storage tank holding five thousand cubic metres of hydrogen only half a kilometer from the school.
更糟糕的是，公司的物流方案显示，在离学校仅半公里的地方，将建一个容量为五千立方米的氢气储存罐。

"There are dangers inherent in storing hydrogen," Grandfather said, looking anxious. "One small spark, and the whole thing could blast like a bomb."

“储存氢气本身就有危险，”爷爷一脸焦虑地说，“只要一点小火花，整个东西就可能像炸弹一样爆炸。”

When the assistant tried to persuade him to sign, he said, "Definitely not. Selling our children's school would be pure insanity."
当那位助理试图说服他签字时，他说：“绝对不行。把孩子们的学校卖掉，简直是疯了。”

The company even offered to build a bigger school on the other side of the island as a replacement, but he did not change his mind.
公司甚至提出在岛的另一边建一所更大的学校作为替代，但他还是没有改变主意。

Some young people dismissed his warning as the worry of an old man.
一些年轻人对他的警告不以为然，认为那只是一个老人的杞人忧天。

So he asked me, as a zoology student, to collect water samples and check whether the sea was already sensitive to pollution.
于是他让我这个学动物学的学生去采集水样，看看这片海是否已经对污染很敏感。

My specialization is sea animals, so I was ready to help.
我的专业方向是海洋动物，所以我很乐意帮忙。

The next morning I carried a bucket and a small filter down to the beach.
第二天早上，我提着一只水桶和一个小过滤器来到海滩。

The rocks were slippery, and I nearly fell several times before I could locate a good place to work.
礁石很滑，我差点摔倒好几次，才找到一个合适的地方工作。

When I looked at the water under a microscope at home, I found tiny plastic particles and fragments of old fishing nets in almost every sample.
回家后我用显微镜观察海水，几乎在每份水样里都发现了微小的塑料颗粒和旧渔网的碎片。

Some small fish also showed abnormal growth, an early sign of the degeneration of the whole environment.
有些小鱼还出现了异常生长，这是整个环境开始退化的早期迹象。

The analytic results were not a definite proof, but my intuition told me that the vulnerability of the sea was greater than people thought.
这些分析结果还不能算确定的证据，但我的直觉告诉我，这片海的脆弱程度比人们想象的还要严重。

If a big factory came, the displacement of fish from the harbour would be rapid, and the fishermen would lose their living.
如果来了一座大工厂，鱼群会迅速被迫离开港口，渔民们也将失去生计。

The government's environmental guidelines might even ban fishing near the factory.
政府的环保准则甚至可能禁止在工厂附近捕鱼。

I put my numbers into a chart: the horizontal axis showed the months, and the vertical one showed the amount of plastic in the water.
我把数据做成了一张图表：横轴表示月份，纵轴表示水中塑料的含量。

I also wrote a supplementary report to explain the data in simple words.
我还写了一份补充报告，用简单的话解释这些数据。

At the same time, our family had another problem: my Uncle Hai was a defendant in a court case.
与此同时，我们家还有另一个麻烦：我的海叔作为被告卷入了一桩官司。

He was a small merchant who sold second-hand phones, old tapes and cheap jewelery in a shop near the harbour.
他是一个小商人，在港口附近开了一家店，卖二手手机、旧磁带和便宜的首饰。

The indictment said that his shop had sold illegal copies of films, and piracy is treated as a serious crime because it hurts the people who hold the copyright or patent.
起诉书称，他的店出售了电影的非法拷贝，而盗版被视为严重罪行，因为它损害了版权或专利持有人的利益。

The police had started an enquiry and checked every item in his inventory.
警方已经展开调查，并清点了他店里的每一件存货。

Uncle Hai said he had bought the boxes from a stranger, and that they supposedly contained old radios.
海叔说，那些箱子是他从一个陌生人手里买来的，据说里面装的是旧收音机。

He swore he did not know what was inside until the police opened them on his shop counter.
他发誓，直到警察在他店里的柜台上打开箱子，他才知道里面装的是什么。

Some neighbours believed him, but others treated him with ridicule and called him stupid behind his back.
一些邻居相信他，但另一些人却嘲笑他，在背后说他愚蠢。

Even his old boxing friends began to mock him, which made him irritable and full of frustration.
就连他以前一起练拳击的朋友也开始取笑他，这让他变得暴躁易怒，满心沮丧。

I think some of them were driven by jealousy, because his little shop had been doing better than theirs.
我想他们中有些人是出于嫉妒，因为他的小店一直比他们的生意好。

Uncle Hai had never gone to university, and since childhood he had always carried a sense of inferiority.
海叔从没上过大学，从小他就一直怀着一种自卑感。

Their irritating comments were a real nuisance, but the guilt he felt toward his family hurt him even more.
他们那些恼人的议论确实很烦人，但他对家人的愧疚更让他痛苦。

As his forthcoming trial came closer, he could not sleep at night, and he said the waiting was a kind of torture.
随着即将到来的审判日益临近，他夜里睡不着觉，他说这种等待简直是一种折磨。

"Beware of easy money," Grandfather told him, not in anger but in a gentle, merciful voice.
“当心来得容易的钱。”爷爷对他说，语气中没有愤怒，只有温和与宽厚。

He also asked one of his old students, who was now a lawyer, to counsel Uncle Hai and to search for the truth.
他还请了一位以前的学生、现在当律师的人来为海叔提供法律建议，并查明真相。

A few days later, the weather forecast made an unusual prediction: a storm of unprecedented strength was coming.
几天后，天气预报作出了一个不同寻常的预测：一场强度空前的风暴即将来临。

The timing could not have been worse, because the school was full of children that afternoon.
时机真是糟糕透了，因为那天下午学校里满是孩子。

That evening the sky turned dark, thunder rolled like cannon fire, and the rain fell with overwhelming force.
那天晚上，天空变暗，雷声像炮火一样隆隆滚过，大雨以压倒一切的力量倾泻而下。

Twelve children, who had been playing tennis and football at the school, could not get home, so Grandfather opened the school as a shelter.

十二个在学校打网球、踢足球的孩子回不了家，于是爷爷把学校开放作为避难所。

Suddenly the electricity went off, and the darkness was instantaneous.
突然停电了，黑暗瞬间降临。

The wind moaned around the building, and a small girl began to choke with fear.
风在楼房四周呜咽，一个小女孩吓得喘不过气来。

Grandfather calmed her down, while I had to drag a heavy desk to block a broken window.
爷爷让她平静下来，而我不得不拖来一张沉重的书桌，挡住一扇破了的窗户。

Through the window we saw a fallen tree lying across the lane, which was now only half its usual width.
透过窗户，我们看到一棵倒下的树横在小巷里，巷子现在只剩平时一半宽。

In the darkness the old trees looked like monsters, and the children whispered about alien ships in the sky.
黑暗中，老树看起来像一个个怪物，孩子们小声议论着天上的外星飞船。

To keep them calm, Grandfather told them a mysterious story about a courageous queen in silver armor.
为了让他们保持镇定，爷爷给他们讲了一个神秘的故事，主人公是一位身穿银色盔甲的勇敢女王。

When pirates took some of her fishermen hostage, she made a daring plan and rescued them all.
海盗把她的一些渔民扣为人质，她制定了一个大胆的计划，把他们全部救了出来。

But she did not kill the pirates to avenge her people; she let them go and asked them to become honest sailors.
但她并没有为了替人民报仇而杀死海盗；她放了他们，并要求他们做诚实的水手。

Grandma arrived with an old fur coat for the coldest child, plus some soda and a basket of peaches from the storage room.
奶奶赶来了，给最冷的那个孩子带来一件旧皮毛大衣，还从储藏室拿来了一些汽水和一篮桃子。

There was also some stale bread, but the hungry children ate it happily.
还有一些不新鲜的面包，但饥饿的孩子们吃得很开心。

By midnight the storm had passed, and in the morning a huge rainbow appeared over the harbour.
到了午夜，风暴过去了；第二天早上，港口上空出现了一道巨大的彩虹。

"Awesome!" the children shouted, and their parents came running, thankful that everyone was safe.
“太棒了！”孩子们欢呼起来。家长们跑了过来，为每个人都平安无事而心怀感激。

The storm changed many people's minds.
这场风暴改变了许多人的想法。

At the village meeting, Grandfather stood up and asked, "If a storm like this hits a factory full of hydrogen, who will pay for the death of our children?"
在村民大会上，爷爷站起来问道：“如果像这样的风暴袭击一座装满氢气的工厂，谁来为我们孩子的死负责？”

He did not use lavish words or clever rhetorical tricks; he simply showed them my water samples and explained my analysis.
他没有用华丽的辞藻，也没有耍巧妙的修辞手段；他只是给大家看了我的水样，并讲解了我的分析。

"We need jobs, but we also need clean water," he said. "These two things must be compatible, not enemies."
“我们需要工作，但我们也需要干净的水，”他说，“这两件事必须能够相容，而不是彼此为敌。”

An old fisherman, an elder of the village, stood up to support him.

一位老渔民——村里的长者——站起来支持他。

Then a young teacher suggested a new plan: the village could repair the old farm, rehabilitate the beach, and invite tourists to enjoy the island's natural beauty.
接着，一位年轻老师提出了一个新方案：村里可以修复老农场，让海滩恢复原貌，并邀请游客来欣赏岛上的自然美景。

Tourists could stay in the vacant houses, pick peaches, and buy grain and honey from local farms.
游客可以住在空置的房子里，采摘桃子，并从当地农场购买谷物和蜂蜜。

This way, the island could bypass the factory and still make money.
这样一来，小岛就可以绕开工厂，同样赚到钱。

It was a daring idea for such a small island, but it was clear-cut and simple, hence most people liked it at once.
对这样一座小岛来说，这是一个大胆的想法，但它明确而简单，因此大多数人立刻就喜欢上了它。

Likewise, a commentator on the island radio station praised the plan and invited everyone to participate.
同样，岛上广播电台的一位评论员也称赞了这个方案，并邀请大家都参与进来。

Before the meeting ended, nearly every family put its signature on a joint letter that rejected the company's offer.
会议结束前，几乎每户人家都在一封拒绝公司提议的联名信上签了名。

The fishermen read the letter in its entirety before they signed it.
渔民们把信从头到尾读了一遍，才签上名字。

The company was not happy, and its manager accused us of being stubborn nationalists who hated foreign money.
公司对此很不满，它的经理指责我们是一群讨厌外国资本的顽固民族主义者。

Grandfather answered calmly, "We are not against business, but we will not let anyone exploit our island the way colonialism once exploited the poor."
爷爷平静地回答："我们不反对做生意，但我们不会让任何人像当年的殖民主义剥削穷人那样剥削我们的岛。"

A famous statesman once said that a country is only as strong as its weakest village, and Grandfather quoted those words in his letter to the newspaper.
一位著名的政治家曾说过，一个国家的强大程度取决于它最弱小的村庄，爷爷在写给报社的信中引用了这句话。

His stance was firm, and his adherence to his principles surprised even the reporters.
他的立场很坚定，他对原则的坚守甚至让记者们都感到惊讶。

Two weeks later, the judgment in Uncle Hai's case was finally announced.
两周后，海叔案件的判决终于宣布了。

The lawyer had found the stranger who sold him the boxes, and a police sergeant confirmed that this man was the real criminal.
律师找到了卖给他箱子的那个陌生人，一位警长也证实这个人才是真正的罪犯。

The judge showed leniency: Uncle Hai did not have to go to jail, but he had to pay a fine and serve the community for six months.
法官从宽处理：海叔不必坐牢，但他必须交一笔罚款，并为社区服务六个月。

Grandfather offered to lend him the money for the fine.
爷爷主动提出借钱给他交罚款。

When he was released after the trial, he hugged Grandfather and cried like a boy.

审判结束、他被释放后，他抱住爷爷，哭得像个孩子。

"I was not a criminal, but I was not careful either," he said. "From now on I will be more cautious, lest I make the same mistake again."
“我不是罪犯，但我也不够小心，”他说，“从今以后我会更加谨慎，以免再犯同样的错误。”

He decided to sell only new phones and to give up the second-hand business, except for a few old radios he loved.
他决定只卖新手机，放弃二手生意，只留下几台他喜爱的旧收音机。

It was the first time I had seen such maturity in him.
这是我第一次在他身上看到这样的成熟。

In August the island held a commemoration for the school's fiftieth birthday.
八月，岛上为学校建校五十周年举行了纪念活动。

Former students came from everywhere; some had become doctors, and some were working abroad and had to apply for a visa to come home.
以前的学生们从各地赶来；有的成了医生，有的在国外工作，得申请签证才能回国。

A small orchestra played classic songs in the school yard, the setting of so many of our childhood memories.
一支小型管弦乐队在校园里演奏经典歌曲——这里是我们许多童年回忆发生的地方。

My cousin chose that happy day to announce her engagement, and everyone raised a glass for a toast.
我的表姐选在这个快乐的日子宣布了她订婚的消息，大家纷纷举杯祝酒。

The men drank a little whisky and the children drank fruit juice, but Grandfather, who had given up tobacco thirty years ago, drank only tea.
男人们喝了一点威士忌，孩子们喝果汁，而三十年前就戒了烟的爷爷只喝茶。

In his short speech, he said that the new school flag, with its sea-blue colour and a white peach in the centre, was symbolic of the island's hope.
他在简短的讲话中说，新校旗以海蓝色为底，中间是一颗白色的桃子，象征着这座岛的希望。

The old photos on the wall seemed to evoke the spirit of the past, and many people had tears in their eyes.
墙上的老照片仿佛唤起了往昔的精神，许多人眼里含着泪水。

Someone asked Grandfather why he never boasted about all the good things he had done.
有人问爷爷，为什么他从不夸耀自己做过的那么多好事。

He smiled and said, "A person should judge oneself by what one gives, not by what one gets."
他笑着说：“一个人应该以自己付出了什么来评价自己，而不是以得到了什么。”

As I watched the blue flag waving in the wind, I knew that this was the lesson I would carry with me for the rest of my life.
望着那面在风中飘扬的蓝色旗帜，我知道，这就是我将铭记一生的一课。

他们在那里拥有一座小牧场和一家酿酒厂。

The air was chilly, the bears in the mountains were still in hibernation, and a thin layer of snow lay on the roof of the old farmhouse.
空气很冷，山里的熊还在冬眠，老农舍的屋顶上铺着薄薄一层雪。

Her grandfather, a former navy lieutenant, was waiting for her in the courtyard with a horse and a warm smile.
她的爷爷——一位前海军上尉——牵着一匹马，面带温暖的微笑，在院子里等她。

He was a baby boomer, born during the baby boom after the war, and he liked to say that he had watched the whole country grow.
他属于“婴儿潮一代”，出生在战后的婴儿潮时期，他常说自己见证了整个国家的成长。

In his youth he had served in a fleet that protected the coast, and he never tired of telling stories about sharks and marine storms.
年轻时，他在一支守卫海岸的舰队服役，讲起鲨鱼和海上风暴的故事来，他从不厌倦。

This time, however, Grandpa told no stories at dinner; he only stirred his porridge and said nothing.
然而这一次，爷爷在晚饭时一个故事也没讲；他只是搅着碗里的粥，一言不发。

The TV in the corner was showing news about disarmament talks, but nobody was listening.
角落里的电视正在播放关于裁军谈判的新闻，但没有人在听。

Lily soon found out why: last autumn a flood had destroyed half of the grape fields, and later a small quake had broken many bottles in the storage room.
莉莉很快就明白了原因：去年秋天的一场洪水毁掉了一半的葡萄园，后来一次小地震又震碎了储藏室里的许多瓶酒。

It was a heavy blow to the entire family.
这对全家人来说是一个沉重的打击。

The insurance company refused to pay any compensation, saying that the damage was not covered by their policy.
保险公司拒绝支付任何赔偿，声称这些损失不在保单范围内。

Repairs were expensive, and the winery had to pay heavy taxation as well.
维修费用很高，而酿酒厂还得缴纳沉重的税款。

The bank had agreed to wait, but it would not wait for an indefinite period.
银行虽然同意宽限，但不会无限期地等下去。

Grandpa kept every bill in a drawer, and when Lily opened it, she felt a deep anguish.
爷爷把每一张账单都放在一个抽屉里。莉莉打开抽屉时，心里一阵深深的痛苦。

There seemed to be no possibility of paying them all.
看起来根本不可能把它们全部付清。

A week later, a well-off businessman arrived in a shiny auto.
一周后，一位富有的商人开着一辆闪亮的汽车来了。

He was a capitalist from the city who was desirous of buying every piece of land in the valley.
他是城里来的资本家，一心想买下山谷里的每一块土地。

His company planned to centralize all the small wineries under one corporate brand, with a strict hierarchy of managers.
他的公司计划把所有小酒厂都集中到一个企业品牌之下，由层级分明的管理者来经营。

"Small businesses like yours are redundant in the modern market," he said. "It is pointless to fight against it."
“像你们这样的小企业在现代市场中已经多余了，”他说，“和市场对着干是毫无意义的。”

"Join us, and you will receive a dividend every year."
“加入我们，你们每年都能拿到分红。”

He spoke in a casual way, but his offer was deceptive: the price was low, and the family would lose control of their land.
他说话的语气很随意，但他的提议却暗藏欺骗：价格很低，而且这家人将失去对自己土地的控制权。

Grandpa refused, and the man left with a grim face.
爷爷拒绝了，那人沉着脸离开了。

After that, the family began to suffer harassment: strange calls came late at night, and someone left a dead mouse at the gate.
从那以后，这家人开始遭受骚扰：深夜里会打来奇怪的电话，还有人在大门口放了一只死老鼠。

It was clearly deliberate, and it disrupted their work and sleep.
这显然是蓄意的，扰乱了他们的工作和睡眠。

The harassment maddened Lily's younger brother Sam, who gave a defiant look and wanted to fight back.
这些骚扰把莉莉的弟弟山姆气坏了，他一脸不服，想要还击。

Grandpa deplored such behaviour, but he refused to be provoked.
爷爷对这种行为深感痛惜，但他拒绝被激怒。

"Only a fool fights an enemy he cannot see," he said.
“只有傻瓜才会和看不见的敌人打架。”他说。

Lily was not someone who gave up easily; she was ambitious, curious, and zealous about everything she did.
莉莉不是一个轻易放弃的人；她雄心勃勃，好奇心强，对自己做的每件事都满怀热情。

She sat in the courtyard with a cup of mint tea, repressed her anger, and began to think about a strategy.
她端着一杯薄荷茶坐在院子里，压下心中的怒火，开始思考对策。

First, she divided the problems into three categories: money, customers, and time.
首先，她把问题分成三类：钱、顾客和时间。

The winery made excellent wine, but it rarely sold outside the valley, because few people knew about it.
酒厂酿的酒非常好，但很少卖到山谷以外的地方，因为知道它的人太少了。

Her friend Tom, a career counsellor in the city, sent her a useful note: "Don't just sell wine; sell an experience."
她的朋友汤姆在城里做职业顾问，他给她发来一条有用的建议：“不要只卖酒，要卖一种体验。”

That idea inspired her, and her way of thinking changed completely.
这个想法启发了她，她的思路完全改变了。

She decided to turn the ranch into a place where visitors could ride horses, taste wine, and drink beer brewed by her uncle.
她决定把牧场改造成这样一个地方：游客可以骑马、品酒，还能喝到她叔叔酿的啤酒。

Her uncle had come back to the ranch after his divorce, and brewing beer was the only thing that made him happy.
她的叔叔离婚后回到了牧场，酿啤酒是唯一能让他开心的事。

The old stable would need renovation, and the empty rooms upstairs could be offered as rental rooms for tourists.
旧马厩需要翻修，楼上的空房间可以作为出租客房提供给游客。

She calculated that if the occupancy rate reached sixty percent, the family could pay its bills within two years.
她算了一下，如果入住率能达到百分之六十，家里两年内就能还清账单。

The numbers were small but measurable, and that gave her hope.
这些数字虽小，却实实在在可以衡量，这给了她希望。

To improve affordability, she designed a weekend package that included a room, a horse ride, and a dinner ticket at an agreeable price.
为了让价格更亲民，她设计了一个周末套餐，以合适的价格提供一间客房、一次骑马和一张晚餐券。

She knew there would be incidental costs, so she decided to curtail all other spending.
她知道会有一些附带的费用，所以决定削减其他所有开支。

At first, Grandpa was reluctant.
起初，爷爷不太情愿。

"Strangers walking around my ranch? I don't like that," he said with obvious hesitation.
“陌生人在我的牧场里走来走去？我可不喜欢。”他明显有些犹豫地说。

But Lily insisted, and she reminded him how much he loved telling stories to curious listeners.
但莉莉坚持自己的想法，还提醒他，他有多喜欢给好奇的听众讲故事。

"You are more knowledgeable about this valley than anyone," she said. "You could be our best guide."
“您比任何人都更了解这个山谷，”她说，“您可以当我们最好的导游。”

Finally they reached a compromise, and Grandpa agreed, but his "yes" was conditional: the horses must always be treated well.
最后他们达成了妥协，爷爷同意了，但他的“同意”是有条件的：马必须一直得到善待。

Lily's mother, who was attentive to every detail, offered to cook.

莉莉的妈妈对每个细节都很留心，她主动提出负责做饭。

Sam, a talented boy who loved arithmetic and algebra, offered to keep the accounts.
山姆是个很有天赋的男孩，喜欢算术和代数，他自愿来管账。

Lily allotted a task to each person, and she said, "Anything left over, I will do myself."
莉莉给每个人分配了一项任务，她说："剩下的事，我自己来做。"

The renovation began in March.
翻修工作在三月开始了。

An engineer checked the old stable after the quake and said that its foundation was strong and there was no structural damage.
一位工程师检查了地震后的旧马厩，说它的地基很牢固，没有结构上的损坏。

Still, they had to modify the building a little, so the whole family worked from morning till night.
不过，他们还是得对房子稍作改造，于是全家人从早忙到晚。

They fixed the roof, painted the walls, and cleaned the floors with a broom.
他们修屋顶、刷墙壁、用扫帚打扫地板。

Grandpa used a rope and an iron rod to hoist heavy boards onto the roof, and his arm muscles were still surprisingly strong.
爷爷用绳子和一根铁棍把沉重的木板吊上屋顶，他手臂上的肌肉仍然出奇地有力。

Sam, who had learned many useful skills as a boy scout, helped him tie the ropes.
山姆当童子军时学过很多实用的本领，他帮爷爷系好了绳子。

A skillful young apprentice from the village repaired the broken water valve.
村里一个手艺娴熟的年轻学徒修好了坏掉的水阀。

It was hard work; nonetheless, there was a special pleasure in building something together.
这活儿很辛苦；尽管如此，大家一起建造一样东西，有一种特别的乐趣。

At night they were so tired that even the noisy wind could not keep them awake.
晚上，他们累得连呼啸的风声都没法让他们睡不着。

Meanwhile, Lily began to experiment in the kitchen.
与此同时，莉莉开始在厨房里做试验。

She made dark chocolate with red wine, a sweet dessert that soon became the most popular item on the menu.
她用红酒做了黑巧克力，这道甜点很快成了菜单上最受欢迎的一道。

She also packed homemade soup in small microwavable bags so that guests could take it home, and for convenience she put a small packet of herbs into each bag.
她还把自制的汤装进可微波加热的小袋子里，方便客人带回家；为了方便，她在每个袋子里都放了一小包香草。

Grandpa's best wine was sold in quart bottles with natural cork, and each bottle had a hand-drawn illustration of a dragon on it.
爷爷最好的酒用一夸脱装的瓶子出售，配天然软木塞，每个瓶子上都有一幅手绘的龙的插图。

The dragon came from Lily's dissertation: in Chinese mythology, it is a symbol of good luck, not an enemy.
这条龙来自莉莉的学位论文：在中国神话里，龙是好运的象征，而不是敌人。

To attract prospective customers, Lily used her cell-phone to film short videos and edited them every evening.

为了吸引潜在顾客，莉莉用手机拍短视频，每天晚上进行剪辑。

The videos were both informative and entertaining: Grandpa explained how wine was made, and Sam showed how to ride a horse up a gentle incline.
这些视频既有信息量又有趣：爷爷讲解葡萄酒是怎么酿成的，山姆示范怎样骑马走上一道缓坡。

Each video followed a simple narrative, and the stunning views of the snowy mountains made them even more striking.
每个视频都有一条简单的故事线，雪山令人惊叹的景色让它们更加引人注目。

Her friends began to relay the videos to others, and soon they circulated widely online.
她的朋友们开始把视频转发给别人，很快这些视频就在网上广泛传播开来。

Within weeks there was a real buzz about the little ranch, and Lily's phone was full of messages from people who wanted to visit.
短短几周内，这个小牧场就引起了热议，莉莉的手机里塞满了想来参观的人发来的信息。

She chose Easter as the date for the grand opening, because it was a happy occasion for families.
她选择复活节作为盛大开业的日子，因为那是一个适合家庭欢聚的节日。

The priest of the local parish even promised to tell his church members about it.
当地教区的神父甚至答应把这件事告诉他的教友们。

Just two weeks before the opening, however, a government inspector arrived.
然而，就在开业前两周，一位政府检查员来了。

He said that their licence to sell food was invalid, because it had been issued only for wine.
他说他们的食品销售许可证是无效的，因为那张证只是为卖酒而签发的。

According to a new decree, any business that served meals without the right papers would be penalized, and the punishment could include a suspension of the business.
根据一项新法令，任何没有合适证件就提供餐食的商家都将受到处罚，处罚可能包括停业。

Lily suspected that the businessman was behind this, but she could not prove it.
莉莉怀疑是那个商人在背后搞鬼，但她无法证明。

Instead of complaining, she studied the rules carefully and checked their eligibility for a new licence.
她没有抱怨，而是仔细研究了规定，核查了他们申请新许可证的资格。

Obtainment of a licence usually took a month, but she filled in every form at once, and her careful work and punctuality impressed the officials.
获得许可证通常需要一个月，但她立刻填好了每一张表格，她细致的工作和守时的作风给官员们留下了深刻印象。

Her credibility grew, and to everyone's relief, the new licence arrived three days before Easter.
她的信誉提高了，令所有人松了一口气的是，新许可证在复活节前三天送到了。

Then came another problem: after days of continuous rain, Grandpa caught a bad chill while working in the wet fields.
接着又出了一个问题：在连续几天的雨之后，爷爷在潮湿的田里干活时着了凉，病得不轻。

During this bout of illness he lost his appetite, his neck became stiff, his jaw hurt, and he had to get up again and again at night to urinate.
这一场病中，他没了胃口，脖子变得僵硬，下巴疼痛，夜里还要一次又一次起来小便。

Lily drove him to the medical center in town, where a doctor examined him carefully.
莉莉开车送他到镇上的医疗中心，一位医生仔细地给他做了检查。

The diagnosis was an infection, not a heart problem, and the doctor reassured them that his life was not in peril.

诊断结果是感染，而不是心脏问题，医生让他们放心，说他没有生命危险。

A nurse injected some medicine into his arm, and the doctor gave him a box of pills.

一名护士往他的手臂里注射了一些药，医生又给了他一盒药片。

In the waiting room they met an old friend of Grandpa's who was waiting for a heart transplant; compared with him, they felt lucky.

在候诊室里，他们遇到了爷爷的一位老朋友，他正在等待心脏移植；和他相比，他们觉得自己很幸运。

"Stay in bed and keep your foot warm," the doctor said, but Grandpa only wanted to know whether he would be ready for Easter.

“卧床休息，把脚捂暖和。”医生说。可爷爷只想知道自己能不能在复活节前好起来。

Fortunately, Grandpa recovered quickly, and on Easter morning the sky was clear and the air smelled of spring.

幸运的是，爷爷很快就康复了。复活节早上，天空晴朗，空气中弥漫着春天的气息。

A string of colourful lights hung across the courtyard, and families began to congregate there long before nine o'clock.

一串彩灯横挂在院子上空，九点还没到，一家家人就开始在那里聚集。

Children ran in a narrow line behind the horses, and a little girl in a yellow raincoat asked whether she could feed them.

孩子们排成窄窄的一列跟在马后面跑，一个穿黄色雨衣的小女孩问她能不能喂马。

Grandpa, wearing his old leather jacket, led the guests on a tour and told them the history of the valley.

爷爷穿着他的旧皮夹克，带着客人们参观，给他们讲山谷的历史。

He began, as always, with "Once upon a time," and the story slowly unfolded.

他像往常一样以“很久很久以前”开头，故事慢慢展开。

His own grandparents, he said, had come here through emigration more than a hundred years ago, escaping a life that was close to slavery.

他说，他自己的祖父母一百多年前移民来到这里，逃离了一种近乎奴役的生活。

The guests listened quietly, and some of them blushed when he joked about their city shoes.

客人们静静地听着，当他拿他们的城里鞋开玩笑时，有些人脸红了。

In the afternoon a local band played music, and the deep sound of the bass made everyone want to dance.

下午，当地一支乐队演奏音乐，贝斯低沉的声音让每个人都想跳舞。

Sam read a short poem he had written about the horses, and the audience applauded loudly.

山姆朗诵了一首他写的关于马的短诗，观众们热烈鼓掌。

That night, however, Lily was woken by the dogs, which were howling in the dark.

然而那天夜里，莉莉被狗叫声惊醒了，它们在黑暗中嚎叫着。

Through the window she saw three men with torches near the storage room; it looked like a gang that had come to loot the wine.

透过窗户，她看到储藏室附近有三个拿着手电筒的人；看起来像是一伙来抢酒的匪徒。

Grandpa took his old hunting gun from the wall, but Lily stopped him and called the police instead.

爷爷从墙上取下他的旧猎枪，但莉莉拦住了他，改为报了警。

"This is not an invasion, and you are not a warrior anymore," she said, holding his arm.
“这又不是外敌入侵，您也不再是战士了。”她拉着他的胳膊说。

Within minutes a small brigade of police officers arrived, and the men rushed away, leaving a bag of tools and some cigarette ends behind.
几分钟之内，一小队警察赶到，那几个人仓皇逃走，留下了一袋工具和一些烟头。

In the pocket of a jacket that one of them had dropped, the police found a business card from the businessman's company.
在其中一人丢下的夹克口袋里，警察发现了一张那位商人公司的名片。

It was a scandalous discovery, and the local newspaper soon exposed the whole story.
这是一个令人震惊的发现，当地报纸很快就把整件事曝光了。

The public condemnation was so strong that the businessman's plan derailed completely.
公众的谴责如此强烈，那位商人的计划彻底泡了汤。

Even a presidential candidate who was visiting the area that week mentioned the case in a speech about the abuse of corporate power.
就连那周正在当地访问的一位总统候选人，也在一次关于企业滥用权力的演讲中提到了这个案子。

As a counteraction to any future attack, and to prevent a recurrence, Lily put cameras around the ranch.
为了应对今后可能的袭击、防止类似事情再次发生，莉莉在牧场周围装上了摄像头。

After that night, more and more visitors came, and by summer the improvement was huge.
那晚之后，来的游客越来越多，到了夏天，情况已经大有改观。

Online, the ranch received a score of 4.9 out of 5, and the winery delivered wine to customers all over the country.
在网上，这家牧场获得了 4.9 分（满分 5 分）的评分，酒厂把酒送到了全国各地的顾客手中。

The gross income of the winery was twice that of the year before, and Lily could finally pay the bills.
酒厂的总收入是前一年的两倍，莉莉终于可以付清账单了。

The other small wineries in the valley were not jealous; instead, they formed an association to share resources, and they elected Lily as its leader.
山谷里的其他小酒厂并不嫉妒；相反，他们成立了一个协会来共享资源，并推选莉莉担任会长。

The family gave the money they had earned on Easter Day to a local charity for poor children.
这家人把复活节当天挣的钱捐给了当地一家帮助贫困儿童的慈善机构。

Lily used part of the money to build a small observatory on the hill behind the farmhouse, because the night sky there was clear and dark.
莉莉用一部分钱在农舍后面的小山上建了一座小型天文台，因为那里的夜空晴朗而黑暗。

On summer nights, guests could watch the stars revolve slowly around the North Star, and through a telescope they could see a distant galaxy shaped like a silver spiral.
夏天的夜晚，客人们可以看到群星绕着北极星缓缓旋转，透过望远镜，还能看到一个遥远的、形状像银色螺旋的星系。

The sky seemed infinite, and the stars shone like crystal.
天空仿佛无边无际，星星像水晶一样闪闪发亮。

Their reflection in the lake below was so clear that a child once asked whether the stars had fallen into the water.

星星在下面湖水中的倒影非常清晰，有个孩子曾经问，星星是不是掉进了水里。

It was a mystery to the child, but a pleasant one.
这对那个孩子来说是个谜，却是一个美好的谜。

Lily also began to give tutorials to visiting school groups, and she proved to be a natural educator.
莉莉还开始给来访的学生团体上辅导课，事实证明她是个天生的教育者。

In one lesson she showed the students how heat turns water into vapour, and how the same idea is used to make strong wine.
在一堂课上，她向学生们演示了热量如何把水变成水蒸气，以及同样的原理是如何被用来酿造烈酒的。

She explained that making wine is a chemical process, analogous to the way bread rises.
她解释说，酿酒是一个化学过程，就和面包发起来的道理类似。

The students recorded every single datum in their notebooks, and they used simple tools to detect changes in sugar levels.
学生们把每一个数据都记在本子上，并用简单的工具检测糖分的变化。

"We never add chemicals to stabilise the taste," she told them proudly. "We let nature do its work."
“我们从不添加化学物质来稳定口味，”她自豪地告诉他们，“我们让大自然自己发挥作用。”

Unlike mainstream industrial producers, the family did not care about perfect uniformity; each year's wine was a little different, and that was its charm.
与主流的工业化生产商不同，这家人并不追求完美的一致性；每一年的酒都略有不同，而这正是它的魅力所在。

They also stopped using plastic bags, a small change that won the appreciation of many customers.
他们还停止使用塑料袋，这个小小的改变赢得了许多顾客的赞赏。

A school counselor who came with the students said that the ranch itself was the best classroom she had ever seen.
一位随学生同来的学校辅导老师说，这座牧场本身就是她见过的最好的课堂。

Sam, meanwhile, had found a new hobby: talking with foreign guests.
与此同时，山姆找到了一个新爱好：和外国客人聊天。

His written English was poor, but his oral English improved quickly, and soon he could pronounce even difficult words correctly.
他的书面英语很差，但口语进步很快，没多久他连很难的单词也能发音准确了。

Lily noticed his aptitude for languages and said, "If you practise every day, you will be proficient within a year."
莉莉注意到他在语言方面的天赋，就对他说：“如果你每天练习，一年之内就能很熟练了。”

Of all the activities on the ranch, this was the one he enjoyed most, and Grandpa, who was always indulgent toward him, let him skip some farm work to practise.
在牧场的所有活动中，这是他最喜欢的一项；一向宠着他的爷爷也让他少干些农活去练习。

In winter, when business was slack, Sam even intended to start an English club for the village children.
到了冬天生意清淡的时候，山姆甚至打算为村里的孩子们办一个英语俱乐部。

One evening in late summer, Grandpa sat with Lily on the front steps, watching the sun fade behind the mountains.
夏末的一个傍晚，爷爷和莉莉坐在门前台阶上，看着夕阳渐渐隐没在群山背后。

"Many people equate success with money," he said, "but I define it as keeping your family together, at least that's what I believe."

“很多人把成功等同于金钱，”他说，“但我对成功的定义是让一家人团聚在一起，至少我是这么认为的。”

"My dear, in my youth I dreamed of glory at sea, but I never thought my greatest pleasure would come from a little girl's dream."

“亲爱的，年轻时我梦想在海上建功立业，但我从没想过，我最大的快乐会来自一个小姑娘的梦想。”

Lily smiled. "It is not just my dream; it fulfills your aspiration too: to keep this land in our family."

莉莉笑了：“这不只是我的梦想，它也实现了您的心愿——让这片土地一直留在我们家。”

"It's a pity your grandmother cannot see this," he said softly.

“可惜你奶奶看不到这一切了。”他轻声说。

Then he looked up at the radiant sky and said, "Bless this land, and bless whoever works on it with an honest heart."

然后他抬头望着灿烂的天空说：“愿上天保佑这片土地，也保佑每一个用诚实的心在这片土地上劳动的人。”

To ease the suffering of the farmers, Dr. Grant had developed a formula for a new kind of wheat.

为了减轻农民的苦难，格兰特博士研发出了一种新型小麦的配方。

The wheat was genetically improved: it had a strong resistance to cold, it could reduce the need for water to a minimal level, and it could even restore the fertility of poor soil.
这种小麦经过基因改良：它抗寒能力很强，能把需水量降到最低，甚至还能恢复贫瘠土壤的肥力。

She had also found an obscure medicinal plant whose leaves were soluble in hot water, and doctors had begun to prescribe it for stomach problems.
她还发现了一种鲜为人知的药用植物，它的叶子能溶于热水，医生们已经开始开这种药来治疗胃病。

"Water is only one factor," she often said. "The real issue is whether we believe all people are equal."
“水只是一个因素，”她常说，“真正的问题在于我们是否相信人人平等。”

"Our work has a moral dimension, and nobody should lose their dignity because they have no bread."
“我们的工作有道德层面的意义，任何人都不应该因为没有面包吃而失去尊严。”

Her research was therefore not only scientific but also economic and political.
因此，她的研究不仅关乎科学，也关乎经济和政治。

A new piece of legislation was being discussed in the cabinet: the government would subsidize farmers who planted her wheat.
内阁正在讨论一项新立法：政府将为种植她的小麦的农民提供补贴。

The same law would also bring in a prohibition on a dangerous fertilizer made by Kane Petrochemical, the biggest company in the country.
同一部法律还将禁止使用一种危险的化肥，这种化肥由全国最大的公司——凯恩石化公司生产。

The company's logo, a black dove, could be seen on almost every product in every grocery shop.
这家公司的标志是一只黑色的鸽子，几乎每一家杂货店里的每一件商品上都能看到它。

For Kane Petrochemical, the new law was a threat to a very profitable business, and Dr. Grant had become a thorn in its side.
对凯恩石化公司来说，这项新法律威胁到了一桩利润丰厚的生意，格兰特博士也成了它的眼中钉。

Dr. Grant had been invited to give testimony before the cabinet the following Monday.
格兰特博士已受邀于下周一在内阁会议上作证。

The case was given to Inspector Wu, a faithful and dependable officer with thirty years of experience.
这个案子交给了吴督察，他是一位忠诚可靠、有三十年经验的警官。

He was a tall, muscular man who had been an athlete and a wrestling champion when he was young, but his real skill was his analytical brain.
他身材高大、肌肉发达，年轻时是一名运动员，还拿过摔跤冠军，但他真正的本领在于他善于分析的头脑。

To help him, the police chief sent Leo, a nineteen-year-old freshman from the academy who was a famous hacker.
为了帮助他，警察局长派来了里奥——一名十九岁的科学院新生，他是个有名的黑客。

Two years earlier, Leo had broken into the telecommunications network of a bank just to prove that its security was weak.
两年前，里奥为了证明一家银行的安全系统薄弱，入侵了它的电信网络。

Instead of sending him to prison, the authority gave him a chance to use his capability for good, and the academy even paid his tuition.
当局没有把他送进监狱，而是给了他一个把本事用在正道上的机会，科学院甚至替他付了学费。

Leo was inquisitive and creative, but sometimes childish, and he could not hold his tongue for more than a minute.
里奥好奇心强、富有创造力，但有时有点孩子气，他一分钟都管不住自己的嘴。

Wu, who was accustomed to working alone, called him "the prater" because he talked too much.
吴督察习惯了独自办案，他管里奥叫“话痨”，因为他话太多了。

When they arrived at the laboratory, the room was in a terrible mess.
他们到达实验室时，房间里一片狼藉。

Dr. Grant was lying on the floor near the sofa, and a tray of broken glass lay beside her.
格兰特博士躺在沙发旁边的地板上，身边有一个盛着碎玻璃的托盘。

There was a dent in the metal door, as if someone had kicked it, and some of the paint had come off.
金属门上有一个凹痕，好像有人踢过它，有些油漆也掉了。

An oily liquid was dripping from a broken pipe, and the needle of the pressure gauge on the wall had fallen to zero.
一种油乎乎的液体正从一根破裂的管子里往下滴，墙上压力表的指针已经掉到了零。

The medical practitioner who examined her said that she had died from poison, which had been mixed into her tea.
给她做检查的医生说，她是中毒身亡的，毒药被掺进了她的茶里。

"This was no accident," Wu said. "It was murder."
“这不是意外，”吴督察说，“这是谋杀。”

On the desk, Leo noticed half a slice of bread wrapped in silver foil and a cup of cold tea that still smelled of a strange fragrance, like pine.
在书桌上，里奥注意到半片用银色锡纸包着的面包，还有一杯凉了的茶，茶里仍散发着一股奇怪的香味，像松树的味道。

Wu frowned, because Dr. Grant was famous for keeping her lab clean and hygienic; someone else must have made this mess.
吴督察皱起了眉头，因为格兰特博士以保持实验室干净卫生而出名；这片狼藉一定是别人造成的。

He studied the layout of the room carefully, and his eyes became fixed on the cup.
他仔细研究了房间的布局，目光定在了那只杯子上。

On the glass the police found a clear fingerprint, and on the floor they found a small metal piece from a broken zipper.
警察在杯子的玻璃上发现了一枚清晰的指纹，又在地板上发现了一小块坏拉链上的金属片。

Most importantly, the formula for the new wheat had disappeared from her desktop computer.
最重要的是，新型小麦的配方从她的台式电脑里消失了。

The only item left on the screen was a short note: "For the sake of the country, stop."
屏幕上只留下了一条简短的留言：“为了国家，住手吧。”

Wu made a list of the people who had visited the lab the preceding evening.
吴督察列出了前一天晚上来过实验室的人。

The first was Anna, Dr. Grant's secretary, the daughter of an immigrant family.
第一个是安娜，格兰特博士的秘书，她出身于一个移民家庭。

She had worked for Dr. Grant for six years, but she admitted that the two women had recently had a conflict about her salary.

她已经为格兰特博士工作了六年，但她承认，两人最近在她的工资问题上发生过冲突。

Her mother, who was sick in America, depended on Medicare, and Anna owed the bank money; her loan was already overdue.
她在美国生病的母亲靠联邦医疗保险看病，而安娜欠着银行的钱，贷款已经逾期了。

"I resented her a little, but I would never hurt her," Anna said, her voice full of sorrow.
“我对她是有一点不满，但我绝不会伤害她。”安娜说，声音里满是悲伤。

The second was Dr. Victor Black, a cold, materialist man who would be Dr. Grant's successor as head of the lab.
第二个是维克多·布莱克博士，一个冷漠、看重物质的人，他将接替格兰特博士担任实验室主任。

He belonged to the scientific elite, and in the academy's hierarchical system he had always had to compete with her for money and fame.
他属于科学界的精英阶层，在科学院等级森严的体制里，他一直不得不和她争夺经费和名声。

The third was Mr. Kane himself, the leader of Kane Petrochemical, who had visited her with his driver to "discuss a friendly agreement."
第三个就是凯恩先生本人，凯恩石化公司的掌门人，他曾带着司机来拜访她，要“商谈一份友好的协议”。

Dr. Black was defensive and antagonistic when Wu questioned him in the administrative building.
吴督察在行政楼里审问布莱克博士时，他充满戒备，态度敌对。

"I was in the staff lounge reading an article all evening," he said. "You can inquire there if you like."
“我整晚都在员工休息室里看一篇文章，”他说，“你要是愿意，可以去那里问问。”

When Wu asked about the formula, he answered with indifference, "Nothing in science belongs to one person."
当吴督察问起配方时，他漠不关心地回答：“科学里没有什么东西是属于某一个人的。”

Mr. Kane, on the other hand, was very polite, dressed in formal clothes, and completely calm.
而凯恩先生则非常礼貌，穿着正装，镇定自若。

He wielded his words carefully, like a skilled player making a maneuver in a game of chess.
他措辞小心谨慎，就像一位老练的棋手在棋局中调兵遣将。

"I respect Dr. Grant," he said. "My company only wants to help feed the country."
“我很尊重格兰特博士，”他说，“我的公司只想帮助这个国家的人吃饱饭。”

But Wu noticed that his driver, a big man with a broken nose, would not look him in the eye, and this aroused his suspicion.
但吴督察注意到，他的司机——一个鼻梁断过的大块头——不敢直视他的眼睛，这引起了他的怀疑。

Back at the police station, Leo plugged his laptop into the hard drive from Dr. Grant's old computer, which needed a special power supply of 110 volts.
回到警察局，里奥把笔记本电脑接到格兰特博士那台旧电脑的硬盘上，那台电脑需要一个 110 伏的特殊电源。

Most people never change the default password on their machines, but Dr. Grant was careful, and it took him six hours to get in.
大多数人从不更改电脑的默认密码，但格兰特博士很谨慎，里奥花了六个小时才进入系统。

Someone had deleted her files, but with Leo's proficiency in computer languages, nothing on a computer was truly invisible.
有人删除了她的文件，但以里奥对计算机语言的精通程度，电脑里没有什么东西是真正看不见的。

Gradually he recovered the missing emails, and he skimmed through hundreds of them while Wu shuffled a deck of cards to help himself concentrate.
他逐渐恢复了丢失的邮件，并快速浏览了几百封，而吴督察则一边洗着一副扑克牌，好让自己集中注意力。

In one email, a man who signed only with the abbreviation "V.B." wrote: "The formula is too valuable for these farmers. We should collaborate with Kane."
在一封邮件里，一个只用缩写“V.B.”署名的人写道：“这个配方对这些农民来说太宝贵了。我们应该和凯恩合作。”

Kane's plan was clear: the company would control the seeds and sell them at high prices, which would lead to the exclusion of poor farmers.
凯恩的计划很清楚：公司要控制种子并高价出售，这会把贫穷的农民排除在外。

Leo also found the records of a secret bank account, which showed that Kane Petrochemical had paid Dr. Black large sums of money and called them "deductible research costs" to pay less tax.
里奥还找到了一个秘密银行账户的记录，显示凯恩石化公司曾给布莱克博士支付过大笔款项，并称之为“可抵税的研究费用”。

"This is not research," Wu said. "This is bribery."
“这不是研究，”吴督察说，“这是贿赂。”

But money alone did not prove murder.
但光有钱的往来并不能证明谋杀。

Wu needed to know who had actually been in the lab, so he and Leo took the tram to the botanical garden again.
吴督察需要弄清楚到底是谁进过实验室，于是他和里奥又坐有轨电车去了植物园。

The old tram stopped with a sudden jerk at a busy crossing, and Leo used the time to check the city's transportation cameras on his phone.
老旧的电车在一个繁忙的十字路口猛地一顿停了下来，里奥趁机用手机查看了城市交通监控摄像头的画面。

The cameras showed Mr. Kane's car entering the garden at nine p.m. and leaving at a quarter to ten.
监控画面显示，凯恩先生的车在晚上九点进入植物园，九点四十五分离开。

Kane's visitor card, with an expiration time of ten p.m., had also been used at the lab door.
凯恩的访客卡有效期到晚上十点，它也在实验室门口被刷过。

But Leo was alert enough to notice a strange omission: ten minutes of camera records from the lab corridor were missing.
但里奥十分警觉，注意到一个奇怪的缺漏：实验室走廊的监控记录少了十分钟。

In the garden, Wu walked idly among the trees, thinking, while crickets sang in the grass.
在植物园里，吴督察漫无目的地在树林间走着，思考着，草丛里蟋蟀在鸣叫。

Then he stopped under a tall pine tree and saw an empty bird's nest with a broken egg below it.
然后他在一棵高大的松树下停了下来，看到一个空鸟巢，下面有一枚破碎的鸟蛋。

Next to the egg lay a small bottle with a strong pine smell: it was the same fragrance as the tea.
鸟蛋旁边躺着一个小瓶子，散发着浓烈的松树气味：这和茶里的香味一模一样。

The liquid inside resembled ordinary tea, but it was a poison made from a plant, and only someone who knew a lot about plants could make it.
瓶子里的液体看上去和普通的茶很像，但它是一种用植物制成的毒药，只有非常了解植物的人才能做出来。

The police checked the bottle, and the fingerprint on it was the same as the one on the cup.
警察检查了瓶子，上面的指纹和杯子上的那枚一模一样。

It belonged to Dr. Black.
指纹的主人是布莱克博士。

That Saturday, the royal family held a celebration for the king's eightieth birthday, and every important person in the country was invited.
那个星期六，王室为国王八十岁生日举行庆典，全国所有重要人物都受到了邀请。

The palace was full of splendour: crystal lights hung from the ceiling, a famous pianist played, and the royal chef served meaty dishes and champagne.
王宫里一片富丽堂皇：天花板上挂着水晶灯，一位著名的钢琴家在演奏，御厨端上了丰盛的肉菜和香槟。

The old king sat upright on his throne, wearing a golden crown, and the young princess, his successor, stood beside him.
年迈的国王端坐在王座上，戴着金色的王冠，年轻的公主——他的继承人——站在他身边。

Dr. Black and Mr. Kane were both there, smiling and drinking as if nothing had happened.
布莱克博士和凯恩先生都在场，他们面带微笑地喝着酒，就好像什么事都没发生过一样。

Kane's private plane was waiting at the airport, ready to take him abroad the next morning.
凯恩的私人飞机正在机场待命，准备第二天早上送他出国。

Wu decided to confront them that night, but when Dr. Black saw the police, he tried to flee through the kitchen.
吴督察决定当晚就与他们当面对质，但布莱克博士一看到警察，就想从厨房逃跑。

He knocked over a tub of ice, slipped, and fell, and Wu caught him before he could get up.
他撞翻了一桶冰，滑了一跤摔倒了，没等他爬起来，吴督察就抓住了他。

Dr. Black was panting heavily, his knees buckled, and his face was white with fear.
布莱克博士大口喘着粗气，双膝发软，脸吓得煞白。

Leo noticed that the zipper on his jacket was broken, and a small piece was missing.
里奥注意到他夹克上的拉链坏了，少了一小块。

"I had no intent to kill her!" Dr. Black exclaimed. "Kane told me it would only make her sick for a few weeks!"
“我没想杀她！”布莱克博士喊道，“凯恩告诉我，那只会让她病几个星期！”

Mr. Kane gave him a furious, murderous look, but said nothing; he simply straightened his tie and asked for his lawyer.
凯恩先生狠狠地瞪了他一眼，目光里满是杀气，但一言不发；他只是整了整领带，要求见他的律师。

The next day, reporters laid siege to the police station, all hoping to get the full story.
第二天，记者们把警察局围得水泄不通，都想拿到完整的报道。

At the trial, Dr. Black's testimony revealed the whole conspiracy.
在审判中，布莱克博士的证词揭露了整个阴谋。

Kane had promised him money and a high position if he stole the formula, but when Dr. Grant discovered the betrayal and threatened to tell the cabinet, Kane decided that she had to be stopped.
凯恩曾许诺，只要他偷到配方，就给他钱和高位；但当格兰特博士发现了这一背叛并扬言要告诉内阁时，凯恩便决定必须除掉她。

It turned out that Kane's driver had kicked the door and broken the pipe while he was looking for her research papers.
原来，凯恩的司机在寻找她的研究资料时，踢了门，还弄坏了管子。

When the police searched the driver's flat, they found the papers hidden among his underwear in a drawer.

警察搜查司机的公寓时，发现那些资料藏在一个抽屉里的内衣中间。

The judge said that no business reason could justify such a crime, and her judgement was clear: all three men were guilty.

法官说，任何商业理由都不能为这样的罪行开脱，她的判决很明确：三个人都有罪。

Kane would have to stay in prison for the rest of his life, and his company was held accountable for years of malpractice.

凯恩将在监狱里度过余生，他的公司也被追究多年违规经营的责任。

The investigation showed that bribery had long been the norm inside the company.

调查显示，行贿在这家公司内部早已是常态。

Investigators even found that the company had stored raw materials and explosive chemicals near a city reservoir without approval.

调查人员甚至发现，这家公司未经批准，就在城市的一个水库附近储存原材料和易爆化学品。

A newspaper commentary said that the company had acted like an outlaw, and that putting a whole city in danger was not far from terrorism.

一篇报纸评论说，这家公司的所作所为就像一个不法之徒，让整座城市身处险境，这与恐怖主义相差无几。

In the past, the government had wanted to deregulate the chemical industry, but now the public demanded a complete overhaul of the rules.

过去，政府曾想放松对化工行业的管制，但现在公众要求彻底改革相关规定。

A new regulator was set up with a clear mandate, in writing, to check every petrochemical factory and nuclear power station.

政府设立了一个新的监管机构，以书面形式明确授权它检查每一家石化工厂和核电站。

The whole country mourned Dr. Grant, and her death depressed even people who had never met her.

全国都在哀悼格兰特博士，她的死让那些从未见过她的人也感到沮丧。

A Catholic church near the academy held a service for her, and the multitude of people who attended filled the street outside.

科学院附近的一座天主教堂为她举行了追思仪式，前来参加的人群挤满了外面的街道。

Many of them were farmers, homeless people and poor families whom she had helped through her charitable work.

他们中有许多是农民、无家可归的人和穷苦家庭，她曾通过慈善工作帮助过他们。

A bust of her was placed at the entrance of the botanical garden, and the public's sympathy turned into strong support for her law.

植物园入口处安放了一尊她的半身像，公众的同情化作了对她所推动的法律的有力支持。

Thousands of farmers held a rally in front of the cabinet office, and they cheered when the new legislation was passed.

成千上万的农民在内阁办公楼前集会，新法律通过时，他们欢呼起来。

The princess signed it in the name of the king, and she publicly commended Wu and Leo for their work.

公主以国王的名义签署了这部法律，并公开表彰了吴督察和里奥的工作。

There was one more surprise.

还有一个惊喜。

Anna remembered that Dr. Grant had always kept a paper copy of her most important work in an old oak box in her office.
安娜想起，格兰特博士总是把她最重要的研究的纸质副本放在办公室的一个旧橡木盒子里。

When they opened the box, the complete formula was there, carefully preserved in her own handwriting.
他们打开盒子时，完整的配方就在里面，以她的亲笔字迹被细心地保存着。

"She knew that computers can fail," Anna said softly. "She never trusted a single copy of anything."
“她知道电脑会出故障，”安娜轻声说，“任何东西她从来都不只留一份。”

With the formula secured, the academy decided to launch a national program to plant the new wheat.
配方得到妥善保护后，科学院决定启动一个全国性的项目来种植这种新小麦。

An expedition of scientists travelled to the dry east, and small aircraft dropped seeds over the steep hills that no plough could reach.
一支科学家考察队前往干旱的东部，小型飞机在犁耕不到的陡峭山坡上播撒种子。

Farmers who were used to the old ways were nervous at first, because they had seen many failures, and some old men said that a plant made in a laboratory was too artificial to trust.
习惯了老办法的农民一开始很紧张，因为他们见过太多失败，一些老人说，在实验室里造出来的植物太不自然了，信不过。

Their doubts could have discouraged the whole program, but Anna, who now worked for it, travelled from village to village to familiarise them with the new seeds.
他们的疑虑本可能让整个项目受挫，但现在在这个项目工作的安娜走村串户，帮他们熟悉这种新种子。

She explained everything in basic words that a layman could understand, and she never let the farmers feel the stigma of being called "poor and backward."
她用外行人也能听懂的浅显语言讲解一切，从不让农民们因为被称作“贫穷落后”而感到难堪。

For example, she would hold up a cup of hot water and show them the vapor rising from it to explain why the new wheat needed so little water.
比如，她会举起一杯热水，让他们看着水汽升腾，以此解释为什么新小麦需要的水这么少。

By autumn the wheat was ripe, the fields shone like gold, and herds of sheep walked across the grassy hills.
到了秋天，小麦成熟了，田野像金子一样闪闪发光，一群群羊走过长满青草的山坡。

Building work also began on new schools and roads, and the construction gave thousands of young people jobs.
新学校和新道路也开始动工，这些建设工程为成千上万的年轻人提供了工作。

The famine was over.
饥荒结束了。

A year later, a television channel made a documentary about Dr. Grant's life.
一年后，一家电视频道拍摄了一部关于格兰特博士生平的纪录片。

At the end, the narrator referred to one of her favourite sayings: "Science is meaningful only when it serves people, and the mental work of a scientist is worth nothing if it does not feed a single child."
片尾，旁白者引用了她最喜欢的一句话：“科学只有在为人民服务时才有意义；如果科学家的脑力劳动连一个孩子都养活不了，那就毫无价值。”

Millions of listeners and viewers were moved, and the documentary won a national prize.
数百万听众和观众被感动了，这部纪录片还获得了一个国家级奖项。

When it ended, the screen showed a simple description of her life and a photo of her smiling in the fields.
片子结束时，屏幕上出现了一段对她一生的简短描述，还有一张她在田野里微笑的照片。

Leo graduated from the academy with top grades, and Wu wrote a warm recommendation letter for him.
里奥以优异的成绩从科学院毕业，吴督察给他写了一封热情洋溢的推荐信。

"You talk too much," Wu wrote, "but you have an honest heart, and that is worth more than any skill."
“你话太多了，”吴督察写道，“但你有一颗诚实的心，这比任何本领都更有价值。”

List 4 A Satellite Called Bee

一颗名叫“蜜蜂”的卫星

本篇使用 List 4 单词 267/267 个（加粗处为首次出现）

Mia Zhou is an engineer at the National Space Center in a smoggy city in the northeastern part of the country.
周米娅是一名工程师，在这个国家东北部一座雾霾严重的城市里的国家航天中心工作。

On most winter days the smog is so thick that you cannot see the top of the tall buildings, and it seriously affects people's health.
冬天的大多数日子里，雾霾浓得连高楼的楼顶都看不见，严重影响着人们的健康。

Mia lives with her husband Tom, their infant daughter Lily, and a lively dog called Max.
米娅和丈夫汤姆、尚在襁褓中的女儿莉莉，以及一只叫马克斯的活泼小狗住在一起。

Tom is an English instructor at a tertiary college, and his learners love his sense of humour.
汤姆是一所高等专科院校的英语讲师，他的学生们都很喜欢他的幽默感。

In class he explains phrasal verbs and modifiers in a concise way, and he pays special attention to the clear articulation of every sound.
在课堂上，他简明扼要地讲解短语动词和修饰语，还特别注意每个音都要发得清晰。

He is sociable and gracious, and he is pretty good at cooking, too.
他善于交际，待人亲切，而且做饭也很拿手。

Currently, Mia is working on the most important project of her career: a satellite called "Bee-1."
目前，米娅正在参与她职业生涯中最重要的项目：一颗名叫“蜜蜂一号”的卫星。

Like a bee that flies from flower to flower, the satellite will fly around the earth and collect information.
就像一只在花丛间飞来飞去的蜜蜂，这颗卫星将绕着地球飞行并收集信息。

Its main job is imaging: it will take pictures that help scientists predict the harvest, watch the rise and fall of rivers, and measure the smog over big cities.
它的主要任务是成像：它拍摄的图像将帮助科学家预测收成、观察河流的涨落，并测量大城市上空的雾霾。

The information will benefit millions of farmers, give the government a means to fight pollution, and reduce the country's dependence on foreign satellites.
这些信息将惠及数百万农民，为政府提供一种对抗污染的手段，并减少国家对外国卫星的依赖。

People often think space science is full of glamor, but the bulk of Mia's work is slow and technical.
人们常以为航天科学充满魅力，但米娅的大部分工作是缓慢而技术性的。

Her expertise is the power system, which includes the solar cells, the battery, and a small backup generator.
她的专长是电力系统，包括太阳能电池、蓄电池和一台小型备用发电机。

She has studied this field since university, and she believes it is an integral part of any satellite.
她从大学起就研究这个领域，她认为电力系统是任何卫星不可或缺的一部分。

"Without power, a satellite is a mere piece of metallic rubbish floating in the cosmos," she often says.
“没有电，卫星不过是漂浮在宇宙中的一块金属垃圾。”她常这么说。

The project superintendent, Mr. Hart, is a shrewd and pushy man who cares a lot about deadlines.

项目总负责人哈特先生是个精明又强势的人，非常在乎最后期限。

He has assigned each engineer a portion of the work and asks for a daily report, sometimes even an hourly one.
他给每位工程师分配了一部分工作，要求每天汇报，有时甚至每小时汇报一次。

The launch date has been set for the eve of the national election in July, because Senator Grant, who supports the project, wants to use it to win votes.
发射日期定在七月全国大选的前夕，因为支持该项目的格兰特参议员想借此赢得选票。

The senator often appears on TV talk shows, where he chats with the host about everything from taxes to abortion, and he calls the satellite "a momentous step for our nation."
这位参议员经常上电视谈话节目，和主持人从税收聊到堕胎，无所不谈，他把这颗卫星称为“我们国家具有重大意义的一步”。

His adversary in the election says that the project is too expensive, and he questions its legitimacy.
他在选举中的对手说这个项目太贵了，并质疑它的合法性。

Meanwhile, a large private company hopes to monopolize the satellite's data and sell it for profit, a shameless plan that appals many scientists.
与此同时，一家大型私营公司希望垄断这颗卫星的数据并借此牟利，这个无耻的计划让许多科学家感到震惊。

"Information about the air we breathe should be universal and free," Mia said in a conversation with her colleagues.
“关于我们所呼吸的空气的信息应该是全民共享、免费的，”米娅在和同事们交谈时说。

"Science and capitalism can coexist, but some things are not for sale, and I hope a new statute will protect this data."
“科学和资本主义可以共存，但有些东西是不能拿来卖的，我希望能有一部新法规来保护这些数据。”

In April, three months before the launch, the team began the final tests.
四月，发射前三个月，团队开始了最后的测试。

Everybody hoped for a flawless result, and at first there was no indication of any trouble.
每个人都希望结果完美无缺，起初也没有任何出问题的迹象。

But on the third day, something strange happened.
但在第三天，发生了一件奇怪的事。

When Mia looked at the test pictures on her laptop, she saw a small distortion at the edge of every image.
米娅在笔记本电脑上查看测试图像时，发现每张图片的边缘都有一点轻微的变形。

At first she thought it was a mere software problem, but when she checked the power data, she saw a sudden drop: the battery voltage went downwards every few minutes.
起初她以为这只是软件问题，但当她检查电力数据时，看到了一个骤降：蓄电池的电压每隔几分钟就往下掉一次。

She skipped dinner and worked frantically through the night, and by morning she had found the cause: a tiny crack in a metal part between the battery and the engine.
她没吃晚饭，通宵拼命工作，到早上终于找到了原因：蓄电池和发动机之间的一个金属部件上有一道细小的裂缝。

The crack was the result of a hasty blunder in the factory that had made the part.
这道裂缝是制造该部件的工厂一次草率的失误造成的。

In space, under the pressure of rapid heating and cooling, the crack could widen, and the whole power system might shatter.

在太空中，在急剧升温和降温的压力下，裂缝可能会变宽，整个电力系统都可能碎裂。

The danger was not just plausible; it was almost certain.
这种危险不只是有可能发生，而是几乎肯定会发生。

Mia took her evidence to Mr. Hart's office at the end of a long corridor.
米娅带着证据来到长长的走廊尽头哈特先生的办公室。

He stared at her laptop for a long time without saying a word.
他盯着她的笔记本电脑看了很久，一言不发。

"Replacing the part will take two months," he finally said. "We would have to defer the launch until after the election."
“更换这个部件需要两个月，”他终于开口说，“我们将不得不把发射推迟到大选之后。”

"The senator will be furious, and our money could be cut."
“参议员会大发雷霆，我们的经费可能会被削减。”

For a moment Mia saw the temptation in his eyes: to hide the problem and hope for the best.
有那么一瞬间，米娅从他的眼里看到了一种诱惑：把问题藏起来，然后祈祷一切顺利。

"Avoidance will not make the crack disappear," she said, and her hands trembled a little.
“逃避不会让裂缝消失。”她说，双手微微发抖。

"If the satellite fails, we lose everything, including the public's trust."
“如果卫星出了故障，我们会失去一切，包括公众的信任。”

Her logic was simple, but Mr. Hart did not agree, and their discord soon divided the whole team.
她的逻辑很简单，但哈特先生并不同意，他们之间的分歧很快让整个团队分成了两派。

Some engineers supported Mia, but others were pessimistic and said she was making a dramatic fuss about nothing.
一些工程师支持米娅，但另一些人很悲观，说她是在小题大做、故弄玄虚。

A few were even envious of her, because the senator had once praised her work in public, and they believed she had a feeling of superiority.
有几个人甚至嫉妒她，因为参议员曾经公开表扬过她的工作，他们认为她有一种优越感。

In the end, Mr. Hart removed her from the project and told her to take a holiday.
最后，哈特先生把她调离了项目，让她去休个假。

"Come back when you are capable of thinking about the team, not only about yourself," he said.
“等你能够为团队着想、而不只是为自己着想的时候再回来吧。”他说。

Mia went to the lavatory, locked the door, and cried for ten minutes.
米娅走进洗手间，锁上门，哭了十分钟。

A security guard saw her red eyes as she left the building, but he was kind enough not to ask anything.
她离开大楼时，一名保安看到了她通红的眼睛，但他很体贴，什么也没问。

That evening Mia sat helplessly on the sofa while Max put his paw on her knee.
那天晚上，米娅无助地坐在沙发上，马克斯把爪子搭在她的膝盖上。

Tom made a salad with cucumber and cheese, but she could hardly eat.
汤姆做了一份黄瓜奶酪沙拉，可她几乎吃不下。

Lily, who was a naughty little creature, spit out a piece of cucumber and laughed.
莉莉这个调皮的小家伙把一块黄瓜吐了出来，咯咯直笑。

Then the dog stole a slice of garlic bread from the table and ate it before anyone could stop him.
接着，那只狗从桌上偷了一片蒜蓉面包，没等任何人拦住它就吃了下去。

An hour later, Max had a pain in his stomach and could not stand up.
一个小时后，马克斯肚子疼，站都站不起来了。

They rushed him to the animal hospital, where the vet explained that garlic is harmful to dogs, although it is harmless to people.
他们急忙把它送到宠物医院，兽医解释说，大蒜对人无害，但对狗却是有害的。

"Like every mammal, a dog has its own needs," she said. "Many pet owners don't know this."
“和所有哺乳动物一样，狗也有它自己的需要，”她说，“很多宠物主人并不知道这一点。”

Max had to undergo a few tests, but luckily his bowel and other organs were fine, and he did not bleed inside.
马克斯不得不做了几项检查，但幸运的是，它的肠道和其他器官都没问题，也没有内出血。

The vet gave him some medicine, which needed dilution in water before he could consume it, and sent them home.
兽医给了它一些药，药要先用水稀释才能服用，然后就让他们回家了。

Driving home through the mist, Mia pondered one question: was she wrong to fight?
在雾中开车回家时，米娅反复思考着一个问题：她坚持抗争，是不是错了？

"You are not wrong," Tom said, as if he could read her mind. "But you need some rest. Let's go and see your grandfather tomorrow."
“你没有错，”汤姆说，好像能看穿她的心思，“但你需要休息一下。我们明天去看看你爷爷吧。”

Her grandfather lived in a small town on the southeastern coast.
她的爷爷住在东南沿海的一个小镇上。

It was not an ideal time for a trip, but Mia knew that Tom was right.
这并不是出门旅行的理想时机，但米娅知道汤姆说得对。

On the train, a friendly conductor checked their tickets and gave Lily a cracker, and she held her father's finger and fell asleep.
在火车上，一位友善的列车员查了他们的票，还给了莉莉一块饼干，她握着爸爸的手指睡着了。

The toilet on the train was broken, but nobody complained; for Lily, the whole trip was a small adventure.
火车上的厕所坏了，但没有人抱怨；对莉莉来说，整个旅程就是一次小小的冒险。

When they arrived, an old porter carried their bags and helped them cross a small bridge to a hotel by the canal.
到达后，一位年老的搬运工帮他们扛着行李，领他们过了一座小桥，来到运河边的一家旅馆。

The town was humid and warm, and in the early morning there was dew on every leaf.
小镇温暖潮湿，清晨时每片叶子上都挂着露珠。

In the past it had been a busy trade port, and in the maritime museum you could still see ship models, old maps, and records of every shipment that had passed through the wharf.
过去这里是一个繁忙的贸易港口，在航海博物馆里，你仍然能看到船只模型、旧地图，以及每一批经过码头的货物的记录。

Now tourism was the predominant business, but the town still felt authentic rather than luxurious.
如今旅游业是小镇的主要产业，但这里依然保有原汁原味的感觉，而不是一味奢华。

Grandfather was ninety-one, but his mind was clear and his eyes were bright.

爷爷已经九十一岁了，但他头脑清楚，双眼有神。

He walked with a stick because of an old handicap from the war, but he refused any help.
因为战争留下的旧伤残，他要拄着拐杖走路，但他拒绝任何人的搀扶。

When he was young, he had been a soldier in a battalion that fought against the fascist army that invaded the coast.
年轻时，他是一个营里的士兵，那个营与入侵沿海的法西斯军队作过战。

He took them to the war memorial on the hill, where he stood up straight and gave a salute to his old friends.
他带他们去了山上的战争纪念碑，他在那里站得笔直，向他的老战友们敬礼。

Their names were cut into the stone, and a poster beside it told how a small detachment of thirty men had held the hill for three days.
他们的名字刻在石头上，旁边的一张海报讲述了一支三十人的小分队如何坚守这座山头三天三夜的故事。

The whereabouts of some of the missing soldiers were still unknown.
一些失踪士兵的下落至今仍然不明。

"Nothing about war is humane," Grandfather said, "but I feel no hatred now, only sadness."
“战争中没有任何东西是人道的，”爷爷说，“但我现在已经没有仇恨了，只剩下悲伤。”

"It is an honour to remember them. Many of them were braver than me; I was just lucky."
“能够纪念他们是一种荣幸。他们中很多人都比我勇敢，我只是运气好罢了。”

That afternoon they sat in a cafe near the wharf, which served fusion food that mixed local and Western dishes.
那天下午，他们坐在码头附近的一家咖啡馆里，那里供应融合了本地菜和西餐的融合菜。

Mia told her grandfather everything, and he listened with care before he told her a story.
米娅把一切都告诉了爷爷，他认真地听完，然后给她讲了一个故事。

"Long ago, when this country was still a monarchy, the emperor ordered his architect to build a sea wall here in only one year."
“很久以前，这个国家还是君主制的时候，皇帝命令他的建筑师在一年之内在这里修建一道海堤。”

"The architect said that a strong wall would need three years, but the emperor did not want to hear any complaint."
“建筑师说，要修一道坚固的海堤需要三年，但皇帝不想听任何抱怨。”

"The architect still refused to build a weak wall, even though he knew the emperor might put him in prison."
“建筑师仍然拒绝修一道不牢固的堤坝，尽管他知道皇帝可能会把他关进监狱。”

"Twenty years later, a flood of biblical size hit the coast, and the wall saved the whole town."
“二十年后，一场《圣经》里才有的那种大洪水袭击了海岸，正是这道海堤救了整个小镇。”

"Superstitious people believed that a god had protected them, and a strange cult even grew up around the wall."
“迷信的人们认为是神保佑了他们，甚至还围绕这道海堤形成了一个奇怪的教派。”

"But the actual reason was simple: one wise man had refused to hurry."
“但真正的原因很简单：一个有智慧的人拒绝了草率行事。”

Grandfather looked at her and said, "Safety is the essence of good engineering, my dear. A slow wall is better than a broken one."
爷爷看着她说：“安全是优秀工程的本质，亲爱的。慢慢修好的墙，总好过一道垮掉的墙。”

His words gave her courage anew, and she felt she owed him a debt she could never repay.
他的话让她重新鼓起了勇气，她觉得自己欠了爷爷一份永远也还不清的情。

The rest of the holiday was quiet and enjoyable.
假期剩下的日子过得安静而愉快。

Grandfather made noodles by hand with flour and water, and Mia and Tom ate until they could eat no more.
爷爷用面粉和水亲手做了面条，米娅和汤姆一直吃到再也吃不下为止。

Tom rented bicycles, and they went cycling along the canal and into the mountainous countryside, where farmers were busy with the spring tea harvest.
汤姆租了自行车，他们沿着运河骑行，一直骑进多山的乡间，那里的农民正忙着采摘春茶。

When the chain of Tom's bicycle came off, an old farmer stopped his work to help him.
汤姆的自行车掉了链子，一位老农停下手中的活来帮他。

On the beach, Tom flew a kite shaped like a fish, and Lily, wearing a little hat and red socks, held her doll and watched it rise into the sky.
在海滩上，汤姆放起了一只鱼形风筝，戴着小帽子、穿着红袜子的莉莉抱着她的布娃娃，看着风筝升上天空。

An old fisherman, who had once been in prison and later released on parole, was now the most honest man in town.
一位老渔民曾经坐过牢，后来获得假释，如今成了镇上最诚实的人。

He joked with Grandfather and pretended to flirt with the woman who sold ice cream, and everyone laughed.
他和爷爷开玩笑，还假装和卖冰淇淋的女人调情，逗得大家都笑了。

In the evening the sea was so luminous under the moon that it looked like a field of diamonds.
傍晚，海面在月光下闪闪发光，看起来就像一片铺满钻石的田野。

Day by day there was a gradual change in Mia, and the pressure she had felt in the city began to disappear.
日子一天天过去，米娅慢慢发生了变化，在城里感受到的压力开始消散。

On the last day of the holiday, her telephone rang.
假期的最后一天，她的电话响了。

It was Mr. Hart, and his voice sounded very different.
是哈特先生打来的，他的声音听起来和以前很不一样。

A young engineer who used to assist Mia had followed her procedure and repeated her tests, and the results were the same: the crack was real.
一位以前给米娅当助手的年轻工程师按照她的步骤重复了测试，结果一样：裂缝确实存在。

There was no question anymore; this was proof.
再也没有疑问了；这就是证据。

After the intervention of the director of the space center, the launch was officially deferred, and a notification was sent to the senator's office.
在航天中心主任的干预下，发射被正式推迟，一份通知送到了参议员的办公室。

"I was wrong," Mr. Hart said humbly. "I need you back. Please."
“是我错了，”哈特先生谦卑地说，“我需要你回来。拜托了。”

He also admitted that the team had organizational problems, and he promised to listen more carefully to his engineers.

他还承认团队存在组织上的问题，并承诺今后会更认真地听取工程师们的意见。

To everyone's surprise, the senator himself made a public acknowledgement that safety must come first, and public opinion turned strongly in his favour.
出乎所有人意料的是，参议员本人公开承认安全必须放在第一位，舆论也因此大大地转向了支持他。

Mia smiled from ear to ear.
米娅笑得合不拢嘴。

The resumption of work began the next Monday, and the team started the modification of the power system at once.
工作在下周一恢复，团队立即着手改进电力系统。

A new part was ordered from Germany; it cost three million euros and arrived in a special shipment two weeks later.
他们从德国订购了一个新部件，花了三百万欧元，两周后通过专门的货运送到了。

It was made of a special metal, much stronger than iron, and it fitted perfectly into its slot.
它由一种特殊金属制成，比铁坚固得多，与它的插槽严丝合缝。

The workers used a fine drill to remove the old part, which was then disposed of safely, and they fixed the new one with metal braces and a strong bond.
工人们用一把精细的钻头拆下了旧部件，并将其安全处理掉，然后用金属支架和强力粘合剂把新部件固定好。

Mia also suggested some precautionary changes: an extra battery, a preventive check every hour, and an autonomous computer system that could lock the power supply by itself if anything went wrong.
米娅还建议做一些预防性的调整：增加一块备用电池，每小时进行一次预防性检查，以及安装一套自主运行的电脑系统，一旦出现问题，它能自动锁定电源。

To computerise the checks, she input thousands of numbers into the computer to find the optimal design, one that gave maximal power with minimal weight.
为了让检查实现电脑化，她把成千上万个数据输入电脑，寻找最优设计，即用最小的重量获得最大的电力。

The team even used an atomic clock to check the timing of every signal.
团队甚至用了一台原子钟来检查每个信号的时间。

Although mechanization had transformed much of the work, the final checks were still done by hand.
虽然机械化已经改变了很多工作方式，但最后的检查仍然要靠人工完成。

Every evening Mia took the elevator to the top floor of the test building and climbed a ladder to look inside the satellite herself.
每天傍晚，米娅都乘电梯到测试楼的顶层，再爬上梯子亲自查看卫星内部。

The work occupied her day and night, but she was no longer afraid of the obstacles in front of her.
工作占据了她的白天和黑夜，但她不再害怕眼前的种种障碍了。

Above her desk she fixed a reminder with a tack, written in red ink: "Slow is safe. Safe is fast."
她在办公桌上方用图钉钉了一张提醒，是用红墨水写的："慢就是稳，稳就是快。"

Her colleagues read it every day, and it spurred them forward.
同事们每天都会看到它，这句话激励着他们向前。

Finally, on a clear morning in September, Bee-1 was ready, and months of hard work were about to culminate in a single moment.
终于，在九月一个晴朗的早晨，"蜜蜂一号"准备就绪，几个月的辛苦工作即将在一个瞬间迎来高潮。

Thousands of people came to witness the takeoff, and the moment was shown live on TV, like a big football match.
成千上万的人前来见证发射，这一刻像一场重大的足球比赛一样在电视上现场直播。

The control room was chaotic for a few minutes as everybody checked their screens.
控制室里有几分钟一片混乱，每个人都在检查自己的屏幕。

Then Mr. Hart gave the order to initiate the countdown, and the volume of the loudspeakers seemed to amplify every heartbeat.
然后哈特先生下令开始倒计时，扩音器的音量仿佛放大了每一次心跳。

With a dramatic roar, the engine fired, and the rocket rose slowly into the sky, leaving a white trail behind it.
随着一声震撼人心的轰鸣，发动机点火，火箭缓缓升上天空，在身后留下一道白色的尾迹。

Ten minutes later the satellite separated from the rocket, and a message arrived: all systems were normal.
十分钟后，卫星与火箭分离，一条消息传来：所有系统一切正常。

The room exploded with joy, and some people cried and hugged one another.
整个控制室沸腾了，有些人激动得哭了起来，彼此拥抱。

It was a triumph that would herald a new age of scientific research in the country.
这是一次伟大的胜利，预示着这个国家科学研究新时代的到来。

Within a month, Bee-1 began to send back beautiful pictures of the earth.
不到一个月，“蜜蜂一号”就开始传回美丽的地球照片。

The images showed the low clouds over the mountains, the smog over the cities, and the green fields where farmers grew rice, the staple food of the country.
这些图像显示了群山上空低垂的云层、城市上空的雾霾，以及农民们种植水稻的绿色田野——稻米是这个国家的主食。

Scientists started a longitudinal study that would follow the changes in the air and the land for twenty years.
科学家们启动了一项纵向研究，将对空气和土地的变化进行长达二十年的跟踪。

The government used the data to impose new limits on pollution and to send aid to farmers in dry areas.
政府利用这些数据对污染设定了新的限制，并向干旱地区的农民提供援助。

The results were not always predictable, but they were moving in the right direction.
结果并不总是可以预测的，但一切都在朝着正确的方向发展。

Mia received many congratulatory letters and emails, but the one she loved most was a short call from her grandfather.
米娅收到了许多祝贺信和电子邮件，但她最喜欢的是爷爷打来的一个简短电话。

"You did not rob the future to please the present," he said. "I am deeply proud of you."
“你没有为了讨好眼前而去掠夺未来，”他说，“我为你深深地感到骄傲。”

A month later, the senator, who had won the election, visited the center in a red convertible and shook hands with every engineer.
一个月后，赢得大选的参议员开着一辆红色敞篷车来到航天中心，和每一位工程师握手。

"Your quest to understand the cosmos makes all of us better," he said, and this time it did not sound like an election speech.

“你们探索宇宙的追求让我们所有人都变得更好。”他说。这一次，这话听起来不像是竞选演说。

At night, Mia sometimes stands on her balcony and looks up at the milky band of stars, wondering which tiny light is her satellite.
夜里，米娅有时会站在阳台上，抬头望着乳白色的星河，猜想哪一个小光点是她的卫星。

Lily, who has just begun to learn to talk, points at the sky and says her first real word: "Bee!"
刚开始学说话的莉莉指着天空，说出了她人生中第一个真正的词：“蜜蜂！”

For Mia, it is the most important thing she has ever heard.
对米娅来说，这是她听过的最重要的一句话。

List 5 The Young Interpreter

年轻的口译员

本篇使用 List 5 单词 267/267 个（加粗处为首次出现）

Anna Lin had always aspired to become a great interpreter.
林安娜一直渴望成为一名出色的口译员。

For her, interpreting was not just a job but a vocation, and she worked terribly hard at it.
对她来说，口译不只是一份工作，更是一种使命，她为此极其努力。

She was a descendant of a family of teachers, and in her university days she had learned everything from attributive adjectives to the intricacy of legal language.
她出身于一个教师世家，大学时代她学习了从定语形容词到法律语言的复杂细节等各方面的知识。

Her teachers often praised her brilliance, but some of her friends laughed at her naivety, saying that an interpreter would never get rich.
她的老师们常常称赞她才华出众，但她的一些朋友却笑她天真，说当口译员永远发不了财。

She lived alone in a small flat, Apt. 6, on the third floor of an old building, and she spent almost every weekend reading foreign newspapers.
她独自住在一栋老楼三层的 6 号小公寓里，几乎每个周末都在读外国报纸。

Oftentimes she practised in solitude on a bench in the park, retelling the news aloud in two languages.
她常常独自坐在公园的长椅上练习，用两种语言把新闻大声复述出来。

She also copied the tempo and style of famous speakers, because she believed that the way of speaking was as vital as the words themselves.
她还模仿著名演讲者的节奏和风格，因为她相信说话的方式和话语本身同样重要。

She was attractive, but she had an aversion to cosmetic products and almost never wore make-up.
她长得很漂亮，但她不喜欢化妆品，几乎从不化妆。

Though she was only twenty-six, her competence and modesty had already won the trust of the senior consultants at the reputable company where she worked.
虽然她只有二十六岁，但她的能力和谦逊已经赢得了她所在的那家知名公司里资深顾问们的信任。

One afternoon, her boss called her into his office.
一天下午，老板把她叫进了办公室。

"A business delegation is going to the kingdom of Sarna next week," he said. "We need an interpreter, and I want you to go."
“下周有一个商务代表团要去萨尔纳王国，”他说，“我们需要一名口译员，我想让你去。”

Sarna was a small sovereign country with a constitutional king, a senate, and a long history.
萨尔纳是一个小小的主权国家，实行君主立宪制，设有参议院，历史悠久。

The delegation included investors, entrepreneurs, and a banking expert, and they hoped to sign a pact to build a factory there that would make solar panels.
代表团成员包括投资者、企业家和一位银行业专家，他们希望在那里签署一项协议，建一座生产太阳能电池板的工厂。

"There is a risk," her boss said, handing her a sheet of notes. "If this deal fails, the banks may downgrade us, and the company may not stay afloat."

“这件事有风险，”老板递给她一页笔记说，“如果这笔交易失败，银行可能会下调我们的信用等级，公司可能就撑不下去了。”

It was a great chance, and Anna could barely sleep that night.
这是一个难得的机会，那天晚上安娜几乎睡不着觉。

Her visa application asked for her marital status, her date of birth, and the purpose of her trip, and she filled in each line carefully.
她的签证申请表要填写婚姻状况、出生日期和此行目的，她认认真真地填好了每一栏。

For a week the application was pending, and she worried that she would miss the trip.
申请审批了整整一个星期，她担心自己会错过这次出行。

When the visa finally came, she was full of optimism, though she did not know whether she was ready for such an important job.
签证终于下来时，她满怀乐观，尽管她并不知道自己是否已经准备好承担这么重要的工作。

The leader of the delegation was Mr. Gao, a rich entrepreneur who had built a sizable fortune by himself.
代表团的团长是高先生，一位白手起家、积累了可观财富的富有企业家。

He was clever, but also arrogant, and he obviously thought that an interpreter was only a tool.
他很聪明，但也很傲慢，显然认为口译员不过是一件工具而已。

"Just translate what I say, word for word, and don't give me any elaboration," he told Anna, without even looking at her.
“我说什么你就逐字翻译什么，别给我添油加醋。”他对安娜说，连看都没看她一眼。

The other members were friendlier, especially Dr. Wen, a retired surgeon who had invested in the project.
其他成员要友善一些，尤其是温医生，一位投资了这个项目的退休外科医生。

The flight would span eight hours, and Dr. Wen advised everyone to drink plenty of water and stretch their legs.
这次航班要飞八个小时，温医生建议大家多喝水，多活动活动腿脚。

When their plane made its landing in Sarna, the sky was full of fog, but by noon the sun came out and the city looked bright and colourful.
他们的飞机降落在萨尔纳时，天空中满是雾，但到了中午太阳出来了，城市显得明亮而多彩。

The capital was built along a river that ran inland from the sea, and old temples stood next to modern office blocks.
首都沿着一条从海边流向内陆的河流而建，古老的寺庙和现代化的写字楼比邻而立。

Flags fluttered on tall poles, waving in the warm wind.
旗帜在高高的旗杆上飘动，在温暖的风中招展。

Most people in Sarna were Buddhist, but the population was not homogeneous, and the state itself was secular.
萨尔纳的大多数人信奉佛教，但人口构成并不单一，国家本身也是世俗国家。

Although Buddhists predominated, people of every faith lived together in peace, and they shared a strong national identity.
虽然佛教徒占多数，但各种信仰的人和平共处，他们有着强烈的民族认同感。

Unlike many big cities, there were no sexy advertisements on the streets; Sarna was a traditional country, and conformity to old customs was still important.

与许多大城市不同，这里的街头没有性感的广告；萨尔纳是一个传统的国家，遵守古老的习俗依然很重要。

In the markets, Anna saw women selling mushrooms, palm sugar, and tins of odorous dried fish, and the colours were so vivid that she wanted to take a picture of everything.
在市场里，安娜看到妇女们在卖蘑菇、棕榈糖和一罐罐气味浓烈的鱼干，色彩如此鲜艳，她恨不得把所有东西都拍下来。

Mr. Gao, however, said the smell was disgusting and asked to go back to the hotel, where the air-conditioning was strong.
然而，高先生说那股气味令人作呕，要求回到酒店，那里的空调开得很足。

The hotel was being renovated, and a new extension was being built at the back.
酒店正在翻新，后面还在加盖一栋新的配楼。

That night a fuse blew because of a bad wire, and the air-conditioning stopped.
那天夜里，由于一根电线出了问题，保险丝烧断了，空调停了。

Anna's room had no window that could open to ventilate it, so she slept on the floor of the bathroom, which was a little cooler.
安娜的房间没有可以打开通风的窗户，所以她睡在了稍微凉快一点的浴室地板上。

The next morning the hotel apologised and gave everyone a complimentary breakfast.
第二天早上，酒店道了歉，给每个人送了一份免费早餐。

The first meeting was held that morning at the Ministry of Development.
第一次会议于当天上午在发展部举行。

The minister, Lord Arun, was a tall, aristocratic man who spoke slowly and chose every word with great care.
部长阿伦勋爵身材高大，有贵族气质，他说话很慢，每个词都斟酌再三。

Our country's consul in Sarna was also present, and he quietly warned Anna that the minister was a careful listener.
我国驻萨尔纳的领事也出席了会议，他悄悄提醒安娜，这位部长是个非常细心的听众。

"Nice to meet you, sir," Anna said to the minister in his own language, and he looked pleased.
“很高兴见到您，先生。”安娜用部长的母语对他说，他看上去很高兴。

At first the dialogue went well.
起初，对话进行得很顺利。

Anna's interpreting was smooth and speedy, and she was careful to communicate not only the words but also the mood behind them.
安娜的口译流畅而迅速，她很注意不仅传达字面意思，还要传达话语背后的情绪。

She watched every facial expression, because she knew that people perceive meaning through the face as much as through words.
她留意着每一个面部表情，因为她知道，人们理解意思时，既靠话语，也靠面部表情。

But then Mr. Gao made an idiotic joke about the minister's "small country," and the room became silent.
但接着，高先生开了个愚蠢的玩笑，说部长的国家是个“小国家”，整个会议室一下子安静了下来。

Anna had a second to decide: she could translate it exactly, or she could make it sound less rude.
安娜只有一秒钟来做决定：她可以一字不差地翻译，也可以让这句话听起来不那么无礼。

She chose the second way and said, "Mr. Gao says that great things often come in small packages."
她选择了后者，说道：“高先生说，好东西往往装在小包裹里。”

The minister smiled, and the tense moment passed.
部长笑了，紧张的时刻过去了。

It was an ironic situation: Mr. Gao never knew that his interpreter had just saved him from his own big mouth.
这真是一种讽刺：高先生从来不知道，他的翻译刚刚把他从自己的大嘴巴里救了出来。

Anna knew that an interpreter's first duty is to be faithful to the meaning, and she believed that she had not broken that rule.
安娜知道，口译员的首要职责是忠实于原意，她相信自己并没有违反这条原则。

In the afternoon the discussion turned to numbers.
下午，讨论转向了数字。

The Sarna team showed a statistical report: the percentage of homes with electricity was still low, and the country's demand for power was rising quickly.
萨尔纳方展示了一份统计报告：通电家庭的比例仍然很低，而该国的电力需求正在迅速增长。

Their research showed that the growth of family income correlated closely with access to electricity.
他们的研究表明，家庭收入的增长与能否用上电密切相关。

"In the modern world, electricity is not a luxury but a necessity," Lord Arun said.
“在现代世界，电不是奢侈品，而是必需品。”阿伦勋爵说。

The national utility company would be the main beneficiary of the new factory, and any surplus power would be sold to neighbouring countries.
国家公用事业公司将是新工厂的主要受益者，任何富余的电力都将卖给邻国。

They also discussed the allocation of land, the optimum size of the factory, and a weekly index to measure progress.
他们还讨论了土地的分配、工厂的最佳规模，以及一个用来衡量进度的每周指数。

The factory would be built on a designated piece of ground near the coast, and its walls would be strong enough to withstand storms.
工厂将建在海边一块指定的土地上，它的墙壁将坚固得足以抵御风暴。

In the first phase of the project, more than two thousand unemployed young people would get jobs.
在项目的第一阶段，两千多名失业青年将获得工作。

For Sarna, the factory would be a kind of economic stimulus; for Mr. Gao, it would lower costs and enhance the image of his company.
对萨尔纳来说，这座工厂将起到一种经济刺激作用；对高先生来说，它将降低成本，并提升他公司的形象。

It was a rare convergence of interests, and the eventual goal was clear to everyone.
这是一次难得的利益交汇，最终的目标对每个人来说都很清楚。

Anna had prepared well for the technical terms, and an examiner from the ministry, who had come to check the translation, praised her work.
安娜对这些专业术语早有准备，部里派来核查翻译的一位审查员称赞了她的工作。

Nobody in the room was idle that day, and by evening Anna's throat was sore from talking.
那天会议室里没有一个人闲着，到了晚上，安娜的嗓子都说哑了。

That night, however, Anna noticed something suspicious.
然而那天晚上，安娜注意到了一件可疑的事。

While she was proofreading the English version of the agreement, she found that one sentence was different from the version they had discussed.
她在校对协议的英文版本时，发现有一句话和他们讨论过的版本不一样。

She looked at it in perplexity: the new sentence said that a third company would control the factory, which would be to the great detriment of both sides.
她困惑地看着这句话：新的句子写道，将由一家第三方公司来控制工厂，这将给双方都带来极大的损害。

Someone had replaced the real page with a counterfeit one, and if no one noticed, it could kill the whole deal.
有人用一张伪造的页面替换了真的那一页，如果没人发现，整笔交易都可能被毁掉。

Using simple deductive reasoning, Anna realised that only someone in the delegation could have done it.
通过简单的演绎推理，安娜意识到只有代表团内部的人才可能做这件事。

She remembered that Mr. Zhou, a young consultant, had stayed in the meeting room alone during lunch.
她想起，一位年轻的顾问周先生午饭时曾独自留在会议室里。

She did not want to accuse an innocent person, so she checked the computer records before she said anything.
她不想冤枉一个无辜的人，所以在开口之前先查看了电脑记录。

The records showed that the file had been changed at 12:30 from Mr. Zhou's computer.
记录显示，文件是在十二点半从周先生的电脑上被修改的。

The evidence was watertight.
证据无懈可击。

Anna went to Mr. Gao's room and showed him what she had found.
安娜去了高先生的房间，把她的发现拿给他看。

At first he did not believe her, and he said that an interpreter should not get involved in business intrigue.
起初他不相信她，还说口译员不应该卷入商业阴谋。

But when he saw the two versions side by side, his face turned white, and he ripped the false page in half.
但当他看到两个版本并排放在一起时，脸一下子白了，他把那张假页撕成了两半。

Mr. Zhou, it turned out, had been paid by a competitor to destroy the deal.
原来，周先生被一家竞争对手公司收买，要破坏这笔交易。

When the police came, he stumbled over his words and tried to defend himself.
警察来的时候，他说话结结巴巴，试图为自己辩解。

He even claimed that he had diplomatic immunity, but the consul told him that he had no such thing.
他甚至声称自己享有外交豁免权，但领事告诉他，他根本没有这种权利。

In Sarna, the manipulation of a government contract was a serious crime, and he would be punished according to the law.
在萨尔纳，篡改政府合同是严重的犯罪，他将依法受到惩罚。

Sarna had worked hard to fight corrupt officials, and the minister made it clear that such behavior would never be accepted.

萨尔纳一直在大力打击腐败官员，部长明确表示，这种行为决不会被容忍。

Mr. Gao was silent for a long time, and then he said something Anna had never expected to hear: "Thank you. I owe you an apology."
高先生沉默了很久，然后说出了一句安娜从没想到会听到的话："谢谢你。我欠你一个道歉。"

On Saturday evening, the king invited the delegation to a dinner at the royal palace.
星期六晚上，国王邀请代表团到王宫赴宴。

The palace was a masterpiece of old architecture, and its walls were covered with colourful paintings of legendary heroes.
王宫是古代建筑的杰作，墙上满是描绘传奇英雄的彩色壁画。

A young girl gave a recitation of an ancient poem about an angel who protected the country, and a jazz band played old songs.
一个小女孩朗诵了一首关于守护国家的天使的古诗，一支爵士乐队演奏了一些老歌。

His Majesty was a kind old man, and he spoke of his country's history with great pride.
国王陛下是一位慈祥的老人，他非常自豪地谈起了他国家的历史。

Soon after his ascendance to the throne fifty years earlier, he had abolished the death penalty, because he believed that execution had no place in a modern civilization.
五十年前登上王位后不久，他就废除了死刑，因为他认为处决在现代文明中没有立足之地。

He was also proud of the emergence of a new middle class in Sarna.
他还为萨尔纳出现了一个新的中产阶级而感到自豪。

His daughter, the princess, was a strong voice for feminism, and she wanted every girl in the country to go to school.
他的女儿，也就是公主，是女权主义的坚定倡导者，她希望这个国家的每一个女孩都能上学。

Her advocacy had already led to new schools in many villages.
在她的倡导下，许多村庄已经建起了新学校。

The princess wore simple clothes and almost no jewellery, but her presence filled the room.
公主衣着朴素，几乎没戴什么首饰，但她的存在感充满了整个房间。

In the middle of dinner, something terrible happened.
晚宴进行到一半，发生了一件可怕的事。

Mr. Gao suddenly groaned, held his chest, and fell off his chair.
高先生突然呻吟了一声，捂住胸口，从椅子上摔了下来。

He was having some kind of seizure, and his body began to shake.
他突然发病，身体开始抽搐。

Dr. Wen rushed over at once and said that a blocked artery might be the cause.
温医生立刻冲了过去，说病因可能是动脉堵塞。

A waiter ran to call the palace doctor, but he and Dr. Wen did not share a language, so Anna had to interpret between them.
一名服务员跑去叫王宫的医生，但他和温医生语言不通，于是安娜只好在两人之间做翻译。

She had never learned many medical words, but she stayed calm, and she was brave enough to ask questions whenever she was not sure.
她以前没学过多少医学词汇，但她保持冷静，遇到不确定的地方，就勇敢地提问。

Thanks to their concerted effort, Mr. Gao was taken to hospital in time, where a surgeon opened the blocked artery.
多亏了他们的齐心协力，高先生被及时送到了医院，一位外科医生为他打通了堵塞的动脉。

The doctors gave him medicine to induce sleep, and they said that if he had arrived ten minutes later, he might not have survived.
医生们给他用了助眠的药，并说如果他再晚到十分钟，可能就救不回来了。

"We are all mortal," Dr. Wen said to Anna later. "Even rich men."
“我们都是凡人，”温医生后来对安娜说，“即使是有钱人也一样。”

He explained that Mr. Gao had been chronically tired and stressed for years, and that he had never taken his health seriously.
他解释说，高先生多年来一直处于慢性疲劳和紧张的状态，从来没有认真对待过自己的健康。

He wrote Mr. Gao a prescription and told him to stop drinking, eat healthy food, and use salt sparingly.
他给高先生开了处方，叫他戒酒、吃健康的食物，并且少放盐。

"With a healthy life, your life expectancy can still be long," he said. "Prevention is always better than cure."
“只要生活健康，你仍然可以长寿，”他说，“预防永远胜于治疗。”

It was a sober lesson for everyone in the delegation.
这对代表团的每个人来说，都是一个发人深省的教训。

Because of Mr. Gao's illness, the signing ceremony was postponed until Monday.
由于高先生生病，签约仪式被推迟到了星期一。

Some people feared that the deal would be cancelled, which was frustrating after so much work.
有些人担心交易会被取消，在付出了这么多努力之后，这让人很沮丧。

But Lord Arun said it would be premature to worry, and he made a joke to lift everyone's mood.
但阿伦勋爵说现在担心还为时过早，他还开了个玩笑来让大家打起精神。

The postponement gave the rest of the delegation a free Sunday, so the minister's son, Daniel, offered to show them around.
这次延期让代表团的其他成员有了一个空闲的星期天，于是部长的儿子丹尼尔主动提出带他们四处看看。

Daniel was a jolly young man who loved the outdoors, and in the morning he took them by canoe down the river.
丹尼尔是个快活的年轻人，热爱户外活动，上午他带他们乘独木舟顺流而下。

He rolled up his pants, checked the direction with an old compass, and grinned at Anna as he pushed the canoe into the water.
他卷起裤腿，用一个旧指南针看了看方向，然后一边把独木舟推进水里，一边冲安娜咧嘴一笑。

On the bank they saw a snake waiting for its prey, and a small animal creeping slowly behind an old tree stump.
在河岸上，他们看到一条蛇在等待猎物，还有一只小动物在一截老树桩后面慢慢地爬行。

Anna used her camera to zoom in on the snake, but she kept a safe distance of more than a few inches.
安娜用相机把镜头拉近拍那条蛇，但她和蛇保持着远不止几英寸的安全距离。

Each of them had brought a gallon of water, because the sun was strong and there was no shade on the river.

他们每人都带了一加仑水，因为太阳很毒，河上没有一点阴凉。

Anna had to shield her eyes from the sun with her hand.
安娜不得不用手遮挡阳光。

When they came back, everyone was hungry, and they ate a simple lunch of rice and fish, the everyday food of the local people.
他们回来时，每个人都饿了，大家吃了一顿简单的米饭配鱼的午餐，这是当地人的家常便饭。

In the afternoon they visited the national museum.
下午，他们参观了国家博物馆。

Its most famous exhibit was a huge dinosaur; some of its bones were real, and the others were careful reproductions.
博物馆最有名的展品是一头巨型恐龙；它的骨头有一些是真的，其余的是精心制作的复制品。

The museum also explained how a volcano inland had erupted two hundred years ago and changed the shape of the whole coast.
博物馆还介绍了内陆的一座火山如何在两百年前喷发，改变了整个海岸的形状。

Later they played volleyball with some local students on the beach; in Sarna there was a real craze for the sport.
后来，他们在海滩上和一些当地学生打排球；在萨尔纳，人们对这项运动非常着迷。

For Anna, however, the highlight of the day came in the evening, when Daniel took her to an old Buddhist temple on a hill.
不过对安娜来说，这一天最精彩的时刻是在傍晚，丹尼尔带她去了山上的一座古老的佛教寺庙。

Inside, monks murmured their prayers, and the light of small wax candles danced on the walls.
寺里，僧人们低声诵经，小蜡烛的光在墙上跳动。

Following the local custom, they walked around the temple clockwise three times.
按照当地的习俗，他们顺时针绕着寺庙走了三圈。

From the top of the hill they could see a wide panorama of the city, and the last rays of the sun turned the river gold.
从山顶上，他们可以看到城市的全景，夕阳的余晖把河水染成了金色。

Later the sky became starry, and the soft music from the temple made the evening feel dreamy.
后来，天空繁星点点，寺庙里传来的轻柔音乐让这个夜晚显得如梦似幻。

They talked about their families, their hopes and their ambitions, and Anna felt a strange happiness.
他们聊起了各自的家人、希望和抱负，安娜感到一种奇妙的幸福。

Daniel told her that his grandfather had been a militant partisan who fought for the country's independence, and that he had once survived an assault on his village.
丹尼尔告诉她，他的祖父曾是一名为国家独立而战的激进游击队员，还曾在村子遭受的一次袭击中幸存下来。

"Peace is a long process," Daniel said. "But my grandfather always said that kindness is stronger than guns."
“和平是一个漫长的过程，”丹尼尔说，“但我爷爷总说，善良比枪炮更有力量。”

By coincidence, Anna's own grandfather had been a corporal in the army, and he had said almost the same thing.
巧的是，安娜自己的爷爷曾是一名陆军下士，他也说过几乎一模一样的话。

On Monday morning, Mr. Gao came to the ceremony in a wheelchair.
星期一上午，高先生坐着轮椅来到了签约仪式。

He looked tired, but his eyes were clear, and his arrogant manner was wholly gone.
他看起来很疲惫，但眼神清澈，傲慢的样子已经完全不见了。

Before signing the pact, he stood up with great difficulty, looked straight at Anna, and spoke loudly to everyone in the room.
在签署协议之前，他费了很大力气站起来，直视着安娜，对房间里的每个人大声讲话。

"I want to acknowledge the person who made this day possible," he said. "Without Miss Lin, there would be no agreement, and maybe no me."
“我想向让今天成为可能的那个人致谢，”他说，“没有林小姐，就不会有这份协议，也许也不会有我了。”

Everyone applauded, and Anna's face turned red.
大家都鼓起掌来，安娜的脸一下子红了。

The minister then spoke about solidarity between the two countries, calling them "true allies in development."
随后，部长谈到了两国之间的团结，称两国是“发展道路上真正的盟友”。

He also promised that there would be no unfair imposition of new taxes on the factory.
他还承诺，不会对工厂不公平地征收新税。

After the lawyers had validated every page, both sides signed, and the agreement became official.
在律师们核实了每一页之后，双方签了字，协议正式生效。

A confirmation letter was sent to the senate, and the factory received its building license the same week.
一封确认函被送到了参议院，工厂在同一周拿到了建设许可证。

A small problem with the adequacy of the local roads remained, but the ministry promised a solution, and compared with what they had been through, it seemed trivial.
当地道路是否够用还存在一个小问题，但部里承诺会拿出解决办法，而且和他们经历过的一切相比，这似乎微不足道。

Ultimately, it was Anna's careful work that had saved the deal, and everyone in the delegation knew it.
归根结底，是安娜细致的工作挽救了这笔交易，代表团里的每个人都清楚这一点。

Back home, Mr. Gao offered Anna a job as his personal interpreter, with a much higher salary.
回国后，高先生请安娜给他当私人翻译，工资高得多。

Anna thanked him, but she said that the decision was ours to make, and she wanted to talk with her family first.
安娜向他道了谢，但她说，这个决定要由她和家人一起来做，她想先和家人商量一下。

When she was reunited with her parents at home, she told them everything, and they listened with tears in their eyes.
回到家和父母团聚时，她把一切都告诉了他们，他们含着眼泪听着。

In the end, Anna said no to Mr. Gao's offer, and she defied everyone's expectations by staying at her old company.
最后，安娜拒绝了高先生的邀请，出乎所有人的意料，她留在了原来的公司。

"I enjoy my work as it is," she told him. "I want to help many different people communicate, not work for only one boss."
“我喜欢我现在的工作，”她对他说，“我想帮助许多不同的人沟通，而不是只为一个老板工作。”

She knew that an interpreter's time and energy are limited, and she wanted to use them for the right reasons.
她知道一个口译员的时间和精力是有限的，她想把它们用在正确的地方。

Mr. Gao understood, and with a new sense of realism about his own health, he began to work less and walk more.
高先生理解了她的决定，对自己的健康有了更现实的认识，开始少工作、多散步。

As for Daniel, he wrote to Anna every week, and he said he would come to visit her in the future.
至于丹尼尔，他每周都给安娜写信，说他将来会来看她。

Anna smiled as she read his letters, and she thought that this was another kind of translation she was happy to learn.
读着他的信，安娜笑了，她觉得这是另一种她乐于学习的“翻译”。

然而一天早上，一辆卡车沿街缓缓驶过，车上传来响亮的广播通知。

A large mining company planned to reopen an old mine in the hills, which was rich in the ore of a radioactive metal, and a public hearing would be held the following week.
一家大型矿业公司计划重新开采山里的一座旧矿，那里富含一种放射性金属的矿石，下周将举行一场公开听证会。

The company had already made a bid for most of the land, and it even wanted to privatize part of the beach for its workers.
这家公司已经出价竞购大部分土地，甚至还想把海滩的一部分私有化，供自己的工人使用。

It had already bought the ownership of the town's only supermarket, and it planned to centralise the distribution of all bread and food in the area.
它已经买下了镇上唯一一家超市的所有权，还计划把该地区所有面包和食品的配送集中起来统一管理。

Its advertisement promised employment and growth for the whole area, with the caption "A Bright Future for All."
它的广告承诺为整个地区带来就业和发展，标题是“人人都有光明的未来”。

But many citizens were worried about the danger of radioactivity.
但许多市民担心放射性的危险。

The mine was only a few miles from the farms, where farmers raised livestock and grew vegetables in greenhouses.
这座矿离农场只有几英里，农民们在那里饲养牲畜，在温室里种植蔬菜。

If waste from the mine contaminated the river, the seedlings would die, and the farmers might have to slaughter their animals.
如果矿上的废料污染了河流，秧苗会死掉，农民们可能不得不宰杀他们的牲畜。

The company had published a preliminary report saying that the risk was "very small," but the report was vague about many important points.
公司发布了一份初步报告，称风险“非常小”，但报告对许多重要问题都含糊其辞。

Mrs. Rose knew that Lucy worked in auditing, so she asked her to read the report.
罗丝太太知道露西是做审计的，就请她看看那份报告。

"I'm sorry to bother you on your vacation," she said, "but you are the only person here who understands these numbers."
“很抱歉在你度假的时候打扰你，”她说，“但你是这里唯一看得懂这些数字的人。”

Lucy did not want to work, but her instinct told her that something was wrong.
露西并不想工作，但她的直觉告诉她，有什么地方不对劲。

She immersed herself in the report for three days and three nights.
她三天三夜埋头研究这份报告。

It was a long and complex document, full of tables and technical words, and much of it was hardly intelligible to ordinary people.
这是一份冗长复杂的文件，满是表格和专业术语，其中很多内容普通人几乎看不懂。

She made a list of every problem she found.
她把发现的每一个问题都列成了一张清单。

First, the company had omitted the results of the water tests from the last three years, even though the law required periodic tests.
首先，公司漏掉了过去三年的水质检测结果，尽管法律要求定期检测。

Second, the quantity of waste in one table did not match the total in another.
其次，一张表格中的废料数量和另一张表格中的总数对不上。

Third, the company had made an insertion in the final summary that was not supported by any data.
第三，公司在最后的总结中插入了一段没有任何数据支撑的内容。

"These are not trifles," she said. "My theory is that someone is trying to conceal the truth."
“这些可不是小事，”她说，“我的推测是，有人在试图掩盖真相。”

A few days later, a young man came into the bakery and asked to speak to Lucy in private.

几天后，一个年轻人走进面包店，要求和露西私下谈谈。

He was a member of the company's testing crew, and he was an insider who knew what had really happened.
他是公司检测队的一员，是一个了解真实情况的内部人士。

He had asked Jack, an old school friend, to act as an intermediary, because he was afraid to come alone.
他请老同学杰克当中间人，因为他害怕一个人来。

He gave Lucy a copy of a secret memorandum, which showed that water specimens taken near the old mine had high levels of radioactivity.
他给了露西一份秘密备忘录的复印件，上面显示，在旧矿附近采集的水样放射性很高。

"My manager told me to keep quiet, but I can't," he said. "My own family drinks this water."
“我的经理叫我闭嘴，但我做不到，”他说，“我自己的家人也在喝这里的水。”

He had even helped with the retrieval of the deleted test results from an old computer.
他甚至帮忙从一台旧电脑里恢复了被删除的检测结果。

Jack, who knew the hills well, offered to help them investigate.
熟悉山里情况的杰克主动提出帮他们调查。

They took a testing kit, a thermometer, and a pair of rubber gloves, and they went up to the old mine early one morning.
一天清晨，他们带上一套检测工具、一支温度计和一副橡胶手套，上山去了旧矿。

Lucy zipped up her coat, because the wind on the hill was cold.
露西拉上了外套的拉链，因为山上风很冷。

Near the entrance they found a long trench, and a pipe that ran from the mine down to a segment of the river near the farms.
在入口附近，他们发现了一条长长的沟渠，还有一根管子从矿里一直通到农场附近的一段河道。

Someone had dug a hole in the ground and dumped barrels of trash and oil there.
有人在地上挖了个坑，把一桶桶的垃圾和油倒在了那里。

Lucy took photos and collected samples in small metal boxes with tight lids.
露西拍了照片，并把样本装进盖子拧紧的小金属盒子里。

When she looked at the dark water, she gasped, and a cold feeling ran down her spine: the fish near the pipe were all dead.
当她看到那黑乎乎的水时，倒吸了一口凉气，一股寒意顺着脊背往下窜：管子附近的鱼全都死了。

They sent the samples to an independent laboratory, which repeated the tests twice and confirmed her fears: the results were appalling.
他们把样本送到了一家独立的实验室，实验室把检测重复做了两次，证实了她的担忧：结果骇人听闻。

The public hearing was held in the town hall, and the turnout was the biggest in the town's history.
公开听证会在镇政府大厅举行，到场人数是小镇有史以来最多的一次。

A national regulatory officer had come to chair the meeting, and the company sent its best lawyers.
一位国家监管机构的官员前来主持会议，公司则派出了最好的律师。

The company's speaker gave a smooth talk about modern technology and sustainability, and he proclaimed that the mine would be "the cleanest in the country."
公司的发言人就现代技术和可持续发展作了一番圆滑的讲话，宣称这座矿将是“全国最干净的”。

He promised to minimize the effect on the environment, to build a buffer zone between the mine and the farms, and to raise the living standards of every family.
他承诺把对环境的影响降到最低，在矿区和农场之间建一个缓冲区，并提高每个家庭的生活水平。

"With our help," he said, "this town will become a desirable place to live, and everyone will be elevated to a better life."
“有了我们的帮助，”他说，“这个小镇将成为一个令人向往的居住地，每个人都将过上更好的生活。”

Then it was Lucy's turn to speak.
接着轮到露西发言了。

She took a deep breath; she was nervous at first, but she was clear and articulate, and she explained the problems in the report one by one.
她深吸了一口气；一开始她很紧张，但她讲得清晰有条理，把报告里的问题一个一个地讲了出来。

She showed her photos of the trench, the pipe and the dead fish, and the room filled with astonishment.
她展示了那条沟渠、那根管子和死鱼的照片，整个大厅一片惊愕。

"This is only the tip of the iceberg," she said.
“这只是冰山一角。”她说。

The company's lawyer tried to tackle her arguments, calling her evidence "merely anecdotal," but her numbers were too clear to deny.
公司的律师试图驳斥她的论点，称她的证据“只是道听途说”，但她的数据清清楚楚，无可否认。

The regulatory officer, who was more receptive than people had expected, duly recorded everything and promised a comprehensive investigation.
那位监管官员比人们预想的更愿意听取意见，他按规定把一切记录在案，并承诺进行全面调查。

"I personally will make sure that prompt action is taken," he said.
“我本人会确保立即采取行动。”他说。

The company did not give up easily.
公司并没有轻易放弃。

It was known for its predatory business methods and its astronomical profits, and its managers were persistent.
这家公司以掠夺性的经营手段和天文数字般的利润而闻名，它的管理者们也十分执着。

They offered money to people who would support the mine, and they warned the shop owners that those who opposed it would lose business.
他们给支持开矿的人送钱，还警告店主们，反对开矿的人会失去生意。

One night someone painted obscene words on the wall of the bakery, and Lucy spent the whole morning trying to wipe them off.
一天夜里，有人在面包店的墙上涂写了下流的字眼，露西花了一整个上午才把它们擦掉。

Some people called it a kind of repression, and anger grew in the town; overnight, the company had become the town's foe.
有人称这是一种压制，镇上的怒气越来越大；一夜之间，这家公司成了全镇的敌人。

A few young men wanted to rebel and break the company's windows, but Mrs. Rose stopped them.
几个年轻人想反抗，去砸公司的窗户，但罗丝太太拦住了他们。

"Violence is futile," she said. "If we start a riot, they will win."
“暴力是没有用的，”她说，“如果我们闹出骚乱，他们就赢了。”

The old priest agreed with her and spoke about the futility of hatred, and he said that peace was always preferable to anger.
老神父同意她的看法，他谈到仇恨的徒劳，并说和平总是比愤怒更可取。

Instead, the citizens decided on a more effective method: they would boycott the company's supermarket.
于是，市民们决定采取一种更有效的办法：抵制这家公司的超市。

Hundreds of people also joined a peaceful march along the beach, and the police did not need any special deployment because everyone was calm.
数百人还沿着海滩举行了和平游行，警方不需要任何特别部署，因为每个人都很冷静。

Old enemies stood side by side, and the struggle seemed to unify the whole town.
昔日的冤家并肩而立，这场斗争似乎让整个小镇团结了起来。

Finally, after a long consultation with the people, the town council convened a special meeting and decided to let the people choose by ballot.
最后，在广泛征求民意之后，镇议会召开了一次特别会议，决定让人们投票表决。

In the middle of all this, Mrs. Rose fell ill.
就在这一切发生的时候，罗丝太太病倒了。

She had suffered from diabetes for years, and one evening she fainted in the basement of the bakery.
她多年来一直患有糖尿病，一天晚上，她在面包店的地下室里晕倒了。

Lucy found her and called for emergency help at once.
露西发现了她，立即拨打了急救电话。

At the hospital, the doctor changed the dose of her medicine and told her to rest for two weeks.
在医院里，医生调整了她的药量，叫她休息两周。

Before she left the hospital, she also had to be vaccinated against the flu, because her body was weak.
出院前，她还得接种流感疫苗，因为她的身体很虚弱。

"Who will run the bakery?" she asked anxiously.
“谁来照看面包店呢？”她焦急地问。

Lucy surprised herself by saying, "Leave it to me."
露西自己都吃了一惊，她说：“交给我吧。”

Mrs. Rose was moved, and she entrusted Lucy with the keys and her precious book of recipes.
罗丝太太很感动，她把钥匙和她那本珍贵的食谱托付给了露西。

Baking was much harder than auditing.
烤面包比做审计难多了。

Every morning Lucy got up at four, put on a white coat, and started the first batch of bread.
每天早上露西四点起床，穿上白色工作服，开始烤第一炉面包。

The kitchen was small but clean, with stainless steel tables and an old refrigerator, and Mrs. Rose was very strict about hygiene.
厨房虽小却很干净，有不锈钢工作台和一台旧冰箱，罗丝太太对卫生要求非常严格。

The mixing machine was heavy and noisy, so Lucy had to lubricate its mechanism with oil every few days, and Jack helped her fix the oven when it broke.
搅拌机又重又吵，露西每隔几天就得给它的机械装置上油；烤箱坏了，杰克就帮她修。

Her first loaves were hard and hollow inside, and she had to throw them away.
她烤的第一批面包又硬又空心，只好把它们扔掉。

But with willpower and the encouragement of her neighbours, she kept trying.
但凭着毅力和邻居们的鼓励，她坚持了下来。

Jack came every morning to buy a sandwich and to encourage her, and he never complained even when the bread was terrible.
杰克每天早上都来买三明治，给她打气，即使面包很难吃，他也从不抱怨。

Learning a new skill at thirty was not easy, and the hard labor made her arms sore, but there was an intrinsic joy in making something with her own hands.
三十岁学一门新手艺并不容易，繁重的体力劳动让她的胳膊酸痛，但用自己的双手做出东西，本身就有一种内在的快乐。

She watched the butter melt slowly in the pan, and she learned to alter the oven temperature for different kinds of bread.
她看着黄油在锅里慢慢融化，学会了根据不同的面包调整烤箱温度。

Gradually she gained familiarity with every tool in the kitchen, and her bread got better and better.
渐渐地，她熟悉了厨房里的每一样工具，她烤的面包也越来越好。

When Mrs. Rose came home, she imparted all her secrets to Lucy, from the right amount of salt to the best time to open the oven door.
罗丝太太回家后，把她所有的秘诀都传授给了露西，从放多少盐到什么时候打开烤箱门最合适。

Lucy also learned to make herbal tea, and she distilled the juice of local flowers into a sweet drink.
露西还学会了泡草药茶，并把当地花朵的汁液蒸馏成一种甜饮料。

Customers who had been only occasional visitors began to come every day.
原先只是偶尔光顾的顾客开始每天都来了。

The ballot was held at the end of June.
投票在六月底举行。

Before the vote, the national newspapers published Lucy's photos, and the pictures triggered anger across the country.
投票前，全国性的报纸刊登了露西拍的照片，这些照片在全国引发了愤怒。

A famous essayist wrote an excellent article about the town's struggle, and a scholarly expert from the university discussed the case at a seminar.
一位著名的散文家就小镇的抗争写了一篇精彩的文章，一位大学里的学者型专家还在一次研讨会上讨论了这个案例。

Soon the regulatory officers got a warrant to search the company's offices, and they found a whole catalogue of broken rules.
很快，监管官员拿到了搜查令，搜查了公司的办公室，发现了一长串违规行为。

When the votes were counted, eighty-five percent of the people had said no to the mine.
计票结果显示，百分之八十五的人对开矿说了“不”。

People screamed with joy and hugged each other in the street, and Lucy could scarcely believe it.
人们在街上欢呼尖叫，相互拥抱，露西简直不敢相信这是真的。

The company was fined for dumping excess waste, and its plan was cancelled.
公司因倾倒过量废料被罚款，开矿计划也被取消了。

The judge was not lenient, and the company's policy of "profit first" became a national joke.

法官毫不留情，这家公司“利润至上”的方针成了全国的笑柄。

The young insider, who was a civilian with no power at all, was not punished; instead, the officers praised his meritorious action and offered him a job.
那位年轻的内部知情人只是一个毫无权力的普通百姓，他没有受到处罚；相反，官员们表扬了他值得嘉奖的行为，还给了他一份工作。

Overall, the whole ordeal had lasted only two months, but it was a milestone for the small town.
总的来说，这场磨难只持续了两个月，但它是这个小镇的一座里程碑。

It made people proud of what ordinary citizens could do, and some even called it the revival of the town's old spirit.
它让人们为普通市民所能做到的事情感到自豪，有些人甚至称之为小镇古老精神的复兴。

For Lucy, the thrill of that day was more exciting than anything she had felt in six years in the city.
对露西来说，那一天的激动比她在城里六年间感受到的任何事情都要令人兴奋。

To celebrate, the town decided to make its summer festival bigger than ever.
为了庆祝，小镇决定把今年的夏日节办得比以往任何时候都盛大。

The festival was based on an old legend from the time when the area was part of an ancient kingdom.
这个节日源于一个古老的传说，那时这一带还属于一个古代王国。

Jack's narration of the legend was the best in town, and he gave the visitors a short preview of the story the night before.
杰克讲的这个传说是全镇最好的，节日前一晚，他先给游客们简单讲了一遍故事梗概。

According to the legend, pirates once came to kidnap a young maiden from the village, but she escaped by swimming across the bay at night.
据传说，海盗曾经来村子里绑架一位年轻的姑娘，但她在夜里游过海湾逃了出来。

The people believed that a divine power had protected her, and her escape was called miraculous.
人们相信是神的力量保护了她，她的逃脱被称为奇迹。

She became a symbol of courage and purity, and in the old songs, her virginity and her bravery were praised together.
她成了勇气和纯洁的象征，在古老的歌谣里，她的贞洁和勇敢一起受到赞颂。

Every year a young woman played the maiden, and a crew of male fishermen dressed up as pirates.
每年都有一位年轻女子扮演这位姑娘，一群男渔民则打扮成海盗。

This year, the people chose Lucy to play the maiden, and Jack's band would play the music.
今年，人们选露西来扮演这位姑娘，杰克的乐队负责演奏音乐。

During the rehearsal Lucy forgot her lines repeatedly, and everyone laughed, including herself.
彩排时，露西一再忘词，大家都笑了，她自己也笑了。

"Excuse me, Captain Pirate," she said, "could you repeat the question?"
“不好意思，海盗船长，”她说，“您能把问题再说一遍吗？”

On the night of the festival, hundreds of lanterns illuminated the beach, and the dancers whirled in their colourful dresses.
节日当晚，数百盏灯笼照亮了海滩，舞者们穿着色彩鲜艳的裙子旋转起舞。

The fishermen executed their pirate attack perfectly, and every individual in the crowd cheered when the maiden escaped.
渔民们把海盗袭击表演得完美无缺，姑娘逃脱时，人群中的每一个人都欢呼起来。

Far away, a huge ocean liner passed slowly, its lights shining like stars.
远处，一艘巨大的远洋客轮缓缓驶过，它的灯光像星星一样闪耀。

Mrs. Rose, now well again, sat in the front row and watched with maternal pride.
已经康复的罗丝太太坐在前排，带着母亲般的骄傲观看着。

The festival also had a baking contest, and Lucy entered her nut bread, which had a simple pattern of perfect symmetry on its crust.
节日上还有一场烘焙比赛，露西拿她的坚果面包参赛，面包外皮上有一个完美对称的简单图案。

The judges tasted it with their eyes closed, and to her astonishment, she was named the winner.
评委们闭着眼睛品尝，令她惊讶的是，她被评为了冠军。

The prize was a modest badge and a basket of fruit, but to Lucy it was more precious than gold.
奖品只是一枚普普通通的徽章和一篮水果，但对露西来说，它比金子还珍贵。

When her vacation was almost over, Lucy had to make a decision.
假期快结束时，露西不得不做一个决定。

Her boss called and left a brief message: "Come back on Monday, or don't come back at all."
她的老板打来电话，留下一句简短的话：“星期一回来，否则就永远别回来了。”

Mrs. Rose was getting old, and she had been looking for a buyer for the bakery, but she did not want to sell it to a stranger.
罗丝太太年纪越来越大，她一直在为面包店寻找买家，但她不想把它卖给陌生人。

"I have no children," she said. "It would make me very happy if you stayed, but I will allow you all the time you need to decide."
“我没有孩子，”她说，“如果你能留下来，我会非常高兴，但你需要多长时间考虑都可以。”

That night, Lucy called her boss and told him that she would not come back.
那天晚上，露西给老板打电话，告诉他自己不回去了。

She was sorry to leave her colleagues, but she felt sure that it was the right change.
离开同事们她感到很抱歉，但她确信这是一个正确的改变。

She also called her mother, with whom she had not spoken for a year because of an old quarrel, and the long call ended in reconciliation.
她还给母亲打了电话，因为一次旧日的争吵，她们已经一年没说过话了，这通长长的电话以和解告终。

A month later, her parents drove down to the coast for a family reunion, and they brought a box of her old pencil drawings from childhood.
一个月后，她的父母开车来到海边和她团聚，还带来了一盒她小时候画的铅笔画。

The drawings brought back many happy memories, and they reminded her of her old desire to paint.
这些画勾起了许多美好的回忆，也让她想起了自己从前想画画的心愿。

So she bought a canvas and painted a portrait of Mrs. Rose, and it now hangs in the bakery next to the window.
于是她买了一块画布，给罗丝太太画了一幅肖像，现在这幅画就挂在面包店的窗边。

Her parents saw how happy she was, and they were very supportive of her new life.
她的父母看到她这么快乐，非常支持她的新生活。

Today the bakery has expanded into the shop next door, and Lucy finally feels that she can fulfil the dream she has always had.
如今，面包店已经扩展到了隔壁的铺面，露西终于觉得，她可以实现自己一直以来的梦想了。

Her loneliness has vanished, and every morning she wakes up to the sound of the sea and the smell of fresh bread.

她的孤独已经消失了，每天早上，她在海浪声和新鲜面包的香味中醒来。

List 7 The Boy from the Banana Plantation

香蕉种植园里走出的男孩

本篇使用 List 7 单词 267/267 个（加粗处为首次出现）

Samuel was born in a poor village in the western province of a distant continent, where the climate was hot and the rain came only a few months a year.
塞缪尔出生在一个遥远大陆西部省份的一个贫穷村庄，那里气候炎热，一年只有几个月下雨。

When he was six, both of his parents died of AIDS, and he became an orphan.
他六岁时，父母都死于艾滋病，他成了孤儿。

An aged peasant named Old Joseph took him in, and the boy grew up on the large banana plantation where Joseph worked.
一位名叫老约瑟夫的年迈农民收养了他，男孩在约瑟夫干活的那座大香蕉种植园里长大。

Joseph was a cheerful man, though he had broken a rib years before and could not work as fast as the other men.
约瑟夫是个乐呵呵的人，虽然他几年前摔断过一根肋骨，干活没有别的男人快。

The plantation belonged to a rich foreign company, whose dominance over the province was complete, and the workers were paid only a few nickels a day.
种植园属于一家富有的外国公司，这家公司完全控制着整个省，工人们每天只能挣几个镍币。

The manager was a drunkard who shouted "Damn you!" at anyone who stopped to rest, and he treated the workers worse than animals.
种植园的经理是个酒鬼，谁要是停下来歇一歇，他就骂一句“该死的！”，他对待工人连牲口都不如。

Samuel wore rags, slept on a thin mat, and helped Joseph drive an old ox wagon full of bananas to the dock every morning.
塞缪尔穿着破衣烂衫，睡在一张薄薄的席子上，每天早上帮约瑟夫赶着一辆满载香蕉的旧牛车去码头。

Sometimes they used an old ass instead of the ox, and the wagon wheels rattled loudly on the stony road.
有时他们用一头老驴代替牛，车轮在石子路上嘎嘎作响。

In the evenings Joseph let beans simmer in a pot over the fire, and the scent filled their little hut while they dipped their bread into the soup.
傍晚，约瑟夫在火上用锅慢慢炖着豆子，香气弥漫在他们的小屋里，他们把面包蘸进汤里吃。

He also taught Samuel to sow seeds, mend fences, and fetch water from the river.
他还教塞缪尔播种、修篱笆，以及去河边打水。

Samuel's best friend Peter had been born blind, but he could tell any fruit by its flavor, and the two boys were never apart.
塞缪尔最好的朋友彼得生来就是盲人，但他能凭味道分辨出任何一种水果，两个男孩形影不离。

In the dry months there was starvation in the province, and Samuel learned to eat whichever fruit he could find.
在旱季，省里会闹饥荒，塞缪尔学会了找到什么水果就吃什么。

Although education was supposed to be compulsory, there was only one small brick school for the whole area, and most children never went.
虽然教育本应是义务性的，但整个地区只有一所小小的砖砌学校，大多数孩子从没上过学。

Joseph, however, believed in education, and he walked Samuel halfway to school every morning before going to work.
然而约瑟夫相信教育的力量，他每天早上先陪塞缪尔走一半路去学校，然后再去干活。

The teacher was a stern but kind woman from the capital, and she quickly noticed that the timid boy was extraordinary.
老师是一位从首都来的女士，严厉而善良，她很快注意到这个胆小的男孩与众不同。

Her tactic was simple: she turned every lesson into a game, and she gave her instructions with a smile.
她的办法很简单：把每一堂课都变成游戏，下达指令时总是面带微笑。

At break time the children played basketball with a ball made of old rags.
课间休息时，孩子们用旧布团成的球打篮球。

Samuel had only one pencil and an eraser, but he filled every blank page with numbers and drawings.
塞缪尔只有一支铅笔和一块橡皮，但他把每一页空白纸都写满了数字，画满了画。

The teacher gave him old books, and he read them by the light of a torch late into the night.
老师给了他一些旧书，他借着手电筒的光一直读到深夜。

His dream was to become a doctor, so that no other child would ever suffer as he had.
他的梦想是成为一名医生，这样就不会再有别的孩子像他那样受苦了。

"If you work hard, you can surpass anyone," the teacher told him.
“只要你努力，你可以超越任何人。”老师对他说。

But the country was ruled by a repressive military regime.
但这个国家由一个专制的军政府统治。

The government kept everyone under surveillance, and secrecy was everywhere; people were afraid to speak even in their own homes.
政府对每个人都进行监视，处处都是秘密；人们甚至在自己家里都不敢说话。

The regime used fear to undermine any opposition, and even a joke could jeopardise your life.
政府利用恐惧来削弱任何反对力量，就连开一个玩笑都可能危及你的性命。

Letters were often opened, so many people stopped paying postage for letters at all.
信件常常被拆开检查，所以许多人干脆不再花邮费寄信了。

Prior to the coup, life was hard; after it, life became much harder.
政变之前，生活很艰难；政变之后，生活变得更加艰难。

When Samuel was fifteen, a group of young officers staged a coup, and the country fell into chaos.
塞缪尔十五岁时，一群年轻军官发动了政变，国家陷入了混乱。

In the western province, the peasants joined an uprising against the plantation owners, who had treated them badly for decades.
在西部省份，农民们加入了一场反抗种植园主的起义，这些种植园主几十年来一直虐待他们。

Soon troops from a neighbouring country also crossed the border, and the invaders made everything worse.
不久，邻国的军队也越过了边境，入侵者让一切变得更糟。

The clashes between soldiers and villagers intensified, and the soldiers burned whole villages in retaliation.
士兵和村民之间的冲突愈演愈烈，士兵们烧毁了整片整片的村庄作为报复。

The result was catastrophic, and the atrocious crimes of those months were later reported on TV around the world.
后果是灾难性的，那几个月里的残暴罪行后来在全世界的电视上都有报道。

One night soldiers came to seize the plantation, and Joseph was badly injured while protecting the boy.
一天夜里，士兵们来占领种植园，约瑟夫为了保护男孩受了重伤。

Before he died, he pressed a small pearl into Samuel's hand. "Sell it, and go far away," he whispered. "Get an education."
临死前，他把一颗小珍珠塞到塞缪尔手里。“把它卖了，走得远远的，”他低声说，“去接受教育。”

In the morning the village was full of smoke, and there was a corpse lying by the road.
早上，村子里浓烟弥漫，路边躺着一具尸体。

Samuel buried Joseph under a tree and stood by the grave in deep sadness.
塞缪尔把约瑟夫埋在一棵树下，站在坟前，深深地悲伤。

Some people called those who ran away cowards, but Samuel knew that Joseph wanted him to live.
有人把逃走的人称为懦夫，但塞缪尔知道，约瑟夫希望他活下去。

With the help of a foreign aid worker, Samuel escaped through a narrow mountain gorge, where neither the soldiers nor the invaders could follow.
在一名外国援助人员的帮助下，塞缪尔穿过一条狭窄的山谷逃了出去，士兵和入侵者都追不到那里。

The aid worker, an idealistic young woman called Sarah, used a small compass for navigation, and they followed the river toward the border.
那位援助人员是一个名叫萨拉的满怀理想的年轻女子，她用一个小指南针辨别方向，他们沿着河流向边境走去。

In some places the path was so narrow that they had to walk sideways along the cliff.
有些地方的小路窄得他们只能侧着身子沿悬崖走。

For days they walked through the forest, where deer ran between the trees and crows called from the branches.
他们在森林里走了好几天，林间有鹿奔跑，树枝上有乌鸦啼叫。

Remnants of the old army were hiding in the forest, so they moved quietly and slept in caves.
旧军队的残部还躲藏在森林里，所以他们悄悄地赶路，在山洞里过夜。

Samuel's feet bled and he was weak with fatigue, but he never asked to stop.
塞缪尔的脚流着血，他累得浑身无力，但他从没要求停下来。

At night Sarah told him stories about her own country, a place she called "a paradise of books."
夜里，萨拉给他讲她自己国家的故事，她称那里是“书的天堂”。

"You are like the proverbial flower that grows through stone," she told him.
“你就像俗话说的那种从石缝里长出来的花。”她对他说。

Finally they reached a church that served as a sanctuary for refugees, and the crowd of soldiers that had gathered near the border slowly dispersed.
他们终于到达了一座为难民提供庇护的教堂，而聚集在边境附近的士兵们也慢慢散去了。

A woman who did secretarial work for the church helped Samuel fill in a long form, and he was sent to a camp across the border.
一位在教堂做文书工作的妇女帮塞缪尔填了一张长长的表格，他被送到了边境另一边的一个难民营。

A year later, Samuel was allowed to immigrate to Sarah's country, and the idea of studying there was hers.

一年后，塞缪尔获准移民到萨拉的国家，去那里读书的主意也是她出的。

On the day of his arrival he stood at the airport with nothing but a small bag and the pearl, and everything around him was a blur of lights and noise.
他到达的那天，站在机场里，除了一个小包和那颗珍珠之外一无所有，周围的一切都是一片模糊的灯光和喧闹。

He had never seen an expressway, a cab, or a building more than one storey high.
他从没见过高速公路、出租车，也没见过超过一层的楼房。

The city was busy and cold, and he felt awkward and lost.
城市繁忙而寒冷，他感到局促而迷茫。

He rented a tiny room downtown, but the radiator was broken, so in winter he slept in his coat and cap.
他在市中心租了一间小屋，但暖气片坏了，所以冬天他戴着帽子、穿着外套睡觉。

Many new immigrants lived on the dole, but Samuel wanted to work, so he found a vacancy in the canteen of a big hospital.
许多新移民靠救济金生活，但塞缪尔想工作，于是他在一家大医院的食堂里找到了一个空缺的职位。

He washed dishes in the sink until the soap bubbles covered his arms, cleaned the cooker, and carried food to the patients on every ward.
他在水槽里洗碗，直到肥皂泡沫没过胳膊；他还清洗炉灶，把饭菜送到每一个病房的病人那里。

When he pushed the food trolley through the curtain around a patient's bed, he always said good morning with a smile.
他推着送餐车穿过病床四周的帘子时，总是微笑着道一声早上好。

The canteen's customers liked the quiet young man, though his face would flush red whenever someone praised him.
食堂的顾客们都喜欢这个安静的年轻人，不过只要有人夸他，他的脸就会涨得通红。

The work was hard and he was always tired, but he never complained.
工作很辛苦，他总是很累，但他从不抱怨。

He could not afford a car, so he walked an hour to work every day, even in the rain.
他买不起车，所以每天步行一个小时去上班，下雨天也一样。

In the evenings he went to free language classes, where he crammed grammar like a hungry man eating bread.
晚上，他去上免费的语言课，像饿汉吃面包一样拼命地往脑子里塞语法知识。

He learned the definition of every new word, how to use an infinitive and an adverb, and how affixation can form a derivative from a simple root.
他学习每个新单词的定义，学习怎样使用不定式和副词，还学习了怎样通过加词缀从一个简单的词根构成派生词。

For example, he learned that "kindness" is a derivative of "kind," and he liked this word very much.
比如，他知道了“kindness（善良）”是“kind（善良的）”的派生词，他非常喜欢这个词。

He compared every variation in meaning carefully, and each day he added ten new words to his notebook so that he would never forget them.
他仔细比较每一种词义上的细微差别，每天都往笔记本里添十个新单词，好让自己永远不会忘记。

His verbal skills grew so quickly that his teacher could hardly believe the apparent speed of his progress.
他的语言能力提高得如此之快，他的老师简直不敢相信他进步的速度竟这么明显。

Within two years he was working part-time as a translator for other immigrants at the hospital.
不到两年，他就在医院兼职为其他移民做翻译了。

He helped mothers describe their children's illnesses, and he answered every query with patience.
他帮母亲们描述孩子的病情，耐心地回答每一个询问。

One housewife from his own continent cried because, for the first time, a doctor could understand her.
一位和他来自同一个大陆的家庭主妇哭了，因为这是第一次有医生能听懂她的话。

On Sundays he played basketball in the hospital gym, and drawing became his outlet when he missed home.
星期天，他在医院的体育馆里打篮球；想家的时候，画画就成了他排遣情绪的途径。

He reached adulthood in a foreign land, but he never forgot where he came from.
他在异国他乡长大成人，但他从未忘记自己来自哪里。

A doctor at the hospital noticed his zeal and urged him to take the university entrance exam.
医院的一位医生注意到了他的热情，敦促他去参加大学入学考试。

Samuel passed with a superb score, and a few weeks later a letter of acceptance arrived from the city's medical institute.
塞缪尔以出色的成绩通过了考试，几周后，该市医学院的录取通知书寄到了。

His professor was a famous academician who studied molecular biology, and she took him into her laboratory.
他的教授是一位研究分子生物学的著名院士，她把他招进了自己的实验室。

There, at an oval table full of instruments, Samuel used an electron microscope for the first time and saw the tiny germs that had killed his parents.
在那里，在一张摆满仪器的椭圆形桌子前，塞缪尔第一次使用了电子显微镜，看到了夺走他父母生命的微小病菌。

It was an amazing moment, and from that day on he became even more purposeful.
那是一个令人惊叹的时刻，从那天起，他变得更加目标明确。

The professor had a strong esthetic sense; she called a good experiment "a work of art" and could compress a complex idea into a few clear words.
教授有很强的审美意识；她把一个好的实验称为“一件艺术品”，还能把复杂的想法浓缩成几句清楚的话。

She taught him not only theoretical knowledge but also research ethics.
她不仅教给他理论知识，还教给他科研伦理。

"The principle is simple," she said. "Never claim a result you cannot prove, and never trade your integrity for fame."
“原则很简单，”她说，“永远不要声称你证明不了的结果，永远不要拿你的诚信去换取名声。”

In his experiments he learned to control every variable and to look for any discrepancy in the data.
在实验中，他学会了控制每一个变量，并寻找数据中的任何差异。

When the expensive microscope broke after the warranty had ended, he spent a whole weekend fixing it himself.
那台昂贵的显微镜过了保修期后坏了，他花了整整一个周末亲自把它修好。

His classmates joked about his fixation on work, but compared with the problems he had seen at home, their worries seemed dwarfed.
同学们拿他对工作的痴迷开玩笑，但和他在家乡见过的苦难相比，他们的烦恼显得微不足道。

He worked immensely hard, and his first paper was published before he graduated.
他学习非常刻苦，毕业前就发表了第一篇论文。

It was a substantial achievement for a young man who had come from complete obscurity.
对于一个从默默无闻中走出来的年轻人来说，这是一项了不起的成就。

After graduation, Samuel joined a team working on a new vaccine for a deadly disease that was common in his home province.
毕业后，塞缪尔加入了一个团队，为一种在他家乡省份很常见的致命疾病研制新疫苗。

The disease could infect a whole village in a month, and its eradication became the aim of his life.
这种病一个月就能传染整个村庄，根除这种疾病成了他毕生的目标。

He studied not only the germs but also the behavioral habits that helped the disease spread, and he even invented a quick and cheap test for it.
他不仅研究病菌，还研究帮助疾病传播的行为习惯，他甚至发明了一种快速而廉价的检测方法。

But research was costly, and the institute's money was running out.
但研究费用高昂，研究所的经费快用完了。

Because of an economic slump, the government had cut its spending, and the team's expectations of new funding were low.
由于经济不景气，政府削减了开支，团队对获得新资金的期望很低。

The institute sent a short memo saying that the project might have to halt by the end of the month.
研究所发来一份简短的备忘录，说项目可能不得不在月底前停下来。

Then, by chance, a billionaire read about Samuel's story in a newspaper.
后来，一位亿万富翁碰巧在报纸上读到了塞缪尔的故事。

The billionaire, who had made his fortune in forestry and now spent much of it to conserve forests, was the chairman of a large company.
这位亿万富翁靠林业发家，如今把大部分财富用于保护森林，他是一家大公司的董事长。

He invited Samuel to a private gathering at his house.
他邀请塞缪尔到他家参加一个私人聚会。

It was a world Samuel had never known: people drank cocktails, talked about golf and opera, and the house was full of antique furniture.
这是塞缪尔从未见过的世界：人们喝着鸡尾酒，谈论着高尔夫和歌剧，房子里摆满了古董家具。

Car doors banged outside as more guests arrived, and Samuel felt like a stray dog in a palace.
随着更多客人到来，外面不断传来车门砰砰关上的声音，塞缪尔觉得自己就像宫殿里的一条流浪狗。

He sat awkwardly on a small stool in the corner, and he had even combed his hair three times before he came.
他局促地坐在角落里的一张小凳子上，来之前，他甚至把头发梳了三遍。

But when the chairman asked him to tell his story, the room became silent.
但当董事长请他讲讲自己的故事时，屋里安静了下来。

When he finished, some guests were wiping their eyes, and the billionaire said, "Tell me how much you need."
他讲完时，一些客人正在擦眼泪，亿万富翁说："告诉我你需要多少钱。"

He set up a special commission to study the project, and after a careful assessment, he agreed to fund a new research facility in Samuel's home province.

他成立了一个专门委员会来研究这个项目，经过仔细评估，他同意资助在塞缪尔的家乡省份建立一个新的研究中心。

The commission asked Samuel to write a strategic plan and a justification for every cost.
委员会要求塞缪尔写一份战略规划，并为每一项开支说明理由。

The chairman's only condition was that the money must be used with maximum efficiency, provided that an independent firm could audit the accounts every year.
董事长唯一的条件是，这笔钱必须以最高的效率使用，前提是每年由一家独立的公司审计账目。

His company would have no stake in any profits, and he would use his own money to offset the cost of the vaccines, which would enable poor families to get them for free.
他的公司不会在任何利润中占有股份，他还会用自己的钱来抵消疫苗的费用，让贫困家庭能够免费接种。

"Money can depreciate, but knowledge never does," he said. "This is the best investment I have ever made."
“金钱会贬值，但知识永远不会，”他说，“这是我做过的最好的投资。”

By then the old regime had fallen, and a new government was trying to rebuild the country.
那时，旧政权已经垮台，新政府正在努力重建国家。

When Samuel flew home for the first time in fifteen years, the first thing he saw from the plane was the deep green of the forests, and the second was the stark poverty of the villages.
十五年来第一次飞回家乡时，他从飞机上看到的第一样东西是森林的深绿，第二样是村庄触目惊心的贫穷。

A recent census showed that thousands of children in the province had lost their parents to disease or war.
最近的一次人口普查显示，该省有数千名儿童因疾病或战争失去了父母。

The new research center, which was to be his base for the next ten years, had a laboratory, a small hospital with a surgical ward, and a school for orphans and disabled children.
这个新的研究中心将是他此后十年的工作基地，它有一个实验室、一所设有外科病房的小医院，还有一所为孤儿和残疾儿童开办的学校。

The laboratory had up-to-date machines, a radio transmitter for emergencies, and cables that brought electricity from a new power station.
实验室配有最新的设备、一台应急用的无线电发射机，以及从一座新电站引来电力的电缆。

Samuel hired local young people as nurses and assistants, and he trained them himself.
塞缪尔雇用当地的年轻人做护士和助手，并亲自培训他们。

At first, some villagers were hesitant to trust the doctors, because many traditional healers ascribed every illness to bad spirits.
起初，一些村民不太敢相信医生，因为许多传统的治病术士把每一种病都归咎于邪灵。

Samuel did not laugh at them; instead, he invited the healers to work with the doctors, and he showed them the germs under the microscope.
塞缪尔并没有嘲笑他们；相反，他邀请这些术士和医生们一起工作，还让他们在显微镜下看病菌。

Slowly the number of people who came to the hospital increased dramatically, and the center became a fixture of village life.
慢慢地，来医院看病的人急剧增加，这个中心也成了村民生活中不可缺少的一部分。

Three years later the vaccine was ready, after it had passed every test that was permissible under the strict rules of medical ethics.
三年后，疫苗研制成功，此前它通过了医学伦理严格规定所允许的每一项试验。

The first audit of the accounts was also satisfactory, and the billionaire was very pleased.
第一次账目审计的结果也令人满意，亿万富翁非常高兴。

The results were sensational: in the villages where children were vaccinated, the disease almost disappeared within a year.
结果轰动一时：在儿童接种了疫苗的村庄里，这种疾病在一年之内几乎消失了。

Fewer children had to be hospitalized, and the doctors were able to react quickly whenever a new case appeared.
需要住院的孩子越来越少，一旦出现新病例，医生们也能迅速作出反应。

It seemed akin to a miracle, but Samuel knew it was the result of numerous years of hard work.
这简直像个奇迹，但塞缪尔知道，这是多年辛勤工作的成果。

Moreover, the success of the center made the new government increasingly interested in public health.
此外，这个中心的成功让新政府对公共卫生越来越重视。

The newspapers portrayed Samuel as a hero, and he was invited to speak at an international convention.
报纸把塞缪尔描绘成一位英雄，他还受邀在一次国际大会上发言。

In his speech he said, "We cannot undo the past, but we can ask ourselves what kind of future we want to build."
他在演讲中说："我们无法抹去过去，但我们可以问问自己，想要建设一个什么样的未来。"

"Ask yourselves," he told the audience, "if one ordinary child is given a chance, how far can that child go?"
"问问你们自己，"他对听众说，"如果给一个普通的孩子一次机会，这个孩子能走多远？"

His professor later wrote the preface to his book, and she said that the significance of his work went far beyond science.
他的教授后来为他的书作序，她说他的工作的意义远远超出了科学的范畴。

The partnership between the billionaire and the doctor had been fruitful, and it became a model for others.
亿万富翁和这位医生之间的合作硕果累累，成了其他人效仿的榜样。

That Christmas the center held a big celebration.
那年圣诞节，中心举行了一场盛大的庆祝活动。

Although few people in the area followed Christianity, everyone joined in, because for them the day had become a symbol of hope.
虽然当地很少有人信奉基督教，但每个人都参加了，因为对他们来说，这一天已经成了希望的象征。

The children made a long procession through the village square, carrying torches and singing.
孩子们举着火把、唱着歌，排成长长的队伍穿过村里的广场。

A small symphony orchestra came from the capital to play, and the children, who had rehearsed for months, performed a simple opera about Old Joseph.
一支小型交响乐团从首都赶来演奏，排练了好几个月的孩子们表演了一出关于老约瑟夫的简单歌剧。

There was a short ceremonial opening of the new school, and the guest of honour was a young princess from a European royal family who supported children's charities.
新学校举行了一个简短的开学仪式，贵宾是一位来自欧洲王室、热心支持儿童慈善事业的年轻公主。

She wore a simple dress with a single pearl, and the children gave her a nickname: "the Pearl Princess."
她穿着一条朴素的裙子，只戴着一颗珍珠，孩子们给她起了个绰号："珍珠公主"。

Sarah, who had come back to visit, sat with a little girl on her lap, a girl who still had a nasty cough but was getting better every day.
回来探望的萨拉腿上坐着一个小女孩，她还咳得很厉害，但一天比一天好了。

When the play ended, everyone clapped, and Samuel saw tears glitter in the princess's eyes.
演出结束时，大家都鼓起掌来，塞缪尔看到公主眼里闪着泪光。

She asked for a souvenir, and a disabled girl, who was a talented young artist, gave her a drawing of a banana tree.
她想要一件纪念品，一个很有天赋的残疾小画家送了她一幅香蕉树的画。

Peter, Samuel's blind friend from childhood, played the drums, and the whole village danced in joyful harmony until late at night.
塞缪尔儿时的盲人朋友彼得打着鼓，全村人和谐欢快地一直跳舞到深夜。

Even the summer heat could not spoil the joy of that evening.
即使是夏天的炎热，也无法破坏那个夜晚的欢乐。

Late that night, Samuel took the pearl out of his pocket; he had never sold it.
那天深夜，塞缪尔从口袋里拿出那颗珍珠；他一直没有把它卖掉。

He had once planned to replace the old brick school with a new one, and now his vision had come true.
他曾经计划用一所新学校取代那所旧砖房学校，如今他的愿望实现了。

"Joseph," he whispered, "I didn't need to sell your pearl. The kindness of other people was enough. This was a blessing I could never have expected."
"约瑟夫，"他低声说，"我不需要卖掉您的珍珠。别人的善意就已经足够了。这是我从来不敢奢望的福分。"

Then he looked up at the stars and promised that he would keep working, so that every child could be given the same chance he had been given.
然后他抬头望着星星，许下承诺：他会继续努力，让每个孩子都能得到他曾经得到过的那种机会。

In his heart he knew that the journey had only begun, but for the first time in many years, he did not feel mute and powerless; he felt mature, strong, and at peace.
他心里清楚，这段旅程才刚刚开始，但多年来第一次，他不再感到无言和无力；他感到自己成熟、坚强，内心平静。

List 8 The Tutor and the Troublesome Boy

家庭教师和“问题男孩”

本篇使用 List 8 单词 267/267 个（加粗处为首次出现）

When Hannah was nineteen, she took a part-time job as a tutor to help pay for her university studies.

汉娜十九岁时，为了帮忙支付大学学费，找了一份做家庭教师的兼职工作。

To save money, she ate every meal in the university cafeteria and took the cheapest train home once a month.

为了省钱，她每顿饭都在大学食堂吃，每个月坐最便宜的火车回一次家。

According to the advertisement, the family lived in a large house in the southern part of the city and needed somebody to help their son with his homework.

根据招聘广告，这家人住在城南一栋大房子里，需要一个人帮他们的儿子辅导功课。

Only students with good grades were eligible for the job, and Hannah was one of the best in her year.

只有成绩优秀的学生才有资格应聘这份工作，而汉娜是她那一届最好的学生之一。

The father, Mr. Lawson, was a wealthy legislator who was preparing his candidacy for governor.

父亲劳森先生是一位富有的立法委员，正在准备竞选州长。

His wife loved glamour and shopping, and she spent most of her time at the mall or traveling abroad.

他的妻子喜欢光鲜的生活和购物，大部分时间都待在商场里或出国旅行。

Their son Oliver was thirteen, and everyone said he was the most troublesome boy in his school.

他们的儿子奥利弗十三岁，人人都说他是学校里最让人头疼的男孩。

At the interview, Mr. Lawson spent ten minutes acquainting himself with her background, and he seemed to like her cheerful, communicative manner and her slight northern accent.

面试时，劳森先生花了十分钟了解她的背景，他似乎很喜欢她开朗、善于交流的举止，以及她略带北方口音的说话方式。

The arrangement was simple: three evenings a week, plus Saturday mornings.

安排很简单：每周三个晚上，外加星期六上午。

Hannah's only requirement was a fair salary, and Mr. Lawson's offer was more than acceptable, so she agreed to start the next Monday.

汉娜唯一的要求是薪水合理，劳森先生开出的条件非常令人满意，于是她同意下周一开始上班。

The first meeting was a horrible experience.

第一次见面糟糕透了。

Oliver did not return her salutation; he simply shrugged, yawned, and went on playing with his smartphone.

奥利弗没有回应她的问候；他只是耸了耸肩，打了个哈欠，继续玩他的智能手机。

When she asked him to put it away, he was rude and offensive, and he called her "the new babysitter."

当她让他把手机收起来时，他既粗鲁又无礼，还管她叫“新来的保姆”。

He had no inhibition about saying exactly what he thought, and he told her that school was rubbish.

他毫无顾忌地想说什么就说什么，还告诉她上学纯属浪费时间。

Hannah felt embarrassed, and for a moment she wanted to shout at him, but she controlled her anger.

汉娜感到很尴尬，有那么一会儿，她想冲他大喊，但她控制住了自己的怒气。

The house cleaner told her that four previous tutors had quit in two months, and that one of them had been only a substitute teacher who left after a single week.

家里的清洁工告诉她，之前的四位家庭教师在两个月内都辞职了，其中一位只是代课老师，只待了一个星期就走了。

"He is greedy for games and scorns anything that looks like study," she said. "His parents ignore him, and the phone is his only friend."

“他一门心思只想打游戏，对任何看起来像学习的东西都不屑一顾，”她说，“他的父母不管他，手机是他唯一的朋友。”

His mother was rarely at home, and the big house often felt empty.

他的母亲很少在家，那座大房子常常显得空荡荡的。

Oliver was a big fan of video games, and he often played until three in the morning, eating potato chips in the dark.

奥利弗是个电子游戏迷，常常玩到凌晨三点，在黑暗中吃着薯片。

Hannah realised that the phone was not the real problem; it was only a distraction, and his troubles clearly stemmed from a deeper loneliness.

汉娜意识到，手机并不是真正的问题；它只是一种消遣，他的问题显然源于一种更深的孤独。

For two weeks nothing worked.

两个星期过去了，什么办法都不管用。

Oliver changed the password on his laptop every day so that she could not check his homework, and he answered every question with a bizarre joke.

奥利弗每天都更改笔记本电脑的密码，这样她就没法检查他的作业，他还用各种古怪的笑话来回答每一个问题。

His school report was full of negative comments, and his grades seemed to stagnate at the bottom of the class.

他的成绩单上满是负面评语，他的成绩似乎一直停滞在班级末尾。

In some months his grades would fluctuate a little, but they never rose for long, and the school had already notified his parents twice.

有几个月他的成绩会稍有波动，但从来不会持续上升，学校已经两次通知了他的父母。

His refusal to study was so complete that Hannah sometimes felt she could not bear it any longer.

他彻底拒绝学习，汉娜有时觉得自己再也忍受不下去了。

But Hannah was perceptive, and she noticed one characteristic that nobody else had seen.

但汉娜很有洞察力，她注意到了一个别人都没发现的特点。

Whenever Oliver was bored, he drew little comic figures in the corners of his books, and they were amazingly good.

每当奥利弗觉得无聊时，他就会在书的角落里画一些小漫画人物，而且画得好得惊人。

In fact, she thought he might be a kind of genius.

事实上，她觉得他可能是个天才。

So she decided to deviate from the normal lesson plan and adjust her methods.

于是她决定偏离常规的教学计划，调整自己的教学方法。

She also made one rule for herself: she would never patronize him or talk to him as if he were a little child.
她还给自己定了一条规矩：永远不用居高临下的口气对他说话，也不把他当成小孩子。

The next day she brought a box of assorted comic books to their lesson.
第二天，她带着一盒各式各样的漫画书来上课。

"Let's make our own comic," she said, "but every character has to speak correct English."
“我们来画一本自己的漫画吧，”她说，“但每个角色都必须说正确的英语。”

For the first time, Oliver looked eager.
奥利弗第一次露出了跃跃欲试的神情。

They invented a story about a planet whose rotation stopped and whose orbit began to shrink toward the sun, and Oliver drew the giant spaceships himself.
他们编了一个故事，讲的是一颗行星停止了自转，它的轨道开始向太阳收缩，奥利弗亲手画了那些巨型宇宙飞船。

To write the story, he had to understand planetary science, and he had to look up words in an alphabetic list.
为了写这个故事，他必须懂得行星科学，还得在按字母顺序排列的单词表里查单词。

For instance, he had to learn why a planet needs the right distance from the sun for the survival of life.
比如，他得弄明白为什么一颗行星需要和太阳保持合适的距离，生命才能存活。

Every day they kept track of the new words he had learned, and he practised them by writing dialogue for his characters.
他们每天记录他学会的新单词，他通过给角色写对白来练习这些单词。

The lessons became amusing, and slowly a real friendship began to grow between them.
课变得有趣起来，他们之间慢慢地建立起了真正的友谊。

Hannah also began to teach him in a more systematic way, with a monthly plan and a small reward for every goal he reached.
汉娜还开始用更系统的方式教他，制定了月度计划，他每达到一个目标都会得到一个小奖励。

Practice was important, but her teaching was primarily about building his confidence, because she believed confidence was a prerequisite for learning.
练习固然重要，但她的教学主要是为了建立他的自信，因为她相信自信是学习的前提。

One rainy afternoon, Oliver showed Hannah a box of belongings that had once been his grandfather's.
一个下雨的下午，奥利弗给汉娜看了一箱他爷爷生前的遗物。

His grandfather had been an emigrant who left his home country as a young man and came here on an old steamer, with only two bags of baggage.
他的爷爷是一位移民，年轻时离开祖国，乘一艘旧汽船来到这里，只带了两包行李。

In the box there were old postcards, a silver necklace that had belonged to his wife, a small Bible, and a book about Buddhism.
箱子里有一些旧明信片、一条曾属于他妻子的银项链、一本小小的《圣经》，还有一本关于佛教的书。

"He said that every religion has some holiness in it," Oliver said. "He was interested in philosophy and wanted to understand everything."
“他说每一种宗教里都有某种神圣的东西，”奥利弗说，“他对哲学很感兴趣，什么都想弄明白。”

His grandfather had been a violinist and a poet, and in his youth he had been a radical socialist who wrote for small newspapers.
他的爷爷是一位小提琴家，也是一位诗人，年轻时还是个激进的社会主义者，给一些小报写文章。

In the box there was also an old recording of his rendering of a folk song, and the violin case with a broken leather strap.
箱子里还有一张他演奏的一首民歌的旧唱片，以及一只皮背带断了的小提琴盒。

He had always said that playing the violin was not just a skill but a craft that took a lifetime to learn.
他常说，拉小提琴不仅是一种技能，更是一门需要用一生去学习的手艺。

He had worked as a bank teller, a clerk, and even an auctioneer before he finally made his fortune in business.
他做过银行出纳员、职员，甚至还当过拍卖师，最后才在生意上发了财。

There was also a miniature model of the steamer, with a tiny log book and a little paper flag, and Oliver hung the little ship on a hook above his bed.
箱子里还有一个那艘汽船的微缩模型，配有一本小小的航海日志和一面小纸旗，奥利弗把这条小船挂在了床头的钩子上。

"He died two years ago, after a long illness that ended in paralysis," Oliver said quietly. "He was the only person who really talked to me."
“他两年前去世了，病了很久，最后瘫痪了，”奥利弗轻声说，“他是唯一一个真正跟我说话的人。”

"Mother says he is in heaven now, but I still talk to him sometimes."
“妈妈说他现在在天堂，但我有时还会跟他说话。”

Hannah saw his lips quiver, and she understood that his rudeness had been a way to protect his inner sadness.
汉娜看到他的嘴唇在颤抖，她明白了，他的粗鲁一直是用来保护内心悲伤的一种方式。

It was a lovely and sad afternoon, and they did not do any homework at all.
那是一个美好又令人伤感的下午，他们一点作业也没做。

There was one more person who mattered to Oliver: his Uncle Ben.
对奥利弗来说，还有一个重要的人：他的本叔叔。

Ben had once been a famous sportsman who liked to wrestle and box, but a severe back injury ended his career.
本曾经是一位有名的运动员，喜欢摔跤和拳击，但一次严重的背伤结束了他的运动生涯。

After that he fell into a deep gloom, began to use heroin, and finally spent two years in gaol.
那以后，他陷入了深深的消沉，开始吸食海洛因，最后在监狱里待了两年。

At his lowest point he had even felt suicidal, and he said that his survival was partly a matter of luck.
在最低谷的时候，他甚至想过自杀，他说自己能活下来，在某种程度上是靠运气。

When he finally regained his freedom, an old missionary helped him find his feet again.
当他终于重获自由时，一位老传教士帮助他重新站稳了脚跟。

Now he was clean and worked for a humanitarian organization that helped young drug users, and he had become a strong advocate for their rights.
现在他已经戒掉了毒瘾，在一家帮助年轻吸毒者的人道主义组织工作，还成了维护他们权利的坚定倡导者。

Mr. Lawson treated his brother with scorn and said that Ben's past was a hindrance to his political career.

劳森先生对他的弟弟很是轻蔑，说本的过去会妨碍他的政治前途。

Ben's past still haunted him, but he said it also helped him relate to the young people he worked with.

本的过去仍然困扰着他，但他说，这也让他能够理解和他打交道的那些年轻人。

But Oliver adored his uncle, and Ben was the one who had taught him how to fasten a sail and steer a small boat.

但奥利弗非常崇拜他的叔叔，正是本教会了他怎样系紧船帆、怎样驾驶小船。

"Everybody makes mistakes," Ben told Hannah. "The real cowardice is to hide from them."

“每个人都会犯错，”本对汉娜说，“真正的懦弱是逃避错误。”

Hannah was moved by the innocence with which Oliver loved his uncle, without any judgment at all.

奥利弗对叔叔的爱毫无评判、天真纯粹，这让汉娜很感动。

Hannah thought that it was his family's ignorance, not his past, that was the real problem; what Ben needed was understanding.

汉娜觉得，真正的问题不在于他的过去，而在于家人的无知；本需要的是理解。

In the spring, Oliver's school asked every student to do a science project, and the best ones would be shown at a public showcase in the city museum.

春天，奥利弗的学校要求每个学生做一个科学项目，最好的项目将在市博物馆的一次公开展览上展出。

Oliver decided to study the river behind his school, which flowed into a bay with a beautiful coral reef.

奥利弗决定研究学校后面的那条河，这条河流进一个有美丽珊瑚礁的海湾。

At the same time, a contractor was planning to build a large dam on the river, and Oliver's father was one of the strongest supporters of the scheme.

与此同时，一家承包商正计划在这条河上修建一座大坝，而奥利弗的父亲是这个计划最坚定的支持者之一。

The contractor claimed that the dam would help to industrialise the area and bring affluence to everyone, especially the many workers who had faced redundancy when the old factories closed.

承包商声称，大坝将有助于这一地区实现工业化，给每个人带来富裕，尤其是那些在老工厂倒闭时被裁员的工人。

The dam had become a point of contention in the city, and the government had even sent a circular to every school explaining its benefits.

大坝已经成了全市争论的焦点，政府甚至给每所学校发了一份通知，介绍它的好处。

Hannah and Oliver went to the river every weekend with a kettle of hot tea, sandwiches with bacon, and a small kit for testing water.

汉娜和奥利弗每个周末都带着一壶热茶、培根三明治和一套小型水质检测工具去河边。

Their favourite place was a small clearing in the trees by the water, which was only accessible on foot.

他们最喜欢的地方是河边树林里的一小块空地，只有步行才能到达。

They walked in the shallow water, scraped mud from the stones, and took samples at different points along the river.

他们走在浅水里，从石头上刮下淤泥，在河流沿岸的不同地点采集样本。

Oliver was surprisingly meticulous; he weighed every sample on a small scale, wrote every number in a notebook and later put all the data into a database on his computer.

奥利弗出人意料地一丝不苟；他用一台小秤称每一份样本，把每个数字都记在本子上，后来又把所有数据输入电脑上的一个数据库。

Hannah taught him that the standardization of methods was important, because the same test must be applicable at every point along the river.
汉娜教导他，方法的标准化很重要，因为同样的检测方法必须适用于河流沿岸的每一个地点。

Their first results were only suggestive, so they repeated every test to determine whether the numbers were correct.
他们最初的结果只能算提供了一些线索，所以他们把每项检测都重做了一遍，以确定数字是否准确。

The quantitative results were clear: the water near the building site was already saturated with diesel and other pollutants.
定量分析的结果很清楚：施工现场附近的河水里已经充满了柴油和其他污染物。

Some of the chemicals were poisonous to fish, and their effect was accumulative, so the damage would grow every year.
其中一些化学物质对鱼有毒，而且它们的影响是累积性的，所以危害会逐年加重。

If the dam was built, the coral reef, which was the habitat of hundreds of species, might perish, and the damage could even reach beyond the bay.
如果修建大坝，那片作为数百个物种栖息地的珊瑚礁可能会消亡，损害甚至可能波及海湾以外。

There was also a clear flaw in the contractor's report: its comparative tables used water samples from a different river.
承包商的报告中还有一个明显的漏洞：它的对比表格用的是另一条河的水样。

"Even I can see that this report is faulty," Oliver said.
“连我都看得出这份报告有问题。”奥利弗说。

In this case, Hannah thought, the truth was clear, but telling it would complicate everything for the boy.
汉娜心想，在这件事上，真相是清楚的，但说出真相会让这个男孩的处境变得非常复杂。

Oliver was afraid to show the project to his father.
奥利弗不敢把这个项目拿给他父亲看。

"He will be so upset," he said. "He wants the dam more than anything."
“他会非常生气的，”他说，“他比什么都想要那座大坝。”

Hannah felt constrained by her position as an employee, and she did not want to sway him either way; she only said, "A scientist reports what he finds. That is the moral rule."
汉娜受制于自己雇员的身份，她并不想左右他的决定；她只是说：“科学家要如实报告他的发现。这是道德准则。”

In the end, Oliver submitted his project, with a draft of a short speech that distilled all his work into a few simple words.
最后，奥利弗提交了他的项目，还附上了一篇简短的演讲稿，用几句简单的话浓缩了他所有的工作。

On the day of the showcase, he stood amidst hundreds of visitors at the museum with his charts and drawings.
展览那天，他带着图表和画作，站在博物馆里数百名参观者中间。

He spoke with great poise, and nobody would have guessed that only months before he had been the most difficult boy in his school.
他讲得沉着自信，谁也猜不到，就在几个月前，他还是学校里最难管教的男孩。

A local TV station happened to be there, and that evening his speech was broadcast on the news.
当地一家电视台恰好在场，那天晚上他的演讲就在新闻里播出了。

"I am not against my father," he said in the speech. "I just want the river to stay alive for the right reasons."
他在演讲中说："我不是在反对我的父亲。我只是希望这条河能活下去，出于正确的理由。"

The next morning, the video was everywhere online, and the whole city was talking about "the boy who stood up to his father."
第二天早上，这段视频在网上到处都是，全城都在谈论"那个敢于反对自己父亲的男孩"。

Mr. Lawson's political enemies were delighted, because the story gave them ammunition against him.
劳森先生的政敌们很高兴，因为这件事给了他们攻击他的"弹药"。

His spokesman wanted to say that the boy's data was wrong, implying that a tutor had used him for her own radical ideas.
他的发言人想说那个男孩的数据是错的，暗示是一个家庭教师在利用他宣扬自己的激进思想。

Hannah was afraid she would lose her job.
汉娜担心自己会丢掉工作。

Mr. Lawson came home late that night, and for a long time he sat alone in the garden while the darkness enveloped him.
那天晚上，劳森先生很晚才回家，他独自在花园里坐了很久，任由夜色将他包围。

He had a chronic digestive problem, and the stress made him feel so sick that he nearly fainted.
他有慢性消化系统疾病，压力让他难受得差点晕过去。

His physician had already warned him to rest and to eat more fiber, and a test to see whether a small growth in his stomach was malignant was still awaiting its results.
他的医生早就提醒过他要休息、多吃纤维类食物，而一项检查他胃里一个小肿块是否为恶性的化验结果还在等待之中。

That night, he did something he had not done for years: he knocked on his son's door.
那天晚上，他做了一件多年都没做过的事：他敲了儿子的房门。

Oliver was afraid of his father's anger, but Mr. Lawson only asked him to explain his project.
奥利弗害怕父亲发火，但劳森先生只是请他讲讲他的项目。

They talked until two in the morning, and for the first time in years, father and son really interacted with each other.
他们一直谈到凌晨两点，多年来第一次，父子俩真正地交流了一次。

Oliver did not lash out or run away, and his father listened with the utmost care.
奥利弗没有发脾气，也没有逃开，他的父亲则无比认真地听着。

Above them, the air conditioner hummed quietly, and Oliver's alarm clock showed that it was long past bedtime.
头顶上，空调轻轻地嗡嗡作响，奥利弗的闹钟显示早已过了睡觉时间。

A week later, Mr. Lawson made a decisive announcement.
一周后，劳森先生发表了一项决定性的声明。

He admitted that he had been wrong about the dam, and he asked the judiciary to start an official investigation into the contractor's report.
他承认自己在大坝问题上错了，并要求司法部门对承包商的报告展开正式调查。

He also promised that the city would instal new filters to clean the water, and he asked scientists and citizens to work in cooperation.
他还承诺，市里将安装新的过滤设备来净化河水，并请科学家和市民们通力合作。

The contractor's managers were later asked to testify in court, and the investigation found a long history of the suppression of negative reports.
承包商的管理人员后来被要求出庭作证，调查发现，他们长期压制负面报告。

Some of Mr. Lawson's colleagues said that his political career would crash, and that he had destroyed his own chances, but to everyone's surprise, his support rose.
劳森先生的一些同事说他的政治生涯会一落千丈，他亲手毁掉了自己的机会，但出人意料的是，他的支持率反而上升了。

In a public forum, a voter said, "We want a leader who can admit his mistakes. That is rare."
在一次公开论坛上，一位选民说："我们需要一位能承认错误的领导人。这样的人很少见。"

Hundreds of people who had come to protest against the dam held a peaceful assembly by the river to thank the boy.
数百名前来抗议修建大坝的人在河边举行了一次和平集会，向这个男孩致谢。

A policeman who was keeping order there even asked Oliver for his autograph.
一名在那里维持秩序的警察甚至请奥利弗给他签名。

Then came another piece of good news: the growth in Mr. Lawson's stomach was not malignant.
接着又传来一个好消息：劳森先生胃里的肿块不是恶性的。

The crisis brought the family closer together.
这场危机让这个家庭更加亲密了。

Mrs. Lawson came home from her travels and stopped her perpetual shopping, and she began to cook dinner at home.
劳森太太旅行回来后，不再没完没了地购物，开始在家做晚饭。

She was not a good cook at first; once she burned the beef so badly that it was hardly edible, and once she made pea soup that tasted like laundry soap.
一开始她的厨艺并不好；有一次她把牛肉烧得焦糊，几乎没法吃，还有一次她煮的豌豆汤尝起来像洗衣皂。

But nobody complained, and everyone laughed together, which had not happened in that house for a long time.
但没有人抱怨，大家一起哈哈大笑，这在那座房子里已经很久没有发生过了。

Mr. Lawson also invited his brother Ben to dinner for the first time in five years.
劳森先生还邀请弟弟本来吃晚饭，这是五年来的第一次。

At first the two brothers were cold to each other, but by the end of the evening they were laughing about their childhood.
起初，兄弟俩彼此冷淡，但到晚饭结束时，他们已经在笑谈童年往事了。

Ben occasionally pinched himself to make sure it was not a dream, and he offered to help with Mr. Lawson's campaign, and he gave him an honest piece of advice: "Stop trying to streamline your speeches. Just talk to people."
本时不时掐自己一下，确认这不是在做梦，他还主动提出帮劳森先生竞选，并给了他一条诚恳的建议："别再一个劲儿地把演讲稿改得四平八稳了，就和人们说说心里话吧。"

Mr. Lawson took his advice and even agreed to give patronage to Ben's organization, which needed money to recruit new helpers and to enlist the support of local doctors.

劳森先生采纳了他的建议，还同意赞助本所在的组织，该组织正需要资金来招募新的帮手，并争取当地医生的支持。

He also started a monthly subscription to a magazine about the environment.
他还开始按月订阅一本关于环境的杂志。

That summer the family went on a tour of the southern islands, and Hannah was invited too.
那年夏天，一家人去南部群岛旅游，汉娜也受到了邀请。

They swam over the coral reef, where fish of every colour seemed to float in the clear water.
他们在珊瑚礁上方游泳，五颜六色的鱼儿仿佛漂浮在清澈的海水里。

Oliver got a deep tan, and he filled a whole notebook with drawings of the fish.
奥利弗晒得黝黑，他画鱼画满了一整本笔记本。

In the evenings they had a feast of rice, grilled fish, oranges, and lemon ice-cream on the beach.
傍晚，他们在海滩上享用了一顿大餐，有米饭、烤鱼、橙子和柠檬冰淇淋。

On the last night there was a costume party, and Oliver dressed up as a witch with a bushy grey wig.
最后一个晚上有一场化装舞会，奥利弗打扮成了一个女巫，戴着蓬松的灰色假发。

"Daddy, you look like a sheep," he laughed when his father appeared in a white woolly costume.
当他父亲穿着一身白色毛茸茸的服装出现时，他笑着说："爸爸，你看起来像一只绵羊。"

Mr. Lawson laughed too, and Hannah thought that this family had finally found what it had been missing: a sense of unity.
劳森先生也笑了，汉娜觉得这一家人终于找到了他们一直缺少的东西：团结一心的感觉。

In the autumn, Mr. Lawson's campaign continued, and he made the protection of the river one of his main goals.
秋天，劳森先生的竞选活动继续进行，他把保护这条河作为他的主要目标之一。

In every eventuality, he said, the environment had to come first, and he promised a new law to mechanise the cleaning of polluted rivers.
他说，无论发生什么情况，环境都必须放在第一位，他还承诺制定一部新法律，让被污染河流的清理工作实现机械化。

He also spoke about the inclusion of poor families in the city's plans, and he said that no one should be discriminated against because of their past.
他还谈到要把贫困家庭纳入城市的规划，并说任何人都不应因为自己的过去而受到歧视。

The consolidation of his support in the poor neighbourhoods surprised everyone, and the newspapers now spoke of him with favor.
他在贫困社区的支持率得到巩固，这让所有人都感到意外，报纸如今也开始对他赞誉有加。

Hannah did not doubt that he meant it, because she had seen how he treated his brother now.
汉娜毫不怀疑他是真心的，因为她看到了他现在是如何对待他弟弟的。

Oliver, meanwhile, became one of the best students in his class, and his teachers could hardly believe the transition.
与此同时，奥利弗成了班上最好的学生之一，他的老师们简直不敢相信他的转变。

His comic about the dying planet even won a national prize, and the judges acclaimed him as "a young visionary."
他那部关于濒死星球的漫画甚至获得了一个全国性奖项，评委们称赞他是"一位年轻的有远见的人"。

When the school asked him to talk about his success, he only said, "It was teamwork. I had a great tutor."
当学校请他谈谈成功的经验时，他只是说：“这是团队合作的结果。我有一位很棒的家庭教师。”

Hannah worked for the family for three years, until she graduated and became a teacher.
汉娜在这家人那里工作了三年，直到她毕业当上了老师。

On her last day, Oliver gave her a small envelope as a token of thanks.
在她工作的最后一天，奥利弗给了她一个小信封，以表谢意。

"Do me a favor," he said. "Don't open it until you get home."
“帮我个忙，”他说，“等你到家了再打开。”

Inside was one of his grandfather's old postcards, with a new drawing on the back: a picture of the two of them by the river, sitting on a solid stone with a kettle between them.
里面是他爷爷的一张旧明信片，背面画着一幅新画：他们俩坐在河边一块结实的大石头上，中间放着一只水壶。

Under it he had written, "Thank you for the help and for never giving up on me. You opened a door I didn't know was there."
画下面他写道：“谢谢你的帮助，谢谢你从未放弃我。你为我打开了一扇我从不知道存在的门。”

Hannah was so appreciative that she could hardly speak.
汉娜感激得几乎说不出话来。

She knew that teaching would never make her rich, but she also knew that it would always be rewarding.
她知道教书永远不会让她富有，但她也知道，这份工作永远会带来回报。

Years later, when she was old and had grandchildren of her own, she still kept that postcard on her desk.
多年以后，当她老了，有了自己的孙辈，她仍然把那张明信片放在书桌上。

Sometimes, when she felt tired, she looked at it and remembered the troublesome boy who had become her friend.
有时她觉得累了，就会看看它，想起那个后来成了她朋友的“问题男孩”。

List 9 Grandma's Last Voyage

奶奶的最后一次航行

本篇使用 List 9 单词 267/267 个（加粗处为首次出现）

Emily was working on her doctorate in geology, and her research was about the extinction of a rare kind of frog in the southern mountains.

艾米莉正在攻读地质学博士学位，她的研究课题是南部山区一种稀有青蛙的灭绝。

She spent most of her days measuring the density of clay and rock, and she was keen to understand how geological changes in the terrain had affected the frogs.

她大部分时间都在测量黏土和岩石的密度，她很想弄清楚地形的地质变化是如何影响这些青蛙的。

This type of frog was a distinct species that lived only in one mountain range in the south, and its bright green skin had a singular beauty.

这种青蛙是一个独特的物种，只生活在南方的一条山脉中，它鲜绿色的皮肤有一种独一无二的美。

Her data showed a clear correlation between rising temperatures and the fall in frog numbers, although the relationship was not linear.

她的数据表明，气温上升和青蛙数量减少之间有明显的相关性，尽管二者并非线性关系。

As temperatures moved upward, the dry season grew longer, and many frogs were dying before they could lay eggs.

随着气温上升，旱季变得越来越长，许多青蛙还没来得及产卵就死去了。

In some streams a larger, dominant species had already taken their place.

在一些溪流里，一种体型更大、更占优势的物种已经取代了它们。

Some scientists asserted that the frogs had simply lost the capacity to adapt, but Emily believed there was another cause, and she was determined to uncover it.

一些科学家断言，这些青蛙只是失去了适应环境的能力，但艾米莉认为还有别的原因，她决心把它查清楚。

She had already found evidence that a new mine nearby might be poisoning the water, especially after the recent deregulation of the mining industry.

她已经找到证据，表明附近的一座新矿可能正在污染水源，尤其是在最近采矿业放松管制之后。

Her findings, which had passed independent verification, refuted an old theory, and her professor said that the magnitude of the problem was critical: if no corrective action was taken, the species would disappear within ten years.

她的发现经过了独立核实，驳倒了一个旧理论，她的教授说，问题的严重程度已到了紧要关头：如果不采取纠正措施，这个物种将在十年内消失。

She hoped that a nature reserve could be set up to safeguard the frogs, and a proposal had even been sent to the national congress.

她希望能建立一个自然保护区来保护这些青蛙，甚至已经有一份提案递交到了国会。

She also taught an elective class for junior students at the university, and in the meantime she was applying for jobs.

她还在大学给低年级学生上一门选修课，与此同时，她也在找工作。

At one interview, the interviewer asked her to describe her greatest strength in one word, and she answered, "Determination."

在一次面试中，面试官让她用一个词描述自己最大的优点，她回答说：“决心。”

She had learned that word from her grandmother.

这个词是她从奶奶那里学来的。

The job was a managerial position at a research institute, and before the final decision she had to finish her last assignment and pass an interim review.
那是一家研究所的管理职位，在最终决定之前，她必须完成最后一项任务，并通过一次中期审核。

Emily was a bit of a pessimist, and she did not expect to win the placement, because there were more than fifty applicants.
艾米莉有点悲观，她并不指望能得到这个职位，因为有五十多名申请者。

Thanks to a boom in environmental research, there were more jobs than before, but the competition was also stronger, and every applicant had an excellent profile.
由于环境研究的兴起，工作岗位比以前多了，但竞争也更加激烈，每位申请者的履历都很出色。

Her mother often scolded her for working too hard, saying that she had become obsessive about her frogs.
她的妈妈常常责备她工作太拼命，说她对她的青蛙已经着了魔。

Her grandmother, whom everyone in the family called Auntie Rose, was a well-known retired headmistress who lived in an old house with a wide porch and a small back yard.
她的奶奶——家里所有人都叫她“罗丝阿姨”——是一位有名的退休女校长，住在一栋带宽大门廊和小后院的老房子里。

She had run a girls' school for thirty years, and during that time she had taught thousands of students who still remembered her with respect.
她管理一所女子学校长达三十年，其间教过成千上万的学生，这些学生至今仍怀着敬意记得她。

She believed that a good teacher must nurture every child's soul, not only fill their heads with facts.
她相信，一个好老师必须滋养每个孩子的心灵，而不只是往他们脑子里塞知识。

Now she was eighty, and since her retirement she had been ill on and off.
如今她已经八十岁了，退休后身体时好时坏。

Her legs were weary, her hands were thin and bony, and after her husband died she had fallen into a light depression.
她的双腿疲惫无力，双手又瘦又骨节突出，丈夫去世后，她陷入了轻度的抑郁。

Her doctor said that nothing serious ailed her, but that she needed something new to waken her interest in life.
医生说她没有什么严重的病，但她需要一些新鲜事来唤起她对生活的兴趣。

She spent most of her days sitting on the porch, and she had no inclination to go out or see anyone.
她大部分时间都坐在门廊上，没有任何出门或见人的意愿。

"Why don't you go on a cruise?" he suggested. "Sea air and a change of scene would do you good."
“您为什么不去乘游轮旅行呢？”他建议道，“海上的空气和换个环境会对您有好处。”

It was not easy to convince her, but at last Grandma agreed, and Emily booked a two-week voyage around the eastern islands for the two of them, in a double cabin.
说服她并不容易，但奶奶最终还是同意了，艾米莉为她们俩预订了一次为期两周、环游东部群岛的航行，住一间双人舱。

Her nephew Tom, who was fifteen and loved computers, installed a translation app on Grandma's phone and showed her how to use it.
她的侄子汤姆十五岁，热爱电脑，他在奶奶的手机上安装了一个翻译软件，还教她怎么用。

Grandma was not keen on new technology, but she agreed to try it.
奶奶对新技术不怎么感兴趣，但她同意试一试。

Because of her age, Grandma also had to sign a health waiver saying that the cruise company would not be liable if she became ill.
由于年纪大了，奶奶还得签一份健康免责声明，说明如果她生病，游轮公司不承担责任。

The night before they left, she opened her closet and chose three old dresses, and Emily saw a lump of excitement in her throat that she tried to hide.
出发前一晚，她打开衣柜，挑了三条旧裙子，艾米莉看得出她喉咙发紧，努力掩饰着内心的激动。

On a sunny Saturday morning they took a bus from their suburban home to the port, where crowds of commuters were hurrying to work.
一个阳光明媚的星期六早晨，她们从郊区的家坐公共汽车来到港口，那里一群群通勤族正匆匆赶去上班。

The ship was a floating hotel with ten floors, a theatre, a swimming pool, and a dance hall.
这艘船是一座有十层楼的海上酒店，里面有剧院、游泳池和舞厅。

At the entrance, a smiling crew member greeted them and gave them a voucher for a free dinner.
在入口处，一位面带微笑的船员向她们问好，并给了她们一张免费晚餐券。

The novelty of the ship seemed to waken something in her.
这艘船的新奇似乎唤醒了她内心的某种东西。

Their cabin had a balcony with a panoramic view of the sea, and Grandma sat there for an hour, watching the waves without saying a word.
她们的船舱有一个阳台，可以看到大海的全景，奶奶在那里坐了一个小时，一言不发地看着海浪。

The ship itself fascinated Emily.
这艘船本身让艾米莉着了迷。

Part of its power came from solar panels on the roof, which helped to reduce its emissions.
它的一部分动力来自顶层的太阳能电池板，这有助于减少船的排放。

The lighting and ventilation were automatic, and even the doors opened by themselves.
照明和通风都是自动的，就连门都会自己打开。

A friendly engineer showed her the electrical system and explained the mechanics of the engines, which were protected by thick insulation.
一位友善的工程师带她看了电气系统，还给她讲解了发动机的机械原理，发动机外面包着厚厚的隔热层。

In the dining room a robot even carried drinks to the tables, and it was a funny sight to see it bounce over the carpet with a bottle opener in its metal hand.
在餐厅里，一个机器人甚至会把饮料送到桌上，看着它手里拿着开瓶器、在地毯上一颠一颠地走，真是滑稽。

Grandma looked at it in bewilderment and was not impressed. "In my day, people did the work," she said, "and they did it with a smile."
奶奶一脸困惑地看着它，并不以为然。“在我们那个年代，活儿都是人干的，”她说，“而且是笑着干的。”

The engineer laughed and said that the robot could not grind coffee or make conversation, so the ship would always need people.
工程师笑着说，机器人不会磨咖啡，也不会聊天，所以船上永远需要人。

He also showed Emily the thick operational manual for the engines, and he explained how the crew utilized every drop of fuel.
他还给艾米莉看了发动机那本厚厚的操作手册，并解释了船员们如何充分利用每一滴燃料。

The food was another surprise: every night there was a different exotic cuisine, and the chef's speciality was a lime pie with fresh cream.
食物又是一个惊喜：每天晚上都有一种不同的异国风味菜肴，大厨的拿手菜是加了新鲜奶油的青柠派。

Grandma, who had always lived a life of simplicity, called it "pure indulgence," but she still ate two pieces.
一直过着简朴生活的奶奶说这“纯粹是放纵”，但她还是吃了两块。

In the evenings there were concurrent events in different halls, but Grandma always chose the lecture on the history of the islands and took a seat in the front row.
每天晚上，不同的大厅里同时举行着各种活动，但奶奶总是选择关于群岛历史的讲座，坐在第一排。

The speaker described how the islands had once been under foreign domination, and how the local people had suffered years of exploitation.
主讲人讲述了这些群岛曾经如何受到外国统治，当地人民又如何遭受了多年的剥削。

He said that the first westerner who arrived on the islands had tried to deceive the local chiefs with false promises.
他说，第一个来到这些岛上的西方人曾试图用虚假的承诺欺骗当地的首领。

After that, a revolutionary group had formed an alliance with the neighbouring islands, and together they had liberated themselves.
此后，一个革命团体与邻近岛屿结成联盟，他们一起解放了自己。

Grandma listened with a strange look on her face, and Emily noticed that her lip was shaking.
奶奶听着，脸上露出一种奇怪的神情，艾米莉注意到她的嘴唇在颤抖。

That night, on their balcony, Grandma began to talk about her own past.
那天晚上，在她们的阳台上，奶奶开始讲起她自己的往事。

She had grown up in the countryside of a small country that was caught between two great powers.
她在一个小国家的乡下长大，这个国家夹在两个大国之间。

Her country had tried to keep its neutrality, but when she was ten, the stronger neighbour announced the annexation of their region.
她的国家曾努力保持中立，但在她十岁那年，那个更强大的邻国宣布吞并了她们的地区。

Soldiers began to patrol the streets, and there was open hostility between the local people and the soldiers.
士兵们开始在街上巡逻，当地人和士兵之间充满了公开的敌意。

The new government was cruel and suppressive, and fear began to paralyse the whole town.
新政府残酷而专横，恐惧开始让整个小镇陷入瘫痪。

Her father was a teacher and a member of a secret group of patriots, and he helped people escape across the mountains.
她的父亲是一位教师，也是一个秘密爱国团体的成员，他帮助人们翻越大山逃走。

"He was not a violent man," Grandma said. "His patriotism was quiet, but it was real."
“他不是一个崇尚暴力的人，”奶奶说，“他的爱国之情是无声的，却是真实的。”

One night soldiers came to the house, and he was taken away.
一天夜里，士兵们来到家里，把他带走了。

He never came back, and later his comrades and the people of the town called him a martyr.
他再也没有回来，后来他的战友们和镇上的人都称他为烈士。

For a whole year the family was in mourning, and her mother, who was illiterate, had to work in other people's houses as a maid to feed the children.
整整一年，全家都在服丧，她那不识字的母亲不得不去别人家里当女佣来养活孩子们。

"We were so poor that we nearly starved," Grandma said. "But my mother never let me stop going to school."
“我们穷得差点饿死，”奶奶说，“但我妈妈从来没让我停过学。”

Emily had heard parts of this story before, but she had never heard it told with such intimacy.
这个故事艾米莉以前听过一些片段，但从来没有听奶奶讲得这么亲切、这么推心置腹。

"Did you feel resentment?" Emily asked.
“您心里有怨恨吗？”艾米莉问。

Grandma had always been frank. "For many years," she said. "But hatred eats the soul, so in the end I let it go."
奶奶向来坦率。“恨了很多年，”她说，“但仇恨会吞噬灵魂，所以最后我放下了。”

"My father taught me that a virtuous life is not a passive life. You must act, but you must also refrain from cruelty."
“我父亲教导我，品德高尚的生活并不是消极被动的生活。你必须行动，但也必须避免残忍。”

Emily felt that this was an apt way to characterise her grandmother's whole life.
艾米莉觉得，用这句话来概括奶奶的一生再恰当不过了。

The next morning they joined a sightseeing tour of the largest island.
第二天早上，她们参加了最大岛屿的观光游览。

The terrain was rough, so the tour bus had thick rubber tyres and a strong bumper at the front, and it climbed slowly up the hills whilst the guide told stories.
岛上地形崎岖，所以旅游大巴装着厚厚的橡胶轮胎，车头还有一个结实的保险杠，导游讲着故事，大巴慢慢地爬上山坡。

They visited an old church with holy pictures on the walls, and a museum full of sculpture and painting.
她们参观了一座墙上挂着圣像画的古老教堂，还有一座满是雕塑和绘画的博物馆。

The paintings were not artistically perfect, but they were full of life, and Grandma studied each one carefully.
这些画在艺术上并不完美，但充满了生命力，奶奶仔细地看着每一幅画。

Emily was most interested in a place where workers had once dug for gold, and she explained the extraction process to her grandmother.
艾米莉对一个工人们曾经淘金的地方最感兴趣，她向奶奶讲解了开采的过程。

In comparison with the mines Emily studied at home, it was tiny, but the damage to the natural landscape could still be seen.
和艾米莉在家乡研究的那些矿相比，这个矿很小，但对自然景观造成的破坏仍然清晰可见。

On a quiet beach they found beautiful shells, and a little spider was busy building its web between two rocks.
在一片安静的海滩上，她们发现了一些漂亮的贝壳，一只小蜘蛛正在两块岩石之间忙着结网。

Grandma tied her hat with a red ribbon and walked slowly along the sand, enjoying the warm wind.
奶奶用一根红丝带系好帽子，沿着沙滩慢慢地走着，享受着温暖的风。

"When I was young, I used to ski in the mountains," she said, "and I could walk fifty kilometres without feeling tired."
“我年轻的时候常在山里滑雪，”她说，“走上五十公里都不觉得累。”

Now she needed to rest every few minutes, but her eyes were bright with enjoyment.

现在她每走几分钟就得歇一歇，但她的眼睛因为快乐而闪闪发亮。

Still, her endurance surprised everyone on the tour.
尽管如此，她的耐力还是让旅行团里的每个人都感到惊讶。

On the way back, a sudden shower of rain fell, and they ran to the bus laughing like two schoolgirls.
回去的路上，突然下了一阵雨，她们像两个女学生一样笑着跑向大巴。

From the window they watched flying fish fly above the waves beside the ship as it began to sail again.
船再次起航时，她们从窗口看着飞鱼在船边的浪花上飞跃。

That evening the passengers received an invitation to the captain's dinner, followed by a play in the theatre.
那天晚上，乘客们收到了船长晚宴的邀请，晚宴之后剧院里还有一场话剧。

It was the debut of a young actress, and Grandma said that the actor who played the antagonist was better than the hero.
那是一位年轻女演员的首次登台演出，奶奶说，演反派的那个演员比演主角的还要好。

After the play there was a dance on the ship.
话剧结束后，船上有一场舞会。

To Emily's surprise, Grandma put on a linen dress and asked an old gentleman to dance with her.
令艾米莉惊讶的是，奶奶穿上一条亚麻连衣裙，请一位老先生和她跳舞。

The gentleman, who was a retired preacher, was skilful and polite, and they danced three times.
这位老先生是一位退休的牧师，他舞跳得很好，又很有礼貌，他们跳了三支舞。

Later he joined them for coffee on the outdoor deck, lit a cigar, and asked Grandma about her life as a headmistress.
后来他和她们一起在露天甲板上喝咖啡，他点上一支雪茄，问起奶奶当校长时的生活。

Grandma told him that in her early years the rules for women teachers had been very restrictive: they could not marry, could not wear trousers, and could not speak at meetings.
奶奶告诉他，在她刚工作的那几年，对女教师的规定非常严苛：她们不能结婚，不能穿裤子，也不能在会议上发言。

"I despised those rules," she said frankly, "and I refused to comply with them."
“我鄙视那些规定，”她坦率地说，“我拒绝遵守它们。”

She had been one of the first feminist voices in the town, and she had even taken her case to a court of arbitration.
她是镇上最早发出女权主义声音的人之一，她甚至把自己的案子提交给了仲裁庭。

She won, and after that the rules were changed for every woman teacher in the area.
她赢了，此后，该地区每一位女教师的规定都改变了。

In those days the word "feminist" had a negative connotation, and many people believed that a woman's place was at home.
在那个年代，“女权主义者”这个词带有负面含义，许多人认为女人就应该待在家里。

"It baffled them that a woman could think for herself," she said, and the old preacher laughed.
“一个女人能独立思考，这让他们百思不得其解。”她说，老牧师听了哈哈大笑。

The preacher listened with admiration. "You must have needed great nerve," he said.
牧师钦佩地听着。“您当年一定需要很大的胆量。”他说。

"Not nerve," she said. "Just the belief that what is right should also be lawful."

“不是胆量，”她说，“只是一个信念：正确的事也应该是合法的。”

The two old people talked for hours, and their animated conversation continued long after the music had stopped.
两位老人聊了好几个小时，音乐停了很久以后，他们还在兴致勃勃地交谈。

On the fifth day something bad happened.
第五天，出了一件坏事。

A contagious stomach disease began to spread through the ship, and within two days more than seventy passengers were ill.
一种传染性的肠胃疾病开始在船上蔓延，两天之内就有七十多名乘客病倒了。

The captain had to act quickly to stop an epidemic.
船长不得不迅速采取行动，以防疫情大规模暴发。

Sick passengers were asked to stay in their cabins, and the restaurants were closed for cleaning.
生病的乘客被要求待在自己的船舱里，餐厅也关闭进行清洁。

The news concerning the disease perplexed and frightened everyone, and there was speculation among the passengers about the cause of the disease, and some people spread false stories that the water was poisoned.
关于这种疾病的消息让每个人都既困惑又害怕，乘客们对疾病的起因议论纷纷，有些人散布虚假的传言，说水被下了毒。

Others became angry and started to split into factions, each blaming the other.
另一些人变得很愤怒，开始分成几派，互相指责。

Some passengers wanted to cut the voyage short and demanded to negotiate with the company for their money back.
一些乘客想提前结束航行，要求和公司协商退款。

One man shouted at a young waitress and accused her of trying to cheat the passengers, and she began to cry.
一个男人冲着一个年轻的女服务员大喊，指责她想欺骗乘客，她哭了起来。

The ship's coordinator, an experienced woman who was pregnant with her first child, was trying to manage everything alone.
船上的协调员是一位经验丰富的女士，正怀着她的第一个孩子，她一个人在努力处理所有事情。

She was exhausted, and the passengers' reaction was making things worse.
她已经精疲力竭，而乘客们的反应让情况变得更糟。

It was Grandma who took the initiative.
是奶奶主动站了出来。

She walked into the main hall, clapped her hands like a headmistress, and the room fell silent; nobody might have guessed that she had been ill only a week before.
她走进大厅，像校长一样拍了拍手，整个大厅一下子安静了下来；谁也想不到，仅仅一周前她还在生病。

"Shouting will not cure anyone," she said. "And I will not stand here and watch you offend a young woman who is doing her job."
“大喊大叫治不好任何人的病，”她说，“我也不会站在这里，看着你们冒犯一位正在尽职尽责的年轻姑娘。”

Her words were simple, but her persuasion was powerful, and even the angry man looked ashamed.
她的话很简单，但很有说服力，就连那个愤怒的男人也露出了羞愧的神色。

"It was a shameful thing to do," he admitted. "Pardon me."

“我做了件丢人的事，”他承认道，“请原谅我。”

Grandma did not want to intrude on the doctor's work, but she knew how to restrain a frightened crowd.
奶奶不想干预医生的工作，但她懂得如何让一群受惊的人冷静下来。

Then Grandma helped the coordinator formulate a simple plan.
接着，奶奶帮协调员制定了一个简单的计划。

Healthy volunteers would carry meals to the sick, and everyone would wash their hands before entering any room; it was a simple effort, but it worked.
健康的志愿者把饭菜送给生病的人，每个人进入任何房间之前都要洗手；这只是简单的努力，但很有效。

Emily, who had done first-aid training, helped the ship's doctor identify which passengers needed the most care.
受过急救培训的艾米莉帮助船上的医生辨别出哪些乘客最需要照顾。

The doctor checked each patient's physical condition and his physiological signs, such as temperature and heart rate.
医生检查了每位病人的身体状况和体温、心率等生理指标。

Grandma's reaction in a crisis was the same as it had always been: calm, firm, and kind.
奶奶面对危机时的反应和以往一样：冷静、坚定而又和善。

Within four days the disease was under control, and no one had died.
四天之内，疾病就得到了控制，没有一个人死亡。

The captain thanked Grandma in front of all the passengers, and everyone stood up to applaud her.
船长当着所有乘客的面感谢了奶奶，大家都站起来为她鼓掌。

Later, the ship's doctor explained that the illness had come from a single passenger who had boarded the ship while he was already ill.
后来，船上的医生解释说，这种病来自一位上船时就已经生病的乘客。

There was no malice in it; it had been an accident, not an intentional act, and therefore no one should be blamed.
这并非出于恶意；这是一次意外，而不是故意的行为，因此不应该责怪任何人。

The cruise company offered every passenger an additional free voyage, and it promised to equip all its ships with better medical tools.
游轮公司向每位乘客赠送了一次额外的免费航行，并承诺为旗下所有船只配备更好的医疗设备。

It also agreed to subsidise the costs for anyone who had to go to hospital.
公司还同意为任何需要去医院的人补贴费用。

The young waitress came to thank Grandma, and she gave her a small cake with the word "Respect" written on it in sugar.
那位年轻的女服务员来感谢奶奶，送给她一个小蛋糕，上面用糖写着“尊敬”这个词。

"Respect should be reciprocal," Grandma told her. "You respected your job, and so we must respect you."
“尊重应该是相互的，”奶奶对她说，“你尊重你的工作，所以我们也必须尊重你。”

During the last days of the trip, Grandma seemed ten years younger.
在旅程的最后几天，奶奶看起来年轻了十岁。

On the last night, fireworks exploded over the sea, and the sky filled with colours.
最后一个晚上，烟花在海面上空绽放，天空一片绚烂。

Grandma told Emily that as a lonely little girl she had had an imaginary friend who lived on a ship like this one.
奶奶告诉艾米莉，她小时候很孤单，有一个想象中的朋友，就住在一艘像这样的船上。

She took long, vigorous strolls on the deck, chatted with everyone, and wrote in a thick notebook for hours.
她在甲板上精神抖擞地久久散步，和每个人聊天，还在一个厚厚的笔记本上一写就是几个小时。

"I'm writing my story," she said. "It will be an autobiographical book for my granddaughter."
“我在写我的故事，”她说，“这将是一本写给我孙女的自传体的书。”

She wrote in simple prose, without any sophistication, but every page was full of life, and she never tried to retell her story in a more heroic way than it really was.
她用朴素的散文写作，没有任何雕琢，但每一页都充满了生命力，她从不把自己的故事讲得比实际更英雄化。

One evening she showed Emily a chapter about her younger brother, who was homosexual and had been forced to hide his true life for many years.
一天晚上，她给艾米莉看了关于她弟弟的一章，他是个同性恋者，多年来不得不隐藏自己真实的生活。

"People were indifferent to his pain, and some even despised him," she wrote. "I admired his courage more than anyone's."
“人们对他的痛苦漠不关心，有些人甚至鄙视他，”她写道，“我比佩服任何人都更佩服他的勇气。”

Emily was deeply moved, and she began to see her grandmother as a dynamic and complex person, not just an old lady.
艾米莉深受感动，她开始把奶奶看作一个充满活力、丰富复杂的人，而不只是一位老太太。

Grandma's trust in her was implicit, and Emily felt that sharing these pages was the greatest affirmation of their love.
奶奶对她的信任不言而喻，艾米莉觉得，分享这些文字是对她们之间感情最好的肯定。

On their last night, Emily asked Grandma what had given her the strength to keep going after so many painful losses.
在最后一个晚上，艾米莉问奶奶，在经历了那么多痛苦的失去之后，是什么给了她坚持下去的力量。

Grandma thought for a while and then said, "Religion helped a little, and books helped a lot, but mostly it was my students."
奶奶想了一会儿说：“宗教帮了一点忙，书帮了很大的忙，但最主要的还是我的学生们。”

"Every child I taught was a small reason to get up in the morning. That is where I found my fulfilment."
“我教过的每一个孩子，都是我早上起床的一个小小的理由。我就是在那里找到了人生的满足。”

Then she added, "Life is a cycle, my dear. Old trees fall, and young trees grow. What matters is the continuity of what we care about."
接着她又说：“生命是一个循环，亲爱的。老树倒下，小树长大。重要的是，我们所珍视的东西能延续下去。”

"Nothing in life has permanence. Thus we must love what we have while we have it."
“人生中没有什么是永恒的。所以，在拥有的时候，我们必须好好珍惜。”

When they arrived home, Emily found an email waiting for her: she had won the job.
她们到家时，艾米莉发现一封电子邮件正等着她：她得到了那份工作。

She gave an exclamation of joy and flung her arms around her grandmother.
她高兴得叫出声来，张开双臂抱住了奶奶。

Grandma congratulated her and said, "I always knew you would, my dear. You have your great-grandfather's determination."
奶奶祝贺了她，说："我一直知道你会成功的，亲爱的。你有你曾祖父那样的决心。"

Her words bolstered Emily's confidence more than any prize could.
她的话比任何奖励都更能增强艾米莉的信心。

That summer, the government finally affirmed the plan to create a nature reserve for the frogs, and the incorporation of Emily's research into the official report was a great honour for her.
那年夏天，政府终于确认了为青蛙建立自然保护区的计划，艾米莉的研究被纳入官方报告，这对她来说是莫大的荣誉。

Grandma finished her book in the autumn, and soon after, she passed away peacefully in her sleep.
奶奶在秋天写完了她的书，不久之后，她在睡梦中安详地离开了人世。

She had once told Emily that she did not want people to remember her as a dying old woman, but as a teacher who was still learning.
她曾经告诉艾米莉，她不希望人们记住的是一个奄奄一息的老太太，而是一位仍在不断学习的老师。

Emily kept that promise.
艾米莉信守了这个承诺。

At the funeral, many former students spoke of how Grandma had changed their lives, and some of them had become headmistresses themselves.
在葬礼上，许多以前的学生讲述了奶奶如何改变了她们的人生，其中一些人自己也当上了校长。

Whenever Emily looks at the photo of the two of them on the ship, she can still recall the sound of the sea and her grandmother's laughter, as if their last voyage were not over at all.
每当艾米莉看着她们俩在船上的合影，她仍然能回想起大海的声音和奶奶的笑声，仿佛她们的最后一次航行根本没有结束。

Her grandfather was a retired physicist who had once been an eminent professor in the capital.

她的爷爷是一位退休的物理学家，曾经是首都一位著名的教授。

He had worked on the theory of relativity, and his papers were still read by scientists all over the world.

他研究过相对论，他的论文至今仍被世界各地的科学家阅读。

Yet he lived in a small old house, wore the same overcoat every winter, and was so thrifty that he used both sides of every piece of paper.

然而，他住在一座小小的旧房子里，每年冬天都穿着同一件大衣，而且非常节俭，每张纸都要两面用。

"Thrift is not about money," he told Lily. "It is about respecting what you have."
“节俭不是为了钱，”他对莉莉说，“而是要珍惜你所拥有的东西。”

He believed that materialism made people miserable, and he hated extravagance of any kind; even his boots were thirty years old, and he said that durable things were the most beautiful.
他认为物质主义会让人痛苦，他讨厌任何形式的奢侈浪费；就连他的靴子都穿了三十年，他说结实耐用的东西才是最美的。

Her grandmother, on the other hand, was a warm and protective woman who believed that every problem could be solved with good food.
而她的奶奶则是一位温暖、爱护孩子的女人，她相信任何问题都能用美食来解决。

She made bread from fresh dough every morning, cooked salmon with sour plum sauce, and made sure that Lily drank plenty of juice.
她每天早上用新鲜的面团做面包，用酸梅酱烧三文鱼，还确保莉莉喝足够多的果汁。

Her spongy honey cake was famous in the village, and she always gave Lily a large serving with a sweet cream filling.
她做的松软蜂蜜蛋糕在村里很有名，她总是给莉莉切一大块，里面夹着香甜的奶油馅。

"A growing girl needs protein, not just calories from sweets," she said, but she gave her the cake anyway.
“正在长身体的女孩需要蛋白质，而不只是甜食里的热量。”她说，但还是把蛋糕给了她。

After dinner, Lily helped her scrub the pots and mop the kitchen floor.
晚饭后，莉莉帮她刷锅、拖厨房的地。

In the yard behind the house, Grandpa kept an old blackboard, and every evening he wrote equations on it and read them aloud.
在房子后面的院子里，爷爷放着一块旧黑板，每天傍晚他都会在上面写方程式，然后大声地念出来。

At first Lily found them difficult, but Grandpa had a gift for teaching.
一开始莉莉觉得它们很难，但爷爷在教学方面很有天赋。

He did not care about the literal meaning of each symbol; he wanted her to understand the core idea behind it.
他并不在意每个符号的字面意思，他希望她理解背后的核心思想。

"The symbols are arbitrary," he said. "What matters is the idea."
“这些符号是人为规定的，”他说，“重要的是背后的思想。”

He warned her against rigidity of thought, and he said that a good scientist needs flexibility of mind.
他提醒她不要思想僵化，他说一个好的科学家需要思维灵活。

"Science is not only about calculating," he said. "It starts with wonder."
“科学不只是计算，”他说，“它始于好奇。”

He used simple things to explain conceptual problems: a spinning wheel to show momentum, a bunch of grapes to show how planets rotate, and a dot on a balloon to show how the universe grows outward.
他用简单的东西来解释概念性的问题：用转动的轮子来演示动量，用一串葡萄来演示行星如何自转，用气球上的一个点来演示宇宙如何向外膨胀。

He explained that the speed of light is finite, and he used a torch and a mirror to show the propagation of light and its absorption by dark surfaces.

他解释说光速是有限的，还用手电筒和镜子演示光的传播，以及深色表面对光的吸收。

He also taught her the metric system, and he showed her the linkage between mathematics and the movement of the stars.
他还教她公制单位，向她展示数学和星体运动之间的联系。

He even taught her dimensional analysis, a simple way to check whether an equation makes sense by looking at its units.
他甚至教她量纲分析，这是一种通过看单位来检验方程是否合理的简单方法。

Lily was surprised to discover that she had an intuitive feeling for spatial problems, and she could easily picture three-dimensional shapes in her head.
莉莉惊讶地发现，她对空间问题有一种直觉，能轻松地在脑子里想象出三维的形状。

"You have a good scientific intelligence," Grandpa said. "But intelligence is nothing without discipline."
“你有很好的科学天赋，”爷爷说，“但没有自律，天赋就什么都不是。”

Every night he gave her a short exercise in his notebook, and every morning he checked it with a red pen.
每天晚上，他在笔记本上给她出一道小练习题，每天早上用红笔批改。

He always wrote short comments in the margin, and Lily's work soon moved from an easy level to an intermediate one.
他总是在页边空白处写上简短的评语，莉莉的练习很快从简单的水平进入了中等水平。

Grandpa's greatest love was astronomy.
爷爷最大的爱好是天文学。

He told Lily that a comet would soon be visible in the night sky, and that a few weeks later there would be a total eclipse of the sun.
他告诉莉莉，夜空中很快就能看到一颗彗星，几周之后还会发生一次日全食。

On clear nights they lay on the grass and watched the stars blink, and Grandpa taught her to distinguish planets from stars.
晴朗的夜晚，他们躺在草地上看星星闪烁，爷爷教她分辨行星和恒星。

"Sailors once used these stars to navigate across the ocean," he said, "and one day people may even colonise Mars."
“从前的水手靠这些星星在大洋上辨别方向，”他说，“将来有一天，人类甚至可能移居火星。”

Some stars were so faint that Lily could hardly discern them, but Grandpa knew the name of every one.
有些星星暗得莉莉几乎辨认不出来，但爷爷叫得出每一颗星星的名字。

"The last eclipse here was fifty years ago," he said. "I watched it with my own grandmother."
“这里上一次日食是五十年前，”他说，“那时我和我自己的奶奶一起看的。”

He played her an old video of that eclipse, and when it ended, the old machine ejected the tape with a loud click.
他给她放了一段那次日食的旧录像，放完后，那台旧机器“咔嗒”一声把录像带弹了出来。

He explained that the length of the eclipse could be calculated exactly, and that it would last for two minutes and forty seconds, and he drew a segmental diagram to show each stage.
他解释说，日食持续的时间可以精确地计算出来，这次将持续两分四十秒，他还画了一张分段示意图来展示每个阶段。

In ancient times, he said, people were frightened by eclipses; the clergy believed they were signs of anger from the gods, and some people even made sacrificial offerings to win back their benevolence.

他说，在古代，人们很害怕日食；神职人员认为日食是神发怒的征兆，有些人甚至献上祭品，以求重新得到神的恩惠。

Lily could hardly wait.

莉莉简直等不及了。

One morning, a long line of colourful caravans came slowly along the dusty road, and the whole village went out to watch.

一天早上，一长串五颜六色的大篷车沿着尘土飞扬的路缓缓驶来，全村人都出来观看。

A travelling circus had arrived, and there was a parade through the village square, with clowns, a band, and two white horses.

一个流动马戏团来了，他们在村里的广场上举行了游行，有小丑、一支乐队和两匹白马。

The owner of the circus, a big man called Mister Bruno, wore a red jacket with a golden collar and spoke with great eloquence and a theatrical manner.

马戏团的老板是一个叫布鲁诺先生的大块头，他穿着一件金色领子的红外套，说起话来口若悬河，举止颇有戏剧色彩。

"Ladies and gentlemen, the greatest entertainment of your lives is here!" he shouted.

“女士们，先生们，你们一生中最精彩的娱乐来了！”他喊道。

Lily soon became friends with his daughter Mia, an acrobat of her own age who could jump through a ring of fire.

莉莉很快就和他的女儿米娅成了朋友，米娅是一个和她同龄的杂技演员，能从火圈中跳过去。

Mia had grown up in the circus, and she had never been to school.

米娅在马戏团里长大，从来没有上过学。

She had performed in many countries, even in a small town at the edge of a jungle, and she told Lily stories that sounded like fairy tales.

她在许多国家演出过，甚至去过丛林边上的一个小镇，她给莉莉讲的故事听起来就像童话。

She could not spell many words, and her pronunciation of some long words made Lily laugh, but she was clever and brave.

她很多单词都不会拼，有些长单词的发音也会让莉莉发笑，但她聪明又勇敢。

The circus, however, was in a crisis.

然而，马戏团正陷入危机。

Few people came to the shows, because most families preferred to watch entertainment on their phones, and there had been a cancellation almost every week.

来看演出的人很少，因为大多数家庭更喜欢在手机上看娱乐节目，几乎每周都有演出被取消。

Mister Bruno had borrowed money to buy new tents, and the debt had become a heavy burden; the bank had set a quota of tickets that he had to sell each month, or it would take the caravans.

布鲁诺先生借钱买了新帐篷，这笔债务成了沉重的负担；银行规定了他每个月必须卖出的门票数额，否则就要收走他们的大篷车。

Two of his best performers had already left, and the circus could not afford to replace them.

他最好的两名演员已经离开了，马戏团也没钱找人替补。

Their oldest horse also had an ailment in its legs, and the circus could not afford the medicine that the vet wanted to dispense.
他们最老的那匹马腿上也有毛病，马戏团买不起兽医要开的药。

The other horses also needed a vaccine against a disease that was common that year.
其他的马也需要接种疫苗，以预防那一年流行的一种疾病。

At the same time, the village was suffering from a terrible drought.
与此同时，村子正遭受一场可怕的干旱。

It had not rained for three months, the drought had devastated the crops, the fields were bare, and the cows had no grass to graze.
已经三个月没下雨了，干旱毁了庄稼，田地光秃秃的，牛也没有草可吃。

The farmers were desperate, and some of them said that a circus was a waste of money at such a difficult time.
农民们陷入了绝望，有些人说，在这么困难的时候，马戏团纯粹是浪费钱。

In the heat of the afternoon they retreated into their houses, and even the bread in Grandma's kitchen began to grow mold.
下午天热时，他们都躲进屋里，就连奶奶厨房里的面包也开始发霉了。

Grandpa joked sadly that the whole village was suffering from "empty pocket syndrome."
爷爷苦笑着开玩笑说，全村都得了“空口袋综合征”。

One farmer even remarked that the circus people were "petty thieves" and should be expelled from the village.
一个农民甚至说，马戏团的人是“小偷小摸的贼”，应该把他们赶出村子。

Mia heard this and was hurt, and Lily felt angry for her friend.
米娅听到了这话，很伤心，莉莉也为她的朋友感到气愤。

At home, the TV news did not help; a pollster was talking about the government's latest reshuffle, and a lobbyist was arguing that farmers should receive no help from the state.
家里的电视新闻也于事无补；一位民意调查员在谈论政府最近的改组，一位游说者则主张农民不应该得到国家的任何帮助。

Grandpa switched it off in a rage. "Those people have never seen a dry field," he said.
爷爷气得把电视关了。“那些人从来没见过干裂的田地。”他说。

That night, Lily told her grandfather about the circus's problems.
那天晚上，莉莉把马戏团的困难告诉了爷爷。

He listened carefully, then went to his desk and looked at the dates of the eclipse in an old astronomy book.
他认真地听着，然后走到书桌前，在一本旧天文书里查看日食的日期。

"I have an idea," he said. "Thousands of people will come to see the eclipse. Where will they go?"
“我有个主意，”他说，“会有成千上万的人来看日食。他们会去哪里呢？”

Lily blinked in surprise, but his hypothesis was simple: the village was the best place in the country to see the eclipse, and the circus could provide the entertainment.
莉莉惊讶地眨了眨眼，但他的设想很简单：这个村子是全国观看日食的最佳地点，而马戏团可以提供娱乐节目。

The next day he went to see Mister Bruno, who was a frequent visitor at Grandma's kitchen by then, and offered him a collaboration.
第二天，他去找布鲁诺先生——那时布鲁诺先生已经是奶奶厨房里的常客了——提出和他合作。

Together they would hold a special "Eclipse Festival" in the field near the old stadium, where the villagers usually played soccer.
他们将一起在旧体育场附近的田野里举办一个特别的“日食节”，村民们平时在那里踢足球。

The circus would perform, Grandpa would give talks about the sun and the moon, and the farmers could sell food and drinks.
马戏团来表演，爷爷来讲关于太阳和月亮的知识，农民们则可以卖吃的喝的。

Mister Bruno was doubtful at first. "A physicist and a circus?" he said. "That sounds mad."
布鲁诺先生一开始将信将疑。“一个物理学家加一个马戏团？”他说，“听起来太疯狂了。”

But Grandpa was calm and explicit. "Science and the circus have the same motive," he said. "Both want to astonish people."
但爷爷平静而明确地说：“科学和马戏有着同样的动机，两者都想让人们惊叹。”

The idea impressed Mister Bruno, and he agreed.
这个想法打动了布鲁诺先生，他同意了。

"Anybody can juggle balls," Grandpa added, "but how many people can explain why the balls fall down?"
“谁都会抛球，”爷爷补充道，“可有多少人能解释球为什么会掉下来呢？”

Together they decided to incorporate a little science into every act, thereby making the show both fun and educational.
他们一起决定在每一个节目里都融入一点科学知识，从而让演出既有趣又有教育意义。

Specifically, Mia's fire act would be used to explain how heat moves, and the clowns would show why a falling ball speeds up.
具体来说，米娅的火圈表演将用来解释热量如何传递，小丑们则会演示下落的球为什么会越来越快。

The village council had to approve the plan, and the meeting was difficult.
村委会必须批准这个计划，会议开得很艰难。

The chairperson, a farmer called Mrs. Liu, said that the drought was a more urgent problem than any festival, and that the plan would necessitate too much work.
村委会主任是一位名叫刘太太的农民，她说干旱是比任何节日都更紧迫的问题，而且这个计划需要投入太多的工作。

Several farmers disagreed with the plan, and one of them called it a vulgar show for city people.
好几个农民不同意这个计划，其中一人说这是一场给城里人看的低俗表演。

Then Grandpa stood up and spoke.
接着，爷爷站起来发言。

He explained that the festival could bring in enough money to buy a new water pump and fertilizer for the whole village.
他解释说，这个节日能挣到足够的钱，为全村买一台新水泵和化肥。

A new pump would also make better utilization of the water from the old well, and he promised to help with the installation himself and to teach the farmers how to operate it.
一台新水泵还能更好地利用旧井里的水，他承诺亲自帮忙安装，并教农民们怎样操作。

He also offered a scenario that nobody had thought of: visitors would need places to sleep, so families could rent out their spare rooms.
他还提出了一个谁都没想到的情形：游客需要住的地方，所以各家各户可以把空房间租出去。

He made a strong appeal to their hearts as well as their heads; his words had a strong effect, his calm voice heightened everyone's hopes, and in the end the council voted to support the festival.
他既打动了他们的心，也说服了他们的头脑；他的话很有效果，他平静的声音让每个人的希望都更强烈了，最后村委会投票支持举办这个节日。

Mrs. Liu was appointed to supervise the food stalls, and a young teacher, who had a gift for organisation, would take charge of the residence of visitors.
刘太太被任命负责管理食品摊位，一位很有组织才能的年轻老师负责安排游客的住宿。

The weeks before the eclipse were busy.
日食前的几个星期里，大家都很忙。

The circus staff repaired the tents and painted the caravans, while the farmers built food stalls and a large BBQ area.
马戏团的员工修补帐篷、粉刷大篷车，农民们则搭建食品摊和一大片烧烤区。

Mister Bruno's staff and the farmers had never worked together before, but slowly the two groups merged into one big team.
布鲁诺先生的员工和农民们以前从没一起干过活，但慢慢地，两拨人融合成了一个大团队。

The young teacher made a list of every task and affixed it to the door of the village hall.
那位年轻老师列出了每一项任务的清单，贴在了村礼堂的门上。

Grandpa wrote a short guide to the eclipse, and the young teacher printed a hundred copies as a little paperback book.
爷爷写了一份关于日食的简短指南，那位年轻老师把它印成了一百本小平装书。

Lily helped Mia learn to read, and Mia taught Lily how to stand on a moving horse.
莉莉帮米娅学认字，米娅则教莉莉怎样站在奔跑的马背上。

Mia's trainer said that Lily had good balance, though she fell off twice and hurt her knee and her ankle.
米娅的教练说莉莉的平衡感很好，尽管她摔下来两次，伤了膝盖和脚踝。

Grandma put medicine on her wounds and said, "Your mother will kill me," but she laughed when she said it.
奶奶给她的伤口上了药，说：“你妈妈会杀了我的。”但她说这话时是笑着的。

Meanwhile, the news of the festival spread everywhere online.
与此同时，日食节的消息在网上传得到处都是。

Soon reporters were calling, and a famous TV station even asked to film the event.
很快就有记者打来电话，一家有名的电视台甚至要求拍摄这次活动。

Someone tried to hack the festival's website and sell false tickets, but Lily's father, who knew about computers, quickly stopped it from the city.
有人试图入侵日食节的网站兜售假票，但懂电脑的莉莉的爸爸在城里很快就阻止了这件事。

As the date came closer, the whole village could feel that something big was imminent, and they anticipated the day with great excitement.
随着日子越来越近，全村人都能感觉到一件大事即将发生，他们满怀激动地期待着那一天。

The village had never had so much attention in its whole history.
这个村子有史以来从没受到过这么多关注。

As the days went by, Lily learned more about her grandfather's past.
随着日子一天天过去，莉莉对爷爷的过去有了更多的了解。

One evening he told her how he had first got into college.
一天晚上，他给她讲起了自己当年是怎么上大学的。

He had no usual qualifications, and his school transcript was poor, but a professor had read his notebooks and recommended him for admission.
他没有常规的学历资格，中学成绩单也很差，但一位教授读了他的笔记本，推荐他入学。

Later he joined the faculty of the same university, and his first paper received more than a thousand citations.
后来，他成了那所大学的教员，他的第一篇论文被引用了一千多次。

He also told her that during the years of the embargo, his laboratory could not import any material from abroad.
他还告诉她，在禁运的那些年里，他的实验室无法从国外进口任何材料。

The government also censored his papers, and one of his closest colleagues was sent to prison because of a petty argument with an official.
政府还审查他的论文，他最亲密的一位同事因为和一名官员发生了一点小争执就被送进了监狱。

"It was a vicious time," he said. "Many people chose to abandon science, but I could not."
“那是一个恶劣的时代，”他说，“许多人选择了放弃科学，但我做不到。”

Even his own region had suffered: it was annexed by a neighbouring state when he was a boy, and he was a young man before the day of reunification finally came.
就连他自己的家乡也饱受苦难：在他还是个孩子的时候，那里被邻国吞并了，直到他长成青年，国家统一的那一天才终于到来。

Lily asked him why he had stayed.
莉莉问他为什么留了下来。

"Because science shall survive any government," he answered. "It is a long history, and we are only a small part of it."
“因为科学比任何政府都长久，”他回答说，“这是一段漫长的历史，而我们只是其中很小的一部分。”

He also showed her an old photo of the house where he grew up: a large mansion that had once belonged to an aristocrat.
他还给她看了一张他长大的那座房子的老照片：一座曾经属于一位贵族的大宅子。

"My father was the aristocrat's gardener," he said. "I learned to read in the kitchen, near the old boiler."
“我父亲是那位贵族的园丁，”他说，“我是在厨房里那台旧锅炉旁边学会识字的。”

Two days before the eclipse, a terrible accident almost destroyed everything.
日食前两天，一场可怕的意外几乎毁掉了一切。

Late at night, a spark from an old stove set fire to one of the caravans; at first people suspected a cigarette butt, but later they found that the fire had been accidental.
深夜，一个旧炉子溅出的火星点燃了一辆大篷车；起初人们怀疑是烟头引起的，但后来发现这场火纯属意外。

The fire spread quickly, and soon the blaze was so bright that it lit up the whole field.
火势迅速蔓延，很快熊熊大火就亮得照亮了整片田野。

Mia was asleep inside.
米娅正在里面睡觉。

Grandpa, who was walking back from the observatory he had set up on the hill, saw the fire and ran toward it without thinking.

爷爷正从他在山上搭建的观测点往回走，看见了火，想都没想就朝那里跑去。

His heart beat fast, but he broke the window with his arm, pulled Mia out, and carried her to safety just before a burning piece of the roof fell and hit the ground.
他的心怦怦直跳，但他用胳膊砸破窗户，把米娅拉了出来，就在一块燃烧着的车顶掉下来砸到地上之前，把她抱到了安全的地方。

Mia survived without a single burn, but Grandpa's arm was badly cut, and he had a rash from the heat all over his hands.
米娅幸存了下来，身上没有一处烧伤，但爷爷的胳膊被严重割伤，双手被热浪烫得满是红疹。

He was taken to the clinic in the nearby town, where a doctor cleaned his wounds and gave him medicine.
他被送到附近镇上的诊所，一位医生给他清洗了伤口，开了药。

The doctor said that no major blood vessel had been cut, and that he would probably recover within a month, as he was still a robust man for his age.
医生说没有大血管被割断，以他这个年纪来说身体还算硬朗，大概一个月内就能康复。

In the morning, all that was left of the caravan was a black wreck.
第二天早上，那辆大篷车只剩下一堆黑乎乎的残骸。

Mia cried for a long time, and Lily stayed with her and tried to comfort her.
米娅哭了很久，莉莉一直陪着她，试着安慰她。

The whole village was full of dismay, and Mister Bruno wept like a child.
全村人都惊慌失措，布鲁诺先生哭得像个孩子。

"You saved my daughter," he said. "How can I ever pay you back?"
“您救了我的女儿，”他说，“我怎么才能报答您呢？”

"Just give the best show of your life," Grandpa said with a tired smile.
“只要演出你一生中最精彩的一场就行了。”爷爷带着疲惫的微笑说。

News of Grandpa's heroic act spread quickly, and the farmers who had once disliked the circus came to help.
爷爷英勇救人的消息很快传开了，那些曾经不喜欢马戏团的农民也都来帮忙了。

They brought wood, tools and food, and within a day they had built a new caravan.
他们带来了木头、工具和食物，一天之内就造好了一辆新的大篷车。

The farmer who had called the circus people thieves came to Mister Bruno and apologised.
那个曾经说马戏团的人是贼的农民来到布鲁诺先生面前道了歉。

"We were wrong about you, my fellow neighbours," he said. "In a crisis, you find out who your real friends are."
“我们错看你们了，我的好邻居们，”他说，“危难之中，才知道谁是真正的朋友。”

On the morning of the eclipse, the village was full of people from everywhere.
日食那天早上，村子里挤满了来自各地的人。

Cars and jeeps filled every road, and the spectators sat on the grass with special glasses to protect their eyes.
汽车和吉普车塞满了每一条路，观众们戴着保护眼睛的特制眼镜坐在草地上。

The circus gave an outstanding performance, and Mia jumped through the ring of fire as the crowd held its breath.
马戏团的演出非常精彩，当米娅从火圈中跳过时，观众们都屏住了呼吸。

In the hours that preceded the eclipse, the time seemed to elapse very slowly, and Lily could not let anything distract her from the sky.
在日食到来之前的那几个小时里，时间似乎过得很慢，莉莉不让任何东西分散她对天空的注意力。

Then, at exactly eleven o'clock, the moon began to cover the sun.
接着，在十一点整，月亮开始遮住太阳。

The light turned strange and golden, the birds stopped singing, and the hens ran back to their houses as if night had come.
光线变得奇异而金黄，鸟儿停止了歌唱，母鸡们跑回了窝里，好像夜晚已经降临。

When the sun disappeared completely, a white ring of light appeared around the dark moon, and thousands of people cried out at the same time.
当太阳完全消失时，黑色的月亮周围出现了一圈白色的光环，成千上万的人同时惊呼起来。

Lily held her grandfather's hand, and she saw tears in his eyes.
莉莉握着爷爷的手，看到他眼里噙着泪水。

"Fifty years," he whispered. "And it is still the most beautiful thing in the universe."
“五十年了，”他低声说，“它仍然是宇宙中最美的东西。”

The festival was a great success.
这个节日取得了巨大的成功。

The circus sold every ticket, and the money saved them from the bank; Mister Bruno said it was the most successful day his circus had ever had.
马戏团卖光了所有的票，这笔钱让他们免于被银行收走财产；布鲁诺先生说，这是他的马戏团有史以来最成功的一天。

The farmers earned enough to buy a new water pump and plenty of seed for the next year.
农民们挣的钱足够买一台新水泵和来年充足的种子。

Each family's account showed more money than it had made in the whole previous year.
每户人家的账上显示，他们挣的钱比前一整年还要多。

And that evening, as if the sky wanted to say thank you, the first rain in three months began to fall.
那天傍晚，仿佛老天也想道谢似的，三个月来的第一场雨开始落下。

People danced in the rain, and the children jumped in the water on the playground.
人们在雨中跳舞，孩子们在操场的水坑里蹦跳。

There was a big buffet in the village hall, with grilled salmon, fresh bread, and homemade fruit liquor for the adults.
村里的礼堂里摆了一场盛大的自助餐，有烤三文鱼、新鲜面包，还有给大人们喝的自酿果酒。

Grandpa, with his arm in a bandage, gave a short speech and paid tribute to the circus and the farmers.
胳膊上缠着绷带的爷爷作了简短的讲话，向马戏团和农民们表达了敬意。

"Today," he said, "the sun, the moon and the people of this village all worked together. There is an old idiom that says many hands make light work, and today we proved it."
“今天，”他说，“太阳、月亮和这个村子的人们都在齐心协力。有句老话说，人多好办事，今天我们证明了这一点。”

At the end of the summer, the circus had to leave.
夏天结束时，马戏团不得不离开了。

For the circus, that summer had been a transitional period, and Mister Bruno had decided to adopt Grandpa's idea and turn science into a permanent part of his shows; consequently, the circus would begin to flourish again in the years that followed.

对马戏团来说，那个夏天是一个过渡时期，布鲁诺先生决定采纳爷爷的主意，把科学变成他演出中固定的一部分；因此，在随后的几年里，马戏团又开始兴旺起来。

His lofty mission, he said, was now "to make every child fall in love with the stars."

他说，他现在的崇高使命是“让每个孩子都爱上星星”。

Lily and Mia said a sad farewell, and they promised to write to each other.

莉莉和米娅难过地告别，她们约定要互相写信。

Mister Bruno gave Grandpa a small gift: a golden circus ticket that would let him see any show for free, for the rest of his life.

布鲁诺先生送给爷爷一件小礼物：一张金色的马戏团门票，凭它可以终身免费观看任何演出。

As the caravans moved slowly down the road, Mia stood on the roof of the last one and waved until she became a tiny dot.

大篷车沿着路缓缓驶去，米娅站在最后一辆车的车顶上挥着手，直到变成一个小小的点。

A few days later, Lily's parents came to take her home.

几天后，莉莉的父母来接她回家。

Before she left, Grandpa gave her his old notebook, full of equations, drawings of comets, and notes about the eclipse.

她走之前，爷爷把他的旧笔记本给了她，里面写满了方程式，画满了彗星，还有关于日食的笔记。

"Keep asking questions," he said. "That is the secret of science. I cannot guarantee that you will find every answer, but the search will be worth it."

“要不停地提问，”他说，“这就是科学的秘密。我不能保证你能找到每一个答案，但寻找的过程是值得的。”

Lily held the notebook tightly in the car and decided that one day she, too, would become a physicist.

莉莉在车里紧紧地抱着那本笔记本，下定决心将来她也要成为一名物理学家。

Years later, after a long immersion in her studies, Lily retrieved that notebook from a box in her room and found a short message from Grandpa on the last page.

多年以后，在长期潜心学习之后，莉莉从自己房间的一个箱子里找出了那本笔记本，在最后一页发现了爷爷留下的一段简短的话。

"Hardships will harden you, but never let them harden your heart," it said.

上面写着：“艰难困苦会让你变得坚强，但永远不要让它们让你的心变硬。”

By then she was a young physicist, and the summer of the comet and the circus was still her favourite present from the past.

那时，她已经是一名年轻的物理学家了，那个有彗星和马戏团的夏天，依然是过去留给她的最珍贵的礼物。

List 11 The Sailor's Name

水手的名誉

本篇使用 List 11 单词 267/267 个（加粗处为首次出现）

Daniel was a young historian who worked in the city archive of a populous port city.
丹尼尔是一位年轻的历史学家，在一座人口稠密的港口城市的市档案馆工作。

His job was to inspect old documents, record their details, and make sure that they were stored in the right order.
他的工作是检查旧文件、记录其详细信息，并确保它们按正确的顺序存放。

Every new box needed a careful inspection, or the papers might be lost forever, and every paper had to be listed in the catalog in alphabet order, under the right heading.
每个新到的箱子都需要仔细检查，否则文件可能会永远丢失，每一份文件都必须按字母顺序、归在正确的标题下登记到目录里。

Old paper is full of acid, so he had to monitor the temperature and the humidity of the rooms every day; otherwise the deterioration of the documents would be quick.
旧纸张里含有大量的酸，所以他每天都要监测各个房间的温度和湿度；否则文件会很快变质损坏。

He knew how to remove a stain from a letter, and how to repair an old book with a needle and thread.
他知道怎样去掉信纸上的污渍，也知道怎样用针线修补一本旧书。

Machines in the storage rooms helped to purify the air, and a standby generator would start at once if the power failed.
储藏室里的机器帮助净化空气，一旦停电，备用发电机会立刻启动。

Many documents had not been adequately protected in the past, and some were so damaged that they had to be discarded.
过去，许多文件没有得到充分的保护，有些损坏得太严重，只好丢弃。

Most people thought his work was boring, but he loved it, because every old letter seemed to hold a secret.
大多数人觉得他的工作很枯燥，但他很喜欢，因为每一封旧信似乎都藏着一个秘密。

He believed that an archive must function as the living memory of a city, not as a dusty storage room.
他认为，档案馆应该发挥一座城市活的记忆的作用，而不是一个落满灰尘的储藏室。

His organisational skills were excellent, and he used various new tools to make the archive easier to use, including a virtual tour on the internet.
他的组织能力很出色，他运用各种新工具让档案馆更方便使用，其中包括一个网上虚拟参观项目。

He also tried to normalise the usage of digital copies, so that the old papers would not be touched too often.
他还努力让使用电子副本成为常态，这样那些旧文件就不会被过于频繁地翻动。

The old director was about to retire, and many people expected Daniel to take his place.
老馆长快要退休了，许多人认为丹尼尔会接替他的位置。

He could memorize hundreds of names and dates, and with one glance at a document he could often tell how old it was.
他能记住数百个名字和日期，常常只扫一眼文件就能说出它有多少年头。

He also taught a class on contemporary history at the local polytechnic, where his scholastic standards were famously high.
他还在当地的理工学院教一门当代史课程，他在学业上的标准之高是出了名的。

He told his students that the primary purpose of history is not to count dates, but to understand people and the specific choices they made.
他告诉学生们，历史的首要目的不是数日期，而是理解人以及他们所作出的具体选择。

He marked their essays with great care, praising clarity of expression and good cohesion, and he hated it when students literally copied whole pages from the internet.
他非常认真地批改他们的论文，称赞表达清晰、行文连贯的文章，而最讨厌学生一字不差地从网上抄下整页的内容。

In his free time he was writing a historical novel, although he had not finished a single chapter in two years.
业余时间，他在写一部历史小说，尽管两年来他连一章都没写完。

That autumn, the archive was in trouble.
那年秋天，档案馆遇到了麻烦。

The municipality had cut its funding, and the premier had announced that all public offices must become more economical.
市政府削减了拨款，总理也宣布所有公共机构都必须更加节约。

The old building was badly insulated, its heaters used thousands of watts, and many door knobs and hinges were broken.
那栋旧楼的保温很差，暖气要耗费几千瓦的电，许多门把手和铰链都坏了。

An auditor was sent to check the accounts and to decide whether the archive could continue to exist.
上面派来一位审计员来检查账目，并决定档案馆能否继续存在下去。

Her name was Clara, and she was firm, assertive, and very professional.
她叫克拉拉，为人坚定、果断，非常专业。

She arrived with an agenda for every meeting, and Daniel did not like her at first; she asked him to specify the purpose of every expense and called some of his equipment useless.
她每次开会都带着议程，丹尼尔起初并不喜欢她；她要求他具体说明每一笔开支的用途，还说他的一些设备毫无用处。

"This machine uses more power than a truck," she said, pointing at an old copier on the staircase.
“这台机器比一辆卡车还耗电。”她指着楼梯上一台旧复印机说。

Daniel felt a sharp irritation, and he argued that the archive was not a factory.
丹尼尔感到一阵强烈的恼火，他争辩说，档案馆可不是工厂。

But as the weeks went by, he noticed that she worked late every night, and that she read the old letters with genuine interest.
但几个星期过去，他注意到她每天晚上都工作到很晚，而且是带着真正的兴趣在读那些旧信。

Somehow their rivalry began to change into admiration.
不知怎么的，他们之间的较劲开始变成了相互欣赏。

She explained that public money was distributed according to the average number of visitors, which was a hard rule for a small archive.
她解释说，公共资金是按照平均参观人数来分配的，这对一个小档案馆来说是一条严苛的规定。

"It is a question of distributive justice," Daniel said, and to his surprise she agreed.
“这是一个分配是否公正的问题。”丹尼尔说，令他意外的是，她表示同意。

In her final report she did not suggest closing the archive; instead, she offered a smart plan to combine its offices with the city library and to lease the empty rooms to a small school.
在她的最终报告里，她并没有建议关闭档案馆；相反，她提出了一个聪明的方案：把档案馆的办公室和市图书馆合并，并把空房间租给一所小学校。

The archive and the library would keep the north wing and the south wing respectively, and the money from the lease would be paid in monthly installments, which would provide a steady income.
档案馆和图书馆将分别使用北楼和南楼，租金将按月分期支付，这样就能提供一笔稳定的收入。

She also advised the archive to apply for a special allotment from a national fund, and she used her contacts with a banker to leverage more support.
她还建议档案馆向一个国家基金申请专项拨款，并利用她和一位银行家的关系争取更多的支持。

The archive also received a small grant from the national lottery, and to boost the number of visitors and augment its income, Clara suggested special exhibitions of decorative old maps.
档案馆还从国家彩票基金那里得到了一小笔资助，为了增加参观人数、提高收入，克拉拉建议举办古老装饰地图的专题展览。

The plan gave the staff an incentive to become more active, and it stimulated public interest in local history.
这个计划激励员工变得更加积极，也激发了公众对本地历史的兴趣。

Some colleagues considered her ideas too risky, but in the end everyone agreed that they were appropriate.
一些同事认为她的想法风险太大，但最后大家都同意这些想法是恰当的。

It was paradoxical: the auditor who had been sent to cut costs ended up saving the archive.
这真是矛盾：这位被派来削减开支的审计员最后反而救了档案馆。

"It seems absurd," Daniel said to her, "but I have to thank you. I really appreciate what you have done."
“这似乎很荒唐，”丹尼尔对她说，“但我得谢谢你。我真的很感激你所做的一切。”

She smiled. "Then you can buy me dinner."
她笑了：“那你可以请我吃顿饭。”

That was the beginning of a quiet romance.
一段平静的恋情就这样开始了。

Daniel had not been dating anyone for years, and he was so nervous on their first evening that he spilled his tea.
丹尼尔已经好几年没和人约会了，第一个晚上他紧张得把茶都洒了。

They dined at a small restaurant near the old bridge, where the chef grilled fresh fish and served it with potatoes and butter.
他们在老桥附近的一家小餐馆吃饭，厨师现烤了新鲜的鱼，配上土豆和黄油。

The night was foggy, and the lights of the tourist boats looked soft and yellow on the water.
那天晚上雾蒙蒙的，游船的灯光在水面上显得柔和而昏黄。

They talked about their favorite books and their families, and Daniel found that their tastes in literature were remarkably different.
他们聊起了各自最喜欢的书和家人，丹尼尔发现他们在文学上的品味截然不同。

She liked fast detective stories, while he liked long historical novels; the contrast made their conversations lively.
她喜欢节奏明快的侦探小说，而他喜欢长篇历史小说；这种反差让他们的谈话十分热闹。

Soon they became a couple, and their life together was harmonious and simple.
不久他们就成了一对恋人，两人一起的生活和谐而简单。

On Saturdays they went to the gymnasium together, and Clara laughed at Daniel's old shorts and the way he sweated after ten minutes of running.
星期六，他们一起去体育馆，克拉拉笑话丹尼尔的旧短裤，还笑他跑十分钟就满头大汗。

On Sundays they drank coffee from big mugs and read the newspaper in bed, and sometimes they took Clara's little nephew to the zoo, where he laughed at the monkeys for hours.
星期天，他们用大马克杯喝咖啡，躺在床上看报纸，有时还带克拉拉的小外甥去动物园，他看着猴子能笑上好几个小时。

Every weekend, Daniel and Clara drove out to the countryside to visit his grandmother, whom everyone called Granny May.
每个周末，丹尼尔和克拉拉都开车去乡下看望他的奶奶，大家都叫她“梅奶奶”。

She was ninety years old and lived alone on a small farm with apple trees, grape vines, and an old wooden barn full of hay.
她九十岁了，一个人住在一座小农场里，农场里有苹果树、葡萄藤，还有一座堆满干草的旧木谷仓。

The farm grew a hybrid apple that Granny's husband had developed fifty years before, and its fruit was famous for being sweet and juicy.
农场种着一种杂交苹果，是奶奶的丈夫五十年前培育出来的，这种苹果以香甜多汁而闻名。

Granny loved to talk about the evolution of her apples, and she knew exactly how the acidity of the soil affected their taste.
奶奶喜欢谈论她的苹果是如何一代代改良的，她很清楚土壤的酸度会怎样影响苹果的味道。

In autumn, the grapes turned deep purple, and the seasonal work was hard: the trees had to be trimmed, the leaves had to be burned, and the soil on the hill had to be protected so that the rain would not erode it.
秋天，葡萄变成了深紫色，季节性的农活很辛苦：要修剪果树，要烧掉落叶，还要保护山坡上的土壤，免得被雨水冲蚀。

Clara, who had grown up in the city, enjoyed walking in the mud in her boots, though she once stepped in a pile of horse shit and screamed so loudly that the hens ran away.
在城里长大的克拉拉很喜欢穿着靴子在泥地里走，不过有一次她踩到了一堆马粪，尖叫声大得把母鸡都吓跑了。

Granny laughed until she cried, and from that day on she treated Clara with great affection.
奶奶笑得眼泪都出来了，从那天起，她就对克拉拉非常疼爱。

Her niece, a kind nurse, visited every morning to check Granny's health.
她的侄女是一位好心的护士，每天早上都来检查奶奶的身体状况。

A year earlier the doctors had found a tumor in her chest, and although it was growing slowly, her condition was getting worse.
一年前，医生在她胸部发现了一个肿瘤，尽管它长得很慢，她的身体状况还是越来越差。

Her immune system was weak, so she was prone to infection, and her extremities were always cold.
她的免疫系统很弱，所以容易感染，她的手脚总是冰凉。

Every day she had to swallow three different capsules, and she also had a blood disorder that made her tired.

她每天要吞服三种不同的胶囊，她还患有一种血液病，总是感到疲惫。

She saw a therapist once a week, who cared about her mental well-being as well as her body and watched for any behavioural changes.

她每周去看一次心理治疗师，治疗师既关心她的身体，也关心她的心理健康，并留意她在行为上的任何变化。

But Granny May was still sharp, and her temper was as fiery as ever.

但梅奶奶的头脑依然敏锐，脾气也还和以前一样火爆。

One stormy night in November, as the rain beat against the windows, she told them a story they had never heard.

十一月一个风雨交加的夜晚，雨点拍打着窗户，她给他们讲了一个他们从没听过的故事。

"When I was a girl, the world was full of imperialism," she began. "Big countries wanted to conquer small ones and rule the whole globe."

“我还是个小姑娘的时候，世界上到处都是帝国主义，”她开始讲道，“大国想要征服小国，统治整个世界。”

"Many governments were oppressive, and the poor suffered most. Some young people believed in Marxism, some believed in God, and some only wanted to survive. It was a hard time for mankind."

“许多政府都很专制，受苦最深的是穷人。有些年轻人信仰马克思主义，有些人信仰上帝，还有些人只想活下去。那是人类的一段艰难岁月。”

"My father was a sailor, and in the war against the imperialist navy, he served on a cruiser called the Swift."

“我父亲是个水手，在抵抗帝国主义海军的战争中，他在一艘名叫‘迅捷号’的巡洋舰上服役。”

"One night, during a raging storm, the ship went down. Most of the crew died, but my father survived."

“一天夜里，在一场狂风暴雨中，那艘船沉没了。大部分船员都死了，但我父亲活了下来。”

"When he came home, instead of being treated as a survivor, he was accused of desertion."

“他回到家后，没有被当作幸存者来对待，反而被指控当了逃兵。”

The navy said that he had left his post and escaped in a lifeboat before the battle was over.

海军说他擅离职守，在战斗结束之前就乘救生艇逃跑了。

He was put in military custody and interrogated for weeks, and the officers tried every trick to elicit a confession.

他被关进军事看守所，接受了几个星期的审讯，军官们想尽一切办法要逼他认罪。

In the end there was no prosecution, because there was not enough evidence, and he was released on bail.

最后他并没有被起诉，因为证据不足，他被保释了出来。

But an anonymous letter to the newspaper repeated the charge, and the public denunciation that followed destroyed his life.

但一封寄给报社的匿名信又重复了那项指控，随之而来的公开谴责毁掉了他的一生。

"In the aftermath of the war, people needed somebody to blame, and they chose to victimize him," Granny said.

“战后，人们需要一个替罪羊，于是他们选中了他来欺负。”奶奶说。

"He never recovered from the shame. He died when I was twelve, on the twelfth of March."

“他再也没能从那种耻辱中走出来。他在我十二岁那年的三月十二日去世了。”

Her voice was soft, but her eyes were full of tears.
她的声音很轻，但眼里满是泪水。

"Before I die, I want to know the truth. I don't believe my father would ever betray his mates."
“在我死之前，我想知道真相。我不相信我父亲会背叛他的伙伴。”

Daniel held her hand and promised that he would find out what had really happened.
丹尼尔握着她的手，答应她一定会查清真相。

Back in the city, Daniel began his search the next morning.
回到城里后，丹尼尔第二天早上就开始了调查。

The navy's old records were kept in the national archive, which was within the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Defence.
海军的旧档案保存在国家档案馆，归国防部管辖。

His first requests were to no avail; getting permission to see the records was a long and bureaucratic process, and Daniel had to fill in seven different forms.
他最初的几次申请都毫无结果；获得查阅许可是一个漫长而官僚的过程，丹尼尔不得不填写七份不同的表格。

Finally he was allowed to descend into a cold room in the basement, where thousands of boxes stood on metal shelves under special supervision.
他终于获准下到地下室一个冰冷的房间里，那里成千上万的箱子摆在金属架子上，受到特别的监管。

He spent days reading the ship's papers, the casualty lists, and the reports of the official inquiry.
他花了好几天阅读那艘船的文件、伤亡名单和官方调查报告。

The documents seemed to support the navy's story, but some details confused him, and several pages contained irregular corrections in a different ink.
这些文件似乎支持海军的说法，但有些细节让他感到困惑，有几页上还有用另一种墨水作的不规范的涂改。

For example, the captain's report said that the ship was hit by an enemy shell at midnight, but the radar records showed that the enemy ship was more than ten miles away at that time.
比如，舰长的报告说船是在午夜被敌人的炮弹击中的，但雷达记录显示，当时敌舰远在十英里以外。

A weather report also mentioned a temperature inversion that night, which had made the sea extremely foggy.
一份气象报告还提到那天夜里出现了逆温现象，导致海面上大雾弥漫。

It was an oddity that nobody had noticed before, and Daniel was determined to find out where the mistake had originated.
这是一个以前没有人注意到的怪事，丹尼尔下定决心要弄清楚这个错误是从哪里来的。

His big chance came by surprise.
他的重大突破来得很意外。

One afternoon, a lady from a small regional museum called him.
一天下午，一个地区小博物馆的一位女士给他打来电话。

She had read an excerpt of his request in a historians' newsletter, and she said that the museum had some letters written by a sailor from the Swift.
她在一份历史学家的简报上读到了他的请求摘录，她说博物馆里有几封由“迅捷号”上一名水手写的信。

The sailor's name was Harry Bell, and he had been one of the other survivors.
那名水手名叫哈里·贝尔，他是另外几名幸存者之一。

Daniel took the train there the next day, and the museum's director, a tall, slender woman with grey hair, showed him the letters with warm hospitality.

丹尼尔第二天就坐火车赶了过去，博物馆馆长——一位高挑苗条、满头白发的女士——热情地接待了他，并给他看了这些信。

In one letter, written a week after the disaster, Harry described the night in great detail.
在灾难发生一周后写的一封信中，哈里详细描述了那个夜晚。

"I was only a lad of eighteen," he wrote. "When the explosion came, Tom Wilson roused us from our beds and told us not to panic."
“那时我只是个十八岁的小伙子，”他写道，“爆炸发生时，汤姆·威尔逊把我们从床上叫醒，告诉我们不要惊慌。”

"We groped through the smoke in the darkness, and Tom threw ropes to the men in the water."
“我们在黑暗中摸索着穿过浓烟，汤姆把绳子扔给水里的人。”

"If it had not been for Tom, all seven of us would be dead."
“要不是汤姆，我们七个人都已经死了。”

Tom Wilson was Granny May's father.
汤姆·威尔逊就是梅奶奶的父亲。

According to Harry, Tom had not escaped at all; he had stayed on the burning ship until the last moment and then steered the lifeboat through the storm to a small island in the vicinity, where they found refuge in a cave.
据哈里所说，汤姆根本没有逃跑；他一直留在燃烧的船上坚持到最后一刻，然后驾驶救生艇穿过风暴，来到附近的一座小岛，他们在一个山洞里找到了避难之处。

The letter also contained a shocking claim: the ship had not been sunk by the enemy, but by an explosion caused by the captain's own error.
信中还有一个令人震惊的说法：这艘船不是被敌人击沉的，而是被舰长自己的失误引发的爆炸炸沉的。

That night the captain had been drinking with his mistress, a singer who had secretly come on board, and he had thrown a burning cigaret near the fuel store.
那天晚上，舰长一直在和偷偷上船的情妇——一位歌手——喝酒，他把一根点着的香烟扔在了燃料库附近。

To hide his deed, he had blamed the enemy, and he had accused Tom, who knew the truth, of desertion.
为了掩盖自己的所作所为，他把责任推给了敌人，并指控知道真相的汤姆擅离职守。

He had even attempted to bluff his way through the inquiry, and he was so powerful that nobody dared to chase the truth.
他甚至试图在调查中蒙混过关，而他权势很大，没有人敢去追查真相。

Daniel read the letter three times, and his hands were shaking.
丹尼尔把那封信读了三遍，双手都在发抖。

But a single letter was not enough.
但仅凭一封信是不够的。

Daniel knew that other historians would demand proof of its authenticity.
丹尼尔知道，其他历史学家会要求证明它的真实性。

He sent the letter to a laboratory, where experts tested the paper and the ink, and they confirmed that it was genuine.
他把信送到了一家实验室，专家们检测了纸张和墨水，确认它是真的。

Then he searched the shipping records and found that a fishing boat had picked up seven sailors from a small island two days after the storm.
接着，他查阅了航运记录，发现风暴过后两天，一艘渔船从一座小岛上救起了七名水手。

The fisherman's diary even mentioned "a brave young sailor called Tom, who would not eat until the others had eaten."

那个渔民的日记里甚至提到了“一个名叫汤姆的勇敢的年轻水手，他坚持等其他人都吃过了自己才吃。”

Clara helped him, too; with her skill with numbers, she checked the ship's fuel records and found that they had been changed by several hundred litres, partly to hide a dangerous substance that had been stored near the engines.

克拉拉也帮了他；她凭着处理数字的本领，核查了船上的燃料记录，发现有几百升的数据被改动过，部分原因是为了掩盖存放在发动机附近的一种危险物质。

Piece by piece, the true story was coming together.

一点一点地，真实的故事逐渐拼凑完整了。

The results were encouraging, and even Daniel was amazed by how much he had found.

结果令人鼓舞，就连丹尼尔自己也对找到这么多东西感到惊讶。

Daniel wrote a long article about his findings, with a full bibliography of all his sources.

丹尼尔把他的发现写成了一篇长文，附上了所有资料来源的完整参考书目。

He condensed eighty years of history into twenty pages, and before he finalized the text, he deleted every sentence that he could not prove.

他把八十年的历史浓缩成了二十页，在定稿之前，他删掉了每一个他无法证实的句子。

A national newspaper published it, and its editorial page called for justice for Tom Wilson.

一家全国性报纸刊登了这篇文章，并在社论版上呼吁为汤姆·威尔逊伸张正义。

The story was also discussed in a webcast that thousands of people watched online, and suddenly the forgotten sailor was in the spotlight.

成千上万的人在网上观看的一场网络直播节目也讨论了这个故事，这位被遗忘的水手突然成了人们关注的焦点。

At first the navy was defensive and refused to comment, and some officers even tried to retaliate by attacking Daniel's research methods.

起初，海军采取守势，拒绝发表评论，一些军官甚至试图通过攻击丹尼尔的研究方法来进行反击。

They said that his work was based on a variety of weak sources and that he was perpetuating a family myth.

他们说，他的研究建立在各种不可靠的资料之上，他是在延续一个家族神话。

Notwithstanding these attacks, the public interest was intense, and the pressure began to escalate.

尽管有这些攻击，公众的关注依然十分强烈，压力开始不断升级。

Families of other sailors from the Swift wrote to the newspaper, and some said that they had always had doubts about the captain's story.

“迅捷号”其他水手的家属纷纷给报社写信，有些人说，他们一直对舰长的说法心存怀疑。

The scandal was so big that people said it could even topple the minister.

这桩丑闻闹得太大，人们说它甚至可能让部长下台。

Finally, the Ministry of Defence agreed to open a new inquiry, and Daniel was invited to present his evidence.

最终，国防部同意重新展开调查，丹尼尔受邀提交他的证据。

In the days before he spoke, he could not sleep, and Clara had to console him and remind him that he had done everything he could.

发言前的那几天，他睡不着觉，克拉拉不得不安慰他，提醒他已经尽了全力。

The inquiry lasted three months.

调查持续了三个月。

The investigators studied every document under close scrutiny, and they even examined the remains of sailors that had been found near the wreck years later.
调查人员对每一份文件都进行了仔细审查，他们甚至检查了多年后在沉船附近发现的水手遗骸。

Using a single tooth and old dental records, they identified one of the missing men, and they measured the hole in the ship's side to the nearest centimeter.
他们凭借一颗牙齿和旧的牙科记录，确认了其中一名失踪者的身份，还把船身侧面那个洞精确地测量到了厘米。

The damage could be seen with the naked eye in old photographs, and its depth and breadth proved that the explosion had come from inside the ship, not from an enemy shell.
在旧照片里用肉眼就能看到这些损坏，而其深度和宽度证明，爆炸来自船的内部，而不是敌人的炮弹。

In the end, their report confirmed Daniel's findings.
最后，他们的报告证实了丹尼尔的发现。

The ship had been destroyed by an accident on board, and Tom Wilson had acted with remarkable courage.
那艘船是被船上的一次事故摧毁的，而汤姆·威尔逊表现出了非凡的勇气。

The report was a complete refutation of the charge of desertion.
这份报告彻底驳倒了擅离职守的指控。

The navy publicly apologised, and the minister said that the old decision had been "a tragedy and an injustice" with adverse consequences for a whole family.
海军公开道了歉，部长说当年的决定是“一场悲剧，也是一桩冤案”，给整个家庭带来了不幸的后果。

"The fate of one sailor may seem small," he said, "but justice is never small."
“一个水手的命运似乎微不足道，”他说，“但正义从来都不是小事。”

Tom Wilson was given a medal for bravery, eighty years after the storm, and Daniel himself received a nomination for a national history prize.
在那场风暴过去八十年后，汤姆·威尔逊被授予了一枚英勇勋章，丹尼尔本人也获得了一个国家历史奖项的提名。

The medal ceremony was held at the navy headquarters on a snowy morning in December.
授勋仪式于十二月一个下雪的早晨在海军总部举行。

Granny May was too weak to walk, so Daniel pushed her in a wheelchair, with a warm blanket around her knees.
梅奶奶太虚弱了，走不了路，于是丹尼尔推着轮椅送她去，她的膝盖上盖着一条暖和的毯子。

When an officer placed the medal in her hands, she looked at it in awe for a long time.
当一位军官把勋章放在她手里时，她敬畏地看了它很久。

Then she lifted her head and said in a clear voice, "My father was not a coward. Now everybody knows."
然后她抬起头，用清晰的声音说：“我父亲不是懦夫。现在大家都知道了。”

Many people in the room had tears in their eyes, and a young sailor played a slow song on a whistle.
房间里的许多人都热泪盈眶，一位年轻的水兵用哨笛吹奏了一首舒缓的曲子。

That night, at a dinner in her honour, Granny May raised a glass of grape juice and thanked her grandson for his courage and his commitment.
那天晚上，在为她举办的晚宴上，梅奶奶举起一杯葡萄汁，感谢她的孙子所表现出的勇气和执着。

Then she turned to Clara, with a little kick under the table at Daniel, and said, "And you, my dear, should marry this boy before somebody else does."

接着，她在桌子底下轻轻踢了丹尼尔一脚，转向克拉拉说：“还有你，亲爱的，你应该在别人抢先之前嫁给这个小伙子。”

Everyone laughed, and Daniel's face turned as red as an apple.
大家都笑了，丹尼尔的脸红得像个苹果。

Granny May knew that death was inevitable, but she was not afraid, and the pain seemed to diminish now that her wish had come true.
梅奶奶知道死亡是不可避免的，但她并不害怕；如今心愿已了，痛苦似乎也减轻了。

She lived until the spring.
她一直活到了春天。

In her last weeks she seemed happy and at peace, and she often sat by the window, watching the apple trees blossom.
在她生命的最后几周里，她看起来快乐而平静，常常坐在窗边，看着苹果树开花。

The flowers she had planted by the door had withered in the winter, but now new ones were coming up through the soil.
她种在门边的花在冬天枯萎了，但现在新的花正从土里冒出来。

One morning, the nurse found her asleep forever, with her father's medal in her hand.
一天早上，护士发现她永远地睡着了，手里握着她父亲的勋章。

At her funeral, Daniel said that history is not only about kings and wars, but about ordinary people and their courage.
在她的葬礼上，丹尼尔说，历史不只是关于国王和战争，也关于普通人和他们的勇气。

"The truth may be hidden for a long time," he said, "but it always finds a way to manifest itself."
“真相可能被掩盖很久，”他说，“但它总会找到办法显现出来。”

Then he said goodbye to her, and he felt that a long chapter of his family's history had finally closed.
然后他向她道了别，他觉得自己家族史上漫长的一章终于画上了句号。

A year later, Daniel finally finished his novel.
一年后，丹尼尔终于写完了他的小说。

It was a story about a young sailor, a terrible storm, and a daughter who never lost faith in her father.
这是一个关于一位年轻水手、一场可怕的风暴，以及一个从未对父亲失去信心的女儿的故事。

The book won wide recognition, and Daniel gave all the royalty money to a fund for the families of sailors who had died at sea.
这本书获得了广泛的认可，丹尼尔把所有的版税都捐给了一个为海上遇难水手家属设立的基金。

On the first page he wrote a short line: "For Granny May, who taught me that the truth is worth fighting for."
在扉页上，他写了一句简短的话：“献给梅奶奶，是她教会了我：真相值得为之奋斗。”

消防员的女儿

本篇使用 List 12 单词 267/267 个（加粗处为首次出现）

Sarah grew up in a small provincial town by the shore, where her father was a fireman and her mother worked in accounting at a local bank.

莎拉在海边一个小小的外省城镇长大，她的父亲是一名消防员，母亲在当地一家银行做会计。

Their house was small but comfortable, with a garage full of tools and an old couch where her father slept after his night shifts.

他们的房子不大，却很舒适，车库里堆满了工具，还有一张旧沙发，父亲值完夜班后就在上面睡觉。

They had a small mortgage on the house, but it was affordable, and her mother managed every transaction with great care.

房子还有一小笔按揭贷款，但负担得起，她母亲把每一笔收支都管理得井井有条。

Her parents differed in many ways: neither of them liked the same music, and while her mother was quiet, her father was full of fun.

她的父母在许多方面都不一样：他们俩喜欢的音乐没有一首是相同的，母亲安静内敛，父亲却风趣十足。

Her mother liked to sing while she cooked, and she made creamy soup and chocolate cookies, and Sarah was always allowed to lick the spoon.

她母亲喜欢一边做饭一边唱歌，她会做奶油浓汤和巧克力曲奇，莎拉总是可以舔勺子。

There was a magnet on the fridge in the shape of a rabbit, and a basin of salt water by the door for washing the sand off their feet after the beach.

冰箱上有一块兔子形状的磁铁，门边放着一盆盐水，从海滩回来时用来冲掉脚上的沙子。

Her father was tall and slim, and his uniform had been made by the old tailor in the town, whom everyone knew.

她父亲又高又瘦，他的制服是镇上那位人人都认识的老裁缝做的。

He was a pioneer of fire safety in the town, and every summer he ran a small booth at the town fair to teach children what to do in a fire.

他是镇上消防安全工作的先驱，每年夏天，他都在镇上的集市上开设一个小摊位，教孩子们遇到火灾时该怎么做。

In summer the family went to camp in the hills, and Sarah would dash ahead to find the best place for the tent.

夏天，一家人去山里露营，莎拉总是冲在前面去找搭帐篷的最佳位置。

Sometimes her mother took her to the art gallery in the town, but Sarah always got bored, unless there were paintings of the sky.

有时她母亲带她去镇上的美术馆，但莎拉总是觉得无聊，除非那里有描绘天空的画。

On Sunday afternoons the family played badminton in the yard, and in winter they went to skate on the frozen lake.

星期天下午，一家人在院子里打羽毛球，冬天则去结冰的湖上滑冰。

Her favourite toy was a small metal jet, and she could spend hours lying on the floor, making it fly towards the ceiling.

她最喜欢的玩具是一架小小的金属喷气式飞机，她能躺在地板上玩上好几个小时，让它朝着天花板“飞”去。

"When I grow up, I am going to be a captain and fly real planes," she said, and her father never laughed at her dream.

“我长大了要当机长，开真正的飞机。”她说，而她的父亲从来没有嘲笑过她的梦想。

He told her that every dream needs hard work and persistence, and he helped her build model planes in the garage.
他告诉她，每个梦想都需要努力和坚持，他还在车库里帮她做飞机模型。

He explained the design of each plane, and he said that the creator of the first plane had been called crazy by ignorant people.
他给她讲解每架飞机的设计，还说第一架飞机的发明者曾被无知的人称为疯子。

Sarah became obsessed with flying, and she spent hours browsing books about famous pilots.
莎拉迷上了飞行，她花好几个小时翻阅有关著名飞行员的书。

In geography class she loved maps more than anything, and she could name the capital of almost every country in the world.
在地理课上，她最喜欢的就是地图，她几乎能说出世界上每个国家的首都。

When Sarah was seventeen, her life changed in a single night.
莎拉十七岁那年，她的生活在一夜之间改变了。

A drunken man dropped a cigarette in an old tower block near the harbour, a fire broke out, and her father was one of the first firemen to arrive.
港口附近的一栋旧塔楼里，一个醉汉扔下了一支烟，引发了火灾，她的父亲是最早赶到的消防员之一。

He carried a handful of children out of the building, but when he went back for an old woman on the upper floor, the roof fell in.
他把几个孩子抱出了大楼，但当他回去救楼上的一位老太太时，屋顶塌了下来。

The firemen tugged at the heavy hoses for hours, but the resultant smoke was so thick that they could not reach him in time.
消防员们拖着沉重的水管奋战了好几个小时，但随之而来的浓烟太大，他们没能及时救出他。

He was the only fatality that night.
他是那天晚上唯一的遇难者。

At his funeral, the whole town stood silent, and a young fireman read a poem that he had composed himself.
在他的葬礼上，全镇的人都默默地站着，一位年轻的消防员朗读了一首他自己写的诗。

Lastly, the priest quoted a line from the Bible: "Greater love has no one than this."
最后，牧师引用了《圣经》中的一句话：“人为朋友舍命，人的爱心没有比这更大的。”

Later the town erected a small statue of him near the fire station.
后来，镇上在消防站附近为他立了一座小雕像。

Sarah could not cry; she felt only a cold horror, and for weeks she could not sleep.
莎拉哭不出来；她只感到一种冰冷的恐惧，好几个星期都睡不着觉。

The only consolation was the generosity of their neighbours, who brought food, did the housework, and sat with her mother in the evenings.
唯一的安慰是邻居们的慷慨相助，他们送来食物，帮忙做家务，晚上还陪着她母亲。

For a year Sarah lived in a gloomy silence, and she almost became a school dropout.
有一年的时间，莎拉生活在阴郁的沉默中，差点就辍学了。

Her exhaustion was not of the body but of the heart.
她的疲惫不是身体上的，而是心里的。

It was her physics teacher who saved her.
是她的物理老师挽救了她。

Sarah had trouble with mathematics at that time, and her grades showed that she was deficient in several subjects.
那时莎拉的数学有困难，成绩单显示她有好几门功课都不及格。

She was an inspirational woman who had once worked in aviation, and she noticed that Sarah still drew planes on every page of her notebook.
她是一位能鼓舞人心的女士，曾经在航空业工作过，她注意到莎拉仍然在笔记本的每一页上都画着飞机。

"Your father would want you to fly," she said. "Don't let grief deprive you of your passion."
“你爸爸会希望你去飞的，”她说，“别让悲伤夺走你的热情。”

She told Sarah that education was a kind of enlightenment, and that things like courage and hope were intangible but very real.
她告诉莎拉，教育是一种启蒙，像勇气和希望这样的东西虽然看不见摸不着，却是非常真实的。

She taught her how to convert kilometres per hour into knots, how to make a quick approximation of a plane's speed, and how to read graphic weather maps.
她教莎拉如何把每小时多少公里换算成节，如何快速估算飞机的速度，以及如何看图形化的气象图。

"An approximate answer is better than no answer," she said, "but a pilot must always check it."
“近似的答案总比没有答案好，”她说，“但飞行员必须总是加以核对。”

She helped Sarah prepare for the entrance exam of a vocational flight school, and she lent her a pile of books and stationery.
她帮莎拉准备一所飞行职业学校的入学考试，还借给她一大堆书和文具。

Sarah's face, which had been so empty, became expressive again, and she studied late into the night, and slowly the feeling of hope came back to her.
莎拉原本空洞的脸又变得生动起来，她学到深夜，希望的感觉慢慢地回到了她的心里。

She passed the exam with excellent marks, and in August she left home for the first time.
她以优异的成绩通过了考试，八月份，她第一次离开了家。

The training was demanding, and the students lived in compact rooms near the airfield.
训练要求很高，学员们住在机场附近狭小的房间里。

The students had to learn the structure of a jet engine, the elements of weather, and the measurement of speed and height down to the last metre.
学员们必须学习喷气发动机的构造、气象的各种要素，以及精确到米的速度和高度测量。

They studied graphs of air pressure, compound calculations, and the configuration of every switch in the cockpit.
他们学习气压图、复杂的计算，以及驾驶舱里每一个开关的布局。

They also had to take a course in economics, and they practised their hand and eye coordination for hours in a flight simulator.
他们还得上一门经济学课程，并在飞行模拟器里花好几个小时练习手眼协调。

They learned about the stability of a plane, the weight of every load it carried, and the strange phenomenon of ice forming on the wings.
他们学习飞机的稳定性、飞机所载每一批货物的重量，以及机翼上结冰这种奇怪的现象。

Most of the students were young men, and a few of them were conceited and scornful towards the handful of women in the class.

大多数学员都是年轻男子，其中有几个自负的人对班上为数不多的几个女生不屑一顾。

"Women are too delicate for this work," one of them said, in a tone that annoyed everyone.
“女人干这份工作太娇气了。”其中一人说，他的语气让所有人都很反感。

At that time the predominance of men in aviation was still very strong, and Sarah was the sole woman in her group.
那时，男性在航空业中的主导地位依然非常强大，莎拉是她那个小组里唯一的女性。

She felt a growing annoyance, but she knew that anger would not win her equality.
她越来越恼火，但她知道，发怒并不能为她赢得平等。

Sarah did not yell or argue; she simply worked harder, and she began to excel in every subject.
莎拉既没有大喊大叫，也没有争辩；她只是更加努力，开始在每一门课上都名列前茅。

She handled criticism with tact and tolerance, but she never let anyone intimidate her.
她以机智和宽容对待批评，但从不让任何人吓倒她。

In her final exam she got the highest score in the history of the school, and even the man who had insulted her had to admit that she was the best.
在期末考试中，她取得了该校历史上的最高分，就连那个曾侮辱过她的人也不得不承认她是最优秀的。

It was her first great accomplishment, and her mother cried with joy when she heard the news.
这是她的第一个重大成就，她的母亲听到这个消息时高兴得哭了。

Her teacher wrote to her: "You have helped to pave the way for the girls who will come after you. That is marvellous."
她的老师给她写信说：“你为后来的女孩们铺平了道路。这真是了不起。”

After graduation, Sarah joined a large airline with a worldwide network of routes.
毕业后，莎拉加入了一家航线网络遍布全球的大型航空公司。

The company was in the middle of a big recruitment campaign, and its slogan was "Flying the World Together."
公司正在进行大规模招聘，口号是“一起飞向世界”。

For seven years she worked as a co-pilot, flying jets to cities across the globe.
七年来，她一直担任副驾驶，驾驶喷气式飞机飞往全球各地的城市。

Her life became a succession of airports, hotels and time zones, and she flew back and forth between continents so often that she sometimes forgot what day it was.
她的生活变成了一个接一个的机场、酒店和时区，她在各大洲之间往返得太频繁，有时都忘了今天是星期几。

She loved the beautiful view from the cockpit: the wavy lines of the coast, the yellow fields of rape flowers in spring, and the eagles that sometimes flew beside the plane after takeoff.
她喜欢从驾驶舱里看到的美丽景色：海岸线起伏的曲线、春天里一片片金黄的油菜花田，还有起飞后有时在飞机旁边飞翔的鹰。

She also loved the people: the cabin crew, the passengers in transit, and the foreigners who smiled at her and called her "madam."
她也喜欢那些人：客舱机组、转机的乘客，还有那些对她微笑、称她“女士”的外国人。

Then the airline went through privatization.
后来，这家航空公司进行了私有化。

A new owner, who had a huge portfolio of companies around the world, bought most of the stock, and he wanted to globalize the business and commercialise every part of it.

一位在世界各地拥有大量公司的新老板买下了大部分股份，他想让公司的业务全球化，让它的每一个部分都商业化。

He invested heavily in advertising and merchandise, and the airline soon sold its own ware in every airport, from toys to elegant silk blouses.
他在广告和商品上投入了大量资金，很快，这家航空公司就在每个机场都卖起了自己的商品，从玩具到优雅的丝绸女衬衫，应有尽有。

He replaced the check-in staff with robotic machines, and he put recyclable cups on every flight with the words "Sustainable Flying" printed on them.
他用机器人值机设备取代了值机人员，还在每个航班上使用印有“可持续飞行”字样的可回收杯子。

But many people said that his real motive was vanity, not concern for the planet.
但许多人说，他真正的动机是虚荣，而不是关心地球。

The market was very competitive, and to increase profit, he cut costs everywhere.
市场竞争非常激烈，为了增加利润，他在各个方面都削减成本。

His methods were far from orthodox: maintenance checks that had once been mandatory were now delayed, and the workforce in the engineering branch was cut by thirty percent.
他的做法一点也不正统：曾经强制进行的维修检查现在被推迟了，工程部门的员工被裁掉了百分之三十。

The company also began to use cheaper fuel and cheaper parts, and there were rumours that some parts had been bought from a so-called "partner" who had stolen them from other airlines.
公司还开始使用更便宜的燃油和零件，有传言说，一些零件是从一个所谓的“合作伙伴”那里买来的，而这些零件是那人从其他航空公司偷来的。

Many pilots were concerned, but they were afraid to speak, because the new managers treated complaints as disloyalty.
许多飞行员都很担忧，但他们不敢说话，因为新的管理层把投诉看作是不忠。

A few experienced pilots left for other airlines, but the company called each defection "a normal part of business" and did not take the warnings into consideration.
几位经验丰富的飞行员跳槽去了其他航空公司，但公司把每一次跳槽都称为“正常的商业现象”，根本没把这些警告放在心上。

One evening in winter, Sarah was preparing for a flight when she noticed something wrong.
冬天的一个傍晚，莎拉正在为一次飞行做准备，这时她发现有些地方不对劲。

A small crack, less than a millimetre wide, had appeared in a part of the engine, and the record showed that the part had not been checked for months.
发动机的一个部件上出现了一道不到一毫米宽的细小裂缝，记录显示这个部件已经好几个月没有检查过了。

According to the safety rules, the plane had to stay on the ground until the part was replaced.
按照安全规定，在这个部件被更换之前，飞机必须停在地面上。

But a manager came to the cockpit and told her to fly anyway, because a delay would cost the company thousands of dollars.
但一位经理来到驾驶舱，叫她照飞不误，因为延误会让公司损失好几千美元。

"The crack is tiny," he said. "Your presumption that it is dangerous is arguable, and I can authorize the flight myself."
“裂缝很小，”他说，“你认为它很危险，这种推断是有争议的，我可以亲自批准这次飞行。”

"There is no ambiguity in the rules," Sarah answered. "And I am the one who will be flying this plane."
“规定里没有任何模糊之处，”莎拉回答说，“而且，开这架飞机的人是我。”

She also discovered that somebody had disabled a warning light in the cockpit, so that the crack would not show up on the screen.
她还发现，有人关掉了驾驶舱里的一个警告灯，这样裂缝就不会在屏幕上显示出来。

The answer was straightforward: without permission from the engineers, she would not fly.
答案很简单：没有工程师的许可，她不会起飞。

She refused to take off, and the flight was cancelled.
她拒绝起飞，航班被取消了。

Two days later, the company suspended her, alleging that she had caused the cancellation "without proper reason."
两天后，公司停了她的职，声称她“在没有正当理由的情况下”造成了航班取消。

Sarah was angry and hurt, and she decided to take the train home to see her mother.
莎拉又气又伤心，她决定坐火车回家看望母亲。

She sat in a quiet compartment and watched the dark fields slide past the window, while a policeman with a pistol on his belt walked up and down the corridor.
她坐在一个安静的车厢包间里，看着黑漆漆的田野从窗外掠过，一名腰间别着手枪的警察在走廊里来回走动。

Suddenly there was a terrible noise, the carriage shook violently, and she was thrown against the wall.
突然传来一声可怕的巨响，车厢剧烈地摇晃起来，她被甩到了墙上。

The train had come off the rails on a sharp bend.
火车在一个急转弯处脱轨了。

When Sarah opened her eyes, her own carriage was intact, but the one in front was lying on its side, and smoke was coming from it.
莎拉睁开眼睛时，她所在的车厢完好无损，但前面那节车厢侧翻在地，正冒着烟。

She remembered everything her father had taught her about fire, and she ran towards the smoke.
她想起了父亲教给她的关于火的一切，朝着冒烟的地方跑了过去。

Inside the broken carriage, a man was trapped under a seat, and a young waitress from the dining car was holding a crying baby.
在那节损坏的车厢里，一个男人被压在座椅下面，餐车的一位年轻女服务员抱着一个哭闹的婴儿。

Sarah used a piece of metal as a wedge to lift the seat, and with great exertion she pulled the man out.
莎拉用一块金属当楔子把座椅撬起来，费了很大的劲才把那个男人拉了出来。

His leg was hurt, so he walked with a limp, and there was a deep cut on his head, but his skull did not seem to be broken.
他的腿受了伤，走路一瘸一拐的，头上有一道很深的伤口，但他的头骨似乎没有骨折。

She tore a piece of lace from her scarf to stop the bleeding, and then she led everyone away from the smoke.
她从围巾上撕下一条花边来给他止血，然后带着大家远离浓烟。

Within minutes the carriage was on fire, but every passenger had escaped.
几分钟之内，那节车厢就着火了，但所有乘客都已经逃了出来。

The young waitress kept saying, "You saved our lives. You were like an angel, not a devil in that smoke."
那位年轻的女服务员不停地说：“是你救了我们的命。在那片浓烟里，你就像天使一样。”

When the real firemen arrived, their captain looked at her and said, "You must have been trained by one of us."

真正的消防员赶到时，他们的队长看着她说：“你一定受过我们消防员的训练。”

"My father was a fireman," she said quietly.

“我父亲是消防员。”她轻声说。

The derailment was big news, and a reporter wrote a long article about "the pilot who saved a train."

这次脱轨事故成了重大新闻，一位记者写了一篇长文，讲述“救了一列火车的飞行员”的故事。

When he asked her why she had been on the train instead of in a plane, Sarah told him the whole story about the airline.

当他问她为什么在火车上而不是在飞机上时，莎拉把航空公司的事情原原本本地告诉了他。

Newspapers began to speculate about what else the airline was hiding, and the article caused a scandal.

各家报纸开始猜测这家航空公司还隐瞒了些什么，这篇文章引起了一桩丑闻。

Other pilots began to speak, and soon there was a national controversy about safety in the airline industry.

其他飞行员也开始站出来说话，很快，全国就掀起了一场关于航空业安全问题的争论。

Throughout the country, the public discourse was full of anger, and a democrat senator called for new laws to protect pilots who spoke out.

在全国各地，公众的议论中满是愤怒，一位民主党参议员呼吁制定新的法律，保护那些敢于直言的飞行员。

It became a divisive issue: some people saw Sarah as a hero, while others said she was an enemy of business.

这成了一个引起分歧的问题：一些人把莎拉看作英雄，另一些人则说她是商界的敌人。

The company tried to fight back with propaganda and propagated false stories about her, calling Sarah a "disloyal subordinate" who wanted to alienate passengers from the airline.

公司试图用宣传手段反击，散布关于她的虚假传言，称莎拉是一个“不忠的下属”，想让乘客疏远这家航空公司。

Some people said she was only looking for attention, and that her story was an absurdity.

有些人说她只是想出风头，她的说法荒谬可笑。

The company's lawyers even called the reporter's article "garbage," and they tried to exclude him from the airline's press conferences.

公司的律师们甚至称那位记者的文章是“垃圾”，还试图不让他参加航空公司的新闻发布会。

For a few weeks Sarah felt that she was the victim of a kind of persecution.

有那么几个星期，莎拉觉得自己成了某种迫害的受害者。

But the evidence was evident to anyone who looked at it.

但对任何看过证据的人来说，事实都是显而易见的。

The government ordered a thorough investigation, and inspectors began to scrutinise every plane in the company's fleet.

政府下令进行彻底调查，检查员开始仔细检查这家公司机队里的每一架飞机。

The checks were long and invasive, and they found that dozens of engines had been neglected, and that some parts were not even existent in the official records.

检查过程漫长而深入，他们发现数十台发动机都疏于维护，有些零件在官方记录中甚至根本不存在。

There was a clear correlative link between the cuts in maintenance and the number of small problems reported by pilots.
维修上的削减和飞行员报告的小故障数量之间存在着明显的相关联系。

The company's own compliance office had warned the managers about the degradation of safety standards, but the warnings had been ignored.
公司自己的合规部门曾就安全标准的下降向管理层发出过警告，但这些警告都被无视了。

Investigators also discovered that a manager had tried to bribe an inspector, and that the company had kept a secret backup of the real maintenance records electronically.
调查人员还发现，一位经理曾试图贿赂一名检查员，而且公司还以电子方式秘密保存了真实维修记录的备份。

When the inspectors found the backup, the managers could no longer keep up the pretence.
当检查员找到这份备份时，管理层再也无法继续装下去了。

One of them finally confessed, and he swore that he had only followed orders from above.
其中一人终于招供了，他发誓说自己只是在执行上级的命令。

The court found two managers guilty of theft, bribery, and the concealment of safety problems, and they were convicted and sent to prison.
法院判定两名经理犯有盗窃罪、行贿罪以及隐瞒安全问题罪，他们被定罪并送进了监狱。

The company's owner had to apologize in public, and the airline was forced to pay a heavy fine to the national treasury.
公司老板不得不公开道歉，航空公司被迫向国库缴纳了一大笔罚款。

In the wake of the scandal, the airline's new representative met Sarah to clarify her position, and a long mediation followed.
丑闻发生后，航空公司新的代表与莎拉会面，澄清她的地位问题，接着进行了漫长的调解。

It was a knotty problem, but in the end the company agreed to cancel her suspension and to pay her for the months she had lost.
这是一个棘手的问题，但最终公司同意撤销对她的停职处分，并补发她损失的几个月工资。

It also agreed to align its practices with international standards and to adopt new rules that stipulated mandatory checks for every engine, and no manager would be exempt from them.
公司还同意让自己的做法与国际标准保持一致，并采用新的规定，规定每台发动机都必须接受强制检查，任何管理人员都不能例外。

One stipulation was particularly important to Sarah: any pilot would have the right to refuse an unsafe flight without fear.
其中有一条规定对莎拉来说尤其重要：任何飞行员都有权拒绝执行不安全的飞行，而不必有任何顾虑。

Doubtless the company had learned an expensive lesson.
毫无疑问，公司上了代价高昂的一课。

Accordingly, it also had to forbid the use of any part that came from an unknown supplier.
相应地，公司还必须禁止使用任何来源不明的零件。

After the accident, Sarah's back hurt for months, and she could hardly sit for long.
事故之后，莎拉的背疼了好几个月，几乎没法久坐。

A doctor told her that there was no simple cure, but that some therapeutic exercises might help.
一位医生告诉她，没有简单的治疗办法，但一些治疗性的锻炼可能会有帮助。

Her mother suggested acupuncture, an old oriental method that she believed could cleanse the body, and Sarah was surprised to find that it worked.

她母亲建议她试试针灸——一种她相信能净化身体的古老东方疗法，莎拉惊讶地发现它很有效。

The acupuncturist put thin pins along her back and her waist, then rubbed her shoulders with warm oil, and slowly the pain went away.
针灸师沿着她的背部和腰部扎上细细的针，然后用温热的油揉她的肩膀，疼痛慢慢地消失了。

During the same months, she also had to visit the dentist because of a cavity in one tooth, and a chemist gave her something for her headaches.
同样是在那几个月里，她还因为一颗牙齿有龋洞去看了牙医，一位药剂师给了她一些治头疼的药。

"Your body is telling you to slow down," her mother said, and for once Sarah listened.
“你的身体在告诉你要慢下来。”她母亲说，而这一次莎拉听进去了。

She spent a quiet month at home, walking along the shore, watching insects among the flower buds, and listening to the owls at night.
她在家里安静地待了一个月，沿着海岸散步，看花蕾间的小虫，夜里听猫头鹰的叫声。

The quiet town felt like a safe haven after the noise of the city, and she understood why city dwellers came there for holidays.
经历了城市的喧嚣之后，这个安静的小镇就像一个安全的避风港，她明白了为什么城里人会来这里度假。

She also read about the depletion of fish in the sea and the radiation from an old factory that had once endangered the coast, and she promised herself to learn more about the environment.
她还读到了海里鱼类资源枯竭的报道，以及一座旧工厂的辐射曾经危及这片海岸的往事，她暗下决心要更多地了解环境问题。

A cold spring had retarded the growth of the plants that year, but by May the fields were green again.
那一年，寒冷的春天延缓了植物的生长，但到了五月，田野又绿了。

A year after the derailment, after the renewal of her licence, Sarah was promoted to captain; at the age of thirty-two, she was one of the youngest captains in the airline.
脱轨事故一年后，在更新了执照之后，莎拉被提升为机长；三十二岁的她是这家航空公司最年轻的机长之一。

On her first flight as captain, the cabin crew put a small card on her seat: "To Captain Sarah, the fireman's daughter."
在她作为机长的第一次飞行中，客舱机组人员在她的座位上放了一张小卡片：“致莎拉机长，消防员的女儿。”

As the plane rose above the clouds, she thought of her father and the little toy jet she had played with on the floor.
当飞机升到云层之上时，她想起了父亲，还有她小时候趴在地板上玩的那架小玩具飞机。

She knew that he would be proud of her, not because she was a captain, but because she had done what was right.
她知道父亲会为她感到骄傲，不是因为她当上了机长，而是因为她做了正确的事。

"Wretched days come to everyone," she often told young pilots later, "but you can create something good out of them."
后来，她常对年轻的飞行员们说：“每个人都会遇到倒霉的日子，但你可以从中创造出美好的东西。”

玛雅第一次跟着舅舅去沙漠时，才十八岁。

She was a passionate young sportswoman who did yoga every morning and climbed rocks on weekdays after class.
她是一个充满激情的年轻女运动员，每天早上做瑜伽，工作日放学后去攀岩。

She also went to the gym for a workout every evening, and her coach said that her bodily strength and her balance were excellent.
她每天晚上还去健身房锻炼，教练说她的身体力量和平衡能力都非常出色。

At sixteen she had won a national climbing competition, although she was not yet an adult.
十六岁时，她就赢得了一场全国攀岩比赛，尽管那时她还没有成年。

When she was a little girl, she used to run home and shout, "Mommy, look!" every time she found a strange stone.
她还是个小女孩的时候，每次找到一块奇怪的石头，都会跑回家大喊：“妈妈，你看！”

Her mother was an economist and her father was a designer, but Maya had always been interested in stones and mountains.
她的妈妈是一位经济学家，爸爸是一名设计师，但玛雅一直对石头和山脉感兴趣。

Her uncle, Professor Ross, was the dean of geology at a prestigious university and a leading expert on the ancient history of the desert.
她的舅舅罗斯教授是一所名牌大学地质学院的院长，也是研究沙漠古代历史的权威专家。

He was a tall, handsome man with grey hair, and Maya had admired him since she was a child.
他身材高大、相貌英俊，头发已经花白，玛雅从小就很崇拜他。

He had taught himself four languages and could speak them with great fluency, and he was sincere and kind to everyone.
他自学了四种语言，而且说得非常流利，他对每个人都真诚而友善。

He often said that a scientist's first responsibility is to be honest, and that egoism and individualism have no place in a team.
他常说，科学家的首要责任是诚实，在团队里，利己主义和个人主义是没有立足之地的。

He also believed that climbing was good for the mind, because it trained cognitive skills such as planning, memory, and perception of danger.
他还认为攀岩对头脑有好处，因为它能锻炼诸如计划、记忆和对危险的感知等认知能力。

That summer he invited her to join his team as a voluntary assistant, and she accepted at once.
那年夏天，他邀请她作为志愿助手加入他的团队，她立刻就答应了。

Before they departed, she read every introductory book she could find, and she took a preparatory course in geometry and map reading.
出发之前，她读了所有能找到的入门书，还上了一门几何和识图的预备课程。

Her mother, who was neat and practical, packed her bag beforehand: jeans, a warm jacket for frosty nights, a tablet, a torch with spare bulbs, and a box of dental floss.

她那做事利落又讲究实际的妈妈提前帮她收拾好了行李：牛仔裤、一件夜里防寒的厚外套、一台平板电脑、一个带备用灯泡的手电筒，还有一盒牙线。

"Behave yourself, and don't do anything foolish," she said, and she kissed Maya on the cheek.
“要守规矩，别做傻事。”她说着，在玛雅的脸颊上亲了一下。

They took a shuttle bus from the city to the last small town, and then an old truck with a rusty ignition and weak brakes carried them along a perilous mountain road.
他们先坐班车从城里到最后一个小镇，然后坐一辆点火开关生了锈、刹车也不太灵的旧卡车，走了一段险峻的山路。

The team travelled for three days into a rocky canyon in the south, where there was little vegetation and almost no water.
团队一共走了三天，才向南进入一个岩石嶙峋的峡谷，那里几乎没有植被，也几乎没有水。

The last part of the journey was too steep for cars, so they hired mules from a local village, and an old rider called Mr. Kato, who was eighty years old but still strong, became their guide.
旅程的最后一段太陡，车开不上去，于是他们从当地一个村子雇了几头骡子，一位名叫加藤先生的老骑手成了他们的向导，他已经八十岁了，身体却依然硬朗。

He belonged to a small minority people who had lived in the canyon for many centuries.
他属于一个在这个峡谷里生活了许多个世纪的少数民族。

As a young man he had served in the navy, and he still wore his old naval cap, which he never took off.
年轻时他在海军服过役，至今仍戴着他那顶旧海军帽，从来不摘下来。

His village was small: there were a few residential houses made of stone, a school that the villagers were constructing with a cement mixer, and the ruins of an old tower.
他的村子很小：有几座石头砌的民居，一所村民们正在用水泥搅拌机建造的学校，还有一座古塔的废墟。

The women gathered every morning at the spring to wash clothes, and the children helped their parents weed the fields.
妇女们每天早上聚在泉边洗衣服，孩子们则帮父母给田地除草。

When visitors arrived, Mr. Kato blew a goat's horn, and everyone came out to greet them.
有客人来的时候，加藤先生就吹响一只羊角，大家都出来迎接。

His people grew vegetables in narrow fields, using an ancient system of irrigation that brought water from a spring in the rocks.
他的族人在狭窄的田地里种蔬菜，用一套古老的灌溉系统把岩石间泉眼里的水引过来。

Water was always in shortage, and the people had learned to use whatever they had with great care.
水总是短缺，人们学会了非常节约地使用手头的一切。

Their plants showed a remarkable adaptation to the desert, and their thick leaves had a high retention of water.
他们的植物表现出对沙漠惊人的适应能力，厚厚的叶子能保持大量的水分。

Mr. Kato told them that one corner of the canyon was taboo, and that no one in his village ever went there.
加藤先生告诉他们，峡谷的一个角落是禁地，他们村里从来没有人去过那里。

"My grandfather said that the spirits of an old monarch live there," he said in a solemn voice.
“我爷爷说，那里住着一位古代君王的灵魂。”他用庄重的语气说。

Professor Ross smiled politely, but Maya noticed that his eyes were bright with interest.
罗斯教授礼貌地笑了笑，但玛雅注意到，他的眼睛里闪着感兴趣的光芒。

The work was hard, and the heat was incredibly fierce.
工作很辛苦，而且热得出奇。

Every day they measured the rocks with great precision and took samples to study the erosive power of wind and water.
他们每天都非常精确地测量岩石，并采集样本来研究风和水的侵蚀力。

The professor explained the dynamics of the wind, and he said that the proximate cause of the canyon's shape was the alternation of very hot days and freezing nights.
教授讲解了风的运动规律，他说，造成峡谷这种形状的直接原因是酷热的白天和严寒的夜晚交替出现。

The temperature could change by more than thirty degrees in a single day.
一天之内，温度的变化可以超过三十度。

Some of the rocks had once been hot lava, which had solidified millions of years ago, and in the sunlight they showed a whole spectrum of colours.
有些岩石曾经是炽热的熔岩，在数百万年前凝固了，在阳光下呈现出五光十色。

Maya learned to use the classification system for rocks, and she wrote her findings in alphabetical order in a thick notebook.
玛雅学会了使用岩石分类系统，并按字母顺序把她的发现记在一个厚厚的笔记本上。

Initially, her notes were full of mistakes, and her uncle checked them every evening and made small corrections, but he said that she was highly observant for someone so young.
起初，她的笔记里满是错误，舅舅每天晚上都检查她的笔记，作一些小的修正，但他说，对于这么年轻的人来说，她的观察力非常敏锐。

At night they cooked spaghetti on a small stove, ate ham with a spicy dressing, and drank cold ale from metal cans; Mr. Kato once brought them a fat sheep and a bag of local spice, and they had a grand feast.
晚上，他们在小炉子上煮意大利面，吃配着辣味调料的火腿，从金属罐里喝冰凉的麦芽酒；有一次，加藤先生给他们送来一只肥羊和一袋当地的香料，他们美美地饱餐了一顿。

The coffee was bitter and the work was hard, but they chatted and laughed together like a family.
咖啡很苦，工作很累，但他们像一家人一样有说有笑。

Once a scorpion's sting sent a young student to bed for two days, so after that everyone was more watchful.
有一次，一个年轻学生被蝎子蜇了，在床上躺了两天，从那以后，大家都更加警惕了。

Then the professor set up a telescope, and they looked at the moon and the stars until the frosty air made them shake.
然后教授架起一台望远镜，他们看着月亮和星星，直到寒冷的空气冻得他们发抖。

Maya had never seen so many stars; the whole sky looked like an enormous black cloth covered in silvery dust.
玛雅从没见过这么多星星；整个天空就像一块巨大的黑布，上面撒满了银色的粉末。

One afternoon, Maya climbed alone towards the summit of the cliff to take photos, though her uncle had advised her never to go alone.
一天下午，玛雅独自朝悬崖顶上爬去拍照，尽管舅舅曾劝她千万不要独自行动。

An eagle was hovering above her, and she followed it with her camera until she came to a narrow shelf of rock.
一只鹰在她头顶盘旋，她用相机追着它拍，一直走到一块狭窄的岩架上。

She was on the rim of the canyon now, and she had to lean against the rock wall to keep her balance.
这时她已经到了峡谷的边缘，不得不靠在岩壁上才能保持平衡。

Behind a pile of fallen stones she saw a dark hole in the cliff: it was the entrance to a cave.
在一堆落石后面，她看到悬崖上有一个黑洞：那是一个山洞的入口。

She knew it was the taboo corner Mr. Kato had talked about, but her imagination and her instinctive curiosity were stronger than her fear.
她知道这就是加藤先生说过的那个禁地，但她的想象力和本能的好奇心胜过了恐惧。

She lit a candle, squeezed through the narrow opening, and stepped inside.
她点上一支蜡烛，从狭窄的洞口挤了进去。

What she saw made her heart beat fast.
眼前的景象让她的心怦怦直跳。

The walls were covered with colorful paintings of the moon, and on the floor there was a collection of ancient objects: brass bells, clay cylinders marked with lines, pots with intricate patterns, and a perfectly spherical stone.
洞壁上画满了色彩斑斓的月亮，地上还有一批古老的器物：黄铜铃铛、刻着线条的陶筒、带有复杂花纹的陶罐，还有一个滚圆的石球。

A long row of bells hung from a wooden peg in the wall, and when the wind blew through the cave, they made a soft, silvery sound.
墙上的一根木桩上挂着一长串铃铛，风吹过山洞时，它们发出轻柔清脆的声响。

Some of the pots still contained old seeds, and beside them lay a small bronze clasp that looked very valuable.
有些陶罐里还装着古老的种子，旁边放着一枚看上去非常贵重的小铜扣。

The thick rock was a natural insulator, and the solidity of the walls had protected the cave from the wind, so the air inside was cool, and everything had been kept in perfect condition.
厚厚的岩石是天然的隔热层，坚固的洞壁挡住了风，所以洞里的空气很凉爽，所有东西都保存得完好无损。

She took a few photos with her tablet and hurriedly went back down to tell her uncle.
她用平板电脑拍了几张照片，急急忙忙地下山去告诉舅舅。

When Professor Ross saw the photos, he could not speak for a moment.
罗斯教授看到照片时，有好一会儿说不出话来。

"This may be the most noteworthy discovery of my life," he finally said. "Whatever happens, we must protect it."
“这可能是我一生中最值得一提的发现，”他终于开口说，“不管发生什么，我们都必须保护它。”

The next morning the whole team went up to the cave, and they spent a week studying every artifact with great care.
第二天早上，整个团队都上山去了那个山洞，他们花了一周时间仔细研究每一件文物。

They swept the dust away with soft brushes, and they put the smallest objects into separate boxes.
他们用软刷子扫去灰尘，把最小的器物分别装进不同的盒子里。

The paintings showed the lunar cycle in a long array of circles, from the new moon to the full moon and back again.
这些壁画用一长排圆圈展示了月亮的盈亏周期，从新月到满月，再回到新月。

Beside them was a series of arcs and lines that seemed to show the movement of the sun at different times of the year.
旁边是一系列弧线和直线，似乎表示一年中不同时间太阳的运行轨迹。

The professor measured the angles and compared them with the latitude of the canyon, and the ratio between them was almost exact; different members of the team took several simultaneous measurements to make sure.
教授测量了这些角度，并将它们与峡谷的纬度作比较，两者之间的比例几乎完全吻合；为了确保准确，团队里的不同成员还同时进行了几次测量。

From these clues he inferred that the cave had been used as an observatory by an ancient people who knew far more about the sky than anyone had believed.
根据这些线索，他推断这个山洞曾被一个古老的民族用作观测台，而这个民族对天空的了解远远超出了人们的想象。

His inference was bold, and it went against the existing theories, which held that the people of the desert had no knowledge of astronomy before the invention of writing.
他的推论很大胆，与现有的理论相悖，那些理论认为，在文字发明之前，沙漠里的人们对天文学一无所知。

The calendar seemed to be a variant of systems that were found much later in classical Greece.
这部历法似乎是后来在古希腊发现的那些历法体系的一种变体。

"Basically, it is a calendar made of stone," he said. "The complexity of their knowledge is fantastic."
“简单地说，这是一本用石头做成的日历，”他说，“他们知识的复杂程度令人惊叹。”

He used an analogy that Maya never forgot: "These people read the sky the way we read a book."
他用了一个玛雅永远忘不了的比喻：“这些人读天空，就像我们读书一样。”

The stone sphere, they thought, might signify the earth or the moon, and the bells might have been rung in a ceremony at every full moon.
他们认为，那个石球可能象征着地球或月亮，而那些铃铛可能是在每个满月时的仪式上敲响的。

It was the culmination of the professor's long career, and he was as excited as a youngster, but he knew that the cave was not his: the villagers were its real stewards.
这是教授漫长职业生涯的巅峰，他兴奋得像个年轻小伙子，但他知道这个山洞并不属于他：村民们才是它真正的守护者。

But not everyone was happy about the discovery.
但并不是每个人都为这个发现感到高兴。

A few months earlier, a large mining company had found uranium in the canyon, and it had already asked the government for permission to mine the land.
几个月前，一家大型矿业公司在峡谷里发现了铀矿，并已经向政府申请开采这片土地。

The company was an affiliate of a foreign group, and after the recent privatisation of the national mining industry, the company had become very powerful, and its owner, who also owned a famous casino, was a prominent sponsor of several politicians.
这家公司是一个外国集团的附属公司，在国家采矿业最近私有化之后，这家公司变得非常强大，它的老板还拥有一家有名的赌场，是好几位政客的重要赞助人。

Its plan was to dig the uranium, refine it in a factory nearby, and sell it abroad, following a worldwide trend toward nuclear power.
它的计划是开采铀矿，在附近的一家工厂里提炼，然后卖到国外，以顺应全球发展核电的趋势。

The company promised jobs and tax money, and it made generous offerings to the local villages, including new roads, electricity, and envelopes full of banknotes for the village leaders.
公司承诺提供就业机会和税收，还向当地村庄提供了慷慨的“礼物”，包括新修的道路、电力，以及给村干部们装满钞票的信封。

Some villagers were seduced by the money, and they said that the cave was simply a pile of old rocks.
一些村民被钱打动了，他们说那个山洞不过是一堆旧石头而已。

The company even sent a manager to give each family a cheque, and he promoted the mine as "the best thing that could happen to this poor place."
公司甚至派了一位经理给每户人家送去一张支票，他把这座矿吹捧为“这个穷地方能遇到的最好的事情”。

Others were afraid: mining would deplete the spring that fed their fields, and a uranium leak could poison the water for many years.
另一些人则很害怕：采矿会耗尽灌溉他们田地的泉水，而铀泄漏可能会让水在许多年里都带有毒性。

The company asserted that the risk was minimal, but environmentalists said that this assertion was false and that its plans were highly destructive.
公司断言风险微乎其微，但环保人士说这种说法是错误的，它的计划具有极大的破坏性。

One environmentalist called the mine "a hazard to every living thing in the canyon."
一位环保人士称这座矿是“对峡谷中每一个生命的威胁”。

Professor Ross was deeply worried.
罗斯教授深感忧虑。

If the company began to mine, the cave would be destroyed, and an important piece of human history would be lost forever; such damage would not be reparable.
如果公司开始采矿，这个山洞就会被毁掉，一段重要的人类历史将永远消失；这样的损失是无法弥补的。

He consulted lawyers, collected all the available information about the site, wrote emails to the ministry, and gave interviews to newspapers.
他咨询了律师，收集了有关这个遗址的所有现有资料，给部里写了电子邮件，还接受了报纸的采访。

He was emphatic that the site must be protected, that the cave was intrinsically valuable, and that mining there would infringe the law on ancient monuments; it would be a clear breach of the rules.
他强调这个地方必须受到保护，这个山洞本身就具有极高的价值，在那里采矿会违反古迹保护法；这将是对规定的公然违背。

The company's lawyers answered that the law did not apply, because the cave was only a temporary discovery and its value was not yet proven.
公司的律师回应说，这条法律并不适用，因为这个山洞只是一个暂时的发现，它的价值还没有得到证明。

They also hired an economist who wrote a report emphasizing the economic benefits of the mine, and they called the professor's campaign an obstruction to progress.
他们还雇了一位经济学家写了一份报告，着重强调这座矿的经济效益，并把教授的行动称为对进步的阻碍。

Soon the argument became political.
很快，这场争论变成了政治问题。

Some reactionary politicians used nationalism to support the mine, saying that the minority people in the canyon were "standing in the way of the nation."
一些反动政客利用民族主义为开矿造势，说峡谷里的少数民族“阻碍了国家的发展”。

Their words were full of racism, and Maya was shocked to hear such ideas in the modern era.

他们的话充满了种族主义色彩，玛雅震惊地发现，在现代社会竟然还能听到这样的言论。

"They talk as if one race were better than another," she said sadly. "It is so sad and so old-fashioned."
“他们说话的口气就好像一个种族比另一个种族更高贵，”她难过地说，“这太可悲，也太陈腐了。”

The villagers decided to mobilize, and young people from the city came to support them; there was even a big demo in the capital, and the pressure on the government was mounting.
村民们决定行动起来，城里的年轻人也赶来支持他们；首都甚至还举行了一场大规模示威，政府面临的压力越来越大。

A few protesters began to show signs of militancy, and the police put several of them in detention for a night.
有几个抗议者开始表现出激进的倾向，警察把其中几个人拘留了一夜。

Mr. Kato, who did not like violence, tried to mediate between the protesters and the police, and he asked them to calm down. "Dissent is our right," he said, "but anger will only help our enemies."
不喜欢暴力的加藤先生努力在抗议者和警察之间调解，他请他们冷静下来。“表达不同意见是我们的权利，”他说，“但愤怒只会帮了我们的敌人。”

In the end, the government decided to hold a referendum in the region, and a judicial inquiry was set up to study the value of the cave.
最终，政府决定在该地区举行全民公投，并成立了一个司法调查组来研究这个山洞的价值。

The company was not happy with the decision, and it tried to push the inquiry to finish quickly.
公司对这个决定很不满，并试图催促调查组尽快结束调查。

While the inquiry was going on, Maya had an accident.
就在调查进行期间，玛雅出了意外。

She was climbing back to the cave with a team of experts, all of them exhausted after a long day, when a sudden storm hit the canyon with terrible intensity.
她正和一组专家往山洞爬回去，大家辛苦了一整天，都已经筋疲力尽，这时一场突如其来的暴风雨猛烈地袭击了峡谷。

The thunderous rain made the rocks slippery, and the stream at the bottom of the canyon began to swell with frightening speed.
雷鸣般的大雨让岩石变得湿滑，峡谷底部的溪水以惊人的速度上涨。

Maya lost her grip, fell several metres, and landed on a ledge just above the rushing water.
玛雅没抓稳，摔下去好几米，落在湍急的水流上方的一块岩架上。

The pain in her leg was terrible, and when she tried to stand, she staggered and fell again.
她腿上疼得厉害，想站起来时，摇摇晃晃地又摔倒了。

She had a fracture in her thigh, and her heel was badly hurt.
她的大腿骨折了，脚后跟也伤得很重。

For a moment she felt despair: the water was rising, and she was afraid she would drown.
有那么一瞬间，她感到绝望：水位在上涨，她害怕自己会被淹死。

But she remembered her training, and she used all her strength to pull herself onto a higher rock.
但她想起了自己受过的训练，用尽全身力气把自己拖到一块更高的岩石上。

Her phone was broken, so she took the whistle from her bag and blew it again and again.
她的手机摔坏了，于是她从包里拿出哨子，一遍又一遍地吹。

It was Mr. Kato who found her.

是加藤先生找到了她。

He had been watching the sky all afternoon, and when the storm began, he had sensed that something was wrong.
他整个下午都在观察天空，暴风雨开始时，他就感觉到出事了。

He came down a secret path that only his people knew, tossed her a rope, and pulled her to safety.
他从一条只有他们族人知道的秘密小路下来，扔给她一根绳子，把她拉到了安全的地方。

Then he checked her pulse, administered first aid, bound her leg to a straight stick to keep it still, and carried her on his mule through the dark to the village.
接着他测了她的脉搏，给她做了急救，把她的腿绑在一根直木棍上固定住，然后让她骑上他的骡子，摸黑把她送到了村里。

"You narrowly escaped death," the doctor at the hospital told her the next day.
“你差一点就没命了。”第二天，医院的医生对她说。

The doctor said that the combination of the cold and the pain could have killed her, and that the bone needed a small adjustment before it could heal properly.
医生说，寒冷和疼痛加在一起本来可能要了她的命，而且骨头需要稍作矫正才能正常愈合。

The treatment involved the infliction of a lot of pain, but Maya never cried.
治疗过程让她吃了很多苦头，但玛雅从没哭过。

She stayed in hospital for three weeks, and her uncle came to see her every day.
她在医院住了三个星期，舅舅每天都来看她。

"I regret bringing you here," he said sadly. "It was neglectful of me to let you climb in such weather; I was negligent, and I feel terrible."
“我真后悔带你来这里，”他难过地说，“让你在这样的天气里去攀爬，是我的疏忽；我太大意了，心里非常难受。”

"It wasn't your fault," Maya said. "I was the one who took the risk."
“这不是您的错，”玛雅说，“冒险的人是我。”

Her parents rushed to the hospital, and her mother's face showed both anger and suspicion when she heard the story, but in the end she only held her daughter's hand.
她的父母赶到了医院，她妈妈听到事情经过时，脸上既有怒气又有疑虑，但最后她只是握住了女儿的手。

"It was an incident that could have happened to anyone," her father said. "What matters is that she is alive."
“这种意外谁都可能碰上，”她爸爸说，“重要的是她还活着。”

While she was recovering, Maya did not waste her time.
在康复期间，玛雅并没有浪费时间。

She wrote an article about the cave, using simple vocabulary so that ordinary readers could understand it.
她写了一篇关于这个山洞的文章，用的都是简单的词汇，好让普通读者也能看懂。

She wrote quickly in shorthand first, and then made many revisions until the formulation of each idea was clear.
她先用速记法很快地写下来，然后反复修改，直到每个观点都表述得清楚明白。

She described the paintings, the bells, and the plight of the villagers, whose way of life was on the verge of being destroyed.
她描述了那些壁画、铃铛，以及村民们的困境——他们的生活方式正处于被毁灭的边缘。

She also wrote about Mr. Kato, who had saved her life, and about the ancient knowledge of his people.
她还写到了救了她一命的加藤先生，以及他的族人所拥有的古老知识。

Her article was published in a special edition of a national magazine, and soon it was being shared by many thousands of readers.
她的文章发表在一本全国性杂志的特刊上，很快就被成千上万的读者转发。

A famous writer even wrote a satire about the mining company, comparing its owner to a savage king who would sell his own grandmother for gold.
一位著名作家甚至写了一篇讽刺文章，把这家矿业公司的老板比作一个为了金子连自己的祖母都会卖掉的野蛮国王。

Soon the company's public rating fell sharply, and some investors withdrew their money.
很快，这家公司的公众评价急剧下降，一些投资者撤回了资金。

The referendum was held in the spring, when the desert flowers began to bloom.
全民公投在春天举行，那时沙漠里的花开始绽放。

Despite the company's money and its endorsement by several politicians, the majority of the people voted to protect the canyon, and the result was a great victory for the villagers.
尽管这家公司财大气粗，还有好几位政客为它背书，大多数人还是投票支持保护这个峡谷，这个结果是村民们的一次伟大胜利。

A month later, the judicial inquiry gave its verdict: the cave was a site of great historical value, and no mining would be allowed within twenty kilometres of it.
一个月后，司法调查组作出了裁决：这个山洞是一处具有重大历史价值的遗址，在它周围二十公里之内禁止任何采矿活动。

The judges deemed the mine too dangerous for both the cave and the spring, and they called for the complete elimination of the project.
法官们认为这座矿对山洞和泉水都太危险了，他们要求彻底取消这个项目。

Their decision placed new constraints on all mining in the desert, and environmentalists said it would be beneficial to the whole region.
他们的决定对沙漠里的所有采矿活动都施加了新的限制，环保人士说，这将对整个地区有益。

The company also had to repay the money it had received from the government for its early plans.
公司还必须偿还它为早期计划从政府那里获得的款项。

The villagers celebrated with music and dancing, and Mr. Kato rang one of the ancient bells for the first time in a thousand years.
村民们以音乐和舞蹈来庆祝，加藤先生敲响了其中一只古老的铃铛，这是一千年来它第一次被敲响。

Maya watched from her wheelchair, and she felt that they had achieved something important together.
玛雅坐在轮椅上看着，她觉得他们一起完成了一件重要的事情。

A year later, a small museum, aptly named the House of Silver Bells, was built near the village to display the relics from the cave.
一年后，村子附近建起了一座小博物馆，名字起得恰如其分，叫“银铃之家”，用来展出山洞里的文物。

At the opening ceremony, Maya walked without a stick for the first time since her accident.
在开馆仪式上，玛雅自出事以来第一次不用拐杖走路了。

Her uncle gave a speech, and he said that the cave belonged to everyone, but most of all to the people of the canyon, and that any future approach to the site must respect their beliefs and their occupation of the land.

她的舅舅发表了讲话，他说这个山洞属于每一个人，但首先属于峡谷里的人们，今后任何进入这个遗址的做法都必须尊重他们的信仰和他们世代居住在这片土地上的事实。

Then Mr. Kato stood up, and with great dignity he thanked the young woman who had found the cave.

接着，加藤先生站了起来，他神情庄重地向发现这个山洞的年轻姑娘表示感谢。

"She broke our taboo," he said with a smile, "but maybe the old monarch wanted her to find it."

“她打破了我们的禁忌，”他笑着说，“但也许是那位古代君王想让她找到它。”

Everyone laughed, and Maya felt that she had found not only a cave, but a second family.

大家都笑了，玛雅觉得，她找到的不只是一个山洞，还有第二个家。

Her head was still reeling with happiness as the bells rang softly in the wind, and she knew she would come back every year.

铃铛在风中轻轻作响，她的脑海里仍因幸福而眩晕，她知道自己每年都会回来。

List 14 Grandpa's Will

爷爷的遗嘱

本篇使用 List 14 单词 267/267 个（加粗处为首次出现）

Grandpa Joe had been a cowboy all his life.
乔爷爷当了一辈子牛仔。

As a poor young man he had worked on other people's ranches, sleeping under the stars and eating beans with onions and pepper.
年轻时他很穷，在别人的牧场上干活，露宿在星空下，吃的是配着洋葱和胡椒的豆子。

Later he bought a piece of wilderness that nobody wanted, and over sixty years he turned it into one of the finest cattle ranches in the West.
后来，他买下了一片没人要的荒野，在六十年的时间里，把它变成了西部最好的养牛场之一。

When he was young he could tame any wild horse, and he forged his own horseshoes over a small fire behind the barn.
年轻时，他能驯服任何一匹野马，还在谷仓后面的小火堆上亲手打马蹄铁。

The land had once belonged to tribal people, and unlike many settlers who came to colonize the West, Joe treated his tribal neighbours with mutual respect.
这片土地曾经属于部落民族，与许多来西部殖民的移民不同，乔和他的部落邻居们相互尊重。

He loved the cultural diversity of the valley, and he learned many words of their language.
他喜欢山谷里多元的文化，还学会了他们语言中的很多词。

In the war he had served in a troop of soldiers overseas, and he still kept an old sword in a rack on the wall.
战争期间，他曾随一支部队在海外服役，至今还把一把旧军刀放在墙上的架子里。

He married twice and outlived both of his wives, and to the people of the valley he was a hero, though he never liked that role.
他结过两次婚，两任妻子都先他而去；在山谷里的人们眼中，他是一位英雄，尽管他从不喜欢这个角色。

He had little education, but he had an admirable ability to understand people, and he believed that every human being deserved a second chance.
他没受过什么教育，但他有一种令人钦佩的识人能力，他相信每个人都值得拥有第二次机会。

By the time he died at ninety, he was a millionaire, although he still wore ragged jeans and drove an old tractor.
到他九十岁去世时，他已经是个百万富翁，尽管他仍然穿着破旧的牛仔裤，开着一台旧拖拉机。

His burial took place on a windy ridge above the ranch, as he had wished, and a small flock of birds flew over the grave as the coffin went down.
按照他的心愿，他被安葬在牧场上方一道多风的山脊上，棺木落下时，一小群鸟从坟墓上空飞过。

The funeral service was simple, because Grandpa had never cared for perfection or show.
葬礼仪式很简单，因为爷爷从来不追求完美，也不喜欢排场。

His first wife had worked as a typist in town before she married him, and his second wife had died of a fatal illness ten years before him.
他的第一任妻子在嫁给他之前在镇上当打字员，他的第二任妻子十年前死于一场致命的疾病。

Three grandchildren stood beside the grave, but they did not stand together.
三个孙辈站在坟墓旁边，但他们并没有站在一起。

Their mom had died when they were small, and their father had moved abroad, so Grandpa had been the grandparent who raised them every summer.
他们的妈妈在他们很小的时候就去世了，爸爸又搬到了国外，所以每年夏天都是爷爷这位祖辈把他们带大的。

Each of them felt a deep grief, but grief can make people sharp, and they had nowhere to put their pain.
他们每个人都深感悲痛，但悲痛会让人变得尖刻，而他们的痛苦又无处安放。

Jack, the eldest, was an executive at a big corporation in the city.
老大杰克是城里一家大公司的高管。

He lived a glamorous life, wore expensive suits, and was always impatient, checking his phone every minute.
他过着光鲜亮丽的生活，穿着昂贵的西装，总是很不耐烦，每分钟都要看一眼手机。

He jogged five miles every morning, kept his gym clothes in a locker at the office, and needed alcohol and sleeping medication to find any relaxation at night.
他每天早上慢跑五英里，把健身衣物放在办公室的储物柜里，晚上要靠酒和安眠药才能放松下来。

He enjoyed the anonymity of the big city, and he had become accustomed to a life in which nobody knew his neighbours.
他喜欢大城市里无人相识的状态，已经习惯了一种连邻居都不认识的生活。

He was possessive about his money and his time, and success had made him complacent.
他对自己的钱和时间看得很紧，成功让他变得自满。

Lucy, the middle one, was a shy photographer with long blonde hair who lived in another country with her wife and was fluent in three languages.
老二露西是一位腼腆的摄影师，留着一头金色的长发，和她的妻子住在另一个国家，能说三种流利的语言。

Years ago, when she told the family that she was gay, Jack had made a hurtful joke, and the two of them had not spoken since.
多年前，当她告诉家人自己是同性恋时，杰克开了一个伤人的玩笑，从那以后两人就再也没说过话。

For a while after that she had needed psychiatric help, and she still disliked big family gatherings.
那以后有一段时间，她需要接受心理治疗，至今仍不喜欢大型家庭聚会。

Grandpa had been the first in the family to accept her, and she had loved him more than anyone.
爷爷是家里第一个接纳她的人，她爱他胜过爱任何人。

Tom, the youngest, was an electrician in a small town, and he had a son called Sam, who was sixteen.
老三汤姆是小镇上的一名电工，他有个儿子叫萨姆，今年十六岁。

Sam was good at math, but he had had some disciplinary problems at his secondary school because of his aggression toward other boys.
萨姆数学很好，但他在中学里因为对其他男孩动粗而受过一些纪律处分。

He also played baseball in a youth league, and his coach said he was talented but had no patience.
他还在一个青少年联赛里打棒球，教练说他很有天赋，但缺乏耐心。

Two years earlier, Tom's wife had needed an organ transplantation, and the family was still paying the hospital bills.
两年前，汤姆的妻子需要做器官移植手术，一家人至今还在支付医院的账单。

Tom thought that Jack was a snob and that Lucy had forgotten her family, and he never hid his sarcasm; he loved the books of a famous satirist, and his humourous comments were often unkind.

汤姆觉得杰克是个势利眼，而露西则忘了自己的家人，他说话时从不掩饰自己的讥讽；他爱读一位著名讽刺作家的书，他那些幽默的话常常并不友善。

They were a quarrelsome family, and Grandpa's death had only made things worse.
他们是一个爱吵架的家庭，爷爷的去世只是让情况变得更糟。

Each of them yearned for Grandpa's love in a different way, and each one secretly believed that the family quarrel was somebody else's fault.
他们每个人都以不同的方式渴望得到爷爷的爱，每个人心里都认为家里的争吵是别人的错。

None of them understood the feelings that underlay their anger.
他们谁都不明白自己的愤怒背后隐藏着怎样的感情。

After the burial, the family lawyer asked them to come into the house to hear the will.
葬礼之后，家里的律师请他们进屋听遗嘱。

They sat apart in the cozy living room, on the old carpet in front of the fire, and nobody spoke.
他们分开坐在温馨的客厅里，坐在壁炉前的旧地毯上，谁也不说话。

The lawyer opened a large envelope and read the will in a voice full of solemnity.
律师打开一个大信封，用十分庄重的语气宣读了遗嘱。

Grandpa had left a little money to the people who worked on the ranch, but the ranch itself was to be shared by his three grandchildren, on one condition.
爷爷给在牧场工作的人们留了一点钱，但牧场本身将由他的三个孙辈共同继承，不过有一个条件。

They had to live and work on the ranch together for one week, from the Monday before Thanksgiving until Thanksgiving Day.
他们必须在牧场上一起生活和工作一个星期，从感恩节前的星期一一直到感恩节当天。

At the end of the week they had to agree, by a unanimous decision, what to do with the land.
在这一周结束时，他们必须以一致同意的方式决定如何处理这片土地。

If they could not agree, the whole ranch would go to a charity, and none of them would inherit a single penny.
如果他们达不成一致，整个牧场将捐给一家慈善机构，他们一分钱也继承不到。

The charity's committee and its treasurer had already been informed, and Grandpa had signed the papers in front of two witnesses.
那家慈善机构的委员会和财务主管都已经得到了通知，爷爷是在两位证人面前签署这些文件的。

Jack quickly worked out the monetary value of each share, down to the last decimal point.
杰克很快算出了每一份的金额，精确到小数点后最后一位。

He asked whether such a will was even legitimate, and he called it an infringement of their rights.
他质疑这样的遗嘱是否合法，并称这是对他们权利的侵犯。

The lawyer cited the law and explained that nobody could compel them to stay, but that if any of them left, the whole inheritance would go to the charity.
律师援引了法律条文，解释说没有人能强迫他们留下，但只要他们中有任何一个人离开，全部遗产都将归那家慈善机构所有。

"It's regrettable that he didn't trust us," Tom said.
“很遗憾，他不信任我们。”汤姆说。

Jack, who had been about to leave, said that his plane ticket could not be refunded, and he laughed with disbelief. "This is weird," he said. "He wants to trap us here like cattle."

本来正要离开的杰克说他的机票不能退，他难以置信地笑了。“这太奇怪了，”他说，“他想把我们像牛一样困在这里。”

"Presumably he wanted us to talk to each other," Lucy said quietly.
“他大概是希望我们能互相说说话吧。”露西轻声说。

"Well, he was naive," Tom said. "Nothing will make this family agree. God knows we have tried."
“那他可太天真了，”汤姆说，“没有什么能让这个家的人意见一致。天知道我们试过多少次了。”

The first day was a disaster, and it seemed destined to end in a fight.
第一天简直是一场灾难，似乎注定要以一场争吵告终。

Jack spent the morning on the phone with a broker, giving orders and never ceasing to complain, while Tom tried to fix a broken circuit in the barn and Lucy fed the goats.
杰克整个上午都在和一个经纪人打电话，发号施令，抱怨个不停，汤姆想修好谷仓里一处坏掉的电路，露西则在喂山羊。

The old ranch manager, a quiet man called Pete, had to dispatch them to their jobs like a teacher with a class of naughty children.
老牧场经理皮特是个沉默寡言的人，他不得不像老师对待一班调皮孩子一样，给他们分派任务。

The work was challenging for people who had lived in cities for so long.
对于在城市里生活了这么久的人来说，这些活儿很有挑战性。

The barn was messy, its sanitary conditions were poor, and ants ran across the floor, so Lucy spent a whole afternoon cleaning it.
谷仓里乱七八糟，卫生条件很差，蚂蚁在地上爬来爬去，于是露西花了一整个下午打扫。

Pete showed them how to mix a blend of hay and grain that contained every nutrient the cattle needed, plus a few ounces of salt for sodium.
皮特教他们如何把干草和谷物混合成一种饲料，里面含有牛所需要的各种营养，再加上几盎司盐来补充钠。

He also gave them a short orientation about the ranch: where the gates were, which horses were safe, and how to avoid harm when working near the bulls.
他还给他们简单介绍了一下牧场的情况：门在哪里，哪些马是安全的，以及在公牛附近干活时如何避免受伤。

Meanwhile, Lucy wrote everything down in a small note pad, as she always did when she was nervous.
与此同时，露西把一切都记在一个小记事本上，她一紧张总会这样做。

Water was scarce in winter, so they had to avoid wasting a single drop.
冬天水很少，所以他们必须避免浪费哪怕一滴水。

In the early morning the cold seemed to paralyze their fingers, and the smell of the animals permeated everything.
清晨的寒冷似乎让他们的手指都冻僵了，牲畜的气味弥漫在所有东西上。

The cattle had to be fed early in the morning, the water tanks had to be filled, and the fences had to be checked for any patch that needed repair.
一大早就得喂牛，要把水箱灌满，还要检查围栏，看有没有哪一段需要修补。

Jack, who was chewing gum and talking on the phone at the same time, hurt his back trying to lift a bag of feed onto a truck, and he complained loudly about the smell.
杰克一边嚼着口香糖一边打电话，想把一袋饲料扛到卡车上时扭伤了腰，还大声抱怨那股气味。

"This odor is in my clothes, my hair, everything," he said, but nobody felt sorry for him.
“这股味道沾满了我的衣服、头发，什么都是这个味儿。”他说，但没有人同情他。

In the evening the three of them ate in silence, and the monotony of the clock on the wall was the only sound in the kitchen.

晚上，三个人默默地吃饭，墙上时钟单调的滴答声是厨房里唯一的声音。

Each of them made the same erroneous assumption: that the others did not care about Grandpa at all.

他们每个人都作了同样错误的假设：认为其他人根本不在乎爷爷。

The next day, Jack finally told them his plan.

第二天，杰克终于说出了他的打算。

A large corporation wanted to buy the ranch and build a glamorous resort with a golf course, a hotel, and a new motorway to the city.

一家大公司想买下这个牧场，建造一个豪华度假村，有高尔夫球场、酒店，还有一条通往城市的新高速公路。

The deal was worth nearly a billion dollars, and the corporation's advertising team had already made a video that showed happy tourists on green grass.

这笔交易价值将近十亿美元，公司的广告团队已经制作了一段视频，展示游客们在绿草地上快乐游玩的情景。

Jack said that the corporation would dismantle the old barns, clear away the shrubbery, and build a fancy hotel where the cattle now grazed.

杰克说，公司会拆掉那些旧谷仓，清除灌木丛，在现在放牛的地方建一座豪华酒店。

He used his laptop to show them a projection of the profits, and he made the whole plan sound easy.

他用笔记本电脑给他们展示利润预测，把整个计划说得轻而易举。

"Each of us would be rich enough to stop working forever," Jack said, and he explained that the corporation was already holding bilateral talks with the state government about the new motorway.

“我们每个人都会富得永远不用再工作。”杰克说，他还解释说，公司已经在和州政府就新高速公路问题进行双边会谈。

Tom was angry. "Grandpa spent his life protecting this land, and you want to turn it into a playground for millionaires, with traffic and pollution everywhere?"

汤姆很生气。“爷爷用一辈子守护这片土地，你却想把它变成百万富翁的游乐场，到处都是车流和污染？”

"You're living in a fantasy," Jack answered. "Farming is in decline. Look at reality, and don't delude yourself."

“你活在幻想里，”杰克回答说，“农业正在衰落。看看现实吧，别自欺欺人了。”

The quarrel grew louder, and soon they were hurling old insults at each other, just as they had done when they were children; it was a terrible escalation, and Pete quietly left the room.

争吵越来越激烈，很快他们就互相抛出那些陈年的辱骂，就像小时候那样；争吵急剧升级，皮特悄悄地离开了房间。

Lucy left the room in tears, with a terrible sense of doom.

露西哭着离开了房间，心里有一种大难临头的感觉。

That evening, Lucy went down to the cellar to look for some wine, and she found a box that she had never seen before.

那天晚上，露西到地窖里去找酒，发现了一个她以前从没见过的箱子。

The cellar was dark and smelled of mould, and the box was covered with dust.

地窖里很暗，散发着霉味，箱子上落满了灰尘。

Next to it lay an old computer disk with a label in Grandpa's handwriting, and a letter that the mail carrier had delivered years before but that had never been opened.

箱子旁边放着一张旧电脑磁盘，上面贴着爷爷亲笔写的标签，还有一封多年前邮递员送来却从未拆开过的信。

Inside were dozens of notebooks, a pile of old photos, and a small certificate in a frame.
里面有几十本笔记本、一堆旧照片，还有一张装在相框里的小证书。

There was also an old music disc with a simple melody that Grandpa used to sing, and a few pages of serial stories he had cut out of the newspaper.
箱子里还有一张旧唱片，里面是爷爷过去常唱的一首简单的曲子，还有几页他从报纸上剪下来的连载故事。

The notebooks were Grandpa's diaries, a chronicle of more than sixty years on the ranch.
那些笔记本是爷爷的日记，记录了他在牧场上六十多年的生活。

His spelling was poor, he often used a noun where a verb should be, and his grammatical mistakes made her smile, but every page was full of life.
他的拼写很差，常常把该用动词的地方用成名词，那些语法错误让她忍不住发笑，但每一页都充满了生活气息。

The certificate was a medal for bravery from the war, and none of them had ever known about it.
那张证书是战争中颁发的英勇勋章证明，他们谁都不知道这件事。

Lucy brought the box upstairs, and for the first time that week, the three of them sat down together.
露西把箱子搬上楼，这一周里，三个人第一次坐到了一起。

They read the diaries late into the night, huddled together around the fire.
他们挤在壁炉边，一起读日记读到深夜。

They learned that Grandpa's own father had been a poor farmer who lost everything in a terrible drought, and that Grandpa had left school at twelve.
他们了解到，爷爷的父亲是一个贫穷的农民，在一场可怕的旱灾中失去了一切，而爷爷十二岁就辍学了。

They read about his first calf, his first good year, and the night he almost lost the ranch in a fire.
他们读到了他的第一头小牛、他的第一个好年景，还有他差点在一场大火中失去牧场的那个夜晚。

They read about the turbulent years when many ranches failed, and about a rumor that Grandpa had once been a victim of a fake land deal and lost half his money.
他们读到了许多牧场倒闭的那些动荡岁月，还有一个传闻：爷爷曾经被一笔假的土地交易骗过，损失了一半的钱。

They also read about a rare white whale he had seen on his only trip to the sea, and about the wings of an eagle that had nested on the ridge for twenty years.
他们还读到了他唯一一次去海边时见到的一头罕见的白鲸，以及一只在山脊上筑巢二十年的鹰展开的翅膀。

One passage was about the seduction of easy money: "Every year somebody offers me a fortune for this land, and every year I say no."
有一段写的是来得容易的钱有多么诱人：“每年都有人出一大笔钱要买这片地，每年我都拒绝了。”

"They talk about the notional value of the land, as if it were a number on paper," he had written. "But you cannot eat a number."
他写道：“他们谈论这片土地的名义价值，好像它只是纸上的一个数字。但数字是不能吃的。”

The old-fashioned mode of his writing was reminiscent of the cowboy stories they had loved as children.
他那老派的写作方式让他们想起了小时候喜欢读的牛仔故事。

They also found out why he had never sold the land, although many people had tried to buy it.
他们还知道了，尽管很多人想买这片土地，他为什么一直都没有卖。

"Land is not just a matter of money," he had written. "It nourishes the cattle, the cattle nourish the people, and the people must take care of the land. That is the ethic of a good farmer."

他写道："土地不仅仅是钱的问题。它养育了牛，牛养育了人，人就必须照顾好土地。这是一个好农民的道德准则。"

Every few pages there was something about the grandchildren: Jack's first baseball game, Lucy's first photo, Tom's first bike.
每隔几页就会写到孙辈们：杰克的第一场棒球比赛、露西拍的第一张照片、汤姆的第一辆自行车。

As they read, they began to reflect on their own lives, and the diaries showed them a facet of Grandpa that none of them had known.
读着读着，他们开始反思自己的生活，这些日记让他们看到了爷爷他们谁都不曾了解的一面。

In one entry, written ten years earlier, he had written about the family quarrel.
在十年前写的一篇日记里，他写到了家里的那次争吵。

"It breaks my heart to see my grandchildren apart," he wrote. "Jack is proud, Tom is stubborn, and Lucy is too gentle to fight. But each of them has a good heart. Maybe one day they will see it."
"看到我的孙子孙女们彼此疏远，我的心都碎了，"他写道，"杰克骄傲，汤姆固执，露西太温柔，不会争吵。但他们每个人都有一颗善良的心。也许有一天他们会明白。"

Nobody said anything for a long time, and the notion that Grandpa had suffered because of them was hard to bear.
很长时间里，谁也没有说话，一想到爷爷曾因为他们而难过，就让人难以承受。

Then Jack spoke in a low voice. "Lucy, I'm sorry for what I said all those years ago. It was stupid and cruel."
然后杰克低声说："露西，对不起，那么多年前我说的那些话，又蠢又残忍。"

Lucy looked at him for a moment, and then she took his hand. "I forgive you," she said, and Jack was surprised by how forgiving she could be.
露西看了他一会儿，然后握住了他的手。"我原谅你。"她说，杰克没想到她竟能如此宽容。

Tom was startled to see tears in his brother's eyes, and he felt glad and sad at the same time.
汤姆看到哥哥眼里含着泪水，吃了一惊，心里既高兴又难过。

"We have taken too many things for granted," he said. "Grandpa, each other, this place."
"我们把太多东西都视为理所当然了，"他说，"爷爷、彼此，还有这个地方。"

The next days were different.
接下来的几天就不一样了。

They worked together, and slowly they began to enjoy the work.
他们一起干活，慢慢地开始享受起劳动来。

Each of them had a different talent, and their skills seemed to complement each other perfectly.
他们每个人都有不同的才能，他们的技能似乎恰好可以互补。

They began to talk more often, and their regular evening meals became a time of real interaction instead of silence.
他们交谈得越来越多，每天晚上的例行晚餐也从沉默变成了真正交流的时光。

Lucy even vacuumed the old carpet and opened the windows, and the house felt alive again.
露西甚至用吸尘器把旧地毯吸干净，打开了窗户，房子又有了生气。

The old milking apparatus needed new electronics, and Tom, who knew everything about circuits and silicon chips, rebuilt it in a day.
那台旧挤奶设备需要换新的电子元件，对电路和硅芯片无所不知的汤姆一天就把它重新装好了。

When an indicator light on the tractor kept flashing, he scanned the engine with a small device and downloaded an update for its computer.

拖拉机上的一个指示灯一直在闪，他用一个小仪器扫描了发动机，并为它的电脑下载了更新程序。

Jack used a computer program to simulate the ranch's income for the next ten years, and the numerical results were better than he had expected.

杰克用一个电脑程序模拟了牧场未来十年的收入，得出的数据比他预想的要好。

He was surprised to find that the ranch was only partially in debt, and that with a few changes it could become profitable.

他惊讶地发现，牧场只是部分负债，只要作一些调整，它就能盈利。

Tom taught Jack how to drive the tractor, and Jack, who was good with numbers, helped Pete with the accounts and found several errors in the old books.

汤姆教杰克开拖拉机，擅长数字的杰克帮皮特管账，还在旧账本里发现了好几处错误。

One morning a cow gave birth to a calf, and Lucy took beautiful photos of the mother licking her baby.

一天早上，一头母牛生了一头小牛，露西拍下了牛妈妈舔着小牛的美丽照片。

The calf was weak at first and could not stand on its rear legs, but Sam stayed with it all night, and by morning it was walking.

小牛一开始很虚弱，后腿站不起来，但萨姆整夜守着它，到早上它就能走路了。

Pete said that Sam had a natural gift with animals, and for the first time in months the boy smiled with real delight.

皮特说萨姆天生就会和动物打交道，几个月来，这个男孩第一次露出了真正开心的笑容。

Tom watched his son and said that the ranch seemed to counteract all the anger the boy had felt in town.

汤姆看着儿子说，牧场似乎抵消了这孩子在镇上积攒的所有怒气。

After a windy night they cleared away the debris of fallen branches, and Lucy taught Sam to tread carefully around the nervous horses.

一个刮大风的夜晚过后，他们清理了倒下的树枝等杂物，露西还教萨姆在受惊的马匹周围要小心走动。

On Wednesday they went for an outing to the lake, where Tom and his son caught fish through a hole in the thin ice.

星期三，他们去湖边游玩，汤姆和他的儿子在薄冰上凿了个洞钓鱼。

Later they rowed an old boat across the water, and Jack laughed when he dropped an oar into the lake.

后来他们划着一条旧船穿过湖面，杰克把一支船桨掉进了湖里，自己哈哈大笑起来。

In the afternoon they hiked up to the ridge to visit Grandpa's grave, and the scenery was so beautiful that even Jack stopped looking at his phone.

下午，他们爬上山脊去看爷爷的坟墓，那里的风景美得连杰克都不再看手机了。

"I had forgotten all this," he said. "I've been living in an office for twenty years, and I can hardly visualise the person I used to be."

“我已经忘了这一切，”他说，“二十年来我一直活在办公室里，我几乎想象不出自己从前是个什么样的人了。”

On the way down they stopped at a small gas station, where the old attendant told them stories about Grandpa that made them laugh until they had to rest.

下山的路上，他们在一个小加油站停了下来，年老的加油站服务员给他们讲了爷爷的一些故事，逗得他们笑得不得不停下来歇一歇。

"Joe once drove a feed salesman all the way to the bus terminal because the man had insulted a tribal woman," he said. "Joe never let anybody disregard another person."
“乔有一次一直把一个卖饲料的推销员送到了汽车总站，因为那人侮辱了一位部落妇女，”他说，“乔从不允许任何人轻视别人。”

But the problem of the corporation had not gone away.
但那家公司的问题并没有消失。

On Wednesday night, the company's executives called Jack and gave him a final offer, with a deadline of Friday.
星期三晚上，公司的高管们给杰克打电话，提出了最终报价，期限是星期五。

They also warned him that if he did not support the deal, the corporation might not renew his contract, and his tenure at the company would be over; the termination would be immediate.
他们还警告他，如果他不支持这笔交易，公司可能不会再和他续约，他在公司的任期就到头了，而且会立即终止。

They even said that, if necessary, they would arbitrate with his brother and sister themselves, and they offered each of them a sum equivalent to ten years' salary.
他们甚至说，如有必要，他们会亲自去和他的弟弟妹妹斡旋，并向他们每人提出相当于十年薪水的一笔钱。

Jack understood that the corporation's offer of "diplomacy" was really a kind of pressure, and that the company would penalise anyone who did not follow its wishes.
杰克明白，公司所谓的“外交手段”其实是一种施压，公司会惩罚任何不顺从它意愿的人。

Jack did not sleep that night.
杰克那天晚上没睡着。

He walked outside in the cold air and looked at the dark hills, the shady trees by the river, and the cattle sleeping in the field.
他走到寒冷的室外，望着黑黢黢的山丘、河边成荫的树木，还有在田野里睡觉的牛群。

He remembered riding behind Grandpa on a horse when he was five, and he remembered Grandpa telling him that a man is measured by his word, not by his money.
他想起自己五岁时坐在爷爷身后骑马的情景，想起爷爷告诉他，衡量一个人要看他是否守信，而不是看他有多少钱。

He also remembered a passage from the diary: "Money is an abstract thing; land is real. Never sell what you cannot buy back."
他还想起了日记中的一段话：“钱是抽象的东西，土地才是实实在在的。永远不要卖掉你买不回来的东西。”

By morning his mind was made up, and he felt more resolute than he had felt in years.
到了早上，他已经拿定了主意，觉得自己多年来从没有这么坚定过。

He would not let the resort ever materialize, and he would not opt for an easy life at the cost of his family.
他决不会让那个度假村变成现实，也决不会以牺牲家庭为代价去选择安逸的生活。

On Thanksgiving Day, the three of them decorated the house with autumn leaves and cooked dinner together.
感恩节那天，他们三个人用秋叶装饰了房子，一起做晚饭。

Tom roasted a turkey without any preservative or chemical, Lucy made a wholesome salad with coconut and green beans, and Jack, who had never cooked anything in his life, made a terrible pie that everybody ate anyway.

汤姆烤了一只不加任何防腐剂和化学品的火鸡，露西做了一份健康的椰子四季豆沙拉，而这辈子从没做过饭的杰克做了一个难吃的馅饼，不过大家还是都吃了。

Pete and his family joined them, and so did Lucy's wife, who had flown in that morning.
皮特和他的家人也来了，露西的妻子当天早上坐飞机赶来，也一起吃饭。

Before they ate, they held hands around the table and said what they were thankful for, and Sam even agreed to perform a song on Grandpa's old guitar.
吃饭前，他们围着桌子手拉着手，说出各自感恩的事情，萨姆甚至同意用爷爷的旧吉他弹唱一首歌。

Thanks to Lucy's insistence, there was also an empty chair at the table for Grandpa.
在露西的坚持下，桌边还为爷爷留了一把空椅子。

When it was Jack's turn, he took a deep breath and made an announcement.
轮到杰克时，他深吸了一口气，宣布了一个决定。

"I called the corporation this afternoon," he said. "I told them the ranch is not for sale. And then I resigned. Even if I lose some social status, I don't care anymore."
“今天下午我给那家公司打了电话，”他说，“我告诉他们牧场不卖。然后，我辞职了。就算失去一些社会地位，我也不在乎了。”

There was a moment of silence, and then everyone started cheering at once.
片刻的沉默之后，所有人同时欢呼起来。

Lucy's wife whispered that it was a symbolical moment: the family was finally united.
露西的妻子小声说，这是一个具有象征意义的时刻：这个家终于团结在一起了。

Tom joked that it was the normalization of relations between three small countries after a long cold war, and even Jack laughed.
汤姆开玩笑说，这是三个小国在漫长的冷战之后实现了关系正常化，连杰克都笑了。

That night they voted, and every hand went up in the affirmative: it was a unanimous decision.
那天晚上，他们进行了表决，每一只手都举起来表示赞成：这是一个一致通过的决定。

They would keep the ranch and run it together, and they would also turn part of it into a center where children from the city could come and learn about farming and nature.
他们将保留牧场并共同经营，还会把其中一部分改造成一个中心，让城里的孩子们来这里了解农业和大自然。

They agreed on a simple plan whereby every important decision would be made together, and they would also invite the tribal families of the valley to make a contribution, so that the children could learn about the land from people who had known it for thousands of years.
他们商定了一个简单的方案，根据这个方案，每一个重要的决定都要共同作出；他们还将邀请山谷里的部落家庭出一份力，让孩子们能从那些熟悉这片土地数千年的人那里了解它。

Jack said that a real farm, not a fake one for tourists, was the only way to help children comprehend where their food comes from.
杰克说，只有一个真正的农场，而不是一个专为游客搭建的假农场，才能帮助孩子们理解他们的食物从哪里来。

They would need to test the compatibility of their very different personalities, but they were willing to try, and there was not even a slight doubt in their hearts.
他们需要检验一下彼此截然不同的性格能否合得来，但他们愿意尝试，心里没有一丝怀疑。

"It will take years to finish everything we want to do," Jack said, "but every endeavor has to start somewhere."
“要把我们想做的事情都做完需要好几年，”杰克说，“但每一项事业都得有个开头。”

"Further," Lucy added, "we have something Grandpa always attributed to good farmers: we never give up."

“而且，”露西补充道，“我们有爷爷一直认为好农民该有的品质：我们从不放弃。”

Jack would manage the business, Tom would modernise the electrical systems and build wind turbines for renewable power, and Lucy would teach photography to the children; nobody would imitate anybody else, and each would play to their own strengths.
杰克负责经营管理，汤姆负责更新电力系统并建造风力涡轮机来提供可再生能源，露西则给孩子们教摄影；谁也不必模仿别人，每个人都发挥自己的长处。

They called it "Joe's Place," and they put Grandpa's medal on the wall by the gate.
他们把它命名为“乔的家园”，并把爷爷的勋章挂在了大门旁的墙上。

As they sat by the fire that night, Lucy said, "Grandpa knew exactly what he was doing, didn't he?"
那天晚上，他们坐在壁炉旁，露西说：“爷爷早就知道自己在做什么，对吧？”

Jack smiled. "He always did," he said. "He was the wisest cowboy in the West."
杰克笑了。“他一向如此，”他说，“他是西部最有智慧的牛仔。”

Today, if you visit Joe's Place, you will see children feeding calves, picking apples, and listening to stories about an old cowboy.
如今，如果你去“乔的家园”，你会看到孩子们在喂小牛、摘苹果，听人讲一位老牛仔的故事。

And if you are lucky, you will hear three grown-up grandchildren arguing happily about who makes the worst pie.
如果你运气好，还会听到三个已经长大成人的孙辈开开心心地争论谁做的馅饼最难吃。

移民局的官员是一个身穿深色制服的严肃男人，他怀疑地看着她的设备，但最后还是在她的证件上盖了章，让她通行。

She changed some money at an exchange office, took a taxi to a small hotel, and asked the receptionist where she could find the bus to the Red Valley.
她在兑换处换了些钱，坐出租车到了一家小旅馆，问前台接待员在哪里能找到去红谷的公共汽车。

The receptionist made a copy of her passport and kept the duplicate in a drawer, then brought her some cold refreshments.
接待员复印了她的护照，把复印件放进抽屉里，然后给她端来了一些冷饮。

For a stranger in a new country, everyone seemed kind and helpful.
对于一个初到异国的陌生人来说，每个人似乎都很友善，乐于助人。

The internet in the hotel was slow, so she read a paper about the local weather and the forecast for the coming weeks.
旅馆的网络很慢，于是她看了一份关于当地天气和未来几周天气预报的报纸。

The village of the Red Valley was poor but full of warmth.
红谷的村子很穷，却充满了温情。

Some of the children were raggedly dressed, but they ran after her car with big smiles, and the crisp morning air was full of their laughter.
有些孩子衣衫褴褛，但他们笑容满面地追着她的车跑，清爽的晨风里满是他们的笑声。

Several families made pottery, an old mill ground the corn, and the villagers used crude channels to irrigate their fields, with a simple drainage system that carried the extra water away.
有几户人家做陶器，一座老磨坊在磨玉米，村民们用简陋的水渠灌溉田地，还有一套简单的排水系统把多余的水排走。

The cultivation of beans, pears and corn was hard work, and even the children had chores before and after school.
种豆子、梨和玉米是辛苦的活儿，就连孩子们上学前和放学后都有家务要做。

Water lilies grew in a small pond near the village, and a trickle of clean water ran down from the hills even in the dry season.
村子附近的一个小池塘里长着睡莲，即使在旱季，也有一股清水从山上细细地流下来。

Zoe stayed with a humble family who welcomed her at the threshold of their small house, and whose daughter, a cheerful lass of sixteen called Amina, became her guide.
佐伊住在一户普通人家里，主人在小屋门口迎接了她，这家的女儿阿米娜是个十六岁的快乐姑娘，成了她的向导。

Amina wore a pink apron when she worked in the kitchen, and she kept her few books in a small cupboard beside her bed.
阿米娜在厨房干活时系着一条粉红色的围裙，她把她仅有的几本书放在床边的一个小柜子里。

She taught Zoe the local etiquette: you must greet the elders first, never point at anyone with your finger, and always accept food when it is offered.
她教佐伊当地的礼节：必须先问候长辈，绝不能用手指指着别人，有人请你吃东西时一定要接受。

She also told her the folklore of the valley.
她还给佐伊讲了山谷里的民间传说。

According to the old stories, the great lioness was a spirit in disguise who wore the mask of an animal to protect the valley.
根据古老的故事，那头大母狮是一个乔装打扮的神灵，戴着动物的面具来保护这个山谷。

On Sundays the village priest preached from a Biblical text, but many villagers still believed in the old traditions as well.
星期天，村里的牧师会依据《圣经》的经文布道，但许多村民仍然信奉古老的传统。

Every year, pilgrims came from far away to visit a holy rock in the locality, and the village performed a drama about the lioness spirit for them.
每年都有朝圣者从远方赶来拜谒当地的一块圣石，村民们会为他们表演一出关于母狮神灵的戏剧。

Zoe loved the lyrical sound of their language, though she could only say a few simple sentences.
佐伊喜欢他们语言中那种如诗般的韵律，尽管她只会说几个简单的句子。

Filming commenced in early spring, and the first weeks were tedious.
拍摄在早春开始，头几个星期很枯燥。

Zoe and Amina got up every day before dawn, rolled up the roller blind of the jeep's back window, drove to the plains, and waited for hours under the hot sun.
佐伊和阿米娜每天天不亮就起床，卷起吉普车后窗的卷帘，开车到平原上，在烈日下一等就是几个小时。

The mosquitoes were terrible, and every bite seemed to itch for days.
蚊子多得可怕，每被咬一口似乎都要痒上好几天。

The heat was excessive at noon, so they rested in the shade and only worked in the early morning and late afternoon.
中午热得要命，所以她们只在阴凉处休息，只在清晨和傍晚工作。

Zoe had been immunized against yellow fever and several other diseases before the trip, but she still dissolved a small pill in water every morning.
出发前，佐伊已经接种了黄热病和其他几种疾病的疫苗，但她每天早上仍要把一片小药丸溶在水里喝下。

Finally, on the twentieth day, they found the lioness.
终于，在第二十天，她们找到了那头母狮。

Amina saw her first in the side mirror of the jeep, and she almost screamed with fright.
阿米娜最先从吉普车的侧视镜里看到了它，吓得差点叫出声来。

She was lying beneath an acacia tree with three cubs, and she was the most beautiful animal Zoe had ever seen.
它和三只幼崽躺在一棵金合欢树下，它是佐伊见过的最美丽的动物。

Her body moved with an easy curve, and the light at dusk turned her coat to gold.
它的身体舒展成一道优美的曲线，黄昏的光把它的皮毛染成了金色。

Unlike a tiger, which usually lives and hunts alone, a lioness lives with her family, and she depends on the other females in her group.
和通常独居、独自捕猎的老虎不同，母狮和家族一起生活，依靠群体中的其他雌狮。

Zoe filmed her alternately with a long lens and a small hidden camera, tilting the camera slowly to follow her, and every visual detail was perfect.
佐伊交替使用长焦镜头和一台隐蔽的小摄像机拍摄它，慢慢地转动摄像机跟拍，每一个画面细节都很完美。

Her equipment was sophisticated and brand-new: one camera could even follow the lioness at night by sensing the warmth of her body, and its pictures were of superior quality.
她的设备先进而且是全新的：其中一台摄像机甚至能通过感应母狮的体温在夜间跟踪拍摄它，拍出来的画面质量非常出色。

Mr. Grey had always told her that a good film needs both science and aesthetic beauty, and now she understood what he meant.
格雷先生总是对她说，一部好的影片既需要科学性，也需要美感，现在她明白他的意思了。

She showed great restraint and never went too close, because she did not want her presence to change the animals' behaviour.
她表现得非常克制，从不靠得太近，因为她不想让自己的出现改变动物们的行为。

Long exposure to humans can make wild animals lose their fear, and that can be dangerous for both sides.
野生动物长期接触人类会失去对人的戒心，这对双方来说都可能是危险的。

Over the following weeks, Zoe learned the biological facts of lion life in great detail.
在接下来的几个星期里，佐伊详细地了解了狮子生活的生物学知识。

Young lions reach sexual maturity at about three years old, and males are usually forced to leave the family then.
年轻的狮子大约三岁时性成熟，雄狮通常在那时被迫离开家族。

The cubs are highly susceptible to disease and hunger, and only a few of them live to become adults.
幼崽非常容易生病和挨饿，只有少数能活到成年。

The lioness was unusually old, and her longevity was one of the reasons she was famous.
这头母狮年纪大得出奇，它的长寿正是它出名的原因之一。

Zoe compiled her notes in a thick book and drew a diagram of the family's movements over the valley, using the standardisation of measurements that she had learned at university.
佐伊把她的笔记汇编成一本厚厚的本子，还按照大学里学到的标准化测量方法，画了一张这个狮子家族在山谷里活动路线的示意图。

To follow them, she had put a collar on one of the young females, and she listened to its radio frequency every evening.
为了跟踪它们，她给一头年轻的雌狮戴上了项圈，每天晚上收听它的无线电频率。

She knew that the collar was reversible, and that it would fall off by itself after a year.
她知道这个项圈是可以取下的，一年后它会自己脱落。

One day she saw the lioness pat a cub gently with her paw and tuck it under her belly to protect it from the rain.
有一天，她看见母狮用爪子轻轻拍了拍一只幼崽，把它护在自己肚子底下，替它挡雨。

It was a spontaneous, tender moment, and Zoe filmed it without breathing.
那是一个自然而温情的瞬间，佐伊屏住呼吸把它拍了下来。

But not everyone in the valley loved the lions.
但山谷里并不是每个人都喜欢狮子。

A few weeks later, the lioness killed two cows that belonged to a villager, and the man was indignant.
几个星期后，那头母狮咬死了一个村民的两头牛，那人非常气愤。

His wife became hysterical, and a crowd of bystanders gathered around them. "Those animals take everything we have," he shouted. "Our children cannot eat the beauty of a lioness."
他的妻子歇斯底里地哭喊起来，一群旁观者围了过来。“这些畜生把我们的东西全都抢走了，”他吼道，“我们的孩子可不能靠母狮的美貌填饱肚子。”

Some young men wanted to kill the lions with poison, and Zoe knew that the toxic meat could also kill vultures, dogs, and other wildlife.
一些年轻人想用毒药杀死狮子，佐伊知道，有毒的肉也会毒死秃鹫、狗和其他野生动物。

"Poisoning is a cowardly way to fight," an old man said, "and it is also an offence under the law."
“下毒是一种懦夫的斗法，”一位老人说，“而且这也是违法行为。”

She understood the farmers' difficulty; they lacked money, and every cow was a fundamental part of a family's wealth.
她理解农民们的难处；他们缺钱，每一头牛都是一个家庭财富的根本组成部分。

So she tried to devise a solution that would satisfy both sides.
于是，她努力想出一个能让双方都满意的解决办法。

With the assistance of Amina, she held a meeting at which she gave everyone refreshments and asked the villagers what they needed, and together they made a plan.
在阿米娜的协助下，她召开了一次会议，给大家准备了点心饮料，询问村民们需要什么，然后大家一起制定了一个计划。

They would build strong fences of wood and wire around the cattle at night, using sticks and stones from the river, and they would keep several big dogs to guard them; the men would take turns on the night shift.

他们晚上要用木头和铁丝在牛群周围修建结实的围栏，再用河边的木棍和石头加固，还要养几条大狗来看守；男人们轮流值夜班。

A woman in the village had a bitch that had just given birth, and her puppies would be trained to bark whenever a lion came near.
村里一位妇女的母狗刚生了一窝小狗，这些小狗将被训练成一有狮子靠近就狂吠。

Zoe promised that part of the money from her film would contribute to the cost, and the villagers agreed to try; it was a small idea, but it could be useful to every family in the valley.
佐伊承诺，她的影片收入中有一部分将用于支付这笔费用，村民们同意试一试；这只是一个小小的主意，却可能对山谷里的每一户人家都有用。

She also talked about the utilisation of solar power for lights around the fences, because lions are afraid of bright light at night.
她还谈到利用太阳能为围栏周围提供照明，因为狮子夜里害怕强光。

Meanwhile, a bigger danger was coming.
与此同时，一个更大的危险正在逼近。

A large company wanted to buy the Red Valley and build a mine there, and the incumbent governor supported the plan; its stylish young manager had already visited the municipal office several times.
一家大公司想买下红谷，在那里开矿，现任州长支持这个计划；公司那位衣着时髦的年轻经理已经好几次造访市政府了。

The governor was in the midst of a re-election campaign, and he made extravagant promises to the voters that the mine would bring prosperity, commerce and jobs.
州长正处于连任竞选之中，他向选民们作出了夸张的承诺，说这座矿将带来繁荣、商业和就业。

He declared that anyone who opposed it was not a true patriot.
他宣称，任何反对开矿的人都不是真正的爱国者。

Some of his enemies even said that he would try to overthrow the village council if it stood in his way.
他的一些对手甚至说，如果村委会挡了他的路，他会想办法推翻它。

The company had already found a loophole in the law that would let it evade most taxes and ignore the rules for wildlife areas.
公司已经找到了一个法律漏洞，可以借此逃避大部分税收，并无视有关野生动物保护区的规定。

It was also using the wholesale market to buy property cheaply from poor families, who were often forced into a quick sale, and it sold the corn from its farms at high retail prices in the city.
它还利用批发市场从贫穷的家庭手里低价收购房地产，这些家庭常常被迫匆忙出售，又把自家农场的玉米以很高的零售价卖到城里。

Its annual turnover was bigger than the budget of the whole region.
它的年营业额比整个地区的预算还要多。

Its main supplier of machines was a foreign company, so very little of the money would actually stay in the country.
它的主要设备供应商是一家外国公司，所以实际上只有很少的钱会留在这个国家。

The situation was clear, and Zoe understood the implications and the extent of the danger at once: if the mine was built, the lions would lose their home, and the villagers would lose their land.
形势已经很清楚了，佐伊立刻明白了其中的影响和危险的程度：如果这座矿建起来，狮子将失去家园，村民们也将失去土地。

Then, owing to a sudden change in the weather, everything was interrupted, and the sky turned foul.
接着，由于天气突变，一切都被打断了，天色变得阴沉恶劣。

A hurricane came in from the sea, and for two days the wind and rain beat against the village.
一场飓风从海上袭来，狂风暴雨连续两天袭击着村庄。

Filming was suspended, and after the interruption Zoe worried that the bad weather would mar her film; she and Amina stayed indoors, listening to the roof shake.
拍摄被暂停了，佐伊担心这次中断和恶劣的天气会毁了她的影片；她和阿米娜待在屋里，听着屋顶摇晃的声音。

On the second night, there was a loud disturbance outside: a small aeroplane had crashed in the hills above the village.
第二天夜里，外面传来一阵很大的动静：一架小飞机坠毁在了村子上方的山上。

Zoe and several villagers ran out into the storm, and they found the wreckage on the side of a hill.
佐伊和几个村民冲进风雨中，在山坡上找到了飞机的残骸。

The pilot was hurt, with blood on his face and acute pain in his elbow, but by some miracle he had only minor injuries and was alive.
飞行员受了伤，脸上有血，肘部剧痛，但奇迹般地只受了些轻伤，活了下来。

A boy who was the fastest runner in the village ran for help, and the men had to exert all their strength to carry the pilot down to the village on a door.
村里跑得最快的一个男孩跑去求援，男人们用尽全力，用一块门板把飞行员抬下山，送到村里。

Zoe used the medicine from her parcel to clean his wounds, and Amina's mother gave him warm soup as a starter and then a full meal.
佐伊用她那包药里的药给他清洗伤口，阿米娜的妈妈先给他喝了一碗热汤，接着又给他做了一顿饭。

When the pilot woke up, he was very apologetic. "I should have listened to the forecast," he said.
飞行员醒来时满怀歉意。“我应该听天气预报的。”他说。

It turned out that he worked for the mining company, and he had been flying to the valley to take photos of the land for the new mine.
原来他是为那家矿业公司工作的，他当时正飞往山谷，为新矿拍摄这片土地的照片。

Lying in the villagers' house, he overheard them talking about the lions, the fences and the dogs, and he saw how hard they had worked.
躺在村民家里，他无意中听到他们谈论狮子、围栏和狗，看到了他们付出了多么艰辛的努力。

He was speechless when he realised that the people he had planned to remove had just saved his life.
当他意识到，正是他原本打算赶走的这些人刚刚救了他的命时，他哑口无言。

The pilot became an unexpected friend.
这位飞行员成了一个意想不到的朋友。

He told Zoe about the company's plans and gave her copies of internal papers that showed how the company had used the loophole.
他把公司的计划告诉了佐伊，还给了她一些内部文件的复印件，这些文件显示了公司是如何利用那个漏洞的。

There were also letters from the company's accountant, and a bill for a large payment to an unnamed "adviser" in the governor's office.
里面还有公司会计写的信，以及一张付给州长办公室一位不具名“顾问”的大笔款项的账单。

Some of the papers even denoted the lions' area as "empty land."
有些文件甚至把狮子的栖息地标注为“荒地”。

Zoe added the story to her film, and when the documentary appeared on television, it caused a storm of its own.
佐伊把这些内容加进了她的影片，当这部纪录片在电视上播出时，它本身也掀起了一场风暴。

Viewers all over the country saw the old lioness, the brave villagers, and the company's secret plan.
全国各地的观众都看到了那头老母狮、勇敢的村民，以及那家公司的秘密计划。

The villagers decided to sue the company, a printing shop in the town made posters for free, and the newspapers began to publish articles about the case every day.
村民们决定起诉那家公司，镇上的一家印刷店免费为他们印制海报，报纸开始每天刊登有关这个案子的文章。

The governor called the film an insult and said that Zoe was a foreigner with an ideological bias.
州长称这部影片是一种侮辱，并说佐伊是一个带有意识形态偏见的外国人。

But his words only made people more angry, and a movement to protect the valley grew quickly; despite the company's money, the battle had turned against it.
但他的话只是让人们更加愤怒，一场保护山谷的运动迅速发展起来；尽管那家公司有钱，这场斗争的形势已经对它不利了。

Political experts said that supporting the mine had become political suicide.
政治专家们说，支持开矿已经成了政治上的自杀行为。

The irony was that the pilot who had been sent to help build the mine had become the most important witness against it.
讽刺的是，那位被派来协助建矿的飞行员，反而成了反对开矿最重要的证人。

A government probe found that the company had also lied about the effect of the mine on the river.
政府的一项调查发现，该公司还就这座矿对河流的影响撒了谎。

In the election, the voters gave their favour to a young reform candidate who promised to protect the Red Valley, and who said that he would be a public servant, not a servant of big business.
在选举中，选民们把支持给了一位承诺保护红谷的年轻改革派候选人，他说他将做人民的公仆，而不是大企业的仆人。

Within a year, the new government passed a law to close the loophole and to enforce the protection of wildlife areas.
一年之内，新政府通过了一项法律，堵上了那个漏洞，并强制保护野生动物保护区。

The parliament quickly ratified the law, and the Red Valley officially became part of the national park.
议会很快批准了这项法律，红谷正式成为国家公园的一部分。

The villagers received money to build fences and schools, and many young people got jobs as wildlife guides; the new government also undertook to educate the children of the valley for free.
村民们得到了修建围栏和学校的资金，许多年轻人当上了野生动物向导；新政府还承诺为山谷里的孩子们提供免费教育。

Amina was one of them, and later she won a place at the university to study biology.
阿米娜就是其中之一，后来她考上大学，学习生物学。

Her enrolment was a great day for the whole village, and her mother cried with joy.
她入学的那天是全村的大喜日子，她的母亲高兴得哭了。

Thanks to the fences and the dogs, very few cows were lost that year, and the adoption of the new methods spread to other villages through emulation.
多亏了围栏和狗，那一年几乎没有牛被咬死，其他村庄也纷纷效仿，采用了这些新办法。

For the foreseeable future, the lions and the people of the valley would share the land in peace.
在可以预见的将来，狮子和山谷里的人们将和平地共享这片土地。

Zoe's documentary, titled "The Lioness of the Red Valley," won the country's most important annual prize for nature films.
佐伊的纪录片名为《红谷的母狮》，获得了该国最重要的自然类影片年度大奖。

Even the critic who had once called her work worthless wrote that it was "a brave and beautiful film."
就连曾经说她的作品毫无价值的那位评论家也写道，这是“一部勇敢而美丽的影片”。

At the ceremony, the minister conferred the prize on her in front of many famous filmmakers, and Mr. Grey gave her a small bronze statue of a lion and said, "You have done what a filmmaker ought to do."
在颁奖典礼上，部长当着许多著名电影人的面把奖颁给了她，格雷先生送给她一座小小的青铜狮子雕像，说：“你做到了一个电影人应该做的事。”

Zoe was too nervous to relax, and she had no preference for big speeches, so she said only a few words of thanks.
佐伊紧张得放松不下来，她也不喜欢长篇大论，所以只说了几句感谢的话。

"There is not an atom of my success that belongs to me alone," she said. "It belongs to the people I was lucky enough to meet."
“我的成功没有一丝一毫是只属于我自己的，”她说，“它属于我有幸遇到的那些人。”

When a photographer asked her to pose with the prize, she smiled and asked Amina to stand beside her.
当一位摄影师请她拿着奖杯摆个姿势时，她笑着请阿米娜站到她身边。

In retrospect, Zoe thought that the most important lesson had not come from science, but from the people of the valley; she had overcome her old fears and found her true self there.
回想起来，佐伊觉得最重要的一课并不是来自科学，而是来自山谷里的人们；她在那里克服了过去的恐惧，找到了真正的自我。

They had taught her that humans and wild animals can live together, if people are willing to listen to each other, and that patience is more conducive to peace than anger.
他们教会了她，只要人们愿意彼此倾听，人类和野生动物是可以共同生活的，而且耐心比愤怒更有助于和平。

Whenever she looks through the window at the city and then at the photo of the old lioness on her wall, she remembers the warmth of the village and the courage of a girl in a pink apron.
每当她透过窗户望着城市，然后再看看墙上那张老母狮的照片，她就会想起那个村子的温暖，以及一个系着粉红围裙的女孩的勇气。

本住在这个国家西北部地区的一个小渔村里，村子位于一个岩石嶙峋的海岬尽头。

From the balcony of his flat he had a magnificent view of the sea, and every evening he watched the ferry come in from the islands.

从他公寓的阳台上可以看到壮丽的海景，每天傍晚，他都看着渡轮从岛上驶来。

His building was the last in a row of old houses by the harbour, and in winter the frost and snow made the street look like a picture in a fairy tale.

他住的楼是港口边一排老房子中的最后一栋，冬天，霜雪让这条街看起来就像童话里的一幅画。

Every year, a flock of wild geese flew over the village, and the hedges along the road turned red in the autumn.

每年都有一群野雁飞过村子，路边的树篱在秋天变成了红色。

During the day he had a boring clerical job in the local council office, where he spent hours with forms, a stapler and a heap of paper on his table.

白天，他在当地议会办公室做一份无聊的文书工作，整天对着表格、订书机和桌上的一堆文件。

But at night he was a cartoonist.

但到了晚上，他就成了一名漫画家。

He had always been fond of drawing, and even during his schooling his best grades had been in art, while his maths homework was often lazy and late.

他一直喜欢画画，上学时他成绩最好的就是美术，而他的数学作业却常常敷衍了事、迟迟不交。

He came from an artistic family, and he had a deep fascination with human faces; he could visualize a person's whole character from the shape of the mouth.

他出身于一个艺术之家，对人的面孔有着浓厚的兴趣；他能从一个人嘴巴的形状想象出这个人的整个性格。

He drew funny animated stories about the people of the village, with little speech balloons above their heads, and a small magazine published one of his cartoons every week in a special format.

他画一些关于村民的有趣的动画故事，人物头顶上画着小小的对话气泡，一家小杂志每周以特别的版式刊登他的一幅漫画。

He was only an amateur, but the readers loved the originality of his ideas and the poetic wording of his captions.

他只是个业余画家，但读者们喜欢他构思的独创性和他配图文字的诗意。

Children giggled at his drawings, and adults said they were a wonderful source of amusement.

孩子们看着他的画咯咯直笑，大人们说这些画是一种绝妙的消遣。

His most famous cartoon showed the village's old fishermen competing in the Olympics, rowing their boats as fast as racing cars.

他最有名的一幅漫画画的是村里的老渔民们参加奥运会，把船划得像赛车一样快。

He cared about every detail, even the position of every comma in his captions, and he never liked conventional jokes.

他在意每一个细节，甚至在意配图文字里每一个逗号的位置，而且他从来不喜欢老套的笑话。

He used a pot of black ink and a little coloured dye, and he worked so late that his dinner, heated in the microwave, was often cold before he ate it.
他用一罐黑墨水和一点彩色颜料作画，常常工作到很晚，用微波炉热好的晚饭在他吃之前就已经凉了。

He also made a podcast with a friend with whom he shared the flat, where they talked about art, aesthetics, and old fables; they used a few cheap props to make funny sound effects, and the show had become popular among young people in the village.
他还和合租的朋友一起做了一档播客节目，聊艺术、美学和古老的寓言；他们用一些便宜的道具制造滑稽的音效，这个节目在村里的年轻人中颇受欢迎。

Ben's grandfather, a retired chemistry teacher, lived with him.
本的爷爷是一位退休的化学老师，和他住在一起。

He was a learned and contemplative man who walked with a cane and loved to sit by the window with a cup of tea.
他是一个学识渊博、喜欢沉思的人，拄着一根拐杖，喜欢坐在窗边喝茶。

He had been born when the country was still an empire ruled by an old aristocracy, and he had lived through a terrible war.
他出生时，这个国家还是一个由古老的贵族阶层统治的帝国，他经历过一场可怕的战争。

After the war he had become a progressive teacher who believed that every child in the nation deserved a good education, whatever their family's politics or money.
战后，他成了一名思想进步的教师，他认为，无论家庭的政治立场或经济状况如何，全国的每个孩子都应该受到良好的教育。

In his youth he had written a thesis on bacteria and viruses, and he still had a good repute among the scientists of the region.
年轻时他写过一篇关于细菌和病毒的论文，至今在该地区的科学家中仍享有很好的声誉。

Now he lived on a small pension, his hearing was a little impaired, and a heart condition made him tired, but his mind was still sharp.
如今他靠一点微薄的退休金生活，听力有点受损，心脏病也让他容易疲劳，但他的头脑依然敏锐。

He was an honorary member of the fishermen's union, and the fishermen showed him great loyalty, because he had taught most of them as children.
他是渔民工会的荣誉会员，渔民们对他非常敬重，因为他们中的大多数人小时候都是他教出来的。

The fishermen were like a small tribe, and the old teacher was part of their circle.
渔民们就像一个小部落，这位老教师也是他们圈子里的一员。

He had taught them the rigor of science, and he regarded honesty as the most necessary quality of a good citizen.
他教给他们科学的严谨，他认为诚实是一个好公民最必要的品质。

He kept a barometer on the wall, an old atlas on the shelf, and a calendar of the tides beside the door, because he had grown up among fishermen.
他在墙上挂了一个气压计，书架上放着一本旧地图册，门边还挂着一本潮汐日历，因为他是在渔民中间长大的。

"Blind obedience is a kind of stupidity," he liked to say. "Logical thinking is the cardinal rule of science; never believe anything merely because someone important says it."
“盲目服从是一种愚蠢，”他喜欢说，“逻辑思维是科学的首要原则；永远不要仅仅因为某个重要人物说了什么就相信它。”

Ben did not know then how useful this advice would be.
本当时并不知道这句忠告会有多么有用。

One Tuesday, a letter came from the court: Ben had been chosen to serve as a juror.
一个星期二，法院来了一封信：本被选为陪审员。

At first he was annoyed, because jury service was long and the pay was so low that he would hardly earn a dime.
起初他很恼火，因为陪审工作时间很长，报酬又少得可怜，他几乎挣不到一分钱。

But it was a legal duty, and there was no way to refuse.
但这是一项法律义务，没有办法拒绝。

There were many formalities: he had to fill in forms, show his identity card, and promise to follow the court's strict protocol.
手续很多：他必须填写表格、出示身份证，并保证遵守法院的严格规定。

On the first morning, all the candidates assembled in a cold hall, and after a short examination by the lawyers, he and eleven other people were chosen, and he became the twelfth juror.
第一天早上，所有候选人都聚集在一个冷冰冰的大厅里，经过律师们的简短询问，他和另外十一个人被选中，他成了第十二位陪审员。

The case had caused outrage in the whole region.
这个案子在整个地区引起了公愤。

For months the police had been fighting a gang of smugglers who brought illegal pesticides into the country by sea.
几个月来，警方一直在打击一伙走私分子，他们从海上把违禁农药运进国内。

The pesticides contained a dangerous poison made from sulfur, copper and other chemicals, and they were sold cheap to farmers by a dishonest retailer.
这些农药含有一种由硫、铜和其他化学物质制成的危险毒物，被一个不诚实的零售商廉价卖给农民。

Several farmers had suffered from symptoms such as headaches and burning skin, and two children had been taken to hospital, where a nurse said that the dosage of poison in their blood was very high.
好几个农民出现了头痛、皮肤灼痛等症状，还有两个孩子被送进了医院，一位护士说他们血液中的毒物含量非常高。

When the poison spilled onto the ground, it did not evaporate quickly, and after heavy rain the rivers overflowed and carried it into the fields.
毒药洒到地上以后不会很快挥发，大雨过后，河水泛滥，又把它带进了农田。

The occurrence of so many cases in a single month horrified the whole community.
一个月内出现这么多病例，让整个社区都感到恐慌。

The mayor, who wanted publicity before the election, had publicly promised tough punishment, and he had announced a crackdown, and police personnel had been deployed all along the coast.
想在选举前博取关注的市长公开承诺要严加惩处，宣布要严厉打击，警力被部署在整个海岸沿线。

A few weeks later, a police major from the coastal division arrested a young fisherman called Sami, who was nineteen and came from a poor immigrant family.
几个星期后，海岸分局的一位警察少校逮捕了一个名叫萨米的年轻渔民，他十九岁，来自一个贫穷的移民家庭。

His family were debtors who still owed money for their small boat, which they could not even afford to insure, and Sami had left school early to help his father; later he had taken remedial classes in the evenings to finish his education.
他家欠着债，那条小渔船的钱还没还清，连保险都买不起，萨米很早就辍学帮父亲干活；后来他晚上去上补习班，想把学业完成。

He had no juvenile record, and his neighbours said he was a quiet, hard-working boy.
他没有少年犯罪记录，邻居们说他是个安静、勤劳的孩子。

The police said that they had found him at night next to a lorry full of cans of pesticide, near a swamp on the edge of the village.
警方说，他们在夜里发现他站在一辆装满农药罐的卡车旁边，地点在村子边缘的一片沼泽附近。

They said that he had brought the cans from a boat, and that he was a member of the gang.
他们说，那些罐子是他从一条船上搬下来的，他是那个团伙的成员。

After the arrest, some people began to harass Sami's family, and malicious rumours spread through the village.
他被捕后，一些人开始骚扰萨米一家，恶毒的谣言在村里传开了。

Online, there were many racist comments about immigrants, and in a newspaper survey most respondents said they were sure he was guilty.
网上出现了许多针对移民的种族歧视言论，在一项报纸调查中，大多数受访者说他们确信他有罪。

Only a few brave people dared to oppose the general opinion.
只有少数几个勇敢的人敢于反对这种普遍的看法。

The trial began on a cold Monday, in a courtroom with a high ceiling and stone pillars, and the wind from the sea pierced through the old windows.
审判在一个寒冷的星期一开始，法庭的天花板很高，立着石柱，海风从旧窗户里刺骨地吹进来。

Sami sat quietly in the dock, with a dark complexion and frightened eyes, and he was the subject of every whisper in the room.
萨米静静地坐在被告席上，他皮肤黝黑，眼神惊恐，屋里的每一句窃窃私语都在议论他。

The prosecutor was an aggressive woman who spoke fast and used a lot of legal jargon.
检察官是一个咄咄逼人的女人，她说话很快，用了很多法律术语。

She contended that Sami had committed a grievous crime that had put children's lives at risk.
她辩称，萨米犯下了严重的罪行，使孩子们的生命受到了威胁。

She showed photos of the lorry, the cans, a bundle of rope, and a broken propeller that had been found on the beach.
她出示了卡车、罐子、一捆绳子和在海滩上发现的一个破螺旋桨的照片。

There were forty cans in the interior of the lorry, each weighing twenty kilogrammes, tied together with plastic cord and covered with straw.
卡车车厢里有四十个罐子，每个重二十公斤，用塑料绳捆在一起，上面盖着稻草。

The police had also found a small trolley and some tools in the trunk of a car nearby.
警察还在附近一辆汽车的后备箱里发现了一辆小手推车和一些工具。

An expert explained that if the cans had been hit hard, the chemicals could have caused an explosion, and that the whole haul was worth thousands of dollars.
一位专家解释说，如果罐子受到重击，里面的化学品可能会引起爆炸，而这一整批货价值好几千美元。

He also showed an x-ray image of one can, taken by the machinery at the port, which proved that the cans came from abroad.
他还出示了港口设备拍下的其中一个罐子的 X 光图像，证明这些罐子来自国外。

A police officer described the interrogation, in which Sami had been questioned for twelve hours without a lawyer.
一名警官讲述了审讯的情况，萨米在没有律师在场的情况下被连续审问了十二个小时。

In the end, the officer said, Sami had admitted that he had been near the lorry, and the prosecutor said that this admission, together with the circumstances, made the accusation certain.
这名警官说，最后萨米承认他曾经在那辆卡车附近，检察官说，这一供认再加上当时的种种情况，使这项指控确凿无疑。

Some jurors looked horrified, and an old man next to Ben shook his head and said, "People like him are always trouble."
一些陪审员看上去很震惊，本旁边的一位老人摇摇头说："像他这样的人总是惹麻烦。"

Ben felt a shock of anger; he realized that the man's opinion was based on prejudice, not on facts, and that a whole life could depend on the decision of twelve ordinary people.
本感到一阵愤怒；他意识到，这个人的看法是基于偏见，而不是基于事实，而一个人的整个人生可能就取决于十二个普通人的决定。

Sami's lawyer was young and nervous, but he did his best.
萨米的律师又年轻又紧张，但他尽了最大努力。

He explained that Sami had been walking home from a visit to his sick grandmother that night, and that he had stopped only because he had heard someone shout.
他解释说，那天晚上萨米是在探望生病的奶奶后步行回家，他之所以停下来，只是因为听到有人喊叫。

When he went to look, he saw the lorry, and a moment later the police arrived and arrested him.
他走过去看时，看见了那辆卡车，片刻之后警察就到了，把他抓了起来。

The lawyer also showed that there were no fingerprints of Sami's on any of the cans.
律师还证明，所有罐子上都没有萨米的指纹。

The prosecutor answered that the smugglers had probably worn gloves, and that the lack of fingerprints proved nothing whatsoever; the defence's story, she said, was a pretense.
检察官回应说，走私分子可能戴了手套，没有指纹什么也证明不了；她说，辩方的说法只是一种借口。

After five successive days of evidence, the judge sent the jury to a small room to make their decision; there was no time limit, but everyone hoped it would be quick.
经过连续五天的举证，法官让陪审团去一个小房间里作出裁决；虽然没有时间限制，但每个人都希望能快点结束。

The jury room was warm and stuffy, with a worn rug on the floor and a long wooden table.
陪审团的房间又暖又闷，地上铺着一块破旧的地毯，中间放着一张长长的木桌。

As soon as the door closed, a successful businessman called Mr. Hart took charge.
门一关上，一个叫哈特先生的成功商人就主持起局面来。

He loosened his tie, sat at the head of the table in a confident posture, and spoke as if he were at a business meeting.
他松开领带，以自信的姿态坐在桌子的首位，说起话来就好像是在开商务会议。

"This is simple," he said. "We all know he did it. Let's vote now and go home; my wife has a chicken in the oven, and I don't want it to be cold."
"这很简单，"他说，"我们都知道是他干的。我们现在就投票，然后回家吧；我妻子在烤箱里烤着一只鸡，我可不想让它凉了。"

Ten jurors raised their hands for "guilty."
十名陪审员举手表示"有罪"。

Only a young nurse and Ben did not.
只有一位年轻的护士和本没有举手。

Mr. Hart looked at Ben with impatience. "Don't tell me you believe that boy," he said.
哈特先生不耐烦地看着本。“别告诉我你相信那个小子。”他说。

Ben hesitated; he was not used to speaking in public, and his voice was a little weak.
本犹豫了一下；他不习惯当众讲话，声音有点发虚。

"I'm not sure what I believe, and I don't buy every part of the police story," he said. "But some of the evidence seems dubious to me, and I think we should talk about it."
“我也不确定我相信什么，我也不全信警方的说法，”他说，“但我觉得有些证据很可疑，我认为我们应该讨论一下。”

Some jurors laughed, and Mr. Hart called him an egoist who wanted to show off; he said that Ben's doubts were not reasonable and that a guilty man was likely to go free because of him.
一些陪审员笑了起来，哈特先生说他是个自私自利、想出风头的人；他说本的怀疑不合理，一个有罪的人很可能因为他而逍遥法外。

The quarrel went on for hours, and at one point Mr. Hart was so angry that he punched the table.
争论持续了好几个小时，有一次哈特先生气得一拳砸在桌子上。

It was a struggle for Ben to keep going; the other jurors formed a bloc around him, and it seemed that his opinion would prevail.
对本来说，坚持下去是一场艰难的斗争；其他陪审员围着哈特先生结成了一伙，看起来他的意见会占上风。

"Guilt does not necessarily follow from being in the wrong place," Ben said. "Under the law, we cannot convict anyone if there is a reasonable doubt."
“出现在不该出现的地方，并不一定就意味着有罪，”本说，“根据法律，只要存在合理的怀疑，我们就不能给任何人定罪。”

But nobody would make a single concession, and the row ended with nothing decided.
但谁也不肯作出丝毫让步，争吵以没有任何结论而告终。

That night, Ben could not sleep; he felt feverish with agitation, and he kept contemplating every detail of the case.
那天晚上，本睡不着觉；他焦躁得像发了烧一样，一遍又一遍地琢磨着案子的每一个细节。

He told his grandfather about the case, without giving any names, because jurors were not allowed to discuss details with outsiders.
他把案子讲给爷爷听，没有提任何名字，因为陪审员不能和外人讨论案件细节。

His grandfather listened carefully, sipping his tea, while a blue vein stood out on his thin hand; then he asked one simple question: "What was the tide that night?"
爷爷一边小口喝茶，一边认真地听着，他那瘦削的手上青筋凸起；然后他问了一个简单的问题：“那天晚上的潮水怎么样？”

Ben looked at the calendar by the door, and he felt so excited that his heart began to beat faster.
本看了看门边的日历，他激动得心开始跳得快了起来。

On the night of the arrest, the tidal level had been extremely low, and the water near the swamp had almost disappeared.
在逮捕发生的那天夜里，潮水极低，沼泽附近的海水几乎都退干了。

No boat could have landed there; it would have been stuck in the mud hundreds of meters from the shore, where years of erosion had made the sea very shallow.
任何船都不可能在那里靠岸；它会陷在离岸几百米远的泥滩里，多年的侵蚀已经让那里的海水变得很浅。

"Then the cans could not have come from a boat that night," his grandfather said. "They must have been brought by land, in the lorry itself."

“那么那些罐子就不可能是那天夜里从船上运来的，”爷爷说，“它们一定是从陆路、用那辆卡车本身运来的。”

Ben realized that the police story was not merely weak; it was impossible.
本意识到，警方的说法不仅仅是站不住脚，而是根本不可能。

His grandfather also took out his old magnetic compass and a telescopic lens, and together they looked at the map of the coast until midnight.
爷爷还拿出他的旧磁罗盘和一个望远镜头，他们一起研究海岸地图，一直看到半夜。

"The police have inverted the logic," the old man said. "They decided who was guilty first, and then they looked for the facts."
“警察把逻辑颠倒了，”老人说，“他们先认定谁有罪，然后才去找事实。”

The next morning, Ben asked the judge for permission to see the tide records, and the request was granted.
第二天早上，本请求法官允许他查看潮汐记录，这个请求得到了批准。

In the jury room, he spread the records on the table and explained them step by step, and the logical progression of his argument was hard to fail to understand.
在陪审团的房间里，他把记录摊在桌上，一步一步地解释，他的论证层层推进、合乎逻辑，让人不可能听不明白。

At first the others were bewildered, and one woman said she could not follow the numbers, but slowly they began to understand, and Ben could see their faces change.
起初其他人都很困惑，有一位女士说她看不懂这些数字，但慢慢地，他们开始明白了，本能看到他们脸上的表情在变化。

The young nurse, who had been quietly sympathizing with Ben all along, added something else: she had noticed that the photo of the propeller showed thick leaves and sand stuck to it, as if it had been lying on the beach for weeks, not hours.
那位一直默默同情本的年轻护士又补充了一点：她注意到，那张螺旋桨照片上粘着厚厚的树叶和沙子，好像它已经在海滩上躺了好几个星期，而不是几个小时。

The rest of the evidence, she said, was sketchy at best.
她说，其余的证据充其量也只是粗略的。

Then an old woman, who had said nothing for two days, spoke up.
接着，一位两天来一言不发的老太太开口了。

"My son is a lorry driver," she said. "Those cans are heavy. One young man could not have loaded forty of them in a few minutes, even with a trolley; he would need machinery or several strong men."
“我儿子是开卡车的，”她说，“那些罐子很重。一个年轻人不可能在几分钟之内把四十个罐子都装上车，即使有手推车也不行；他需要机器或者好几个壮汉。”

One by one, the jurors began to change their minds; the barrier of fear and prejudice was finally breaking down.
陪审员们一个接一个地改变了主意；恐惧和偏见的壁垒终于开始崩塌。

Only Mr. Hart remained angry. "You are all being fooled," he said. But his voice had lost its vigor, and finally he admitted, with a regretful look, that he had judged the boy because of his background.
只有哈特先生还在生气。“你们全都被骗了。”他说。但他的声音已经失去了气势，最后他带着懊悔的神情承认，自己是因为那男孩的出身才对他下了判断。

By the end of the third day, the jury reached its verdict: not guilty.

第三天结束时，陪审团作出了裁决：无罪。

When the verdict was read, Sami's mother burst into tears, the reporters at the back of the room jumped up to collect their things, and Sami covered his face with his hands.
宣读裁决时，萨米的母亲失声痛哭，坐在后面的记者们跳起来收拾东西，萨米用双手捂住了脸。

Outside the court, a crowd of reporters with microphones was waiting, and the case soon gained national notoriety.
法院外面，一群拿着话筒的记者正在等候，这个案子很快就在全国闹得沸沸扬扬。

Sami left the court with a police escort, because the crowd was so large, and the reporters scattered in every direction to phone their editors.
由于人群太多，萨米在警察的护送下离开了法院，记者们向四面八方散开，给各自的编辑打电话。

Sami's face seemed to radiate relief, and when he bumped into Ben on the steps, he shook his hand without a word.
萨米的脸上似乎洋溢着如释重负的神情，他在台阶上碰到本时，一言不发地和他握了握手。

That evening, Ben's grandfather invited Sami's family to their flat and cooked a simple meal of fish and rice for everyone.
那天晚上，本的爷爷邀请萨米一家到他们的公寓来，给大家做了一顿简单的鱼和米饭。

A young reporter who had followed the trial began to investigate, and within a month she had unveiled the truth.
一位一直关注这场审判的年轻女记者开始调查，不到一个月，她就揭开了真相。

The real smuggler was a rich businessman who owned a large yacht and a chain of shops, and who was a close friend and partner of the mayor.
真正的走私者是一个富有的商人，他拥有一艘大游艇和一系列连锁商店，还是市长的密友和生意伙伴。

He had used his yacht to bring the pesticides from abroad and his shops to peddle them to farmers, and his profits had soared year after year.
他用游艇从国外运来农药，再通过他的商店把它们兜售给农民，他的利润一年比一年飞涨。

When the police crackdown began, he had left a lorry near the swamp as a trap, and he had made an anonymous call to the police.
打击行动开始时，他在沼泽附近留下一辆卡车作为圈套，还给警察打了一个匿名电话。

Sami had simply been in the wrong place at the wrong time.
萨米只不过是在错误的时间出现在了错误的地方。

It had all been a terrible misunderstanding, made worse by the mayor's hurry and the public's fear.
这一切都是一场可怕的误会，而市长的急于求成和公众的恐惧让它变得更糟。

Further investigation showed that the businessman had used fraudulent documents for years, and that he was also guilty of tax evasion.
进一步调查显示，这个商人多年来一直使用伪造的文件，还犯有逃税罪。

He was arrested, and the mayor, who had tried to hide his friend's crimes, was forced to resign.
他被逮捕了，而曾试图掩盖朋友罪行的市长也被迫辞职。

The mayor had even used the businessman's money to buy land for a new cement factory, and the acquisition was later cancelled.
市长甚至用这个商人的钱为一家新的水泥厂购买土地，这笔收购后来被取消了。

His resignation was the climax of a long scandal, and the people of the village could hardly believe how evil some of their leaders had been.

他的辞职是这桩长期丑闻的高潮，村民们简直不敢相信他们的一些领导人竟如此邪恶。

Sami's family later brought a lawsuit against the police, and they received compensatory payment for the time he had spent in prison.
萨米一家后来对警方提起诉讼，他们因萨米在监狱里度过的时间获得了赔偿金。

The police admitted their liability, and a new regulation was introduced so that no one could be questioned without a lawyer.
警方承认了他们的责任，并出台了一项新规定，没有律师在场，任何人都不得被审问。

The parliament also discussed the enactment of stricter laws to regulate the sale of pesticides and to prohibit the most dangerous ones.
议会还讨论制定更严格的法律，以规范农药的销售，并禁止那些最危险的农药。

Farmers who had been poisoned received medical help and a small subsidy from the government.
中毒的农民得到了医疗救助和政府的一小笔补贴。

A new evaluation of every pesticide was ordered, and doctors helped the sick farmers with their recovery.
政府下令对每一种农药重新进行评估，医生们帮助生病的农民康复。

For Ben, the trial changed everything.
对本来说，这次审判改变了一切。

He saw a clear parallel between his own small village and the whole world: people are quick to judge, and slow to think.
他看到自己的小村庄和整个世界之间有一个明显的相似之处：人们总是急于下判断，却懒于思考。

The trial had been a kind of stimulation for his mind, and he felt more productive than ever.
这次审判对他的头脑是一种激励，他觉得自己比以往任何时候都更有创造力。

Instead of returning to his old jokes, he drew a series of cartoons about the case, showing twelve jurors around a table, a low tide, and a lonely boy in a courtroom.
他没有再画以前那些笑话，而是画了一组关于这个案子的漫画，画的是围坐在桌边的十二位陪审员、退潮的海滩，以及法庭里一个孤独的男孩。

The cartoons were published in a national newspaper, and they made people laugh, think, and sometimes cry.
这些漫画发表在一家全国性报纸上，它们让人们发笑、思考，有时也让人落泪。

One cartoon showed a jury of twelve identical clones in grey suits, all saying "guilty" at the same time; it became famous across the country.
其中一幅漫画画的是一个由十二个穿着灰色西装、长得一模一样的克隆人组成的陪审团，他们同时说出“有罪”；这幅画在全国出了名。

In another, a tiny boy tried to hop over a huge wall made of words like "fear" and "rumour."
在另一幅画里，一个小小的男孩想要跳过一堵由“恐惧”“谣言”之类的词砌成的高墙。

A famous reviewer called them "magical and brave," and Ben was invited to speak about the dangers of prejudice on a popular radio show.
一位著名的评论家称它们“既神奇又勇敢”，本还受邀在一档热门广播节目中谈论偏见的危害。

A year later he left his office job and became a full-time cartoonist; he even flew to the capital by airplane for the first time to receive a prize.
一年后，他辞去了办公室的工作，成了一名专职漫画家；他甚至第一次坐飞机去首都领奖。

When the plane began to climb, he felt his heart plunge and then soar, like the moment when the verdict was read.
飞机开始爬升时，他觉得自己的心先是一沉，然后又飞扬起来，就像宣读裁决的那一刻一样。

He had attained more than he had ever dreamed of, and he knew that no reward could be greater than an innocent man's freedom.
他取得的成就超出了他的梦想，他知道，没有什么奖赏能比一个无辜者的自由更珍贵。

Sami became one of his best friends; he finished his studies, and the village slowly began to integrate his family into the community.
萨米成了他最好的朋友之一；他完成了学业，村里也慢慢地开始接纳他的家人，让他们融入了这个社区。

Every evening the two friends sat together on the balcony, watching the ferry and the sky, and their friendship was cemented by what they had been through.
每天傍晚，两个朋友一起坐在阳台上，看着渡轮和天空，共同的经历让他们的友谊更加牢固。

Sometimes Sami brought his girlfriend, and Ben joked that he was a lover now, not a fighter.
有时萨米会带着他的女朋友来，本就开玩笑说，他现在是个情人，不再是个斗士了。

Ben's podcast became a weekly show on the national radio, and he renewed his contract with it every year, as a continuation of his work as an artist.
本的播客成了全国电台的一档每周节目，他每年都续签合同，作为他艺术家工作的延续。

He also worked to innovate in his drawings, mixing the practicality of the newspaper style with the beauty of old paintings.
他还努力在绘画上推陈出新，把报纸漫画的实用风格与古典绘画的美感结合在一起。

He never forgot that his success had begun with a small action: refusing to raise his hand. It was the start of a new chapter in his life, and even his way of dressing changed; he stopped caring about fashion and started caring about people.
他永远没有忘记，他的成功始于一个小小的举动：拒绝举手。这是他人生新篇章的开始，就连他的穿着打扮都变了；他不再关心时尚，而是开始关心人。

Ben's grandfather, who had helped to save an innocent man without ever leaving his chair, only smiled when people thanked him.
本的爷爷连椅子都没离开，就帮着救了一个无辜的人，当人们感谢他时，他只是笑一笑。

"I did nothing special," he said. "I just looked at the calendar. The tide comes and goes, but the truth is still there, forever, for anyone who is willing to look."
“我没做什么特别的事，”他说，“我只是看了看日历。潮水来了又去，但真相永远都在那里，等着愿意去寻找它的人。”

And every spring, when the geese came back over the village and the snow began to melt, the people of the cape remembered the twelfth juror and the old man by the window.
每年春天，当大雁飞回村庄上空、积雪开始融化的时候，海岬上的人们都会想起那位第十二位陪审员，以及坐在窗边的那位老人。

小梅坐在第一排，问了那么多问题，以至于他邀请她加入他的研究小组；他对真正感兴趣的学生总是有求必应，对她的每一份作业都给出有用的反馈意见。

Under his guidance, she learned to use high-tech devices to measure the movement of ice, including lasers that could detect a change of a single millimeter.
在他的指导下，她学会了使用高科技设备测量冰的运动，其中包括能探测到一毫米变化的激光仪器。

She also learned to analyse statistics and to calculate the probability of a glacier breaking apart.
她还学会了分析统计数据，计算冰川崩裂的概率。

She learned that ice under great compression behaves like a very slow fluid, flowing downward and outwards from the mountains toward the sea.
她了解到，冰在巨大的压力下就像一种流动得非常缓慢的液体，从山上向下、向外流向大海。

She also learned about the circulation of the ocean, and how warm water from the north could weaken the ice and cause the fragmentation of whole glaciers.
她还学习了海洋环流，了解到来自北方的暖水如何削弱冰层，使整片冰川破碎。

In the lab there was an old pendulum clock, and Professor Grant liked to say that science, like a pendulum, needs balance.
实验室里有一座旧摆钟，格兰特教授喜欢说，科学就像钟摆一样，需要平衡。

She did both qualitative and quantitative studies, and she took sequential measurements every hour to see how the ice changed.
她既做定性研究也做定量研究，每小时进行一次连续测量，观察冰的变化情况。

Under the microscope, ice crystals looked perfectly symmetrical, and she was moved by their esthetics.
在显微镜下，冰晶看起来完美对称，它们的美感令她深受感动。

She also filled out a long questionnaire for a survey of international students, and later she became a subscriber to a famous science magazine.
她还为一项国际学生调查填了一份长长的问卷，后来她订阅了一本著名的科学杂志。

Every day she spent hours in the library, considering every question from every side, and the more she studied, the more she found meaning in her work.
她每天都在图书馆里待上好几个小时，从各个角度思考每一个问题，学得越多，就越觉得自己的工作有意义。

She also found a study buddy, a quiet young researcher from Norway called Erik, who helped her with her English, laughed at her jokes, and was never selfish with his time.
她还找到了一个学习伙伴，一个来自挪威的安静的年轻研究员埃里克，他帮她学英语，会被她的笑话逗笑，而且从不吝惜自己的时间。

Erik was a chess champion, and he had won the university championship twice, but he was never vain about it.
埃里克是国际象棋冠军，已经两次赢得大学锦标赛，但他从不因此而自负。

With his help, Mei's grades soon improved, and by the end of her bachelor's degree she was one of the best students in her year.
在他的帮助下，小梅的成绩很快提高了，到本科毕业时，她已经是她那一届最好的学生之一。

In her third year, Professor Grant announced that he was organizing an expedition to Antarctica, and he wanted Mei to come.
读到第三年时，格兰特教授宣布他正在组织一次南极考察，并希望小梅也去。

Mei could hardly believe it; her childhood dream was about to come true.
小梅简直不敢相信；她儿时的梦想就要实现了。

The team would study a glacier near an active volcano, whose behaviour was volatile and hard to predict, and they would look for tiny organisms living in the ice.
考察队将研究一座活火山附近的冰川，这座火山的活动变化无常，难以预测，并寻找生活在冰里的微小生物。

Before they left, every member of the team had to pass a health check; Mei had to have her appendix removed first, because a doctor said it would not be safe to go so far from a hospital, and the university's management needed written authorisation from the government.
出发前，考察队的每个成员都必须通过体检；小梅得先把阑尾切除，因为医生说离医院那么远是不安全的，大学管理层也需要拿到政府的书面批准。

They prepared for months, packing special clothes, scientific gear, and enough food and gasoline to survive for three months; Professor Grant made a list of their daily consumption of every item.
他们准备了好几个月，打包了专用服装、科学设备，以及足够维持三个月的食物和汽油；格兰特教授还列出了每样物品的每日消耗量。

The journey across the Southern Ocean took two weeks.
横穿南大洋的航程花了两个星期。

One night the ship had a slight collision with a block of floating ice, and it shook slightly, and everybody ran up to the deck, but the captain said there was no damage.
一天夜里，船和一块浮冰发生了轻微的碰撞，船身微微晃了一下，所有人都跑上了甲板，但船长说没有造成损坏。

The waves were enormous, and many people were seasick, but Mei felt strangely contented.
海浪巨大，许多人都晕船了，但小梅却感到出奇地满足。

She stood at the bow of the ship for hours, watching the grey water and the first floating pieces of ice.
她在船头一站就是几个小时，看着灰色的海水和最早出现的浮冰。

One morning she saw her first penguin colony standing on an ice field, and she laughed with joy.
一天早上，她第一次看到了站在冰原上的一群企鹅，高兴得笑出了声。

She had only seen penguins in a cage at the zoo before, and now they were free.
她以前只在动物园的笼子里见过企鹅，而现在它们是自由的。

A few days later they saw a huge elephant seal lying on the beach like a pile of rocks.
几天后，他们看到一头巨大的象海豹躺在海滩上，像一堆石头一样。

When the ship dropped its anchor near the coast, the view was so expansive and so white that it looked like an illusion.
当船在海岸附近抛锚时，眼前的景色如此辽阔、如此洁白，看起来就像一场幻觉。

The research station was a group of red buildings that looked like a small fort in the snow, situated at the foot of a mountain whose peak was always white.
科考站是一群红色的建筑，看上去就像雪地里的一座小堡垒，坐落在一座峰顶终年积雪的山脚下。

Solar panels on the roofs generated electricity in summer, and every metal frame had to be painted again and again to stop the rust.
屋顶上的太阳能电池板在夏天发电，每一个金属框架都得一遍又一遍地刷漆，防止生锈。

The landscape was bleak but beautiful, and the low sun could distort the shapes of the mountains in strange ways.
这里的景色荒凉却美丽，低垂的太阳会以奇特的方式让群山的形状发生扭曲。

The team lived there for three months; it was a small but cohesive group, and the work was hard.
考察队在那里住了三个月；这是一个人数不多却很有凝聚力的团队，工作很辛苦。

Every day they walked along a narrow path to the glacier, carrying heavy equipment on their backs.
他们每天沿着一条狭窄的小路走到冰川，背上背着沉重的设备。

The wind was relentless and seemed to slash at their faces, the cold was extreme, and the sunlight on the snow was so bright that they had to wear dark glasses.
风一刻不停，像刀子一样割在他们脸上，冷得要命，雪地上的阳光亮得刺眼，他们不得不戴上墨镜。

Everyone had to adhere strictly to the safety rules and always guard against frostbite.
每个人都必须严格遵守安全规定，时刻提防冻伤。

Sometimes a storm caused a work stoppage for several days, and the team stayed inside, playing cards and telling stories.
有时一场暴风雪会让工作停顿好几天，队员们就待在屋里打牌、讲故事。

Mei measured the speed of the ice with her laser device, and the detection system recorded every movement automatically; she also collected samples from deep inside the glacier.
小梅用激光仪器测量冰的移动速度，探测系统会自动记录每一次移动；她还从冰川深处采集样本。

Under the microscope, she found something exciting: a tiny organism that seemed to live in the liquid water between ice crystals.
在显微镜下，她发现了一样令人兴奋的东西：一种似乎生活在冰晶之间液态水里的微小生物。

No one had ever described this species before.
以前从来没有人描述过这个物种。

Its body showed a surprising fragility outside the ice, so Mei had to keep the samples frozen at every moment.
它离开冰层后显得出奇地脆弱，所以小梅必须时刻让样本保持冷冻状态。

It was so small that it was hard to conceive how it could survive, but it seemed to synthesize its own food from the weak sunlight that came through the ice.
它那么小，很难想象它是怎么活下来的，但它似乎能利用透过冰层射进来的微弱阳光，自己合成养分。

Professor Grant was delighted. "This could reveal how life evolved in the coldest places on earth," he said. "It is a real singularity; its relevance could go far beyond this particular glacier."
格兰特教授非常高兴。“这可能会揭示生命是如何在地球上最寒冷的地方进化的，”他说，“这是一个真正的奇特现象；它的意义可能远远超出这一座冰川。”

In the second month, there was an accident.
在第二个月，发生了一起事故。

During a storm, the edge of the ice began to disintegrate, Erik slipped, and he fell into a narrow crack in the glacier.
在一场暴风雪中，冰的边缘开始崩裂，埃里克一滑，掉进了冰川上的一道窄缝里。

Mei heard his cry and ran to the edge, where she saw him lying on a shelf of ice about ten metres below.
小梅听到他的喊声，跑到裂缝边上，看见他躺在下面大约十米处的一块冰架上。

His leg was bloody, his voice was feeble, and the ice around him looked fragile and shaky; there was no time to wait for immediate help from the station.
他的腿上满是血，声音很微弱，他周围的冰看起来又脆又不稳；已经来不及等科考站的紧急救援了。

Mei did not hesitate.
小梅毫不犹豫。

She fixed a rope to an iron bolt in the ice, and while two other researchers held the rope, she climbed down to Erik, using her ice axe to thrust into the wall for balance.
她把一根绳子固定在冰里的一颗铁栓上，在另外两名研究员拉住绳子的同时，她爬下去找埃里克，用冰镐插进冰壁来保持平衡。

She tied the rope around his chest, and slowly the team pulled him up.
她把绳子系在他的胸前，队员们慢慢地把他拉了上来。

Erik was in agony, but he survived; a doctor at the station stabilized his leg and gave him medicine to alleviate the pain.
埃里克疼得要命，但他活了下来；科考站的医生把他的腿固定好，还给他用了止痛的药。

That night he took Mei's hand and said, "You saved my life. I will never forget it."
那天晚上，他握着小梅的手说：“你救了我的命。我永远不会忘记。”

Mei only said, "You would do the same for me," and she pleaded with him to rest and not to worry about his work.
小梅只是说：“换了是你，也会这样救我的。”她恳求他好好休息，不要担心工作。

When the expedition returned, Mei's discovery made her famous in the scientific world.
考察队回来后，小梅的发现让她在科学界出了名。

She wrote a paper about the new species, and researchers from many countries wrote to her to ask for more information.
她写了一篇关于这个新物种的论文，许多国家的研究人员都写信给她，想了解更多信息。

Scientists said that the organism's genes might help to develop new medicines that work in extreme cold, and that the tiny constituents of its body could be a source of new innovation in medicine.
科学家们说，这种生物的基因可能有助于研发在极寒条件下也能起效的新药，它身体中那些微小的组成成分可能成为医学创新的新源泉。

A few scientists were doubtful and said it was too early to say whether such medicines would be viable, and Mei agreed that they should withhold judgment until more tests were done.

少数科学家表示怀疑，说现在判断这类药物是否可行还为时过早，小梅也同意，在做更多试验之前应该暂缓下结论。

The news soon reached the public, and lately many newspapers have written about the danger to the glaciers.
这个消息很快传到了公众那里，最近许多报纸都报道了冰川面临的危险。

Mei also made a suggestion that the area around the volcano should be protected, with a clear boundary that no ship or tourist could cross.
小梅还提出建议，应该保护火山周围的地区，划定一条任何船只和游客都不得越过的明确界线。

Dealing with governments was not easy, but she believed that her idea would succeed in the end.
和政府打交道并不容易，但她相信自己的想法最终会成功。

Her work also showed that the ice in that area comprised several layers of different ages, and that the glacier was melting faster than corresponding glaciers in other regions.
她的研究还表明，那个地区的冰由几个年代不同的冰层组成，而且这座冰川融化的速度比其他地区相应的冰川更快。

The number of such glaciers would decrease quickly if the climate kept warming, and their durability was much lower than people thought.
如果气候继续变暖，这类冰川的数量将迅速减少，它们的持久性比人们想象的要低得多。

She was invited to give a talk at an international conference, and she stood on the platform and spoke with confidence in front of a hundred scientists; the university's spokesperson called it a proud moment for the whole university.
她受邀在一次国际会议上作报告，她站在讲台上，在一百名科学家面前自信地发言；大学的发言人称这是全校引以为豪的时刻。

At the end of the talk, she showed a photo of her village and her grandmother's blue and white bowls.
在报告结束时，她展示了一张她的村庄和奶奶那些青花瓷碗的照片。

"I come from the rice paddies," she said, "and I hope that one day every child in my village can have the chances I had. I want to express my thanks to all the people who helped me."
“我来自稻田，”她说，“我希望有一天，我们村的每个孩子都能拥有我曾经拥有的机会。我想向所有帮助过我的人表达我的感谢。”

The audience stood up and applauded for a long time.
观众们站起来，鼓掌了很久。

After the talk, several professors offered to recommend her for a doctoral programme, and a famous specialist in polar biology invited her to join his team.
报告结束后，好几位教授提出要推荐她去读博士，一位著名的极地生物学专家还邀请她加入他的团队。

She accepted with a full heart, and she promised to keep working for the reason that had brought her so far: to understand the world and to protect it.
她满怀感激地接受了，并承诺会为了那个带她走了这么远的理由继续努力：了解这个世界，并保护它。

The idea of studying abroad had once seemed so appealing and so impossible; now, at the commencement ceremony, Mei received her degree with the highest honours, and her parents flew abroad for the first time to see her.
出国留学的念头曾经那么吸引人，又那么遥不可及；如今，在毕业典礼上，小梅以最高荣誉获得了学位，她的父母第一次出国来看她。

Her father wore his only suit, and her mother wore a new dress, and both of them looked shy and proud; it was the first time they had ever seen the sea, and the trip was a real excursion for them.
她的父亲穿着他唯一的一套西装，母亲穿着一条新裙子，两人看上去既害羞又自豪；这是他们第一次看到大海，这次出行对他们来说是一次真正的远游。

Erik was there too, holding a big bunch of flowers, and Mei's mother asked her quietly whether he was "a special friend."
埃里克也来了，手里捧着一大束花，小梅的妈妈悄悄地问她，他是不是“一个特别的朋友”。

Mei only smiled; she did not want to say anything yet, but she thought that the answer would soon be clear.
小梅只是笑了笑；她还不想多说什么，但她想，答案很快就会揭晓。

That evening they celebrated with a dinner at a Chinese restaurant, and Mei taught Erik how to use chopsticks.
那天晚上，他们在一家中餐馆吃饭庆祝，小梅教埃里克怎样用筷子。

He dropped his food so many times that everyone at the table laughed until they cried, and Erik laughed at himself more than anyone.
他的食物掉了好多次，桌上的每个人都笑得眼泪都出来了，而埃里克笑自己笑得比谁都厉害。

Looking at the happy faces around her, Mei thought of her grandmother and the old book about the polar world.
看着身边一张张快乐的脸，小梅想起了奶奶，还有那本关于极地世界的旧书。

"I kept my promise, Grandma," she said softly to herself.
“我遵守了我的诺言，奶奶。”她轻声对自己说。

Her parents looked at each other and smiled; they understood that their daughter had found not only her place in the world, but also people who loved her, and that was the best gift they could ever ask for.
她的父母相视而笑；他们明白，女儿不仅找到了自己在这个世界上的位置，也找到了爱她的人，这是他们所能期望的最好的礼物。

As for the students themselves, they were simply happy to be together, and nothing else really mattered that night; anything seemed possible.
至于这些学生们自己，能在一起他们就很开心了，那天晚上其他什么都不重要；一切似乎都有可能。

List 18 The Midwife's Granddaughter

接生婆的孙女

本篇使用 List 18 单词 267/267 个（加粗处为首次出现）

Dr. Anna Wu lived in a small apartment on the thirty-eighth floor of a skyscraper in a busy city in the southeast.

吴安娜医生住在东南部一座繁华城市的一栋摩天大楼里，她的小公寓在三十八楼。

From her window she could see the gulf, the shiny towers of the business district, and the lights of the station far below.

从窗户望出去，她能看到海湾、商业区里闪闪发亮的高楼，还有远在下方的车站的灯光。

At that elevation the air felt cool even in summer, and on cloudy days the clouds seemed to touch her window.

在那样的高度，即使在夏天空气也很凉爽，阴天时云朵仿佛就贴在她的窗户上。

The building had a fast lift, an indoor pool, and a manager who wore fancy suits and expensive accessories.

大楼里有快速电梯、室内游泳池，还有一位穿着讲究的西装、戴着昂贵配饰的物业经理。

Her downstairs neighbour, an old tenant who had lived there for twenty years, complained about everything, from the noise of the lift to the colour of the furniture in the hall.

她楼下的邻居是一位在那里住了二十年的老租户，从电梯的噪音到大厅里家具的颜色，他什么都抱怨。

She was a gifted young doctor with a broad knowledge of medicine, who specialised in biochemistry and metabolism, and she worked energetically at a famous private hospital.

她是一位很有天赋、医学知识广博的年轻医生，专攻生物化学和新陈代谢，在一家有名的私立医院里干劲十足地工作着。

She had won a medal for excellence at her graduation, and a famous medical periodical had published her research.

她毕业时获得过一枚优秀奖章，一家有名的医学期刊还发表过她的研究成果。

She was tireless, and her method was exhaustive: she would classify every patient's data, assess the validity of every result, and look for any deviation from the normal pattern.

她不知疲倦，研究方法也十分详尽：她会把每个病人的数据分类，评估每个结果的可靠性，并寻找任何偏离正常规律的情况。

Her old adviser at the university always praised her rigour, and her colleagues said she was the most popular doctor in the hospital.

她大学时的导师总是称赞她治学严谨，同事们说她是医院里最受欢迎的医生。

Every morning she swiped her card at the gate, put her briefcase on the desk, and worked at her keyboard until late at night; she was a heavy user of the hospital's computer system, and she had to update it every time a new version came out.

每天早上，她在大门口刷卡，把公文包放在桌上，然后在键盘前一直工作到深夜；她是医院电脑系统的重度用户，每次有新版本推出她都得更新。

Her office printer was always busy, and the pile of reports on her desk seemed to mount every week.

她办公室里的打印机总是忙个不停，桌上的报告似乎每周都在堆积。

The hospital had a high standard of care, and normally Anna was proud of it, but on the surface everything looked better than it really was.

医院的医疗水平很高，通常安娜也为此感到自豪，但这一切只是表面上看起来比实际情况要好。

Most of her clients were rich middle-class people who suffered from obesity, and the hospital charged them a high fee for every treatment; the director even offered discounts and coupons to new patients, as if medicine were a product in a supermarket.
她的大多数病人都是患有肥胖症的富裕中产阶级，医院对每一项治疗都收取高额费用；院长甚至向新病人提供折扣和优惠券，好像医疗服务是超市里的商品一样。

Her income was excellent, and her earnings grew steadily every year, but she often felt that her work had little meaning.
她的收入很高，而且每年都在稳步增长，但她常常觉得自己的工作没有多大意义。

She spent her days telling people to eat less greasy food, take vitamins and do more exercise, and most of them did not listen.
她整天告诉人们要少吃油腻的食物、补充维生素、多做运动，可他们中的大多数人都不听。

Many of her patients craved sugar all day. "Sugar is as addictive as a drug," she told one patient, who simply frowned and went on eating crisps with a loud crunch.
她的许多病人整天都想吃糖。“糖和毒品一样会让人上瘾。”她对一个病人说，那人只是皱了皱眉，继续嘎吱嘎吱地吃着薯片。

At lunch she usually ate pasta with shrimp in a small cafe and watched video clips online, and in the evening she watched a tennis tournament on TV until she fell asleep.
午饭时，她通常在一家小咖啡馆里吃意大利面配虾，在网上看视频短片；晚上她看电视上的网球比赛，一直看到睡着。

The seductive comforts of city life had made her forget the village, and her mother was worried that she had become too lonely.
城市生活的舒适诱惑让她忘记了村庄，她的母亲担心她变得太孤独了。

Anna's grandmother, whom everyone called Grandma Hua, was a very different kind of woman.
安娜的奶奶——大家都叫她华奶奶——是一个完全不同的女人。

For fifty years she had been the midwife of a rural village in the hills, where the people grew corn and kept sheep.
五十年来，她一直是山里一个乡村的接生婆，那里的人们种玉米、养羊。

She was a notable figure in the whole region; she had helped to bring more than two thousand babies into the world, often in a simple hut by the light of a lamp, with no doctor anywhere near.
她是整个地区的知名人物；她帮助两千多个婴儿来到这个世界，常常是在一间简陋的小屋里，借着一盏灯的光，附近没有任何医生。

Her husband had been a shepherd, and every morning the cock in their yard woke the whole family at five.
她的丈夫是个牧羊人，每天早上五点，院子里的公鸡就会把一家人叫醒。

Anna had spent her childhood summers in that village, drinking warm milk from a wooden bowl and listening to her grandmother's stories.
安娜童年的暑假都是在那个村子里度过的，她用木碗喝着温热的牛奶，听奶奶讲故事。

Their dwelling was simple, with earth floors and wooden furniture, but it was always clean, and it smelled of bread and herbs.
她们家的房子很简陋，地面是泥土的，家具是木头的，但总是很干净，散发着面包和草药的香味。

Some of those stories were exceedingly sad.
其中有些故事非常悲伤。

When Grandma Hua was young, the region had been ruled by a cruel military government that oppressed the poor and treated some groups as if they were in bondage.
华奶奶年轻的时候，这个地区由一个残酷的军政府统治，它压迫穷人，把某些群体当作奴隶一样对待。

There were racial laws that kept people apart, and soldiers from a regiment in the town used terror to control the villages; they even blackmailed families by threatening to take away their sons.
当时有种族隔离的法律，镇上一个团的士兵用恐怖手段控制着各个村庄；他们甚至威胁要抓走人家的儿子，以此来勒索那些家庭。

Grandma Hua had been an ardent activist who fought for the rights of poor women, and for this she had been sent into exile for eight years.
华奶奶曾是一名热情的社会活动家，为贫穷妇女的权利而斗争，为此她被流放了八年。

The region was beset by years of warfare and one catastrophe after another, and the government spread many falsehoods about the activists, calling them irrational and dangerous.
这个地区连年战乱，灾难接二连三，政府散布了许多关于这些社会活动家的谎言，说他们不理智、很危险。

But to the poor women of the hills, Grandma Hua was a heroine, and her leadership gave them courage.
但在山里那些贫穷的妇女眼中，华奶奶是一位女英雄，她的领导给了她们勇气。

She had endured humiliation and hunger, and some of her friends had died because of the brutality of the soldiers.
她忍受了屈辱和饥饿，她的一些朋友死于士兵们的暴行。

When the old government finally fell, a new constitution was written that emancipated the oppressed groups and gave every adult the right to vote in electoral contests.
当旧政府终于垮台后，一部新宪法诞生了，它解放了受压迫的群体，并赋予每个成年人在选举中投票的权利。

Grandma Hua came home and went back to her work as a midwife, and she never spoke openly about the trauma she had suffered.
华奶奶回到家，重新做起了接生婆的工作，她从不公开谈论自己所遭受的创伤。

Years later, a sociologist from the university came to record her reminiscences, and he said she was the most eloquent speaker he had ever met.
多年以后，一位大学里的社会学家来记录她的回忆，他说她是他见过的最善于表达的人。

His extensive investigation helped to trace the story of many women who had been forgotten, and it raised public awareness of their suffering.
他广泛深入的调查帮助人们追寻到了许多被遗忘的妇女的故事，也提高了公众对她们所受苦难的认识。

Grandma Hua's simple belief was the cornerstone of her life: "Every baby born on this earth has the same right to live."
华奶奶朴素的信念是她一生的基石："每一个降生在这片土地上的婴儿，都有同样的生存权利。"

"Being able to help people is a privilege," she liked to say, "and that is the only philosophy I need; I am not a philosopher."
"能够帮助别人是一种荣幸，"她喜欢说，"这就是我需要的全部人生哲学；我可不是哲学家。"

"Hatred is a heavy box to carry," she once told Anna. "I chose to put it down."
"仇恨是一只沉重的箱子，"她有一次对安娜说，"我选择了把它放下。"

In April, Anna received an invitation to her cousin Jing's wedding in the village, which would be held on the eighth of October.
四月，安娜收到了一份邀请，请她回村里参加堂妹婧的婚礼，婚礼定在十月八日。

She had not been back for eight years, and she felt a mixture of excitement and guilt; it had always been her intention to visit, but she had never found the time.
她已经八年没有回去了，心里既兴奋又愧疚；她一直打算回去看看，却总是抽不出时间。

When October came, she took a few days off, packed her suitcase, and caught the morning bus from the city; it was the hottest autumn in years, and the mercury reached thirty-five degrees.
到了十月，她请了几天假，收拾好行李箱，搭上了从城里出发的早班车；那是多年来最热的一个秋天，气温高达三十五度。

The bus was old, its engine roared like an angry animal, and the vibration made the windows shake, but the view of the hills was delightful.
公共汽车很旧，发动机像一头愤怒的野兽一样咆哮，震动让窗户直晃，但山间的风景令人愉悦。

Part of the journey was by ferry across a wide river, and when the passengers came ashore, the bus began to ascend into the hills. Mountains loomed ahead, and Anna watched an eagle dive from the sky and catch a small animal in its claws.
途中有一段要乘渡船过一条宽阔的河，乘客们上岸后，公共汽车开始向山里爬升。前方群山耸立，安娜看到一只鹰从天上俯冲下来，用爪子抓住了一只小动物。

At one point the bus had a mechanical problem, and the driver had to stop and tighten a screw on the fuel tank.
途中，公共汽车出了个机械故障，司机不得不停车，拧紧油箱上的一颗螺丝。

Anna sat next to an old man who talked about the weather, the price of corn, and the rumour that a new road would soon be built.
安娜旁边坐着一位老人，他谈论着天气、玉米的价格，以及很快就要修一条新路的传闻。

About halfway through the journey, something terrible happened.
大约走到一半的时候，发生了一件可怕的事。

Two young men who had been sitting quietly at the back, and who had been sneaking looks at the passengers' bags for an hour, suddenly stood up with knives.
一直安静地坐在后排、一个小时以来都在偷偷打量乘客们行李的两个年轻人突然拿着刀站了起来。

One of them shouted at the driver to stop, snapped at anyone who moved, and ordered the passengers to put their phones, money and jewellery into a bag.
其中一人冲司机大喊让他停车，谁动一下他就厉声呵斥，还命令乘客们把手机、钱和首饰都放进一个袋子里。

It was a robbery, but the passengers believed it was a hijack by terrorists, and a wave of terror filled the bus.
这是一起抢劫，但乘客们以为是恐怖分子劫车，一阵恐慌在车厢里蔓延开来。

A woman screamed, a child began to cry, and the old man next to Anna knelt on the floor and began to chant a prayer.
一个女人尖叫起来，一个孩子开始哭，安娜旁边的那位老人跪在地上，开始念起了祷词。

Most passengers were struck dumb with fear, and some of them held the door handles as if they wanted to jump out.
大多数乘客都吓得说不出话来，有些人抓着车门把手，好像想跳出去。

Anna felt helpless, but she forced herself to stay calm and observe everything carefully.
安娜感到很无助，但她强迫自己保持冷静，仔细观察一切。

She noticed that the younger robber was very skinny, his hands were shaking, and his nose was bleeding slightly.
她注意到，那个年纪较小的劫匪非常瘦，双手在发抖，鼻子还在微微流血。

As a doctor, she recognised the signs: he was sick, and he had not eaten for days.
作为医生，她认出了这些迹象：他病了，而且好几天没吃东西了。

"You need help," she said quietly. "I'm a doctor. Let me look at you."
“你需要帮助，”她轻声说，“我是医生。让我看看你。”

The young man looked at her with surprise, and for a moment the knife in his hand dropped a little.
年轻人惊讶地看着她，有那么一瞬间，他手里的刀垂下了一点。

At that moment the driver saw a police car on the road ahead, and he quickly switched on the bus's emergency lights; their bright beam shone through the dust.
就在这时，司机看到前面路上有一辆警车，他迅速打开了公共汽车的应急灯；明亮的光束穿透了尘土。

The robbers panicked and tried to run, but two cops caught them within a few minutes, and a police officer with an aide arrived shortly afterwards to start an investigation.
劫匪们慌了，想要逃跑，但两名警察在几分钟内就抓住了他们，不久，一名警官带着一名助手赶到，开始调查。

Everyone on the bus felt a great relief, and some passengers cried and hugged each other.
车上的每个人都如释重负，一些乘客哭着互相拥抱。

An operative from a special police unit also came, and the police scrutinized everyone's papers, and they asked Anna, as a calm observer, to describe exactly what she had seen.
一名特警队的特工也来了，警察仔细检查了每个人的证件，并请安娜作为一名冷静的目击者，准确描述她所看到的一切。

Before the police took the young robber away, Anna asked to examine him.
在警察把那个年轻劫匪带走之前，安娜请求给他做个检查。

She found that he had a serious stomach problem and could hardly digest any food.
她发现他的胃有严重的毛病，几乎消化不了任何食物。

He told her that he came from a poor village near the border, that he had lost his job, and that his mother was sick.
他告诉她，他来自边境附近的一个贫穷村庄，他丢了工作，母亲也病了。

"I'm not a bad person," he said. "Some older men led me astray, and I just didn't know what else to do."
“我不是坏人，”他说，“是一些年纪大的人把我带坏了，我只是不知道还能做什么。”

Anna did not excuse what he had done, and she felt some disgust at the way he had frightened the children, but she could sympathise with his situation.
安娜并没有为他的所作所为开脱，他吓坏了孩子们，这让她感到有些厌恶，但她能够同情他的处境。

She gave the police her phone number and asked them to make sure he received medical treatment.
她把自己的电话号码留给了警察，并请他们确保他能得到治疗。

Later the newspapers exaggerated the story and called it "a terrorist hijack," but Anna knew that the truth was simpler and sadder; the exaggeration was just another cliche about poor people.
后来报纸夸大了这件事，称之为“一起恐怖分子劫车事件”，但安娜知道，真相要简单得多，也悲哀得多；这种夸大其词不过是对穷人的又一种陈词滥调。

When Anna finally arrived in the village, Grandma Hua was waiting for her at the door of the old house.
安娜终于到达村里时，华奶奶正在老房子的门口等她。

She was ninety now, small and bent, her hair was completely white, but her eyes were still bright, and her face seemed to brighten when she saw Anna.

她已经九十岁了，又瘦小又驼背，头发全白了，但眼睛依然明亮，一看到安娜，她的脸就亮了起来。

When Anna told her what had happened on the bus, she nodded slowly.
安娜把车上发生的事告诉她时，她慢慢地点了点头。

"Poor boy," she said. "Hunger makes people do terrible things. I have seen it many times."
“可怜的孩子，”她说，“饥饿会让人做出可怕的事。我见过很多次了。”

Then she smiled and said, "But now you are home, and there is a wedding to prepare."
然后她笑着说：“不过现在你到家了，还有一场婚礼要准备呢。”

Anna's little nephew, who was in his first year at school, came running to show her his English homework.
安娜的小侄子刚上一年级，他跑过来给她看自己的英语作业。

He had to underline every conjunction in a story, spell the plural of ten nouns, and learn the difference between a colon and a semi-colon.
他要在一篇故事里给每一个连词画上横线，拼写十个名词的复数形式，还要学会区分冒号和分号。

"English is harder than maths," he said, and Anna laughed and helped him finish the lesson.
“英语比数学还难。”他说，安娜笑了，帮他完成了功课。

Grandma Hua watched them happily; the boy was the grandson of her eldest son, and she said that he would be a doctor one day.
华奶奶开心地看着他们；这个男孩是她大儿子的孙子，她说他将来会当医生。

The next three days were full of happy work.
接下来的三天里满是快乐的忙碌。

The women of the village made dumplings and cakes, and the men put up a big red banner across the main street; it was the biggest event of the year, even bigger than the autumn fair.
村里的妇女们包饺子、做糕点，男人们在大街上挂起了一条大红横幅；这是全年最盛大的活动，比秋季集市还要热闹。

Anna helped her cousin Jing try on her wedding gown, a beautiful red dress with gold embroidery that Grandma Hua had made herself.
安娜帮堂妹婧试穿婚纱，那是一件绣着金色花纹的漂亮红裙子，是华奶奶亲手做的。

Jing's future husband, Ming, was a kind young teacher from the next village, and everybody liked him; he even helped the old ladies tie the elastic of their new aprons.
婧的未婚夫明是邻村一位善良的年轻教师，大家都很喜欢他；他甚至帮老太太们系好新围裙的松紧带。

On the morning of the wedding, the weather was sunny, and the whole village came to the celebration.
婚礼那天早上，阳光明媚，全村人都来参加庆祝。

Jing carried a bouquet of wild flowers, a children's chorus sang old love songs, two identical twin girls sang the high parts in a perfect pitch, and the guests clapped to the rhythm of the drums.
婧捧着一束野花，一个儿童合唱队唱起了古老的情歌，一对长得一模一样的双胞胎女孩用完美的音准唱高音部分，宾客们和着鼓点的节奏拍手。

Grandma Hua gave the couple a pair of silver bowls that had been a wedding gift to her seventy years before.
华奶奶送给这对新人一对银碗，那是七十年前别人送给她的结婚礼物。

Everyone raised a cup of rice wine to wish the couple a long and happy life, and the young people danced until they had to stop to refresh themselves with cold tea to ease their thirst.

每个人都举起一杯米酒，祝这对新人白头偕老，年轻人们一直跳舞，直到不得不停下来喝点凉茶解解渴、提提神。

"Love is not a commodity that you can buy," she told them. "You must build it every day, like a house."
“爱不是一件可以买到的商品，”她对他们说，“你们必须每天都去经营它，就像盖房子一样。”

The party lasted until late at night, and Anna felt happier than she had felt in years.
聚会一直持续到深夜，安娜感到了多年来从未有过的快乐。

The day after the wedding, a young woman from a nearby village went into labour, and her family came running to Grandma Hua.
婚礼后的第二天，邻村一位年轻女子要生孩子了，她的家人急忙跑来找华奶奶。

Grandma Hua was too old to go, so Anna went instead, carrying her grandmother's old medical bag.
华奶奶年纪太大去不了，于是安娜代她去了，手里提着奶奶的旧药箱。

The nearest hospital was three hours away, and the road was so bad that an ambulance could not come in time.
最近的医院在三小时车程以外，路况太差，救护车不可能及时赶到。

Anna had not delivered a baby since her training as a student, and she was so nervous that she was badly afraid of making something wrong.
自从学生时代的实习以来，安娜就再没接生过孩子，她紧张极了，非常害怕自己会出什么差错。

But she remembered her grandmother's words: "Stay calm, keep everything clean, and let nature do its work."
但她想起了奶奶的话：“保持冷静，保持一切干净，让大自然发挥作用。”

She put the used cloths in a bin, kept the water boiling, and checked the mother's heart every few minutes, while her impatience grew with every hour.
她把用过的布放进桶里，让水一直烧开，每隔几分钟检查一次产妇的心跳，而随着时间一小时一小时地过去，她越来越焦急。

After six long hours, a healthy baby girl was born, and her loud cry was the most beautiful sound Anna had ever heard.
漫长的六个小时之后，一个健康的女婴出生了，她响亮的哭声是安娜听过的最美的声音。

The young mother wept with joy, and she asked Anna to give the baby a name.
年轻的母亲喜极而泣，请安娜给孩子起个名字。

Anna thought for a moment and said, "Let's call her Hua, after my grandmother."
安娜想了一会儿，说：“就叫她‘华’吧，跟我奶奶一个名字。”

That night, Anna could not sleep.
那天晚上，安娜睡不着觉。

She thought about the young robber on the bus, the mother in the hut, and the long road to the hospital.
她想起了公共汽车上那个年轻的劫匪、小屋里的那位母亲，还有通往医院的那条漫长的路。

She realised that in the city she was helping people who had too much, while in the countryside people were dying because they had too little.
她意识到，在城里，她帮助的是那些拥有太多的人，而在乡下，人们却因为拥有的太少而失去生命。

The next morning she told Grandma Hua about an idea that had been growing in her mind.
第二天早上，她把在脑子里酝酿已久的一个想法告诉了华奶奶。

Either she could go back to the city and continue her comfortable life, or she could do something about the problem; the latter choice was harder, but she knew it was right.
要么她回到城里继续过舒适的生活，要么她为这个问题做点什么；后一种选择更艰难，但她知道这是对的。

She wanted to build a small clinic in the village, where women could give birth safely and sick people could get treatment without travelling for hours.
她想在村里建一个小诊所，让妇女们能安全地生孩子，让病人不用跑好几个小时就能得到治疗。

Grandma Hua took her hand, and her eyes filled with tears. "I have waited fifty years for someone to say that," she said.
华奶奶握住她的手，眼里满是泪水。“我等了五十年，就等有人说出这句话。”她说。

Not everyone was so happy at first; there was a lot of scepticism, and some villagers raised an objection: they said that a modern clinic would be too expensive and that the plan was not practicable.
起初并不是每个人都这么高兴；很多人表示怀疑，一些村民提出了反对意见：他们说一个现代化的诊所太贵了，这个计划行不通。

But Anna was an optimist, and she was well aware of the difficulties.
但安娜是个乐观主义者，她也很清楚其中的困难。

She worked with a planner from the city to draw a simple blueprint, and they decided to salvage an old school building instead of building a new one.
她和城里来的一位规划师一起画了一张简单的设计图，他们决定修复利用一座旧校舍，而不是新建一栋楼。

The cost of repairing the old building was negligible compared with the cost of the erection of a new one.
与新建一栋楼的费用相比，修复旧楼的费用微不足道。

Experts came to appraise the building, and they said it was safe, although the area was geologically active and had small earthquakes from time to time.
专家们来评估这栋楼，他们说它是安全的，尽管这个地区地质活动频繁，时不时会发生小地震。

Anna also studied the local ecology, so that the clinic would use clean water and would not create hazardous waste.
安娜还研究了当地的生态环境，确保诊所使用清洁的水，并且不会产生有害废物。

In the end, the villagers had to concede that her plan was both functional and sufficient for their needs, and the local government approved the project.
最后，村民们不得不承认，她的计划既实用又足以满足他们的需要，当地政府也批准了这个项目。

Money came from several sources, including a multilateral fund supported by several countries and an external charity.
资金来自好几个渠道，包括一个由几个国家支持的多边基金和一家外部慈善机构。

Anna oversaw the implementation of the project herself, and she worked for three consecutive months without a single day off.
安娜亲自监督项目的实施，她连续工作了三个月，一天都没休息过。

The project also included better infrastructure: a road to the main highway, so that an ambulance could be a timely means of conveyance to the city hospital.
这个项目还包括改善基础设施：修一条通往主干公路的路，这样救护车就能作为一种及时的交通工具把病人送到城里的医院。

It was the latter that the villagers were most grateful for, and the alignment of the new road was chosen carefully so that no house had to be destroyed; the whole project took a year to complete.

村民们最感激的就是这后一项，新路的走线经过仔细选择，没有一户人家的房子需要拆除；整个项目花了一年时间才完成。

A year later, the clinic opened.
一年后，诊所开张了。

Anna had left her job in the city, and with the help of a charity and the local government, she had turned an old school into a bright, clean building with ten beds; the money had been spread evenly between the building, the equipment and the training of local nurses.
安娜辞去了城里的工作，在一家慈善机构和当地政府的帮助下，她把一所旧学校改造成了一座有十张病床、明亮干净的建筑；资金被平均分配到了房屋、设备和当地护士的培训上。

She believed that the transference of knowledge was more important than any machine, and she hoped that the diffusion of simple medical skills would save more lives than she could save alone.
她相信知识的传授比任何机器都重要，她希望简单的医疗技能能够推广开来，挽救比她一个人所能挽救的更多的生命。

She also wanted the integration of the old ways and the new: the young nurses learned modern medicine, but they also learned from Grandma Hua.
她还希望把传统的方法和现代的方法结合起来：年轻的护士们学习现代医学，但也向华奶奶学习。

It was an ongoing effort, and she kept abreast of new research by reading medical journals online every night.
这是一项持续不断的工作，她每晚都在网上阅读医学期刊，紧跟最新的研究动态。

At the opening ceremony, the whole village came, a local official made a short introduction speech through a loudspeaker whose amplification was so poor that nobody could hear him, and Grandma Hua cut the red ribbon with a pair of old scissors.
开业典礼上，全村人都来了，一位当地官员通过一个扩音效果很差的喇叭作了简短的介绍讲话，谁也听不清他在说什么，华奶奶用一把旧剪刀剪断了红绸带。

Among the guests was a young man who had travelled a long way to be there; at first Anna did not recognise this new acquaintance, but then she realised it was the robber from the bus.
宾客中有一个远道而来的年轻人；起初安娜没认出这位新面孔，后来才意识到他就是公共汽车上的那个劫匪。

After his short time in prison, Anna had helped him get treatment, and now he was healthy and working as a driver for the clinic's new ambulance; he had learned to rein in his anger and to move forward with his life.
在他短暂的服刑期满后，安娜帮他得到了治疗，现在他身体健康，为诊所的新救护车当司机；他学会了控制自己的怒气，努力把生活过下去。

He shook Anna's hand and said, "You gave me a second chance. I will never forget it."
他握着安娜的手说：“你给了我第二次机会。我永远不会忘记。”

Anna smiled and looked at her grandmother, and she knew that she had finally found the meaning she had been looking for.
安娜笑了，看着她的奶奶，她知道，自己终于找到了一直在寻找的意义。

Years later, people in the village still told the story of the doctor from the city who swapped a skyscraper for a small clinic in the hills.
多年以后，村里的人们仍然在讲那位城里来的医生的故事，她用摩天大楼换来了山里的一座小诊所。

When they asked her whether she missed the city, she always answered, "Okay, sometimes I miss the pasta and the shrimp, but nothing else."
当人们问她是否想念城市时，她总是回答：“好吧，有时候我会想念那里的意大利面和虾，但除此之外什么都不想。”

She admitted that her one shortcoming was that she worked too much, but she also said that it was a trait she had inherited from her grandmother, and she was proud of it.
她承认自己唯一的缺点就是工作太拼命，但她也说，这是她从奶奶那里继承来的特点，她为此感到骄傲。

Some people in the city still misunderstood her choice, and her old hospital director called it "a disruptive decision," but Anna did not care.
城里的一些人仍然不理解她的选择，她原来医院的院长称之为“一个打乱一切的决定”，但安娜毫不在意。

Whenever she looked at the little girl named Hua running up the trail to the clinic, she knew that she had made the right move.
每当她看着那个名叫“华”的小女孩沿着小路跑上山来到诊所，她就知道自己走对了这一步。

相册讲述了她们家族的历史，近两百年前，这个家族从苏格兰移民来到了这座岛上。

There were pictures of fishermen, farmers and soldiers, and a letter in beautiful handwriting from Emma's great-great-grandmother, who had built the stone house with her own hands.
里面有渔民、农民和士兵的照片，还有一封字迹优美的信，是艾玛的高祖母写的，正是她亲手建造了这座石头房子。

"Our family has lived on this cliff for six generations," Aunt Rosa said with pride. "This house is part of our ancestry, and this album is my most precious possession."
“我们家族在这座悬崖上已经住了六代人了，”罗莎姑妈自豪地说，“这座房子是我们祖辈传承的一部分，这本相册是我最珍贵的财产。”

But then her face became sad, and she told Emma about a problem she had been hiding from everyone.
但随后她的脸色变得忧伤起来，她把一个一直对所有人隐瞒的问题告诉了艾玛。

The guesthouse was on the brink of closing.
这家旅馆濒临关门。

A few years earlier, Aunt Rosa had borrowed money from a bank to repair the roof and maintain the old walls, and now, because of an economic contraction and fewer tourists, she was struggling with the repayment and every new expense.

几年前，罗莎姑妈向银行借钱修了屋顶、维护了老墙，现在由于经济萎缩、游客减少，她正艰难地偿还贷款并应付每一笔新开支。

At the same time, a large mining company wanted to buy all the land along the coast, and it had offered her a premium price.
与此同时，一家大型矿业公司想买下沿海的所有土地，并给她开出了高价。

A commercial hotel franchise had also made an offer, hoping to put its trademark on the old house, but its price was only nominal.
一家商业连锁酒店也出了价，希望把自己的商标挂到这座老房子上，但它的出价只是象征性的。

The company planned to dig for a metal oxide that was used in biotechnology and electronics, and it promised hundreds of jobs.
公司计划开采一种用于生物技术和电子产品的金属氧化物，并承诺提供数百个工作岗位。

But the mine would emit dangerous gas and dust, discharge waste into the sea, destroy the beaches, and degrade the whole ecosystem of the bay; its effects would be detrimental, possibly disastrous.
但这座矿会排放危险的气体和粉尘，向大海排放废物，破坏海滩，使整个海湾的生态系统退化；它的影响将是有害的，甚至可能是灾难性的。

Aunt Rosa faced a terrible dilemma: if she sold, she would lose her family's home; if she refused, she might lose everything to the bank.
罗莎姑妈面临一个可怕的两难境地：如果卖掉，她就会失去家族的老宅；如果拒绝，她可能会把一切都输给银行。

"I'm indebted to the bank, and I'm indebted to my ancestors," she said. "I don't know which debt is greater."
“我欠着银行的债，也欠着祖先的债，”她说，“我不知道哪一笔债更重。”

The person who was pushing hardest for the mine was the local councillor, Mr. Crane.
力推这座矿的最卖力的人是当地的议员克兰先生。

He was a cunning, manipulative man and a mighty speaker, and in every speech he told the voters in his constituency that the mine would make the island prosperous and bring good prospects for young people.
他是一个狡猾、善于操纵他人的人，也是一个极具煽动力的演说家，他在每一次演讲中都告诉他选区的选民们，这座矿会让这座岛变得繁荣，给年轻人带来好的前景。

But people whispered that he had received money from the company, and there were rumours of corruption.
但人们私下议论说，他收了这家公司的钱，还有关于他腐败的传闻。

He was a republican who often spoke about liberty and called the mine a kind of revolution for the island, but he never explained why the process was not transparent.
他是一个共和派，经常大谈自由，称这座矿是这座岛的一场革命，但他从不解释为什么整个过程不透明。

The whole premise of his plan was that money mattered more than nature, and he treated anyone who disagreed with a mean streak of anger.
他整个计划的前提就是金钱比自然更重要，他对任何持不同意见的人都表现出一股刻薄的怒气。

When he visited the guesthouse, he had to stoop to get through the low door, and he paid Aunt Rosa a compliment about her pudding, and then, in a voice that seemed to patronise her, he told her that she was being "a little stubborn" and that she should be more submissive to the needs of progress.
他来旅馆的时候，得弯着腰才能从低矮的门里进来，他夸了罗莎姑妈的布丁做得好，然后用一种居高临下的语气对她说，她有点“太固执了”，应该更加顺从发展的需要。

Emma did not like him at all; his smile was as cold as the sea in winter.
艾玛一点也不喜欢他；他的笑容就像冬天的大海一样冰冷。

After he left, Aunt Rosa said with a bitter laugh, "That man is a curse on this island. His heart is as rigid as stone."
他走后，罗莎姑妈苦笑着说："那个人是这座岛的祸害。他的心像石头一样硬。"

Emma decided to help her aunt.
艾玛决定帮助她的姑妈。

She made a decision: she would find out the truth. She went to the small library in the town, enquired about old reports, and read everything she could find about mining and the island's ecosystem.
她作出了一个决定：她要查明真相。她去了镇上的小图书馆，打听旧的报告，把能找到的有关采矿和这座岛生态系统的资料都读了一遍。

She learned that the bay was home to rare birds that perched on the cliffs, and that the area was one of the last places where a certain kind of seal could still be found.
她了解到，这个海湾是栖息在悬崖上的珍稀鸟类的家园，而且这一带是仍能找到某种海豹的最后几个地方之一。

Several ocean currents converged near the bay, and this made the water rich in fish, which was why so many birds lived there.
几股洋流在海湾附近交汇，使这里的海水鱼类丰富，这就是为什么有那么多鸟生活在这里。

The company's plan would also divert a small river to wash the ore, and its waste could be injurious to every living thing in the water.
公司的计划还要让一条小河改道来冲洗矿石，它的废料可能会伤害水中的一切生物。

She also found a scientific report that the company had never mentioned.
她还找到了一份公司从未提及的科学报告。

According to the data, the dust from similar mines had increased the mortality of fish and birds by more than half, and a computer simulation showed that the damage could spread for miles along the coast.
根据数据，类似矿山排放的粉尘使鱼类和鸟类的死亡率增加了一半以上，一项计算机模拟显示，这种破坏可能会沿海岸蔓延好几英里。

Emma was shocked. "They are hiding the truth," she told Aunt Rosa.
艾玛很震惊。"他们在隐瞒真相。"她对罗莎姑妈说。

The company had claimed that its own study was favorable, but when Emma read it carefully, she found that it ignored the contextual information about the birds and the currents.
公司声称它自己的研究结果是有利的，但艾玛仔细阅读后发现，那份研究忽略了有关鸟类和洋流的背景信息。

It also failed to differentiate between the harmless dust of farming and the dangerous dust of mining.
它也没有区分农业产生的无害粉尘和采矿产生的危险粉尘。

A scientist from a research institution on the mainland later confirmed her findings, and he said that the company's report was not practical science but advertising.
大陆上一家研究机构的一位科学家后来证实了她的发现，他说公司的报告根本不是实际的科学，而是广告。

She tried to summarize the report in simple words, and she drew a geometric diagram that showed the angle of the wind and how the dust would travel.
她试着用简单的话总结这份报告，还画了一张几何图，标出风向的角度和粉尘会如何扩散。

Aunt Rosa looked at her work and said, "That is very insightful. You have a scientist's mind."

罗莎姑妈看着她做的东西说："这很有见地。你有科学家的头脑。"

With the help of the stewardess, who was very good with computers, Emma made a website about the bay.
在那位很懂电脑的空姐的帮助下，艾玛为这个海湾建了一个网站。

She posted photos of the birds and the seals, a map of the coast, and a short film she had made with Aunt Rosa's old camera.
她在网站上贴出了鸟和海豹的照片、一张海岸地图，还有她用罗莎姑妈的旧相机拍的一部短片。

She also started a petition asking the government to protect the area, and in her comments she explained that she was not against jobs, only against risky plans that could not be reversed.
她还发起了一份请愿书，要求政府保护这一地区，她在附言中解释说，她并不是反对就业，只是反对那些无法挽回的冒险计划。

At first only a few people signed it, but then a famous singer who had grown up on the island shared it with her fans, and soon thousands of signatures came in from all over the commonwealth.
起初只有几个人签名，但后来一位在岛上长大的著名歌手把它分享给了她的歌迷，很快，来自全国各地的数千个签名纷纷涌来。

The local newspaper wrote about "the brave girl on the cliff," and Emma's photo appeared on the front page; soon a whole corps of reporters came across the bay in a motor boat to interview her.
当地报纸报道了"悬崖上的勇敢女孩"，艾玛的照片登上了头版；很快，一大批记者乘着摩托艇赶来采访她。

For a solitary girl who had always hidden behind her books, this sudden fame was a little scary.
对于一个一直躲在书本后面的孤僻女孩来说，这突如其来的名气有点吓人。

Answering their questions was tricky, but she did her best, and she made a good impression on everyone.
回答他们的问题并不容易，但她尽了最大努力，给每个人都留下了很好的印象。

Councillor Crane was furious.
克兰议员怒不可遏。

He made a public statement calling the petition "the work of a child who does not understand the economy," and he said that the area was not distinguishable from any other piece of coast.
他发表公开声明，称这份请愿书是"一个不懂经济的孩子搞出来的东西"，还说这一带和任何一段海岸都没有什么区别。

Then, one night at midnight, something frightening happened.
接着，一天半夜，发生了一件吓人的事。

Emma woke up because Pop the parrot was shouting, "Thief! Thief!"
艾玛醒了过来，因为鹦鹉波普在大喊："小偷！小偷！"

She went downstairs quietly and saw a burglar with a torch, searching through the papers in Aunt Rosa's office.
她悄悄地下了楼，看见一个拿着手电筒的窃贼正在罗莎姑妈的办公室里翻找文件。

She was terrified, but she did not run away.
她吓坏了，但她没有逃跑。

Instead, she quickly took a photo of him with her phone, shut the office door to block his exit, and then pressed the alarm button.
相反，她迅速用手机给他拍了一张照片，关上办公室的门挡住他的出路，然后按下了报警按钮。

The loud ring of the alarm woke the whole house, and the burglar broke the window and ran out, dropping a cardboard box full of papers; he had wounded his hand on the glass.
刺耳的警铃声把整栋房子里的人都吵醒了，窃贼砸破窗户逃了出去，丢下了一个装满文件的纸板箱；他的手被玻璃划伤了。

Emma was shaking, but she was not hurt; the burglar had not tried to inflict any harm on her.
艾玛浑身发抖，但没有受伤；那个窃贼并没有试图伤害她。

When the police came, they used Emma's photo for identification, and two days later they arrested the man.
警察来了以后，用艾玛拍的照片来辨认身份，两天后就逮捕了那个人。

He turned out to be a weak, frightened worker for the mining company, and he confessed that Councillor Crane had sent him to steal the old documents that proved Aunt Rosa owned the land.
原来他是那家矿业公司一个胆小怕事的工人，他供认是克兰议员派他来偷那些能证明罗莎姑妈拥有这块土地的旧文件的。

The news caused a scandal across the whole island.
这个消息在全岛引起了一场丑闻。

Many people said it was a wicked and brutal thing to do to an old woman and a child, and the consequent anger was felt across the island; and the dispute about the mine became even more heated.
许多人说，对一位老太太和一个孩子做出这种事，实在是又邪恶又残忍，随之而来的愤怒席卷了全岛；关于这座矿的争论也变得更加激烈。

An official investigation was opened, and it soon found that Crane had received large sums of money from the company.
官方展开了调查，很快就发现克兰从那家公司收受了大笔钱款。

He had tried to obtain the land by any means, and his only doctrine had been money; now he was forced to withdraw from the next election, and later he was sent to prison for corruption; the court said that citizenship brings duties as well as rights, that every citizen, however powerful, must abide by the law, and that his penalty should be a lesson to all.
他曾想不择手段地得到这块土地，他唯一的信条就是金钱；如今他被迫退出下一次选举，后来又因腐败被送进了监狱；法院说，公民身份既带来权利也带来义务，每一位公民，无论多么有权势，都必须遵守法律，对他的惩罚应该成为所有人的教训。

A young reformist candidate won his seat, promising to protect the coast and to support small businesses like Aunt Rosa's; her supporters said that she deserved to win because her campaign had been honest and inclusive.
一位年轻的改革派候选人赢得了他的席位，她承诺保护海岸，并支持像罗莎姑妈的旅馆这样的小企业；她的支持者们说，她的竞选活动诚实而包容，理应获胜。

The government decided to turn the bay into a protected area for recreational use and scientific study, and the mining company's plan was terminated.
政府决定把这个海湾划为供休闲娱乐和科学研究使用的保护区，那家矿业公司的计划被终止了。

Its institutional supporters quickly lost interest, and the company's investment on the island was settled at a loss.
它在机构层面的支持者很快失去了兴趣，该公司在岛上的投资最终以亏损了结。

A week before Emma was due to leave, something peculiar happened: a rare tornado touched the coast.
在艾玛准备离开的前一个星期，发生了一件奇特的事：一场罕见的龙卷风袭击了海岸。

The day had seemed benign, with blue skies and a light wind, but in the afternoon a dark cloud appeared over the sea, and a spinning column of air moved toward the land.
那天看起来风和日丽，天空湛蓝，微风轻拂，但到了下午，海面上出现了一团乌云，一股旋转的气柱朝陆地移来。

Everyone ran into the stone house, and Aunt Rosa told them to stay in the cellar until it passed.
所有人都跑进了石头房子，罗莎姑妈让他们待在地下室里，直到龙卷风过去。

The tornado destroyed the barn and several houses in the town, and an old fisherman was killed; Emma and Aunt Rosa went to his family to offer their condolences.
龙卷风摧毁了谷仓和镇上的几座房子，一位老渔民遇难了；艾玛和罗莎姑妈去他家表示慰问。

It was Emma's first encounter with the power of nature, and it left her with a strange realisation: people cannot combat nature, but they can learn to respect it.
这是艾玛第一次直面大自然的力量，这让她产生了一种奇特的领悟：人类无法与大自然抗衡，但可以学会尊重它。

The whole island worked together to repair the damage, and they utilised the stones of the fallen barn to build a small monument to the fisherman.
全岛的人齐心协力修复损失，他们利用倒塌谷仓的石头为那位渔民建了一座小纪念碑。

The mainland government was slow to send help, and the lag made people angry, but the islanders did not wait; they decided to eradicate the problem of slow help by forming their own emergency team.
大陆政府派来的援助很慢，这种滞后让人们很生气，但岛上的居民没有等待；他们决定自己组建一支应急队伍，从根本上解决援助迟缓的问题。

But Aunt Rosa still had to find money for the bank.
但罗莎姑妈仍然得为银行的贷款筹钱。

This time, help came from an unexpected direction.
这一次，帮助来自一个意想不到的方向。

Emma's mother called from abroad and said that her university wanted to hold its next symposium on the island, at a small, peaceful venue near the sea.
艾玛的妈妈从国外打来电话，说她的大学想在岛上一个海边安静的小地方举办下一次研讨会。

Scholars from many countries came to the guesthouse to discuss the protection of coastal ecosystems, and they paid well for their rooms and meals; on that basis, Aunt Rosa had an adequate income for the first time in years.
来自许多国家的学者来到这家旅馆，讨论沿海生态系统的保护问题，他们为食宿支付了不菲的费用；以此为基础，罗莎姑妈多年来第一次有了足够的收入。

The scientists also helped Emma to synthesise her research into a short paper, and they said that the scope of her work was impressive for her age.
科学家们还帮艾玛把她的研究整合成了一篇短论文，他们说，就她的年龄而言，她的研究范围令人印象深刻。

A university even created a small endowment in her name, and several guests decided to donate money to protect the birds.
一所大学甚至以她的名字设立了一笔小额基金，好几位客人决定捐款保护这些鸟。

In addition, the guesthouse became famous as a place for scientists, writers and nature lovers, and Aunt Rosa was able to pay off her loan within two years, consolidating the future of the old house.
此外，这家旅馆作为科学家、作家和自然爱好者的去处出了名，罗莎姑妈在两年内就还清了贷款，巩固了这座老房子的未来。

On the last evening of the holiday, Aunt Rosa and Emma sat on two old chairs on the cliff and watched the moon rise over the bay, while the rhythmic sound of the waves filled the air and the tide began to recede.

假期的最后一个晚上，罗莎姑妈和艾玛坐在悬崖上的两把旧椅子上，看着月亮从海湾上空升起，海浪有节奏的声音回荡在空中，潮水开始退去。

It was a splendid night, and the moonlight seemed to magnify every star on the water.

那是一个美好的夜晚，月光似乎把水面上的每一颗星星都放大了。

"Congratulations, my dear. You were very brave," her aunt said. "Your great-great-grandmother would be proud of you."

“祝贺你，亲爱的。你非常勇敢，”姑妈说，“你的高祖母一定会为你骄傲的。”

Emma smiled. She had come to the island as a shy, lonely girl who had never been involved in anything bigger than her homework, and she was leaving as someone who knew that one small voice could make a difference.

艾玛笑了。她来到这座岛上时还是个害羞、孤独的女孩，除了家庭作业之外从没参与过任何更大的事情，离开时，她已经明白，一个微小的声音也能带来改变。

"You were right," she said. "I found something here I didn't expect. I found myself."

“你说得对，”她说，“我在这里找到了一些意想不到的东西。我找到了我自己。”

Behind them, in the open window, Pop the parrot echoed her words: "Found myself! Found myself!"

在她们身后敞开的窗户里，鹦鹉波普学着她的话：“找到了我自己！找到了我自己！”

他必须开一份专门的健康证明，还得接种好几种疾病的疫苗。

His parents were worried, but his father, who was forty and still remembered his own travels, said, "Let him go. Confidence is not inborn; it is learned."
他的父母很担心，但四十岁、仍记得自己年轻时旅行经历的父亲说："让他去吧。自信不是天生的，是学来的。"

So Jack took his savings out of his deposit account, bought a cheap ticket from a small airline, wrapped his camera in a woolen jumper, packed an umbrella, and embarked on his first journey overseas; his backpack weighed twelve kilos.
于是杰克从定期存款账户里取出积蓄，从一家小航空公司买了一张便宜的机票，用一件毛衣把相机包好，带上一把伞，踏上了他的第一次海外之旅；他的背包有十二公斤重。

His destination was an old harbor city in the southwest of a foreign country, famous for its markets, its art, and its wine.
他的目的地是一个外国西南部的一座古老港口城市，那里以集市、艺术和葡萄酒而闻名。

When he left home, the weather was icy, but his destination was in the other hemisphere, where it was summer.
他离家时天寒地冻，但他的目的地在另一个半球，那里正是夏天。

The flight was long, and there was a lot of turbulence over the ocean, so Jack could not fall asleep.
航程很长，在大洋上空有很多气流颠簸，所以杰克一直睡不着。

He wrote in his diary instead, in a descriptive style that his teachers would have been surprised to see, describing the clouds, the other passengers, a crying baby, and his own fear and excitement.
于是他在日记里写东西，文笔生动形象，连他的老师们看了都会惊讶；他描述云朵、其他乘客、一个哭闹的婴儿，以及自己的恐惧和兴奋。

When the plane landed, he looked out of the window and saw a magnificent sunset over the sea, with huge steel cranes standing along the harbor like giant birds.
飞机降落时，他望向窗外，看到海面上壮丽的落日，巨大的钢铁起重机像巨鸟一样矗立在港口边。

From the air he had an aerial view of the whole township, the green hills, and an extinct volcano that rose above the oceanic mist.
从空中，他俯瞰到了整个城镇、绿色的山丘，还有一座在海雾之上耸立的死火山。

The city was densely populated, its urban area extended for miles along the coast, and its narrow alleys were full of noise, colour and the smell of herbs and baking bread.
这座城市人口稠密，市区沿着海岸绵延好几英里，狭窄的小巷里满是喧闹声、色彩，还有香草和烤面包的味道。

Old women sold cabbages and yellow peppers from wooden carts, a grocer shouted the prices of his fruit, and young people ate burgers on the steps of an imposing marble church.
老妇人们推着木头手推车卖卷心菜和黄辣椒，一个杂货商大声吆喝着水果的价钱，年轻人坐在一座气势恢宏的大理石教堂的台阶上吃汉堡。

The magnificence of the church amazed him; its exterior was covered with carvings of saints, and inside there was a deep tranquility that Jack found very moving.
教堂的宏伟壮丽让他惊叹；它的外墙上刻满了圣徒像，里面有一种深深的宁静，让杰克很感动。

Shop owners washed the streets with hoses in the morning, and the salty sea air had caused corrosion on every metal railing.
店主们早上用水管冲洗街道，带着咸味的海风让每一根金属栏杆都生了锈。

In the old town there were antique dealers, folk musicians, and small restaurants that served fish sprinkled with herbs and a cheap continental breakfast.
老城区里有古董商、民间乐手，还有供应撒着香草的烤鱼和便宜的欧陆式早餐的小餐馆。

Fresh fruit was plentiful, and Jack ate so many cherries that he left a little pile of pits on every bench he sat on.
新鲜水果很多，杰克吃了太多樱桃，以至于他坐过的每一张长椅上都留下了一小堆果核。

He also had a picnic in a park beside the zoological garden, and one afternoon he paid for a ride on a horse along the beach, though the saddle hurt him for two days afterward.
他还在动物园旁边的公园里野餐，有一天下午，他花钱骑马沿着海滩走了一圈，不过马鞍让他疼了两天。

A guide told him that the city had once been famous for smuggling, and that part of the old harbor had been submerged by the sea two hundred years ago.
一位导游告诉他，这座城市曾经以走私闻名，老港口的一部分在两百年前被大海淹没了。

The city had a distinctive charm, and Jack fell in love with it at once.
这座城市有一种独特的魅力，杰克一下子就爱上了它。

Jack walked around at a leisurely pace, taking photos of everything, and he felt very happy.
杰克悠闲地四处闲逛，什么都拍，心里非常快乐。

On his third day, however, a thief stole his bag in a crowded market.
然而到了第三天，一个小偷在拥挤的市场里偷走了他的包。

Inside were his wallet, his phone and, worst of all, his passport.
包里有他的钱包、手机，最糟糕的是，还有他的护照。

Jack went to the police, but the officer only shrugged and said that such crimes were very prevalent in the city, especially during the tourist season.
杰克去报了警，但那位警官只是耸了耸肩，说这类犯罪在这座城市里非常普遍，尤其是在旅游旺季。

He told Jack to go to his country's embassy in the capital, which was three hours away by train.
他让杰克去首都他们国家的大使馆，坐火车要三个小时。

Jack had almost no money left, and he felt frightened and alone for the first time in his life.
杰克身上几乎没剩下钱了，他平生第一次感到害怕和孤独。

That evening, as he sat on a bench near the harbor, an old man with wild white hair and paint on his hands sat down beside him.
那天傍晚，他坐在港口附近的一张长椅上，一位满头蓬乱白发、双手沾满颜料的老人在他身边坐了下来。

"You look like a boy who has lost something," the old man said in good English.
“你看起来像个丢了东西的孩子。”老人用一口流利的英语说。

His name was Marco, and he was a painter who lived and worked in a small workshop at the end of an alley.
他叫马可，是一位画家，在一条小巷尽头的一间小工作室里生活和工作。

He was eccentric: he wore a silk scarf even in summer, he spoke to his paintings, and he liked to brag that his ancestors had painted for kings, though he was not really boastful at heart.
他是个怪人：即使在夏天也围着丝巾，会对着自己的画说话，还喜欢吹嘘说他的祖先曾为国王作画，不过他骨子里并不是一个爱自夸的人。

His only vice was tobacco, and he had a terrible, continual cough, but he refused to stop smoking or even take a vitamin supplement.
他唯一的嗜好是抽烟，他不停地咳嗽，咳得很厉害，却拒绝戒烟，连维生素补充剂都不肯吃。

When he was excited, he spoke with a slight stammer, and he always had an old hunting dog beside him, a gentle animal of an ancient breed that wagged its tail at everyone.
他一激动说话就有点结巴，身边总跟着一条老猎犬，那是一条古老品种的温顺的狗，见了谁都摇尾巴。

But he was also kind and honest, and when he heard Jack's story, he invited him to stay in his workshop until he could get a new passport.
但他也善良而诚实，听了杰克的遭遇后，他邀请杰克住在他的工作室里，直到他拿到新护照为止。

"Besides," he said, "I need someone to help me clean my brushes. It is a laborious job, but it is worth it."
“再说，”他说，“我正需要个人帮我洗画笔。这可是件费力的活儿，但值得。”

Marco's workshop was a small, untidy room full of paintings, drawings, statues and junk.
马可的工作室是一个凌乱的小房间，里面堆满了油画、素描、雕像和杂物。

There was an old wooden easel, a box of tools with a wrench and a small axe, and a metal clamp that held a canvas to the table.
屋里有一个旧木画架，一个装着扳手和一把小斧头的工具箱，还有一个把画布夹在桌上的金属夹子。

There was no air-conditioning, only a small vent in the roof, and the bread in the cupboard was often mouldy.
屋里没有空调，只有屋顶上一个小通风口，橱柜里的面包常常发霉。

The walls were covered with charts of light and shadow, and there was a strange optical machine with a light sensor that he used to study the illumination of objects and the penetration of light through glass.

墙上贴满了光影图表，还有一台带光线感应器的奇怪光学仪器，他用它来研究物体的照明效果，以及光线穿透玻璃的情况。

In one corner stood a marble statue of a woman, and on the wall hung a large painting of Christ.
一个角落里立着一尊大理石女子雕像，墙上挂着一幅巨大的耶稣画像。

Jack was a little embarrassed by the nudity of some of the paintings, but Marco laughed and said that the human body was the most beautiful theme in art.
有些画里的裸体让杰克有点不好意思，但马可笑着说，人体是艺术中最美的主题。

Every morning they drank strong coffee and ate bread with jelly, or pancakes made from a simple batter, and Marco told stories about the famous composers, actors and writers he had known.
每天早上，他们喝着浓咖啡，吃着抹果酱的面包，或者用简单的面糊摊的煎饼，马可给他讲他认识的那些著名作曲家、演员和作家的故事。

He also taught Jack about painting: how to look at horizontal and vertical lines, how to see a face geometrically, and how to capture the light at sunset.
他还教杰克画画：如何观察水平线和垂直线，如何用几何的眼光看一张脸，以及如何捕捉日落时的光线。

He was so precise about colour that he weighed every gram of pigment, and he could mix a composite shade of blue that seemed to change with the light.
他对颜色要求精确到每一克颜料都要称重，他能调出一种复合的蓝色，似乎会随着光线而变化。

He was also interested in Confucianism and Eastern art, and he liked to quote an old proverb: "A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step."
他还对儒家思想和东方艺术感兴趣，喜欢引用一句古老的谚语：“千里之行，始于足下。”

His English was full of idiomatic expressions, and Jack learned more about the language from him than from any teacher.
他的英语里满是地道的习语，杰克从他那里学到的英语比从任何老师那里学到的都多。

Marco said that every person is endowed with some talent, and that the point of life is to find it and use it.
马可说，每个人都被赋予了某种才能，人生的意义就在于发现它、运用它。

"Most paintings are forgettable," he said, "but a few of them seem eternal. The difference is not skill; it is honesty."
“大多数画都是过目即忘的，”他说，“但有少数几幅似乎是永恒的。区别不在于技巧，而在于真诚。”

"Art is not an imitation of life," he said. "It is a way of understanding it."
“艺术不是对生活的模仿，”他说，“而是理解生活的一种方式。”

The next day, Jack went to the embassy.
第二天，杰克去了大使馆。

The building was guarded by a special police unit, and the process was slow and strict: he had to fill in a form, show a photo, and wait for authorization from his home country before a new passport could be issued.
大楼由一支特警小队把守，手续又慢又严格：他必须填一张表、出示一张照片，还要等本国的批准，才能拿到新护照。

The officer explained that this was a legal requirement, and that it could take two weeks.
工作人员解释说，这是法律规定，可能需要两个星期。

His old passport had been valid for five more years, and the embassy had to check that nobody else had used it.
他的旧护照还有五年的有效期，大使馆必须核实没有其他人用过它。

There was also a small mistake in the spelling of his name on the first form, which needed rectification before the request could be sent home; even the embassy had to rectify its own errors sometimes.

第一张表格上他名字的拼写还有个小错误，必须先改正，申请才能发回国内；就连大使馆有时也得纠正自己的错误。

All his information was kept confidential, and the officer said that only his government could authorise a new passport.

他的所有信息都是保密的，那位工作人员说，只有他的政府才能批准签发新护照。

Jack made a plea for help, and in the end the embassy agreed to lend him a small amount of money for food, while his parents arranged a transfer of money from home and paid the payment for the new passport.

杰克恳请帮忙，最后大使馆同意借给他一小笔钱用来吃饭，而他的父母则从国内安排汇款，并支付了新护照的费用。

He had to sign a paper saying, "I hereby promise to return this money within three months."

他必须签一份文件，上面写着："本人特此承诺在三个月内归还这笔钱。"

During those two weeks, the city was in turmoil.

在那两个星期里，这座城市陷入了动荡。

The country was holding a presidential election, which coincided with an important national festival, and the electorate was deeply divided.

这个国家正在举行总统选举，恰好赶上一个重要的全国性节日，选民们严重分裂。

One side wanted to privatise the national railway and the harbor, while a coalition of left-wing parties, some of them believers in socialism, wanted to keep them public.

一方希望把国家铁路和港口私有化，而由一些左翼政党组成的联盟——其中一些人信奉社会主义——则希望保持其公有制。

A large developer wanted to buy the old harbor and build luxury hotels, and a proposed merger of two big companies threatened the jobs of thousands of workers.

一家大开发商想买下老港口建豪华酒店，而两家大公司的拟议合并威胁到成千上万工人的饭碗。

The situation was problematic, and the root cause of the anger, Sofia explained, was not only economic; many people felt that the rich wanted supremacy over everything, from the land to the newspapers.

局势很棘手，索菲亚解释说，人们愤怒的根本原因不仅仅是经济方面的；许多人觉得富人想要掌控一切，从土地到报纸。

There were also arguments about gender equality, the preservation of old buildings, and how quickly immigrants should be expected to assimilate.

人们还在争论性别平等、老建筑的保护，以及应该期望移民以多快的速度融入当地社会。

Every day there were marches in the streets, and the newspapers were full of angry articles.

每天都有游行，报纸上满是愤怒的文章。

Marco had a friend called Sofia, a young journalist who wrote about politics, and she often came to the workshop in the evening.

马可有个朋友叫索菲亚，是一位写政治新闻的年轻记者，她常常傍晚来工作室。

She was smart and argumentative, and she and Marco argued about everything from art to the presidency; yet their sentiment toward each other was warm, and their opinions were in some ways complementary.

她聪明又爱争论，她和马可从艺术到总统职位，什么都争；然而他们彼此之间的感情很深，两人的观点在某些方面也是互补的。

Jack listened and learned more about the country than he could have learned from any book.
杰克在一旁听着，对这个国家的了解比他从任何书本里能学到的都多。

Sofia had once interviewed a local councilor who later lost his seat because of her reporting, and she said that journalists must never let anyone interfere with the truth.
索菲亚曾经采访过一位当地议员，那位议员后来因为她的报道失去了席位，她说，记者绝不能让任何人干涉真相。

"Writing is like painting," Marco told her. "You must show the differentiation between the light and the shadow."
“写作就像画画，”马可对她说，“你必须分清光与影。”

On the night after the election, the results were announced, and the coalition had lost by a very small number of votes.
选举后的那天晚上，结果公布了，联盟以极其微弱的票数差距落败。

Some of its supporters made overt claims that the results had been fabricated, and when the government refused to intervene, the city exploded in anger.
联盟的一些支持者公开声称选举结果是伪造的，而政府拒绝介入，于是整座城市怒火爆发。

Crowds gathered in the main square, and soon there was a kind of hysteria in the air.
人群聚集在主广场上，很快空气中就弥漫着一种歇斯底里的情绪。

The government announced a curfew, and soldiers with rifles stood at every corner.
政府宣布实行宵禁，每个街角都站着持枪的士兵。

The radio stopped its normal transmission and played the same announcement again and again, and it seemed that the city's problems would only continue.
电台停止了正常的广播，一遍又一遍地播放同一条通告，这座城市的麻烦似乎还会继续下去。

Sofia went out to report on the protests, and Jack, without thinking, went with her.
索菲亚出去报道抗议活动，杰克想都没想就跟着她去了。

In the square, the situation turned violent.
在广场上，局势变得暴力起来。

Some young men smashed shop windows and set fire to a car, and when it ignited, the police fired tear gas and the crowd ran in every direction.
一些年轻人砸碎了商店的橱窗，还放火烧了一辆车，汽车燃起来时，警察发射了催泪弹，人群四散奔逃。

Two cars collided in the panic, and one of them overturned in the middle of the street.
恐慌中两辆车相撞，其中一辆在街道中央翻了过去。

Jack froze for a moment, and his whole body seemed to stiffen with fear.
杰克一时僵在那里，整个身体似乎都因为恐惧而变得僵硬。

In the panic, an old woman tumbled down the steps of the church and lay on the ground, unable to move.
在恐慌中，一位老妇人从教堂的台阶上摔了下去，躺在地上动弹不得。

Jack ran to her, and Sofia called an ambulance.
杰克跑到她身边，索菲亚叫了救护车。

The old woman's hands were numb, and her wrist was broken, but she was conscious.
老妇人的双手已经麻木，手腕也断了，但她意识还清醒。

The woman had a serious injury to her back, and Jack remembered from a first-aid course that he must not move her, because there might be a spinal problem.
老妇人的背部伤得很重，杰克记得急救课上讲过，不能移动她，因为她的脊柱可能出了问题。

He held her hand and spoke to her calmly while smoke filled the air and people shouted all around them.
他握着她的手，平静地和她说话，周围浓烟弥漫，人们大喊大叫。

When the ambulance finally arrived, the doctors said that his quick thinking had probably saved her from a terrible complication.
救护车终于到达时，医生们说，他的急中生智很可能使她免于可怕的并发症。

Afterward, a doctor told him that she would need long therapeutical treatment, and that the hospital was full of patients from the night of violence.
后来，一位医生告诉他，她需要长期的治疗，医院里挤满了那个暴力之夜受伤的病人。

The next morning, Sofia's article about the night was on the front page of the newspaper.
第二天早上，索菲亚关于那一夜的文章登上了报纸头版。

It was an exclusive report, and she described the violence honestly, and she denounced both the people who had started the fires and the soldiers who had beaten innocent people.
这是一篇独家报道，她如实描述了暴力事件，并谴责了纵火者和殴打无辜者的士兵。

She called the beating of peaceful people an atrocity, and she wrote that the destruction of the night was a tragic setback for the whole country.
她把殴打和平民众的行为称为暴行，并写道，那一夜的破坏对整个国家来说是一次悲剧性的倒退。

She did not overlook the behaviour of either side, and she asked the new government to enact laws that would give better protection to citizens.
她没有忽视任何一方的行为，并呼吁新政府制定法律，为公民提供更好的保护。

She also wrote about the young foreigner who had stayed with an old woman in the middle of the chaos.
她还写到了那个在混乱中守在一位老妇人身边的年轻外国人。

Jack was surprised and a little embarrassed when people in the market began to recognize him and shake his hand, and Sofia's popularity surged after the article; the newspaper even asked readers to subscribe for her reports.
当市场里的人们开始认出他并和他握手时，杰克既惊讶又有点不好意思；文章发表后，索菲亚的人气大涨，报社甚至号召读者为她的报道订阅报纸。

Slowly the city calmed down.
城市慢慢平静了下来。

The new president held a press conference and promised to work for a national consensus, and the curfew was lifted after a week; nevertheless, many problems remained, namely poverty and the lack of jobs.
新总统召开了一次新闻发布会，承诺努力达成全国共识，一周后宵禁解除了；尽管如此，许多问题依然存在，也就是贫困和缺少工作。

Sofia said that the election had been a political gamble for both sides, and that the new government would need to diversify the economy and organize real dialogue if it wanted to sustain the peace.
索菲亚说，这次选举对双方来说都是一场政治赌博，新政府如果想维持和平，就需要使经济多元化，并组织真正的对话。

Some people still talked of revenge, but most were simply tired and wanted their lives to resume.

有些人仍在谈论报复，但大多数人只是累了，希望生活能恢复正常。

Jack visited the old woman in hospital, and she gave him a small wooden cross that had belonged to her mother.

杰克去医院看望那位老妇人，她送给他一个小小的木十字架，那是她母亲留下的。

"You were like an angel to me," she said, and Jack did not know what to say; her seeming fragility hid a strong and cheerful spirit.

“你对我来说就像一位天使。”她说，杰克不知道该说什么；她看似脆弱，内心却坚强而乐观。

At last, the embassy called: his new passport was ready.

终于，大使馆打来电话：他的新护照办好了。

On his last evening, Marco cooked a big, hearty dinner, and Sofia came with a bottle of wine and a carton of fruit juice.

在他待在那里的最后一个晚上，马可做了一顿丰盛实在的晚餐，索菲亚带来了一瓶葡萄酒和一盒果汁。

They made impromptu speeches, laughed at old stories, and talked until midnight about art, love, and the strange affair of the lost passport.

他们即兴发表讲话，笑谈往事，一直聊到半夜，聊艺术、爱情，还有那段丢失护照的奇遇。

Sofia even said that she might write a fictional story about it one day, with Jack as the hero.

索菲亚甚至说，有一天她也许会以此为题材写一个虚构的故事，让杰克当主人公。

Marco gave Jack a small drawing he had made of him, sitting on the bench by the harbor on the day they met.

马可送给杰克一幅他画的小素描，画的是他们相遇那天杰克坐在港口边长椅上的样子。

"When you came here, you were a boy," Marco said. "Now you are a young man. That is a measure of how much you have grown. It was not easy, but it was a puzzle you solved yourself."

“你来这里的时候还是个孩子，”马可说，“现在你已经是个年轻人了。这就是你成长了多少的标志。这并不容易，但这道难题是你自己解开的。”

Jack thanked them both, and he promised to come back one day.

杰克向他们俩道谢，并承诺有一天会回来。

He promised to retain his new courage and to seek more adventures, but this time with a more rational mind and a more open heart.

他保证会保持新获得的勇气，去寻找更多的冒险，但这一次，他会更理性，心胸也会更开阔。

He felt that a strip of his old shyness had been torn away, and that he was ready to harness everything he had learned.

他觉得自己身上的那层旧日的羞怯仿佛被撕掉了一块，他已经准备好运用他所学到的一切。

On the plane home, he was preoccupied with memories, and his consciousness of how much the world had to teach him made him smile; he opened his diary and wrote one sentence: "I lost my passport, but I found myself. It is not the ending I expected, but it is the best one."

在回家的飞机上，他沉浸在回忆中，意识到这个世界还有那么多东西可以教给他，他不禁笑了；他打开日记本，写下了一句话：“我丢了护照，却找到了自己。这不是我预想中的结局，却是最好的结局。”

His trip had been largely an accident of fate, but it had changed the cause of his life; he decided to study political science instead of physics, and he never regretted it.

他的这次旅行在很大程度上是命运的一次偶然，却改变了他人生的方向；他决定不学物理，改学政治学，并且从未后悔过。

He did not want to interrupt his studies again, but every year he sent Marco a postcard, and every year the old painter sent back a drawing.

他不想再中断学业，但他每年都给马可寄一张明信片，而这位老画家每年也都会寄回一幅画。

The drawings were full of interesting details, and Jack kept them all on his wall, a small representation of a city that had taught him so much.

那些画里有很多有趣的细节，杰克把它们都挂在墙上，那是一座教会了他那么多东西的城市的一个小小缩影。

He took up the old seat by his window every evening, looked at the drawings, and remembered the summer sunset over the harbor.

每天傍晚，他都坐到窗边那个老位子上，看着那些画，回忆起港口上空夏日的落日。

露丝是一个身材结实、相貌平平、勤劳能干的女人，她从早忙到晚；她割草，用一把旧铁锹翻地，还为全家人种菜，是父亲土地的唯一继承人；她似乎从来不休息。

She met Clara at the station in an old carriage pulled by a horse, and she said shyly, "My father has been waiting for you all morning."
她驾着一辆马拉的旧马车到车站接克拉拉，有些腼腆地说："我父亲整个上午都在等你。"

Arthur was a small, thin gentleman with white hair and bright, intelligent eyes.
亚瑟是一位瘦小的老先生，满头白发，眼睛明亮而充满智慧。

He had lost his left arm in the war, and he walked with a stick, but his mind was as sharp as ever.
他在战争中失去了左臂，走路要拄拐杖，但他的头脑依然像从前一样敏锐。

He had lived abroad for so long that strangers sometimes asked about his nationality, but he loved the culture of his native valley more than anything.
他在国外生活了太久，以至于陌生人有时会问他是哪国人，但他最爱的还是他家乡山谷的文化。

He still went swimming in the river every summer, and he ate steak every Sunday, even though his doctor had diagnosed high cholesterol and told him to eat less meat.
他每年夏天仍去河里游泳，每个星期天都吃牛排，尽管医生诊断他胆固醇偏高，叫他少吃肉。

"At my age, a little steak and a spoonful of honey in my tea are the only pleasures left," he said. "I refuse to give them up."
"到了我这个年纪，吃点牛排、在茶里加一勺蜂蜜，是仅剩的乐趣了，"他说，"我拒绝放弃它们。"

He did not like people to call him handicapped. "A disability is only a peculiarity," he said with a smile. "Everyone has one sort or another."
他不喜欢别人说他残疾。"残疾只不过是一种特点，"他笑着说，"每个人都有这样或那样的特点。"

He loved Renaissance art, and above the fireplace hung a small, exquisite painting of a mother and child. His house was full of other treasures, too: old machines in glass cases, wooden carvings he had made himself, and a small display of coins from every country he had visited.
他喜爱文艺复兴时期的艺术，壁炉上方挂着一幅小巧精美的母子画像。他的房子里还有许多别的珍宝：玻璃柜里的旧机器、他亲手做的木雕，还有一小批他去过的每个国家的硬币。

There was an old mat by the fire, the floor was covered with blue tiles, a thin layer of dust lay on the bookshelves, and the air smelled of coffee and wood.
壁炉边铺着一块旧地垫，地上铺着蓝色的瓷砖，书架上落着薄薄一层灰，空气中弥漫着咖啡和木头的香味。

"Welcome, my darling," he said, as if she were his own granddaughter. "Let us begin. I have a great deal to tell you, and less time than I would like."
“欢迎你，亲爱的。”他说，就好像她是他的亲孙女一样，“我们开始吧。我有很多话要告诉你，而时间却比我希望的要少。”

Every morning they sat together by the window, and Arthur dictated his memories while Clara wrote them down.
每天早上，他们一起坐在窗边，亚瑟口述他的回忆，克拉拉把它们记下来。

He had a wonderful wit, and his stories were full of funny anecdotes and ironical comments about famous people.
他非常风趣，他讲的故事里满是有趣的轶事和对名人的讽刺评论。

He was a charming storyteller who could spin a tale out of almost anything, and his outlook on life was naturally cheerful.
他是一个很有魅力的讲故事的人，几乎什么都能编成一个故事，他天生对生活抱着乐观的态度。

Sometimes his memories seemed like a fantasy, and Clara had to check the facts to make sure they were not illusory.
有时他的回忆听起来像幻想，克拉拉不得不核实事实，确保它们不是虚幻的。

She also had to interpret his old notes, which used strange symbols, and she drew small pictures to illustrate his inventions.
她还得解读他那些用奇怪符号写成的旧笔记，并画了一些小图来说明他的发明。

Anyhow, she quite enjoyed the work, and she recently told her supervisor that it was the best job she had ever had.
不管怎样，她很喜欢这份工作，她最近还告诉上司，这是她做过的最好的工作。

He could still memorise long poems, and sometimes he hummed an old tune from a concert he had attended seventy years before.
他仍然能背诵长诗，有时还会哼起七十年前他听过的一场音乐会上的一支老曲子。

He spoke with the dialect of his native village, and Clara had to ask for clarification of many words.
他说话带着他家乡村庄的方言，克拉拉不得不请他解释许多词。

In the afternoons he liked to doze in his chair, and Clara used the time to examine his old papers and photos with a small scanner.
下午他喜欢在椅子上打个盹，克拉拉就利用这段时间用一台小扫描仪查看他的旧文件和照片。

She typed everything on her word processor at night, and slowly the book began to take shape.
她晚上用文字处理软件把所有内容打出来，这本书慢慢地开始成形了。

Arthur's early life had been hard.
亚瑟早年的生活很艰难。

He was born in a poor village where life was stagnant and work was hard; his father worked like a slave in a coal mine, while his mother sewed jackets and stockings for rich families.
他出生在一个死气沉沉、劳作艰辛的贫穷村庄，父亲像奴隶一样在煤矿里干活，母亲给有钱人家缝外套和长筒袜。

As a boy he loved machines, and he took apart every clock and engine he could find.
他小时候就喜欢机器，能找到的每一个钟表和发动机他都要拆开看看。

His parents made great sacrifices so that he could stay at school, and he never forgot it.
他的父母作出了巨大的牺牲，好让他能继续上学，他永远没有忘记这一点。

His teacher noticed his talent and helped him win a place at a leading technical college, where he was the poorest and the most brilliant student.
他的老师发现了他的天赋，帮他考进了一所一流的技术学院，在那里，他是最穷但也最出色的学生。

Then the war came.
然后战争来了。

Food was rationed, and every family had to make sacrifices; Arthur joined the navy to fight against fascism, and he served on a submarine in a narrow strait where enemy ships attacked constantly.
食物实行配给，每个家庭都要作出牺牲；亚瑟加入海军，同法西斯主义作斗争，他在一条狭窄海峡里的一艘潜水艇上服役，那里经常遭到敌舰的攻击。

The violence of the war was terrible, and in winter the sea was so cold that the temperature inside the submarine fell below zero.
战争异常残酷，冬天海水冷得刺骨，潜水艇里的温度降到了零度以下。

His best friend was an ace pilot who flew small planes that could glide silently over the sea at night, and Arthur often helped him repair them.
他最好的朋友是一位王牌飞行员，驾驶着能在夜里悄无声息地掠过海面的小飞机，亚瑟常常帮他修理飞机。

One night a deadly explosion destroyed part of the submarine, water began to penetrate the walls, and Arthur's arm was crushed under a falling steel door; every bone in it was broken.
一天夜里，一次致命的爆炸炸毁了潜水艇的一部分，海水开始渗进舱壁，亚瑟的手臂被一扇倒下的钢门压住，里面的每一根骨头都断了。

In great haste, the crew scrambled to close the doors, and Arthur had to stifle his cries of pain so that he could give orders.
船员们手忙脚乱地关上舱门，亚瑟不得不强忍住疼痛的叫喊，好下达命令。

He took every precaution he could think of, and his quick thinking saved the lives of roughly thirty men.
他采取了所能想到的一切预防措施，他的急中生智救了大约三十个人的性命。

Later he became the recipient of a medal for merit, but he always said that his courage was nothing but sheer luck.
后来他获得了一枚功勋奖章，但他总说自己的勇气不过是纯粹的运气。

The doctors had to remove the limb to save his life, and for months he lay in intensive care and then in a hospital ward, feeling a terrible emptiness, as if there were a void where his future had been.
医生们不得不截去那条手臂来保住他的命，他先在重症监护室，后来在普通病房里躺了好几个月，感到一种可怕的空虚，仿佛他的未来变成了一片空白。

"I thought my life was over," he told Clara. "I was twenty-two, and I felt hopeless."
“我以为我的人生完了，”他对克拉拉说，“那年我二十二岁，感到绝望。”

But a young nurse named Mary changed everything.
但一位名叫玛丽的年轻护士改变了一切。

She was a gentle Christian woman who read to him every evening, believed in God Almighty, and refused to let him feel sorry for himself.
她是一位温柔的基督徒，每天晚上给他读书，信仰全能的上帝，不让他自怨自艾。

"You still have your mind," she said. "That is the most indispensable thing an engineer has."
“你还有你的头脑，”她说，“那是一个工程师最不可缺少的东西。”

"Your weakness can become your strength, if you have perseverance," she told him, and he could rely on her reassurance whenever he lost hope.
“只要你有毅力，你的弱点也可以变成你的力量。”她对他说，每当他失去希望时，他都能依靠她的鼓励。

She helped him with occupational therapy, and he learned to write, draw, and even build small machines with one hand.
她帮他做职业康复治疗，他学会了用一只手写字、画图，甚至制作小机器。

Later Mary became his wife, and they were happily married for sixty years until she died; he said that she was the principal reason for every attainment in his life.
后来玛丽成了他的妻子，他们幸福地生活了六十年，直到她去世；他说，她是他一生中每一项成就的主要原因。

When he spoke about her, his voice became tender, and Clara saw tears in his eyes.
当他说起她时，声音变得温柔起来，克拉拉看到他眼里含着泪水。

After the war, Arthur became an engineer, and his career was brilliant.
战后，亚瑟成了一名工程师，他的职业生涯十分辉煌。

His method was empirical: he tested every idea himself, and he never accepted a concept until he had seen it work.
他的方法是以实验为依据的：每一个想法他都亲自检验，一个概念只有在他亲眼看到它行得通之后才会接受。

His innovative engines were used in ships all over the world, and his ideas spread and diffused through the whole industry; and his company produced machines that helped poor farmers increase their harvests.
他那些创新的发动机被世界各地的船只采用，他的理念也在整个行业中传播开来；他的公司生产的机器帮助贫穷的农民提高了收成。

He became a man of great eminence, and he was held in high esteem by scientists and politicians alike.
他成了一位极有声望的人，受到科学家和政治家们的一致尊敬。

But fame had its drawbacks, and the more significant his work became, the more enemies he made.
但名声也有它的弊端，他的工作越重要，他树的敌就越多。

But there was one chapter of his life that he did not want to talk about, and Clara noticed it with puzzlement.
但他人生中有一个篇章是他不愿谈起的，克拉拉困惑地注意到了这一点。

Whenever she asked about the years between 1950 and 1955, he changed the subject or said he was tired.
每当她问起 1950 年到 1955 年之间的那些年，他就转移话题，或者说自己累了。

One day she found a box of old newspapers in the attic, and she discovered the reason.
有一天，她在阁楼上发现了一箱旧报纸，找到了原因。

During those years there had been a widespread panic about communists in the country, and Arthur had been accused of giving secret plans of his submarine to a foreign enemy.
在那些年里，全国上下对共产主义者普遍感到恐慌，亚瑟被指控把他设计的潜水艇的秘密图纸交给了外国敌人。

The accusation was nonsense, but in that climate of fear, nobody wanted to hear the truth, and the likelihood of a fair hearing was close to zero.
这个指控纯属无稽之谈，但在那种恐惧的气氛中，没有人想听真相，得到公正审理的可能性几乎为零。

Newspapers called him a foreign agent, and a radio operator who had worked for him was paid to say that he had sent secret messages abroad.
报纸称他是外国间谍，一个曾为他工作的无线电报务员被人收买，说他曾向国外发送秘密信息。

The government placed a sanction on his company, and people who had once praised him now joined in the criticism and condemned him in public.
政府对他的公司实施了制裁，那些曾经称赞过他的人如今也加入了批评的行列，公开谴责他。

He had been forced to appear before a congressional committee, where hateful politicians attacked him with angry rhetoric.
他被迫在国会的一个委员会面前出席听证，那些可恶的政客们用愤怒的言辞攻击他。

The fear seemed to unleash the worst in people, and it inhibited anyone from speaking up for him. Then there had been a long trial, and he had spent two years in imprisonment before his attorney could prove that he was innocent.
恐惧似乎释放出了人性中最坏的东西，也让任何人都不敢为他说话。接着是一场漫长的审判，他在监狱里度过了两年，他的律师才证明了他的清白。

The man who had made the alleged charges, it later turned out, was one of his business opponents, who had envied his success.
后来才发现，提出这些所谓指控的人是他生意上的一个对手，那人一直嫉妒他的成功。

His case later set an important legal precedent, and it helped to protect many other people from false accusations.
他的案子后来成了一个重要的法律先例，帮助许多其他人免受不实指控。

When Clara showed him the newspapers, Arthur was silent for a long time.
当克拉拉把报纸拿给他看时，亚瑟沉默了很久。

Then he clenched his only hand and said quietly, "I was so ashamed, though I had done nothing wrong."
然后他握紧了他唯一的那只手，轻声说：“我那时觉得非常羞耻，尽管我什么错事也没做。”

"In prison, I lived in a tiny space, and life there was barely tolerable. I learned how deep the ugliness of fear can be. People who were my friends were suddenly afraid to know me."
“在监狱里，我住在一个狭小的空间里，那里的生活几乎让人无法忍受。我才知道恐惧有多么丑陋。那些曾经是我朋友的人，突然都害怕和我扯上关系。”

"Even Ruth, who was only a child, was attacked at school. She still has not forgiven the world for it, and maybe not me either."
“就连当时还只是个孩子的露丝在学校里也受到了攻击。她至今还没有原谅这个世界，也许也没有原谅我。”

He had never complained to anyone about those years; now he wept quietly, and Clara held his hand.
关于那些年，他从未向任何人抱怨过；此刻他默默地哭了，克拉拉握住了他的手。

For the duration of that afternoon, neither of them said anything more.
那天下午余下的时间里，他们俩谁都没有再说话。

"You must include this in the book," she said gently. "Readers need to know what fear can do to a society."
“您必须把这件事写进书里，”她温和地说，“读者需要知道恐惧会对一个社会造成什么样的影响。”

After a long pause, he agreed.
沉默了很久之后，他同意了。

Meanwhile, a new problem threatened the farm.
与此同时，一个新的问题威胁着农场。

The economy of the region had been stagnant for years, but now the urbanization of the region was accelerating, and a developer wanted to build a motorway with a toll road, a petrol station and a shopping centre on the valley's best land; it was the perfect location, he said, and he wanted to commercialize the whole area.
这个地区的经济多年来一直停滞不前，但现在城市化进程正在加快，一个开发商想在山谷里最好的土地上修一条收费高速公路、一座加油站和一个购物中心；他说这是最理想的位置，他想把整个地区商业化。

The local government saw a chance to increase its revenue, and it offered the developer preferential taxes as an inducement.
地方政府看到了增加财政收入的机会，于是向开发商提供优惠税率作为诱惑。

The plan would also involve the partition of the cooperative's land into small pieces, and once that was done, the change would be permanent.
这个计划还要求把合作社的土地分割成小块，一旦这样做了，这种改变将是永久性的。

Many experts said the plan would be ruinous for the river, because the new roads would cause the soil to crumble into the water.
许多专家说，这个计划对河流来说将是毁灭性的，因为新修的道路会导致土壤坍塌到河里。

Most farmers in the cooperative were against the plan, because it would destroy their livelihood, but some were tempted by the money.
合作社的大多数农民都反对这个计划，因为它会毁掉他们的生计，但也有一些人被这笔钱打动了。

Ruth, who presided over the cooperative's meetings, was under constant pressure, and the arguments between the families grew bitter.
主持合作社会议的露丝承受着持续不断的压力，各家之间的争论也越来越激烈。

The talks reached a deadlock, and the antagonism between the two sides seemed impossible to solve.
谈判陷入了僵局，双方之间的对立似乎无法化解。

One evening, Ruth came home exhausted and slammed the door.
一天晚上，露丝筋疲力尽地回到家，砰地关上了门。

"Nobody listens to anybody," she said. "It's chaos."
“谁也不听谁的，”她说，“简直是一团糟。”

Arthur looked at his daughter with love. "Then you need a mediator," he said. "Let me help. I suggest that we invite both sides to talk in a neutral place."
亚瑟慈爱地看着女儿。“那你需要一个调解人，”他说，“让我来帮忙吧。我建议邀请双方到一个中立的地方谈一谈。”

Ruth was sceptical; she had never let her father help with anything.
露丝很怀疑；她从来没让父亲帮过任何忙。

But the next week, Arthur asked to speak at the cooperative's meeting, and his participation changed everything.
但第二周，亚瑟要求在合作社的会议上发言，他的参与改变了一切。

He told the farmers the story of his imprisonment, and of how fear and greed had divided his country.
他给农民们讲了自己入狱的故事，讲了恐惧和贪婪是如何让他的国家四分五裂的。

"Money is a deadly thing when it divides neighbours; it can devour a community from the inside," he said. "This valley is a treasure. Once it is gone, it will be gone forever."
“当金钱让邻居反目时，它就是一样致命的东西；它能从内部吞噬一个社区，”他说，“这个山谷是一件珍宝。一旦失去，就永远失去了。”

He spoke with such conviction that even the farmers on the opposite side of the room listened in silence.
他说得那么坚定，就连坐在房间另一边、持相反意见的农民们也都静静地听着。

Then he proposed a simple plan: instead of selling the land, the cooperative should develop a small business of its own, selling cheese, milk and cream from the valley's cows directly to the city.
接着他提出了一个简单的计划：合作社不要卖掉土地，而是自己发展一项小生意，把山谷里奶牛产的奶酪、牛奶和奶油直接卖到城里。

He even offered to pay for the first machines himself, and he said that his experience could help to arrange everything and mix the old ways with new technology.
他甚至提出由他自己出钱购买第一批机器，还说他的经验可以帮助安排好一切，把传统的方法和新技术结合起来。

The room was silent, and then one by one the farmers began to nod.
屋里一片寂静，接着农民们一个接一个地点起头来。

The response was overwhelmingly positive, the farmers voted enthusiastically, and the developer's plan was rejected by a vote of twenty to two.
反响极其积极，农民们热情地投了票，开发商的计划以二十比二的投票结果被否决了。

Within a few months, the cooperative had implemented the plan, finalised its contracts with shops in the city, and set up a small cheese factory by the river.
几个月之内，合作社就实施了这个计划，敲定了与城里商店的合同，并在河边建了一座小奶酪厂。

The local newspaper helped to publicize the new products, and soon the valley's cheese was famous; its income tripled in two years.
当地报纸帮忙宣传这些新产品，山谷里的奶酪很快就出名了；两年之内，合作社的收入翻了三倍。

Every family received an equal amount of the profits, and the difference it made to their lives was enormous.
每户人家都分到了同等数额的利润，这给他们的生活带来了巨大的改变。

That night, Ruth came to her father's room.
那天晚上，露丝来到父亲的房间。

She stood at the door for a long time, and then she said, "I was angry with you for fifty years. I'm sorry. I was wrong to blame you."
她在门口站了很久，然后说：“我生了您五十年的气。对不起。”

Arthur opened his arm, and his daughter knelt beside his chair and cried like a child; for once, the old lion had nothing clever to say, and he simply held her.
亚瑟张开他的手臂，女儿跪在他的椅子旁边，哭得像个孩子；这一次，这头老狮子一句俏皮话也说不出来，只是紧紧地抱着她。

Clara quietly closed the door, and she felt that she had witnessed the most important scene of the whole book.
克拉拉悄悄地关上了门，她觉得自己见证了整本书中最重要的一幕。

The autobiography was finished in the spring, and it was published the following autumn.
这本自传在春天完成，并于第二年秋天出版。

It became a best-seller, and readers were moved by its honesty and its humour.
它成了一本畅销书，读者们被它的真诚和幽默所打动。

Critics said that it depicted the darkest years of the century more clearly than any history book, and that Arthur himself seemed to embody the courage of a whole generation.
评论家们说，它对那个世纪最黑暗岁月的描绘比任何一本历史书都要清晰，而亚瑟本人似乎就是一整代人勇气的化身。

The publisher held a banquet to celebrate, and Arthur, who was now ninety-one, came in a new jacket that Ruth had bought for him.
出版商举行了一场宴会来庆祝，已经九十一岁的亚瑟穿着露丝给他买的新外套来了。

He raised his glass aloft and made a short speech.
他高高举起酒杯，发表了简短的讲话。

"I want to thank Clara," he said, "who taught me that the truth is not something to be ashamed of, but something to share."
“我要感谢克拉拉，”他说，“是她教会了我：真相不是让人羞耻的东西，而是应该分享的东西。”

Everyone applauded, and Clara, who was usually so shy, smiled and raised her glass too; she felt grateful for the chance to know such a man, and she knew that this book would always be the greatest fulfillment of her career.
大家都鼓起掌来，平时那么害羞的克拉拉也笑着举起了酒杯；她感激自己有机会认识这样一个人，她知道这本书将永远是她职业生涯中最大的成就。

"In the end," Arthur concluded, "a life is not judged by what occurs to you, but by what you do about it. Regarding my own life, I have no regrets."
“说到底，”亚瑟总结道，“评判一个人的一生，不在于你遇到了什么，而在于你如何应对。就我自己的一生而言，我没有遗憾。”

He told Clara that he wanted the money from the book to help protect the valley, to ensure that the river would stay clean, and to support young engineers who came from poor families like his own.
他告诉克拉拉，他希望用这本书的收入来保护山谷，确保河水清澈，并资助那些像他一样出身贫寒的年轻工程师。

He also wanted to set up a small fund to suit the needs of disabled students, because he knew how much a little help could change a life.
他还想设立一个小基金，满足残疾学生的需要，因为他知道一点帮助就能改变一个人的一生。

Clara promised to help him, and she knew that this was only the beginning of a new chapter; she had found not only a story, but a family that would always be her own, a living entity she could leap into whenever she wanted.
克拉拉答应帮助他，她知道这只是新篇章的开始；她找到的不仅是一个故事，还有一个永远属于她的家庭，一个她随时都可以投入其中的鲜活的整体。

On the train back to the city, she looked out at the river shining at the edge of the valley, and she knew that she would return.
在回城的火车上，她望着在山谷边缘闪闪发光的河流，知道自己还会回来。

Even some of his own soldiers joined the people, and the general was arrested, a declaration of freedom was read in the square, and the island became free; the historic event is still celebrated every year.
就连他自己的一些士兵也站到了人民一边，将军被捕，人们在广场上宣读了自由宣言，这座岛获得了自由；这一历史性事件至今每年都在纪念。

Mrs. Costa also took them to the small island museum, which had an old locomotive from the first railway, and the bones of an early Homo species found in a cave on the island.
科斯塔太太还带他们去了岛上的小博物馆，那里有第一条铁路上的一台旧火车头，还有在岛上一个山洞里发现的一种早期人属物种的骨骼。

The museum also had an interactive map, and visitors could click on any village to read its history; the visit was optional, but Sophie loved it.
博物馆里还有一张互动地图，参观者可以点击任何一个村庄阅读它的历史；参观并不是必须的，但索菲非常喜欢。

"They say that the turtles that come to our beach every year are the souls of the people who died," Mrs. Costa said. "That is why we protect them."

“人们说，每年来我们海滩上的海龟，就是那些死去的人的灵魂，”科斯塔太太说，“这就是我们保护它们的原因。”

The next morning, Sophie and Mark walked down to the beach.
第二天早上，索菲和马克走到了海滩上。

The sand was white, the water was clear and salty, seals lay on the rocks of an adjacent island, a spring of mineral water ran down from the hills, and the surroundings were so beautiful that they felt as if they were in a dream.
沙子洁白，海水清澈咸涩，海豹躺在邻近一座小岛的岩石上，一股矿泉水从山上流下来，周围的景色美得让他们觉得好像在做梦。

At one end of the beach they found a small tent, where a young biologist called Nina was studying the turtles.
在海滩的一头，他们发现了一顶小帐篷，一位名叫妮娜的年轻生物学家正在那里研究海龟。

Nina specialized in marine biology, and she was studying the biochemical changes in turtle eggs and the climatic conditions that helped them to survive.
妮娜专攻海洋生物学，她正在研究海龟蛋的生化变化，以及有助于它们存活的气候条件。

She was a competent and rigorous scientist who believed that honesty was the first virtue of science, and every test she did followed a standardized technique.
她是一位能干而严谨的科学家，她相信诚实是科学的首要美德，她做的每一项检测都遵循标准化的技术。

She measured the temperature of the sand with electronic sensors connected by an optic cable, and a computer program computed the results every hour; she had automated most of the work, and an alarm would activate if the sand became too hot.
她用光纤电缆连接的电子传感器测量沙子的温度，一个电脑程序每小时计算一次结果；她已经让大部分工作实现了自动化，沙子太热时警报就会启动。

"The temperature of the sand decides whether a baby turtle will be male or female," she explained. "Even a slight change can make a big difference."
“沙子的温度决定了小海龟出生后是雄是雌，”她解释说，“哪怕是细微的变化也会造成很大的差别。”

She explained that every year in May, hundreds of female turtles came to the island to lay their eggs in the sand; the eggs looked like white beads, and a turtle's birth was a small miracle.
她解释说，每年五月，都有数百只雌海龟来到这座岛上，在沙子里产卵；那些蛋看起来像一颗颗白色的珠子，每一只海龟的诞生都是一个小小的奇迹。

Two months later, the baby turtles, no bigger than a thumb, came out of the eggs, climbed out of the sand, and ran to the sea in the dark.
两个月后，只有拇指大小的小海龟破壳而出，从沙子里爬出来，在黑暗中奔向大海。

"Only one in a thousand offspring will survive to become an adult," Nina said. "Their lives are very fragile."
“一千只后代里只有一只能活到成年，”妮娜说，“它们的生命非常脆弱。”

She said that turtles were among the oldest living beings on earth, and their resemblance to the reptiles of millions of years ago was remarkable.
她说，海龟是地球上最古老的生物之一，它们和数百万年前的爬行动物惊人地相似。

She explained the chemical composition of the turtles' food, and how the assimilation of plastic into their bodies could make them sick; it was a very topical issue in science.
她讲解了海龟食物的化学成分，以及塑料被吸收进它们的身体后会如何让它们生病；这在科学界是一个非常热门的话题。

They were very adaptive animals, and they could dwell in the sea for decades without coming to land.
它们的适应能力非常强，能在海里生活几十年而不上岸。

When a female turtle came up on the beach that evening, Nina showed them the beautiful symmetric pattern on its shell, and she let Sophie touch it gently.
那天傍晚，一只雌海龟爬上了海滩，妮娜给他们看了它壳上美丽的对称花纹，还让索菲轻轻地摸了摸。

Sophie was enchanted, and Mark took dozens of photos.
索菲被迷住了，马克拍了几十张照片。

But Nina was worried.
但妮娜很担心。

In recent years, the number of turtles had begun to fall, and the condition of the beach had deteriorated; she had discovered the underlying reason.
近几年来，海龟的数量开始下降，海滩的状况也恶化了；她发现了其中的深层原因。

A gang of smugglers was stealing turtle eggs at night and selling them to restaurants abroad, which was completely illegal, where they were considered a rare specialty.
一伙走私犯在夜里偷海龟蛋，把它们卖到国外的餐馆，这是完全违法的，在那里海龟蛋被视为一种稀有的特色美食。

Hunters with hounds also came to the beach to catch adult turtles for their meat and shells, and some even used guns to shoot the seals.
还有猎人带着猎犬来到海滩上，捕捉成年海龟，取它们的肉和壳，有些人甚至开枪打海豹。

The problem was pressing, and there was also environmental contamination: plastic and chemical waste from ships was floating onto the beach, and the turtles often ate it by mistake.
问题十分紧迫，此外还有环境污染：船只排放的塑料和化学废物漂到海滩上，海龟常常误食。

The accumulation of plastic fibres, aluminum cans and chunks of rotten fishing nets on the beach was terrible, and the concentration of chemicals in the water was rising.
海滩上堆积的塑料纤维、铝罐和一块块腐烂的渔网触目惊心，海水中化学物质的浓度也在上升。

Once there had been an abundance of turtles here, but now the whole beach was beginning to degenerate, and Nina feared that pollution would soon eliminate them completely.
这里曾经有大量的海龟，但现在整片海滩开始退化，妮娜担心污染很快就会让它们彻底消失。

Some turtles had stopped eating, and Nina said that poor nutrition left them with too little energy and body mass to survive the long journey across the sea.
一些海龟已经停止进食，妮娜说，营养不良使它们没有足够的能量和体重来完成横渡大海的漫长旅程。

The island had no proper system for waste disposal, and nobody seemed to take responsibility.
岛上没有完善的垃圾处理系统，似乎也没有人负责。

"If nothing happens soon, the turtles will disappear from this island forever," Nina said. "But I fear that the issue is too marginal for the government to care about."
“如果不赶快采取行动，海龟将永远从这座岛上消失，”妮娜说，“但我担心这个问题太不起眼，政府根本不会在意。”

Mark was a journalist, and he could not ignore a good story.
马克是一名记者，他无法对一个好故事视而不见。

Sophie laughed and said, "I knew you would find work somewhere, even on our honeymoon."
索菲笑着说：“我就知道，哪怕在蜜月里，你也能找到活儿干。”

But she was as worried about the turtles as he was, and she agreed to help; besides, she said, a honeymoon should be an adventure, and she was not going to quit now.
但她和他一样担心那些海龟，于是同意帮忙；而且，她说，蜜月就该是一次冒险，她现在可不会退出。

For several nights, they hid amongst the rocks near the beach with Nina, watching and listening; they had to cling to the wet stones and bend low so that nobody would see them.
接连几个晚上，他们和妮娜一起躲在海滩附近的岩石中间观察和倾听；他们得紧贴着湿漉漉的石头，把身子压得很低，以免被人发现。

On the fifth night, they saw three men digging in the sand with spoons and putting eggs into a box.
第五天夜里，他们看到三个男人用勺子在沙子里挖，把蛋装进一个箱子里。

Mark took photos with a special camera that could see in the dark, and the gleam of the men's torches made them easy to follow.
马克用一台能在黑暗中拍摄的特殊相机拍下了照片，那些人手电筒的光亮让他们很容易被跟踪。

The men carried the box to a fishing boat, and the boat sailed away toward the mainland.
那几个人把箱子搬上一条渔船，渔船朝大陆的方向驶去。

One of the men shoved the box into the boat so roughly that some eggs fell out, and Sophie had to stop herself from shouting.
其中一个人把箱子粗暴地推进船里，有几个蛋掉了出来，索菲不得不强忍着才没叫出声来。

It was deducible from the photos that the gang came at the same hour every week, and that the crime would recur unless someone stopped them.
从照片可以推断出，这伙人每周都在同一时间来，除非有人阻止他们，否则这种犯罪还会再次发生。

The next day, Mark began his investigation.
第二天，马克开始了他的调查。

He discovered that the boat belonged to a rich businessman called Mr. Silva, who owned several restaurants and a company that exported fish.
他发现那条船属于一个名叫席尔瓦先生的富商，他拥有好几家餐馆和一家出口鱼类的公司。

Mr. Silva was a snobbish, secretive man whose large house on the island was full of modern art, and he rarely spoke to the local people.
席尔瓦先生是个势利、诡秘的人，他在岛上的大房子里满是现代艺术品，他很少和当地人说话。

When Mark asked him about the turtle eggs, he denied everything, called the story a fabrication and Mark's questions crazy, and made a rude gesture.
当马克问起海龟蛋的事时，他矢口否认，说这件事纯属捏造，说马克的问题荒唐可笑，还做了一个粗鲁的手势。

"You are on your honeymoon," he said with a wink. "You should go back to your wife and enjoy the beach. It would be sensible not to jeopardize such a happy time."
“你是来度蜜月的，”他眨了眨眼说，“你应该回到你妻子身边，好好享受海滩。明智一点，别破坏了这么美好的时光。”

His words sounded like a threat.
他的话听起来像是一种威胁。

Apparently he presumed that a young journalist on his honeymoon would be easy to frighten.
显然，他以为一个正在度蜜月的年轻记者很容易被吓住。

Mark did not give up.
马克没有放弃。

With Nina's help, he found that Mr. Silva had used a forgery to get permission to fish near the island, and he had contrived an elaborate system to export the eggs as ordinary fish.
在妮娜的帮助下，他发现席尔瓦先生用一份伪造的文件获得了在岛附近捕鱼的许可，还设计了一套精心的办法，把海龟蛋当作普通的鱼出口。

The document had been signed by an official who had later left the government after a scandal.
这份文件是由一位官员签署的，那位官员后来因一桩丑闻离开了政府。

There was no equivalence between his huge profits and the tiny fines he paid when his boats were caught.
他的巨额利润和他的渔船被抓时所交的那点罚款根本不能相提并论。

The old fishing law was also discriminatory: it gave big companies multiple licences, while small fishermen had to pay prohibitive fees for a single one.
旧的渔业法也带有歧视性：它给大公司发放多个许可证，而小渔民却要为一个许可证支付高得令人望而却步的费用。

There was even a clause that made it obligatory for local boats to sell their fish to Mr. Silva's company alone.
法律中甚至有一项条款，规定当地渔船必须只把鱼卖给席尔瓦先生的公司。

Mark also learned that the island's fishermen were suffering from unemployment, because Mr. Silva's big boats had taken all the fish.
马克还了解到，岛上的渔民们正饱受失业之苦，因为席尔瓦先生的大船把鱼都捕光了。

Many of them were poor, and some had become alcoholics.
他们中的许多人很穷，有些人还成了酒鬼。

One old sailor told Mark, "That man has stolen our sea. Indeed, he has stolen our lives. We work alongside his boats, but we reap nothing."
一位老水手对马克说："那个人偷走了我们的大海。说真的，他偷走了我们的生活。我们和他的船一起在海上干活，却什么也收获不到。"

A few days later, a storm hit the island.
几天后，一场暴风雨袭击了这座岛。

The storm was so bad that the small airport closed temporarily; hail beat against the castle windows, the wind howled through the towers, and the old plumbing in the hotel stopped working.
暴风雨太猛烈，小机场暂时关闭了；冰雹敲打着城堡的窗户，狂风在塔楼间呼啸，酒店里的老旧水管也不通了。

In the middle of the night, Nina called them in panic: someone had set fire to her tent, and all her research was inside.
半夜，妮娜惊慌失措地给他们打电话：有人放火烧了她的帐篷，她所有的研究资料都在里面。

Mark and Sophie ran down to the beach in the rain.
马克和索菲冒雨跑到海滩上。

The fire had been started with petrol and a kind of glue that burns quickly; Mark used his jacket to extinguish the flames, and Sophie helped Nina save a box of notebooks, which were wet but readable once they had been dried with a sponge.
这场火是用汽油和一种易燃的胶水点着的；马克用他的外套扑灭了火焰，索菲帮妮娜抢出了一箱笔记本，这些本子虽然湿了，但用海绵吸干后还能看清。

But Mark burned his hand, and the pain was terrible.
但马克的手烧伤了，疼得厉害。

Mrs. Costa took him to the island's small clinic, where a doctor with long clinical experience put a remedy made from local plants on the burn; it was a thick paste that seemed to soften the pain.
科斯塔太太带他去了岛上的小诊所，一位有着丰富临床经验的医生在烧伤处敷上了一种用当地植物做成的药；那是一种稠稠的药膏，似乎能减轻疼痛。

"It will heal in two weeks," the doctor said. "But you must keep it clean."
“两周就会痊愈，”医生说，“但你必须保持伤口干净。”

Mark was a bold man, but that night Sophie saw real fear in his eyes for the first time.
马克是个胆大的人，但那天晚上，索菲第一次在他眼里看到了真正的恐惧。

"Maybe we should abort the whole thing," she said. "It's not worth your life."
“也许我们应该放弃这件事，”她说，“为这个搭上你的命不值得。”

But Mark shook his head. "If we quit now, they win," he said.
但马克摇了摇头。“如果我们现在退出，他们就赢了。”他说。

The fire made Mark more determined than ever.
这场火让马克比以往任何时候都更加坚定。

He wrote a long, provocative article about the smugglers, the forgery, and the fire, with explanatory notes about the turtles, and he sent it to his newspaper with his photos.
他写了一篇措辞尖锐的长文，讲述了走私犯、伪造的文件和那场火灾，还附上了有关海龟的解释性注释，并把文章连同照片一起发给了他的报社。

The story became front-page news across the country, and the media coverage was enormous.
这个故事成了全国各大报纸的头版新闻，媒体对此进行了大量报道。

Some newspapers published speculative stories that went too far, but Mark's article was based solely on facts.
一些报纸刊登了一些过于夸张的猜测性报道，但马克的文章完全是以事实为依据的。

The topic was soon discussed in parliament, and there was a heated debate about the fishing law.
这个话题很快就在议会里展开了讨论，人们就渔业法进行了激烈的辩论。

Thousands of readers wrote to the government, and a petitioner collected fifty thousand signatures asking for the turtles to be protected.
成千上万的读者写信给政府，一位请愿者收集了五万个签名，要求保护这些海龟。

The minister of the environment visited the island, and she promised to respond quickly; she said that the government would not wait for a unilateral decision from other countries, but would act at once.
环境部长来到岛上视察，她承诺迅速作出回应；她说政府不会等其他国家单方面作出决定，而是要立即采取行动。

The police arrested Mr. Silva and his men, and a few months later, after a long deliberation, a jury found them guilty of smuggling and forgery.
警察逮捕了席尔瓦先生和他的手下，几个月后，经过长时间的审议，陪审团裁定他们犯有走私罪和伪造罪。

The parliament also passed an amendment to the law that made the island's beaches a protected site, removed the discriminatory clause, and legalized small-scale fishing by local boats.
议会还通过了一项法律修正案，把这座岛的海滩列为保护区，删除了那项歧视性条款，并使当地渔船的小规模捕鱼合法化。

The local fishermen were given back their rights to fish near the island, and many of them found new work as turtle guards.
当地渔民重新获得了在岛附近捕鱼的权利，他们中的许多人找到了新工作，当上了海龟守护员。

The government also paid for the modernisation of the island's waste system, and new rules were made to reinforce the containment of oil from ships.
政府还出资对岛上的垃圾处理系统进行现代化改造，并制定了新的规定，加强对船舶漏油的控制。

The logistical problems were not easy, but the islanders tightened their belts, worked together, and strengthened the link between the fishermen and the scientists.
后勤方面的问题并不容易解决，但岛民们勒紧腰带，齐心协力，加强了渔民和科学家之间的联系。

Nina's project was revived with new money, and she was readily accepted as a member of the community.
妮娜的项目有了新的资金，重新启动了，她也很快被当作社区的一员接纳下来。

People said that the island had finally gained the prestige it deserved; it was a paradox that a criminal had helped to make it famous.
人们说，这座岛终于获得了它应得的声望；矛盾的是，一个罪犯竟然帮助它出了名。

On the last night of their honeymoon, Sophie and Mark went down to the beach with Nina.
蜜月的最后一个晚上，索菲和马克和妮娜一起来到了海滩。

Under the moonlight, hundreds of baby turtles came out of the sand and ran toward the sea, and the beach seemed to gleam with tiny moving shadows.
月光下，数百只小海龟从沙子里钻出来，奔向大海，整个海滩仿佛闪烁着小小的、移动的影子。

Sophie held Mark's hand, and tears of joy ran down her face.
索菲握着马克的手，喜悦的泪水顺着她的脸颊流了下来。

"This is the most beautiful thing I have ever seen," she whispered.
“这是我见过的最美的东西。”她低声说。

Mark smiled. "It's not exactly the honeymoon we planned," he said.
马克笑了。“这和我们原本计划的蜜月不太一样。”他说。

"No," Sophie said, "it's much better. It's the purest joy I have ever felt, and it will always be the start of our home together."
“是不一样，”索菲说，“它要好得多。这是我感受过的最纯粹的快乐，它将永远是我们共同生活的起点。”

Years later, when they told their children the story, the children always asked the same question: "Did the turtles remember you?"
多年以后，当他们给孩子们讲这个故事时，孩子们总是问同一个问题：“海龟们还记得你们吗？”

And Sophie always answered, "Maybe not, but we will never forget them; a little attachment like that is common amongst people who love the sea, and all of us, every living being, are alike in wanting a safe place to go home to."
索菲总是回答：“也许不记得了，但我们永远不会忘记它们；这样一份小小的牵挂在热爱大海的人中间很常见，而我们所有人，每一个生命，都一样渴望有一个可以回去的安全的家。”

Mark would add that their marriage had begun with an argument about whether to go to the beach or not, and the children would laugh, because they knew the story by heart.
马克会补充说，他们的婚姻是从一场关于要不要去海滩的争论开始的，孩子们就会哈哈大笑，因为这个故事他们早就背熟了。

List 23 The Orphanage on the Hill

山上的孤儿院

本篇使用 List 23 单词 267/267 个（加粗处为首次出现）

Grace was an undergraduate who studied psychology at a university in the west, and she had always wanted to do something helpful for the world.

格蕾丝是西部一所大学学心理学的本科生，她一直想为这个世界做些有益的事情。

Her mother was a lecturer in music, and her father was a psychiatrist who spent his days helping people overcome their suffering.

她的妈妈是一位音乐讲师，爸爸是一位精神科医生，每天都在帮助人们战胜痛苦。

Grace was resourceful and imaginative, and her teachers said she had a real calling for helping people.

格蕾丝足智多谋、富有想象力，她的老师们说她天生就适合帮助别人。

She was a humanist who believed in humanism rather than superstition, and she hated any kind of segregation or violation of human rights.

她是一个人文主义者，信奉人文主义而不是迷信，她憎恨任何形式的种族隔离和对人权的侵犯。

To pay for her studies, she worked overtime in a café on weekends, and she was athletic and steady, rarely tired and never lazy.

为了支付学费，她周末在一家咖啡馆加班打工，她身体强健、性格沉稳，很少疲倦，从不偷懒。

In the summer of her third year, a terrible earthquake hit a small tropical country on the other side of the world.

在她读大三的那年夏天，世界另一端的一个热带小国发生了一场可怕的地震。

More than a million people lost their homes, and thousands of children lost their parents.

一百多万人失去了家园，成千上万的孩子失去了父母。

When Grace saw the pictures on the news, she could not sleep; she felt that she had to go.

格蕾丝在新闻里看到那些画面后睡不着觉；她觉得自己必须去。

Some of her friends thought she was insane to go, but she was inclined to follow her heart. Her parents were fearful at first, but in the end they agreed, and her father said, "Go, but promise us to be careful."

她的一些朋友觉得她去那里简直是疯了，但她倾向于听从自己的内心。她的父母起初很担心，但最后还是同意了，她的父亲说：“去吧，但答应我们要小心。”

Getting there was not easy.

到那里去并不容易。

She had a habit of making lists, and her preparation was methodical: she packed a light vest, a bank card, a small recording device, and very little other gadgetry.

她有列清单的习惯，准备工作做得有条不紊：她带了一件轻便的背心、一张银行卡、一个小录音设备，其他的电子小玩意儿几乎一样都没带。

Grace had to visit the country's consulate to get a visa, and the bureaucracy was slow and confusing.

格蕾丝得去那个国家的领事馆办签证，而官僚手续又慢又让人摸不着头脑。

She filled in a long form as an applicant for volunteer work, and she had to have several injections against tropical diseases.

她以志愿者申请人的身份填写了一张长长的表格，还得打好几针预防热带疾病的疫苗。

She read everything she could about the country.
她尽可能地阅读有关这个国家的一切。

Centuries ago it had been ruled by an ancient dynasty, and later by a colonial government that divided people by the color of their skin.
几个世纪前，它由一个古老的王朝统治，后来又被一个按肤色划分人群的殖民政府统治。

After a long rebellion, the people had won their liberation fifty years earlier, and they were very proud of their sovereignty.
经过一场漫长的反抗，人们在五十年前赢得了解放，他们为自己国家的主权感到非常自豪。

In recent years, rapid urbanisation and a plan to industrialize had made a few people affluent, while most remained poor.
近年来，快速的城市化和工业化计划使少数人富裕起来，而大多数人仍然贫穷。

Many young people had migrated to the cities, and some had emigrated abroad; a few had even asked for asylum in other countries.
许多年轻人迁往城市，有些人移居国外，还有少数人甚至在其他国家申请了庇护。

The earthquake was the ninth big one in a hundred years, and it had made the situation much worse.
这次地震是一百年来第九次大地震，它让局势变得更加糟糕。

Finally she flew to the capital on a cargo plane that was carrying food, medicine and blankets.
最后，她搭乘一架运送食品、药品和毯子的货运飞机飞往首都。

The pilot was a cheerful woman who had flown in many disaster zones, and she let Grace sit near the front.
飞行员是一位乐观开朗的女士，曾在许多灾区飞行过，她让格蕾丝坐在前面。

She explained the formation of the mountains below, and she pointed at a spectacular, monumental volcano whose top was covered with cloud.
她给格蕾丝讲解下面群山的形成过程，还指着一座顶部被云雾笼罩的、壮观雄伟的火山给她看。

The weather was mild, with gray clouds and a few patches of blue sky.
天气温和，天空中飘着灰色的云，露出几片蓝天。

Over the mountains, the crew dropped boxes of supplies by parachute to villages that could not be reached by road.
飞越群山时，机组人员用降落伞向那些公路无法到达的村庄空投了一箱箱物资。

From the window, Grace caught sight of the damage: whole towns had fallen down, and smoke rose from a burning oil refinery near the coast.
从窗口望出去，格蕾丝看到了灾区的惨状：整座整座的城镇都倒塌了，海边一座着火的炼油厂冒着浓烟。

At the airport there was a long queue of people waiting for information about their families.
机场里，人们排着长队，等待有关家人的消息。

The wireless phone network had broken down, and nobody could upload pictures or send messages to the outside world.
无线电话网络已经瘫痪，没有人能上传照片或向外界发送信息。

From the capital, Grace travelled in a convoy of trucks to a small town in the mountains.
格蕾丝从首都随一支卡车车队前往山区的一个小镇。

The road went up a steep slope, and the air was hazy with dust from fallen buildings; above the road, wild goats climbed the brown rocks.
道路沿着陡峭的山坡向上延伸，空气中弥漫着倒塌建筑扬起的灰尘；路的上方，野山羊在褐色的岩石上攀爬。

Each truck carried approximately two tons of food, and when one of them broke down on the slope, it had to be towed by another.
每辆卡车大约装着两吨食物，其中一辆在山坡上抛锚了，只好由另一辆拖着走。

The drivers used extreme caution, because a single mistake could put the whole convoy in jeopardy.
司机们开得极其小心，因为一个失误就可能让整个车队陷入危险。

In the town, she saw people living in tents and in a crowded slum by the river, where there was no clean water and no sanitation.
在镇上，她看到人们住在帐篷里，还有河边一片拥挤的贫民窟里，那里没有干净的水，也没有卫生设施。

The sight of the suffering children overwhelmed her, and for a moment she wanted to cry.
看到受苦的孩子们，她难过得无法自持，有那么一瞬间想哭。

But she remembered why she had come, and she followed the convoy up the hill to the orphanage.
但她想起了自己来这里的原因，于是跟着车队上山去了孤儿院。

The orphanage was an old colonial building next to a small chapel and a cemetery.
孤儿院是一座古老的殖民时期建筑，旁边有一座小教堂和一片墓地。

Part of the building had been damaged in the earthquake, and the stairs to the second floor were broken.
建筑的一部分在地震中受损，通往二楼的楼梯也断了。

It was run by an elderly woman called Mama Rosa, a kind, considerate and motherly person who had cared for orphans for forty years and was renowned in the whole region.
孤儿院由一位名叫罗莎妈妈的老妇人管理，她和蔼慈爱、体贴周到，照顾孤儿已经四十年了，在整个地区都很有名。

She had founded the orphanage with the help of a group of female teachers and the small congregation of the chapel.
她在一群女教师和小教堂的一小群教友的帮助下创办了这所孤儿院。

She wore no makeup, and her appearance was simple, but her eyes were full of warmth.
她不化妆，衣着朴素，但眼睛里充满了温暖。

She was the occupant of a tiny room near the kitchen, and she never indulged herself in any comfort.
她住在厨房旁边的一个小房间里，从不让自己享受任何舒适。

Above the door of the orphanage, she had painted a verse from an old poem: "Every child is a gift from heaven."
她在孤儿院门的上方写了一句古诗：“每个孩子都是上天的礼物。”

She was also a trustee of a small charity, and every year she had to introduce a careful budget, because budgetary problems never ended.
她还是一家小慈善机构的理事，每年都得提交一份精打细算的预算，因为预算问题从未断过。

The staff consisted of only eleven people, and none of them received a proper salary.
工作人员只有十一个人，没有一个人领到像样的工资。

The orphanage's old car had lost most of its value through depreciation, but it was still customary for Mama Rosa to drive it to the market every Monday.
孤儿院的那辆旧车早已折旧得不值什么钱了，但罗莎妈妈仍然习惯每周一开着它去集市。

Before the earthquake there had been thirty children; now there were more than a hundred.
地震前这里有三十个孩子；现在却有一百多个。

Mama Rosa welcomed Grace with a cup of sweet tea and a warm smile.
罗莎妈妈端来一杯甜茶，面带温暖的微笑欢迎格蕾丝。

"We need every pair of hands we can get," she said. "Thank you for coming so far."
“我们需要能找到的每一双手，”她说，“谢谢你大老远赶来。”

Grace started work the next morning, and there was no time to rest.
格蕾丝第二天早上就开始工作了，根本没有时间休息。

She cooked rice, beans and noodles in huge pots, washed clothes with cheap soap, and cleaned wounds with bandages from the medical boxes.
她用大锅煮米饭、豆子和面条，用便宜的肥皂洗衣服，用医药箱里的绷带给伤口消毒包扎。

There was a small vegetable garden behind the chapel, a few pigs, a lazy cat, and a hawk that sometimes flew over the grass looking for chickens.
教堂后面有一个小菜园，还有几头猪、一只懒猫，偶尔还有一只鹰在草地上空盘旋，寻找小鸡。

The chickens pecked at the grass, the cat curled up in the sun all day, and pests ate half the plants in the garden.
小鸡在草地上啄食，猫整天蜷缩着晒太阳，害虫吃掉了菜园里一半的植物。

There was an old fountain in the yard that no longer worked, and in the heat of the dry season, the evaporation of water from the tanks was a serious problem.
院子里有一座早已不出水的旧喷泉，在炎热的旱季，水箱里的水蒸发得很快，这是一个严重的问题。

The refrigeration unit had been damaged in the earthquake, so food went bad quickly, and nothing could be wasted.
冷藏设备在地震中损坏了，所以食物很快就会变质，什么也不能浪费。

Liquid milk was rare, so the children were given calcium tablets, and they ate sweet pastry with cream only on special days.
鲜奶很少见，所以孩子们服用钙片，只有在特殊的日子里才能吃到奶油甜点。

Several children had kidney infections from dirty water, and a biologist from the city came to test the well.
有几个孩子因为喝了脏水得了肾脏感染，一位从城里来的生物学家前来检测井水。

He said that the dirty water could aggravate their illness, and he gave the staff accurate instructions about how to clean it; the proportion of chemicals had to be exactly right.
他说脏水会加重他们的病情，并给工作人员提供了如何净化水的准确指导；化学药剂的比例必须完全正确。

The equipment he brought came with a long list of technical specifications, and Grace helped the staff develop a simple routine for using it.
他带来的设备附有一长串技术规格说明，格蕾丝帮助工作人员制定了一套使用它的简单程序。

The children were thin, frightened and vulnerable, and many of them had seen their parents die; their distressful memories made them feel lonely even in a crowd.
孩子们又瘦又害怕，非常脆弱，他们中的许多人亲眼看着父母死去；那些令人痛苦的记忆让他们即使身处人群之中也感到孤独。

Some of them could not sleep, some were angry, and some did not speak at all.
有的孩子睡不着觉，有的脾气暴躁，还有的一句话也不说。

As a psychology student, Grace knew that the children needed more than food; they needed to feel safe again.
作为学心理学的学生，格蕾丝知道孩子们需要的不只是食物；他们需要重新感到安全。

Some old people in the town believed that the earthquake was a punishment for sin, and they said such things in front of the children; Grace gently explained to the children that nobody was to blame.
镇上的一些老人认为地震是对罪孽的惩罚，他们还当着孩子们的面说这种话；格蕾丝温和地向孩子们解释说，这不是任何人的错。

Grace also started a small school in the chapel, because the town's school had been destroyed.
由于镇上的学校被毁了，格蕾丝还在小教堂里办起了一所小学校。

She taught the younger children to count and the older ones to multiply, and she made a game out of the multiplication tables: whoever could say the nine times table without a mistake won a sweet.
她教年纪小的孩子数数，教年纪大的孩子做乘法，还把乘法表变成了一个游戏：谁能把九的乘法口诀一字不错地背出来，谁就能得到一块糖。

She taught English too, explaining the meaning of a verb, the use of a hyphen, and the musical notation of simple songs.
她也教英语，讲解动词的意思、连字符的用法，还教简单歌曲的乐谱。

Her explanations were simple and illustrative, and she often drew a quick sketch on the board to demonstrate an idea.
她的讲解简单明了，很能说明问题，她常常在黑板上画一张草图来演示一个概念。

She put labels on everything in the classroom, so that the children could learn new words, and she ticked every correct answer with a red pen.
她给教室里的每样东西都贴上了标签，好让孩子们学会新单词，她还用红笔给每一个正确答案打上勾。

The children's comprehension improved quickly, and their enthusiasm grew every day.
孩子们的理解能力提高得很快，他们的热情也一天比一天高涨。

Some of the older boys even wrote a short script for a play about a brave fisherman, and they performed it in the chapel for the whole town.
一些年纪大的男孩甚至写了一个关于勇敢渔夫的短剧本，在小教堂里为全镇人演出。

The performers were nervous, but the spectacle was a great success, and the audience said it was more exciting than any movie or thriller.
小演员们很紧张，但这场演出非常成功，观众们说它比任何电影或惊悚片都精彩。

One girl, a nine-year-old called Ana, worried Grace more than the others.
有一个叫安娜的九岁女孩，比其他孩子更让格蕾丝担心。

She sat alone in a corner all day, and she would not eat or play with the other children.
她整天独自坐在一个角落里，不吃东西，也不和别的孩子玩。

Her isolation was noticeable to everyone, and Mama Rosa was afraid that the girl would sicken and die.
她的孤僻每个人都看得出来，罗莎妈妈担心这孩子会病倒，甚至死去。

Whenever someone came near her, her face darkened, and she turned away; she even said that she was ugly and that nobody wanted her.
每当有人走近她，她的脸色就会阴沉下来，扭过头去；她甚至说自己很丑，没有人想要她。

Mama Rosa said that Ana had been found under the ruins of her house two days after the earthquake, next to her dead mother.
罗莎妈妈说，地震后两天，人们在安娜家房子的废墟下发现了她，她身边躺着她死去的母亲。

Grace did not want to isolate her further or disturb her, so she sat beside her every day, without asking any questions.
格蕾丝不想让她更加孤立，也不想打扰她，于是每天都坐在她身边，什么问题也不问。

She brought her paper and colour pencils, and one day Ana began to draw.
她给安娜带来纸和彩色铅笔，有一天，安娜开始画画了。

Her first picture was dark and frightening, and it made Grace feel uneasy, but slowly her pictures became brighter; it was a breakthrough.
她的第一幅画又黑又吓人，让格蕾丝感到不安，但慢慢地，她的画变得明亮起来；这是一个突破。

After a month, she drew a picture of a green hill with a yellow sun, and she gave it to Grace with a shy smile.
一个月后，她画了一座有黄色太阳的绿色山丘，害羞地笑着把画送给了格蕾丝。

It was the first time she had smiled since the earthquake.
这是地震以来她第一次露出笑容。

Grace knew that rehabilitation would take a long time, but she also knew that children can thrive again if someone believes in them.
格蕾丝知道康复需要很长时间，但她也知道，只要有人相信他们，孩子们就能重新茁壮成长。

She never pushed too hard, but she gave a gentle hint now and then, and she motivated Ana with small tasks, such as feeding the cat or watering the plants, and the girl began to hold her chin up a little higher.
她从不过分催促，只是时不时地给一点温和的暗示，她用一些小任务来激励安娜，比如喂猫或给植物浇水，这个女孩开始把下巴抬得高一点了。

The biggest problem at the orphanage was money.
孤儿院最大的问题是钱。

Aid from abroad was arriving in the capital, but very little of it reached the mountains.
来自国外的援助物资正源源不断地运到首都，但送到山区的却很少。

Grace soon discovered why: a criminal syndicate was stealing the supplies, and its members were selling them to vendors in the market as if it were a normal business enterprise.
格蕾丝很快就发现了原因：一个犯罪集团正在偷窃这些物资，并把它们卖给市场上的小贩，就像是在做正常生意一样。

Some officials were part of the deal, and instead of facilitation of aid, there was only obstruction; and they wanted to monopolise the aid so they could control the people; they arbitrarily decided who would receive food, and they even introduced an illegal levy on every truck that entered the town.
一些官员也参与了这笔交易，他们非但不为援助提供便利，反而只是设置障碍；他们想垄断援助物资，以此来控制人民；他们随意决定谁能领到食物，甚至对每一辆进城的卡车非法征税。

Their own trucks, of course, received an exemption, and they kept the most valuable goods in a classified store that nobody was allowed to enter.
当然，他们自己的卡车可以免税，他们把最值钱的物资藏在一个保密的仓库里，任何人都不准进入。

The head of the group was an obese, showy man full of ego and conceit, who wore expensive watches and treated the local people like fools.

这伙人的头目是个肥胖、爱炫耀的人，自负而傲慢，他戴着昂贵的手表，把当地人当傻子看。

When Grace asked him why the orphanage received so little, he summoned her to his office and told her, with obvious disapproval, to mind her own business.
格蕾丝问他为什么孤儿院得到的物资这么少，他把她叫到办公室，带着明显不满的神情叫她少管闲事。

He was very selective about whom he helped, and he said that the orphanage should be grateful, and that complaints would only lead to the loss of the little help it already received.
他在帮助谁的问题上非常挑剔，他说孤儿院应该心存感激，抱怨只会让它连现在得到的那一点帮助也失去。

Grace answered him with quiet defiance, and afterwards she wrote down everything she saw systematically, quantifying the exact amount of food that was missing each week, and she sent a report to the international aid groups in the capital.
格蕾丝以平静的反抗回应了他，之后她把她看到的一切都系统地记录下来，精确统计每周缺少的食物数量，并给首都的国际援助组织发了一份报告。

At first nobody answered, but she was insistent, and she wrote again and again on behalf of the children; she knew that it was imperative to act before the situation became even worse.
起初没有人回复，但她很执着，一遍又一遍地代表孩子们写信；她知道，必须在局势变得更糟之前采取行动。

Then, one night, there was a strong aftershock.
后来，一天夜里，发生了一次强烈的余震。

The old building shook violently, the rain began to pour, and the children woke up screaming.
那座旧楼剧烈地摇晃起来，大雨倾盆而下，孩子们尖叫着醒了过来。

The strain on everyone's nerves was terrible. Grace and Mama Rosa beckoned to the children and led them out into the yard in the dark, counting every child; the descent down the broken stairs was slow and frightening.
每个人的神经都绷得紧紧的。格蕾丝和罗莎妈妈招呼着孩子们，摸黑把他们带到院子里，清点着每一个孩子；沿着破损的楼梯往下走，又慢又让人害怕。

Ninety-nine, a hundred... but Ana was missing.
九十九、一百……但安娜不见了。

Grace ran back into the building, where pieces of the ceiling were falling down.
格蕾丝跑回楼里，天花板的碎块正在往下掉。

She found Ana hiding under a bed, too frightened to move.
她发现安娜躲在一张床底下，吓得动弹不得。

Grace picked her up and ran out with long strides, just before a wall crashed down behind them; one more second, and the tragedy could not have been averted.
格蕾丝抱起她，大步跑了出去，就在她们身后的一堵墙倒塌之前逃了出来；再晚一秒钟，这场悲剧就无法避免了。

Grace had a bruise on her face and a cut on her arm, but Ana was safe.
格蕾丝脸上有一块淤青，胳膊上有一道伤口，但安娜安然无恙。

That night Ana held Grace's hand and said her first words in two months: "Thank you."
那天夜里，安娜握着格蕾丝的手，说出了她两个月来的第一句话："谢谢你。"

In another town nearby, the aftershock tragically killed nine people, and the old hospital was so badly damaged that it was crippled for months.
在附近的另一个镇上，余震不幸夺去了九个人的生命，旧医院损毁严重，好几个月都无法正常运转。

Mama Rosa said that Grace's heroism was creditable to her whole country, but Grace only said, "Anyone would have done the same."

罗莎妈妈说，格蕾丝的英勇行为为她的整个国家增了光，但格蕾丝只是说：“换了谁都会这样做的。”

The next morning, Grace's report finally reached the right people.
第二天早上，格蕾丝的报告终于送到了该送的人手里。

A journalist from an international newspaper came to the town, and the story of the stolen aid became world news.
一家国际报纸的记者来到镇上，援助物资被盗的事成了国际新闻。

The government was forced to act, and the police arrested the members of the syndicate.
政府被迫采取行动，警方逮捕了这个犯罪集团的成员。

An investigation found that the members of the syndicate had stolen supplies worth millions of dollars, and their cumulative crimes would constitute one of the biggest scandals in the country's history.
调查发现，这个犯罪集团的成员盗窃了价值数百万美元的物资，他们累积起来的罪行将成为该国历史上最大的丑闻之一。

The head of the group tried to blame his workers, but nobody believed him, and he was sent to prison in accordance with the law.
集团头目试图把责任推到手下身上，但没有人相信他，他依法被送进了监狱。

He had to forfeit all his property, and the ejection of the corrupt officials from their jobs relieved the whole town.
他被没收了全部财产，那些腐败官员也被赶下了台，全镇人都松了一口气。

Investigators also found that someone had tried to hide the evidence by the deletion of thousands of emails, but the police were able to recover them.
调查人员还发现，有人试图删除数千封电子邮件来掩盖证据，但警方设法恢复了这些邮件。

Grace received a warning from a friend that some of the gang might try to hurt her, but she chose to stay, regardless of the danger.
一位朋友提醒格蕾丝，团伙中的一些人可能会伤害她，但她不顾危险，选择留了下来。

Soon trucks full of food, medicine and building materials arrived at the orphanage.
很快，满载食品、药品和建筑材料的卡车开到了孤儿院。

A team of engineers came to repair the building; they put on a new aluminium roof, added steel reinforcement to the walls, and made it resistant to future earthquakes.
一组工程师前来修复楼房；他们装上了新的铝制屋顶，在墙里加了钢筋，使它能够抵御今后的地震。

They used machines to mechanize the hardest work, and the completion of the building took only three months.
他们用机器把最繁重的工作机械化，整栋楼只用三个月就完工了。

The engineers also made some alterations to the plan: they added a new kitchen, a playground, and a room where children could rest and recover.
工程师们还对设计作了一些改动：他们增加了一个新厨房、一个游乐场，还有一个供孩子们休息和恢复身心的房间。

A local businessman, who had made his money in the production of furniture, became a generous contributor, and he obliged his friends to donate too.
当地一位靠家具生产发家的商人成了慷慨的捐助者，他还让他的朋友们也捐款。

Grace's university also helped by sending students on alternate months, so that the orphanage would never be short of help.
格蕾丝的大学也提供了帮助，每隔一个月就派学生来，这样孤儿院就永远不会缺人手了。

In the following months, life at the orphanage slowly returned to normal, and the new building, bright and clean, looked warm and inviting.

在接下来的几个月里，孤儿院的生活慢慢恢复了正常，新楼明亮干净，看上去温暖而诱人。

Grace started a football team for the boys and a music group for the girls, and every evening the yard was full of laughter.

格蕾丝给男孩们组建了一支足球队，给女孩们组建了一个音乐小组，每天傍晚，院子里都充满了欢声笑语。

The football team even won a trophy in a regional competition, and the whole town rejoiced at their glorious victory.

足球队甚至在一场地区比赛中赢得了一座奖杯，全镇人都为他们辉煌的胜利而欢欣鼓舞。

The town also held a horse race on a festival day, and one of the orphans, a small boy who loved horses, rode as a jockey and won a gorgeous red ribbon.

镇上还在一个节日里举行了赛马，孤儿院里一个喜欢马的小男孩当了骑师，赢得了一条漂亮的红绸带。

In the evenings, old men told stories about primitive hunting with spears in the forests long ago, and the children listened with wide eyes.

傍晚，老人们讲起很久以前人们拿着长矛在森林里进行原始狩猎的故事，孩子们睁大眼睛听着。

A political leader who was campaigning for the unification of the country's two main parties came to visit, and a newspaper poll later named the orphanage the most inspiring place in the region.

一位正在为该国两大政党的联合而奔走的政治领袖前来参观，后来一家报纸的民意调查把这所孤儿院评为该地区最鼓舞人心的地方。

Grace was offered membership in a national association of volunteers, and she accepted it with pride.

格蕾丝受邀加入一个全国性的志愿者协会，她自豪地接受了。

Ana became one of the best singers in the music group, and she sang a song about her homeland at the town's festival.

安娜成了音乐小组里最好的歌手之一，她在镇上的节日里唱了一首关于她家乡的歌。

When Grace's time was over, in the season when the mangoes began to ripen, all the children came to say goodbye.

格蕾丝的志愿期结束时，正值芒果开始成熟的季节，所有的孩子都来和她道别。

Ana gave her a new picture: a drawing of Grace and the children standing on the green hill under a bright sun.

安娜送给她一幅新画：画的是格蕾丝和孩子们站在明媚阳光下的绿色山丘上。

"Will you forgive me if I cry?" Ana asked, and Grace answered, "Yes, of course," and they both cried.

“如果我哭了，你会原谅我吗？”安娜问。格蕾丝回答说：“当然会。”于是她们俩都哭了。

Mama Rosa gave Grace a small key to the orphanage. "This is your home too," she said. "Wherever you go, you can always lodge here."

罗莎妈妈给了格蕾丝一把孤儿院的小钥匙。“这里也是你的家，”她说，“无论你走到哪里，你随时都可以住在这里。”

Grace promised to come back, and she kept her promise.

格蕾丝答应会回来，她也信守了诺言。

Every summer for the next ten years, she returned to the orphanage on the hill.

在接下来的十年里，每年夏天她都会回到山上的孤儿院。

Over the years, she watched the children grow up, and she saw the real worthiness of the work she had chosen.

这些年里，她看着孩子们长大，看到了自己所选择的这份工作的真正价值。

She learned that progress comes not in a single great advance, but in many small steps, one after another, onward and upward.

她明白了，进步不是一次巨大的飞跃，而是一小步接着一小步，不断向前、向上。

She also learned to accept her limits; she could not save everyone, and it was wasteful to blame herself for that.

她也学会了接受自己的局限；她不可能拯救每一个人，为此责怪自己是没有意义的。

Her reliance on the children's courage and Mama Rosa's wisdom helped her through every breakdown of hope, and she always came back with new strength.

每当希望破灭的时候，她都依靠孩子们的勇气和罗莎妈妈的智慧挺过来，每一次她都带着新的力量回来。

Ana grew up to become a doctor, and the probable reason, she always said, was the young woman who had pulled her out from under a bed during an aftershock.

安娜长大后成了一名医生，她总是说，最可能的原因就是那个在余震中把她从床底下拉出来的年轻女子。

When Mama Rosa died at ninety-five, Grace flew back for the funeral, and she spoke about a woman whose love seemed to last for eternity.

罗莎妈妈九十五岁去世时，格蕾丝飞回来参加葬礼，她讲述了一个女人，她的爱仿佛会延续到永恒。

Afterwards, she stood at the gate of the orphanage, looked at the children playing in the yard, and felt that Mama Rosa's work would continue in good hands.

之后，她站在孤儿院的门口，看着在院子里玩耍的孩子们，觉得罗莎妈妈的事业会在可靠的人手中延续下去。

她还给他们介绍这座城市的生态项目，比如有助于保护臭氧层、保持空气清洁的新型电动公交车。

There were always a few difficult tourists: a skeptic who did not believe any of her stories, a lady who complained that the bus smelled of grease, or a man who criticised the ridiculous prices of the souvenirs.
总会有几个难伺候的游客：一个对她讲的故事一个字都不信的怀疑论者，一位抱怨大巴上有股油味的女士，或者一个批评纪念品价格高得离谱的男人。

But Lena accepted them all with a smile, and most tourists left with great satisfaction and wrote good comments about the quality of her tours.
但莉娜都笑着接受了，大多数游客离开时都非常满意，并对她带团的质量给出了好评。

One sunny morning, Lena noticed an old man sitting alone at the back of the bus.
一个阳光明媚的早晨，莉娜注意到一位老人独自坐在大巴的最后一排。

He was thin and quiet, with a grey beard, thick glasses for his weak eyesight, and a cotton jacket whose sleeves were too short; he did not look like a typical tourist on a luxury trip.
他又瘦又安静，留着灰白的胡子，因为视力不好戴着厚厚的眼镜，穿着一件袖子太短的棉夹克；他看起来不像一个来豪华旅游的典型游客。

While the other tourists took photos with their phones and camera lenses and talked loudly in the aisle, he only gazed out of the window with tears in his eyes.
其他游客用手机和相机镜头拍照、在过道上大声说话的时候，他只是望着窗外，眼里含着泪水。

At the monument, he stood for a long time in front of a list of names, and his hand touched one of them gently.
在纪念碑前，他在一份名单前站了很久，用手轻轻地抚摸着其中一个名字。

It was the name of a young man who had been killed by a bullet during a protest forty years earlier.
那是一个年轻人的名字，他在四十年前的一次抗议中被子弹打死了。

Lena did not want to be nosy, but she felt that something important was happening, so she walked over and asked if he needed anything.
莉娜不想多管闲事，但她觉得有件重要的事情正在发生，于是走过去问他是否需要什么帮助。

The old man smiled and said, "You speak our language like a local. Were you born here?"
老人笑了笑说："你说我们的语言就像本地人一样。你是在这里出生的吗？"

"Yes," Lena said. "And you?"
"是的，"莉娜说，"您呢？"

"I was born here too," he said. "But I have not been home for forty years."
"我也是在这里出生的，"他说，"可我已经四十年没回家了。"

He had arrived only yesterday, and he did not know where to stay, because the city had changed so much.
他昨天才到，不知道该住在哪里，因为这座城市变化太大了。

Where his old school had been, there was now a shopping centre with escalators and glass walls, and the old railroad station had become a museum with an old waggon in front of it.
他从前的学校所在的地方，如今是一座有自动扶梯和玻璃墙的购物中心，老火车站变成了一座博物馆，门前停着一辆旧马车。

That evening, Lena invited him to dinner at a small restaurant by the harbor, where the owner, an old patron of the arts, brought them bread, fish and a jar of honey, and Victor told her his story while he slowly peeled an orange with a small knife.
那天晚上，莉娜请他到港口边的一家小餐馆吃饭，餐馆老板是一位老艺术赞助人，他给他们端来了面包、鱼和一罐蜂蜜，维克多一边用一把小刀慢慢地剥着一个橙子，一边把自己的故事讲给她听。

His name was Victor, and when he was young, he had been a writer, a journalist, and a well-known dissident.
他叫维克多，年轻时是一名作家、记者，也是一位有名的持不同政见者。

He was an exponent of liberal ideas at a time when such ideas were dangerous, and he believed in the transparency and accountability of government.
在那个自由主义思想很危险的年代，他是自由主义思想的倡导者，他相信政府应该公开透明、对人民负责。

At that time, the country was ruled by a president who did not allow any criticism; every soldier had to swear an oath of loyalty to him, and his face was on every flag and wall, and there was strict censorship of every newspaper, book and radio programme.
那时，这个国家由一位不允许任何批评的总统统治；每个士兵都必须宣誓效忠于他，每一面旗帜和每一堵墙上都有他的头像，每一份报纸、每一本书和每一个广播节目都受到严格的审查。

The government spent most of its money on armament and artillery, and it once invaded a neighbouring country in a short and bloody war.
政府把大部分钱都花在军备和大炮上，还曾在一场短暂而血腥的战争中入侵了一个邻国。

The importation of foreign books was forbidden, and the media were controlled by a group of sinister bureaucrats.
外国书籍禁止进口，媒体被一群阴险的官僚控制着。

Ethnic minorities were treated badly, and people who were different in any way, such as Victor's sister, who was a lesbian, had to hide their lives.
少数民族受到恶劣对待，任何与众不同的人，比如维克多那个身为女同性恋者的妹妹，都不得不隐藏自己的生活。

The president called his critics "parasites" and "criminals," and he made a proclamation that anyone who wrote against him would be punished.
总统把批评他的人称为“寄生虫”和“罪犯”，还发布公告说，任何写文章反对他的人都将受到惩罚。

His government would manufacture lies about anyone it did not like, and the newspapers had to represent every lie as the truth.
他的政府会对任何它不喜欢的人捏造谎言，报纸则必须把每一个谎言都说成是真的。

There was no exception: even children were taught to report their parents, and people were obliged to attend long speeches in the square.
没有任何例外：就连孩子都被教导去告发自己的父母，人们还被迫到广场上去听冗长的讲话。

Victor had written a novel that was officially fiction, a creation of pure imagination, but everyone knew that it was really about the president and his friends.
维克多写了一部小说，名义上是虚构的，纯属想象的产物，但大家都知道它其实写的是总统和他的朋友们。

It was full of figurative language, and the main character was a hungry predator in a forest, but its meaning was obvious.
小说里满是比喻性的语言，主人公是森林里一只饥饿的掠食者，但它的含义一目了然。

The book was printed secretly on an old typewriter, with carbon copies, and passed from hand to hand, and soon thousands of people had read it.
这本书用一台旧打字机、借助复写纸秘密地打印出来，在人们手中传来传去，很快就有成千上万的人读过它。

The government called it illicit, and one night the police knocked on Victor's door, arrested him, and took him away overnight; he did not even have time to put on his belt.
政府称这本书是违禁的，一天夜里，警察敲响了维克多的家门，逮捕了他，连夜把他带走了；他连系上皮带的时间都没有。

He spent five years as an inmate in a terrible prison, where the guards beat the prisoners and gave them almost nothing to eat.
他在一座可怕的监狱里关了五年，那里的看守殴打犯人，几乎不给他们东西吃。

Sometimes the guards gave the prisoners drugs to make them weak, and they forced them to beg for mercy.
有时看守给犯人们服药，让他们变得虚弱，还逼他们求饶。

Victor's throat was so dry that he could hardly speak, but he refused to obey their orders to write a confession.
维克多的喉咙干得几乎说不出话，但他拒绝服从他们的命令写认罪书。

One guard even threatened him with an ax, but Victor's resolution did not change; for him, the truth was the ultimate value.
有个看守甚至拿着一把斧头威胁他，但维克多的决心丝毫没有动摇；对他来说，真相才是最终极的价值。

Then, instead of releasing him, the government ordered his deportation, and he was sent abroad with nothing but the clothes he was wearing.
后来，政府没有释放他，而是下令将他驱逐出境，他被送到了国外，除了身上穿的衣服，什么也没有。

"I lost everything: my home, my family, my language," he said. "The worst thing was that I could not even say goodbye to my mother."

“我失去了一切：我的家、我的家人、我的语言，”他说，“最糟糕的是，我连和母亲道别都没能做到。”

In exile, life had been a constant challenge.
流亡期间，生活一直是一场持续不断的挑战。

At first he lived on welfare, which was a great embarrassment for a proud man, and then he worked at whatever jobs he could find.
起初他靠救济金生活，这对一个自尊心很强的人来说是莫大的难堪，后来他能找到什么工作就干什么。

He cleaned trains for a railroad company, helped a plumber clear clogged pipes, and worked as a night porter at a seaside resort.
他给一家铁路公司清洁火车，帮一个水管工疏通堵塞的管道，还在一家海滨度假胜地当夜间门房。

For years he had no insurance and no savings, and his small business, a bookshop, ended in a deficit.
很多年里，他既没有保险也没有积蓄，他开的一家小书店最后也亏了本。

Yet he never stopped writing, and he published a compilation of essays and a long epic poem about his homeland.
但他从未停止写作，他出版了一本散文集和一首关于他祖国的长篇史诗。

He also travelled widely, trekked across mountains to meet other exiles, and helped to create a network of writers who supported each other; this networking kept them all alive, and they corresponded for years.
他还四处旅行，翻山越岭去见其他流亡者，并帮助建立了一个互相支持的作家网络；这种联系让他们都坚持了下来，他们之间通信多年。

His sister, who had escaped with him, spent her life fighting for women's reproductive rights, and she died abroad ten years later.
他的妹妹和他一起逃了出来，她一生都在为妇女的生育权利而斗争，十年后客死他乡。

"I was lucky," Victor said. "Many of my friends are dead. My luck was that I survived."
“我是幸运的，”维克多说，“我的许多朋友都死了。我的幸运在于我活了下来。”

Lena listened in silence, and she felt a deep indignation at what had been done to him.
莉娜默默地听着，对他所遭受的一切感到深深的愤慨。

She was too young to remember those years; she had been born after the old government fell and the country became a democracy with a free parliament.
她太年轻，不记得那些年月；她出生在旧政府倒台、国家成为一个拥有自由议会的民主国家之后。

At school, she had learned a little about the time of the dictatorship, but the history books were short and somewhat cold, and nobody had ever told her a story like this.
在学校里，她学过一点关于独裁统治时期的历史，但历史书写得很简短，也有些冷冰冰的，从来没有人给她讲过这样的故事。

"Why did you come back now?" she asked.
“您为什么现在回来了？”她问。

Victor explained that his younger brother, the only member of his family who was still alive, was very sick and might die soon.
维克多解释说，他的弟弟——他家里唯一还活着的人——病得很重，可能不久于人世了。

They had not spoken for forty years, because his brother had worked for the government and had believed the lies about Victor.
他们已经四十年没说过话了，因为他弟弟曾为政府工作，相信了那些关于维克多的谎言。

Ironically, his brother had worked as an engineer for the same government that had sent Victor away.
具有讽刺意味的是，他的弟弟曾作为一名工程师，为那个把维克多驱逐出境的政府工作。

"I want to see him before he dies," Victor said. "But I don't know if he wants to see me."
“我想在他死之前见他一面，”维克多说，“可我不知道他是否愿意见我。”

Lena decided to help.
莉娜决定帮忙。

She found the brother's address through an old friend who worked at the hospital, and she went to visit him first, to inform him gently and to prepare him.
她通过一位在医院工作的老朋友找到了他弟弟的地址，并先去看望了他，好温和地告诉他这个消息，让他有个心理准备。

His name was Paul, and he was lying in a small room in the hospital's quiet section, with a view of the sea and a little condensation on the window.
他叫保罗，躺在医院安静病区的一个小房间里，从窗户能看到大海，窗玻璃上凝着一层水汽。

He was very weak, his liver was failing, and the doctors said that his illness was not curable, but his mind was clear and awake.
他非常虚弱，肝脏正在衰竭，医生们说他的病已经无法治愈了，但他的头脑仍然清醒。

He had been dependent on the nurses since his admittance three months before, and he was lonely; he had never married, and he had no companionship except an old radio.
自从三个月前住院以来，他就一直依靠护士照顾，他很孤独；他从未结过婚，除了一台旧收音机外，没有任何陪伴。

When Lena told him that his brother had come back, he heaved a deep sigh and did not speak for a long time.
当莉娜告诉他哥哥回来了时，他长长地叹了一口气，很长时间都没有说话。

Then he began to sob quietly.
然后，他开始低声抽泣。

"I was a fool, and I have no excuse," he said. "I believed the government, and I let them take my brother away. I have lived with that shame all my life."
“我是个傻瓜，我没有任何借口，”他说，“我相信了政府，让他们带走了我的哥哥。我一辈子都活在那份羞愧里。”

"He wants to see you," Lena said gently. "Perhaps there is still time."
“他想见您，”莉娜温和地说，“也许还来得及。”

Paul nodded, and he clutched her hand. "Tell him to come," he said. "Please tell him to come. I should have gone to find him years ago."
保罗点了点头，紧紧抓住她的手。“叫他来，”他说，“请叫他来。我早该在多年前就去找他的。”

The next day, Lena took Victor to the hospital.
第二天，莉娜带维克多去了医院。

The two old men looked at each other for a long moment, and the room was so quiet that Lena could hear her phone vibrate in her bag; then Victor walked to the bed and hugged his brother.
两位老人对视了很久，房间里安静得莉娜能听到包里手机振动的声音；然后维克多走到床边，拥抱了他的弟弟。

Neither of them said anything; they only held each other and cried.
他们谁都没有说话，只是紧紧相拥，泪流满面。

Finally Paul whispered, "Forgive me. I am yours, brother, as I always was."
最后保罗低声说："原谅我。我是你的弟弟，哥哥，一直都是。"

Victor's answer was soft and affectionate, and his reconciliatory words seemed to soothe his brother at once.
维克多的回答温柔而深情，他那和解的话语似乎立刻抚慰了弟弟。

Lena left the room quietly and waited outside, and through the window she saw the sun shine on the sea.
莉娜悄悄离开房间，在外面等着，透过窗户，她看到阳光照耀着大海。

For the next two weeks, Victor visited his brother every day with great regularity, at the same hour each afternoon, and the nurses were moved by the cordiality between the two old men.
在接下来的两个星期里，维克多每天下午都在同一时间准时去看望他的弟弟，护士们被两位老人之间的亲切友爱所感动。

They talked about their childhood, their parents, and the years they had lost, and slowly the old wound began to heal.
他们聊起了童年、父母，还有那些失去的岁月，那道旧伤口慢慢地开始愈合。

On good days, Paul was fit enough to sit by the window, and they watched the ships sail in and out of the harbor, from the bottom of the hill to the edge of the sea.
身体好些的日子里，保罗可以坐到窗边，他们看着船只从山脚下驶到海的尽头，进进出出港口。

One evening a sudden storm came in from the sea; lightning lit up the sky, and there was an abrupt power cut in the hospital.
一天傍晚，海上突然袭来一场暴风雨；闪电照亮了天空，医院里突然停电了。

For a moment there was panic in the corridors, and some nurses began to evacuate the patients from the top floor.
有那么一会儿，走廊里一片恐慌，一些护士开始把顶楼的病人疏散下去。

Victor stayed beside his brother, holding his hand, and for a few frantic minutes nobody knew what to do.
维克多一直守在弟弟身边，握着他的手，在那慌乱的几分钟里，谁也不知道该怎么办。

Then the emergency lights came on, and the doctors said that the machines had been momentarily off but that nobody was in danger.
后来应急灯亮了，医生们说，机器只是暂时停了一下，没有人有危险。

An ambulance came speeding through the rain with its signal flashing, ready to transport any patient who needed a rescue, but it was not needed.
一辆救护车闪着警灯冒雨疾驰而来，随时准备转运需要救助的病人，但最后并没有用上。

At intervals throughout the night, Victor checked on his brother, and Paul joked that he was not ready to die in such a boring way.
那天夜里，维克多每隔一会儿就去看看弟弟，保罗开玩笑说，他可不愿意以这么无聊的方式死去。

Paul died peacefully at the end of the month, with his brother holding his hand.
月底，保罗在哥哥握着他的手的陪伴下安详地离世了。

After the funeral, Victor decided to stay in the city for a while.
葬礼之后，维克多决定在这座城市里住一段时间。

Lena helped him find a small flat near the harbor that could accommodate his books, and they became good friends.
莉娜帮他在港口附近找了一套能放下他那些书的小公寓，他们成了好朋友。

She introduced him to her family, and her grandmother, who remembered his novel, cried when she met him.
她把他介绍给自己的家人，她的奶奶还记得他的那部小说，见到他时哭了起来。

That summer Lena's cousin got married in the cathedral, and Victor was invited to the wedding.
那年夏天，莉娜的表妹在大教堂举行婚礼，维克多也受到了邀请。

The church was full of flowers and decoration, and the bride smelled of a sweet perfume, although Lena's uncle had an allergy to flowers and sneezed all through the ceremony.
教堂里满是鲜花和装饰，新娘身上散发着甜美的香水味，不过莉娜的叔叔对花过敏，整个婚礼上一直在打喷嚏。

The bridegroom was so nervous that he stepped on the bride's toe during their first dance, but they both laughed, and their dance was graceful after that.
新郎紧张得在第一支舞时踩到了新娘的脚趾，但两人都笑了，之后他们跳得十分优雅。

A small band played old instruments, and Victor, who was not usually demonstrative, danced with Lena's grandmother and made everyone laugh.
一支小乐队演奏着古老的乐器，平时不太表露感情的维克多和莉娜的奶奶跳起了舞，逗得大家哈哈大笑。

"We read your book in secret," she told him. "It gave us hope when we had none."
“我们偷偷地读过你的书，”她对他说，“在我们毫无希望的时候，它给了我们希望。”

Soon the news spread that the famous writer had returned, and a reporter came to interview him.
很快，那位著名作家回来的消息传开了，一位记者前来采访他。

The city museum decided to hold an exhibition about his life and the years of censorship, and the president of the country came to inaugurate it.
市博物馆决定举办一场关于他的生平和那段审查岁月的展览，国家总统亲自前来为展览揭幕。

The exhibition was made possible by the sponsorship of several companies, and it showed graphically how the old government had tried to control people's minds.
这次展览是在几家公司的赞助下举办的，它形象地展示了旧政府是如何企图控制人们的思想的。

There were tangible objects from that time: the prototype of a secret printing machine, Victor's old typewriter, and documents that the secret police had tried to shred before the fall of the government.
展品中有那个年代实实在在的物件：一台秘密印刷机的样机、维克多的旧打字机，以及秘密警察在政府垮台前试图销毁的文件。

There was also a video in which former prisoners spoke about their experiences, and a section where visitors could read the banned books for themselves.
还有一段视频，以前的囚犯们在里面讲述自己的经历；还有一个展区，参观者可以亲自阅读那些禁书。

The exposition had an educational purpose, and schools brought their students to see it before their history exams.
这次展览具有教育意义，许多学校在历史考试之前带学生来参观。

At the opening, a well-known diplomat acted as moderator of a public discussion, and many associates of Victor's from the old days came to speak.
开幕式上，一位著名的外交官主持了一场公开讨论，维克多过去的许多老朋友都来发言。

Some of their memories were subjective and even contradictory, and their stories often overlapped, but Victor said that every standpoint was worthy of being heard; history, he said, was not the domain of one person.
他们的一些回忆带有主观色彩，甚至相互矛盾，他们讲的故事也常常有重叠，但维克多说，每一种观点都值得一听；他说，历史不是某一个人的领地。

In his speech, the president apologized for the crimes of the old government, gave Victor a special commendation, and called him "a man whose courage dignifies our nation."

总统在讲话中为旧政府的罪行道歉，给维克多颁发了特别嘉奖，并称他是“一个以勇气为我们的国家增光的人”。

He also announced that parliament would amend the constitution to protect freedom of speech forever, and that this would be a priority for his government.

他还宣布，议会将修改宪法，永远保护言论自由，这将是他的政府的首要任务。

He said that the country must never become complacent, and that its democracy was not a gift but an undertaking that each generation must accomplish anew.

他说，这个国家永远不能自满，民主不是一份礼物，而是每一代人都必须重新完成的一项事业。

Not everyone was happy: a few old supporters of the dictatorship complained, but the government refused to appease them.

并不是每个人都高兴：几个独裁统治的老支持者发了牢骚，但政府拒绝迁就他们。

Victor's novel was printed again, and this time it was sold in every bookshop in the country; the media saturation was so great that his face was on every television screen for a week.

维克多的小说重新出版了，这一次，全国的每一家书店都在卖它；媒体铺天盖地的报道让他的脸在一周内出现在每一块电视屏幕上。

Publishers began to solicit new work from him, and from the outset he said that he would write only what he truly believed.

出版商们纷纷向他约稿，他从一开始就说，他只写自己真正相信的东西。

A selection of his new stories was published the following year, and it became an ultra popular book among young readers.

第二年，他的新故事选集出版了，在年轻读者中大受欢迎。

Critics characterized his style as simple, honest and compelling, and they said that the subtlety of his language had been ahead of its time.

评论家们形容他的风格简洁、真诚、引人入胜，他们说，他语言的精妙之处超前于他那个时代。

Furthermore, the value of his old secret copies rose so high that one was sold for a fortune, an augmentation he found altogether ridiculous.

此外，他那些当年秘密印制的旧书的价值涨得极高，有一本卖出了天价，他觉得这种升值简直荒唐可笑。

He gave the money to an organization that fostered young writers; he was a selfless man, and he said that otherwise the money would only disappoint him.

他把这笔钱捐给了一个扶持青年作家的机构；他是个无私的人，他说，否则这笔钱只会让他失望。

On the last day of the exhibition, Victor came to find Lena at the bus station.

展览的最后一天，维克多到汽车站来找莉娜。

He was smiling, and he looked ten years younger; the change in him was entirely attributable, he said, to the spirit of his city.

他面带微笑，看上去年轻了十岁；他说，这种变化完全要归功于他这座城市的精神。

"I came here to say goodbye to my brother," he said, "but I found a home again. Thank you."

“我回来是为了和弟弟告别，”他说，“却重新找到了一个家。谢谢你。”

Then he gave her a copy of his book, with a message written on the first page: "To Lena, who showed an old man the way back home."

然后他送给她一本自己的书，扉页上写着一句话：“献给莉娜，是她为一位老人指明了回家的路。”

Lena still keeps the book on the shelf beside her bed, and whenever she shows tourists the monument by the sea, she tells them about the old man on the tour bus.

莉娜至今仍把这本书放在床边的书架上，每当她带游客去看海边的那座纪念碑，她都会给他们讲讲旅游大巴上的那位老人。

Subsequent events proved that his return was the beginning of something bigger: a national movement to remember the victims of the dictatorship, with a new monument in every city.
随后发生的事情证明，他的归来是一件更大的事情的开端：一场纪念独裁统治受害者的全国性运动，每座城市都建起了一座新的纪念碑。

Lena often thought about how one small act of kindness could ensue in so many changes, and how history is made by people whose names are rarely written down.
莉娜常常想，一个小小的善举竟能引发如此多的变化，而历史正是由那些名字很少被记录下来的人创造的。

She became more reflective about her work, and she began to tell her tourists not only about castles and kings, but also about ordinary people like Victor.
她对自己的工作有了更多的思考，开始给游客们讲的不只是城堡和国王，还有像维克多这样的普通人。

She knows that the past cannot be changed and that time never runs backwards, but she now says with certainty that remembering it can make the future better.
她知道过去无法改变，时间也永远不会倒流，但如今她可以肯定地说，记住过去能让未来变得更好。

她的父亲是一个独自把她抚养长大的鳏夫，有点多愁善感，而且非常多疑。

"It's far away, it's dangerous, and you have no experience," he said.

“那里那么远，又那么危险，而且你没有经验。”他说。

Her cousin, a solicitor in the city, was equally worried, and he gave her a long list of rules about safety and contracts.

她的表哥是城里的一名律师，也同样担心，他给了她一长串关于安全和合同的注意事项。

"A lawyer always thinks of the worst case," he said with a smile, "but I'm proud of you."

“律师总是会想到最坏的情况，”他笑着说，“但我为你感到骄傲。”

Her best friend, who had to commute two hours to work every day, only laughed: "At least you won't be stuck in traffic."

她最好的朋友每天要通勤两个小时去上班，她只是笑着说："至少你不会堵在路上了。"

Her old grandmother, who was deaf and aging, wrote her a note in large letters: "Be brave, and come back." Her relatives were very close, and their love gave her hope. Nora assured them all that she would be careful, and in January she flew aboard a small plane to the frontier region of the country.

她年迈耳聋的奶奶用大大的字给她写了一张纸条："要勇敢，然后回来。"她的亲戚们关系都很亲密，他们的爱给了她希望。诺拉向他们所有人保证她会小心的，一月份，她搭乘一架小飞机飞往那个国家的边境地区。

At the airport she changed her pounds into the local currency, and a ranger met her with an old jeep that had a huge mileage.

在机场，她把英镑换成了当地货币，一位护林员开着一辆跑了很多里程的旧吉普车来接她。

The road to the camp was muddy and went in a zigzag line up the side of a mountain.

通往营地的路泥泞不堪，沿着山的一侧呈之字形蜿蜒向上。

The air was hot and moist, steam rose from the forest after the rain, and the atmospheric pressure made her ears ache.

空气又热又潮湿，雨后的森林里升起一阵阵水汽，气压让她的耳朵隐隐作痛。

The camp was high in the mountains, where the level of oxygen in the air was lower, and for the first few days Nora felt dizzy whenever she climbed a hill.

营地位于高山上，那里空气中的氧气含量较低，最初几天，诺拉一爬山就头晕。

On the way they passed a cluster of small villages, a lake where a crocodile lay in the shade, and a line of trucks carrying timber out of the forest.

一路上，他们经过了一片小村落、一个有鳄鱼躺在树荫下的湖，还有一列运送木材出林的卡车。

The region had a complex history: centuries ago it had been taken by conquest, then it had been part of a confederation of tribes, and finally it had become part of the country after independence.

这个地区的历史很复杂：几个世纪前，它被武力征服，后来成为部落联盟的一部分，最后在国家独立后并入了这个国家。

There had been a long territorial dispute with the neighbouring country, and only recently had a settlement been reached; the normalisation of relations had begun after the withdrawal of troops from the border.

这里和邻国之间曾有过长期的领土争端，直到最近才达成解决方案；在军队从边境撤出之后，两国关系才开始正常化。

The villagers had seldom seen foreigners, and they looked at Nora with friendly curiosity whenever the jeep stopped.

村民们很少见到外国人，每当吉普车停下来，他们都带着友好的好奇心打量诺拉。

Birds of every colour flew over the trees, and the bugs were so many that Nora was glad she had brought a waterproof jacket, long trousers and strong shoes.

各种颜色的鸟儿在树林上空飞翔，虫子多得不得了，诺拉很庆幸自己带了一件防水夹克、长裤和结实的鞋子。

The camp was a group of wooden huts at the edge of the forest.

营地是森林边上的一群木屋。

It was run by Mr. Das, a tough, sturdy ranger who had lived in the forest all his life.

营地由达斯先生管理，他是一位坚韧而健壮的护林员，一辈子都生活在森林里。

He was also a widower, and he lived with his sister, a warm hostess who cooked spicy vegetable curry with peanut sauce for supper every night.

他也是个鳏夫，和他的姐姐住在一起，他姐姐是一位热情好客的女主人，每天晚上都用花生酱做辣味蔬菜咖喱当晚饭。

She was compassionate and discreet; she never asked personal questions, and she respected everyone's privacy.
她富有同情心又很谨慎，从不问私人问题，尊重每个人的隐私。

Because Nora was a vegetarian with special dietary needs, she chose every ingredient with care, and she even made fresh yoghurt every morning to increase Nora's intake of protein.
由于诺拉是素食者，在饮食上有特殊需要，她精心挑选每一样食材，甚至每天早上都做新鲜酸奶，好让诺拉多摄入些蛋白质。

Mr. Das was a quiet, masculine and honorable man with little formal education, but his knowhow and his experience of the forest were impressive.
达斯先生是个沉默寡言、很有男子气概而又正直的人，没受过什么正规教育，但他的实际本领和他在森林里的经验令人钦佩。

He had a sharp intellect, and Nora soon realized that her university degree gave her no advantage over him in the forest.
他头脑敏锐，诺拉很快意识到，在森林里，她的大学学位并没有让她比他更有优势。

On her first day she wore a bright red jacket, and Mr. Das shook his head: "You are too conspicuous. The animals will see you a mile away."
第一天她穿了一件鲜红色的夹克，达斯先生摇了摇头："你太显眼了。动物们隔着一英里就能看见你。"

Every evening Nora practised the local language with his sister, and soon she could talk with the villagers without help.
每天晚上，诺拉都跟他的姐姐练习当地语言，很快她就能不靠别人帮忙和村民们交谈了。

He became Nora's coach, and he taught her how to read the signs of animals, how to move quietly, and how to crouch behind a bush without being seen.
他成了诺拉的教练，教她如何辨认动物的踪迹，如何悄无声息地移动，以及如何蹲在灌木丛后面而不被发现。

"The forest is a book," he said. "You must learn to read it."
"森林就是一本书，"他说，"你必须学会读懂它。"

He hated laziness and fuss, and he invariably got up before dawn, whereas Nora found it very hard to wake up so early.
他讨厌懒惰和大惊小怪，总是天不亮就起床，而诺拉却觉得那么早起床实在太难了。

The camp had very little tech: a water pump in the backyard, an old transistor radio, and one computer that could connect to the internet only once a week.
营地里几乎没有什么高科技设备：后院里有一台水泵，一台旧晶体管收音机，还有一台每周只能上一次网的电脑。

Nora had to despatch her reports and reply to her correspondence on Saturdays, and it was hard to stay in contact with her family.
诺拉只能在星期六发送报告、回复信件，很难和家人保持联系。

Spare parts for the jeep were kept in a box with a pair of scissors, some rope and a few tools, and Mr. Das could repair almost any defect or damage.
吉普车的备用零件和一把剪刀、一些绳子、几件工具一起放在一个箱子里，达斯先生几乎能修好任何毛病或损坏。

In the evenings he sometimes read from the scripture, and sometimes he told ghost stories that made Nora laugh.
晚上，他有时读经书，有时讲鬼故事，逗得诺拉哈哈大笑。

The work was tiring, and after a week in the mud Nora's boots were so smelly that she had to leave them outside, but she engaged fully in every task.
工作很累，在泥地里走了一个星期后，诺拉的靴子臭得不得不放在屋外，但她全身心地投入每一项任务。

On market days she liked to mingle with the villagers, and Mr. Das became a wonderful companion; their relation grew into a deep friendship.
赶集的日子里，她喜欢和村民们打成一片，达斯先生也成了一个很好的伙伴；他们的关系发展成了深厚的友谊。

The main aspect of Nora's work was to study a tigress that lived in the territory around the lake; her initial plan was to ascertain how many tigers lived in the forest and how they shared the land.
诺拉工作的主要内容是研究一只生活在湖泊周围领地里的母老虎；她最初的计划是弄清楚森林里生活着多少只老虎，以及它们如何分享这片土地。

The tigress was old, and she walked a little slowly because of a bad hip, but she was still the queen of the forest.
这只母老虎年纪大了，由于髋部有伤，走路有点慢，但她仍然是森林之王。

Tigers are very territorial animals, and Nora used a series of cameras and a simple framework of rules to collect data; the collective result would help to protect them all.
老虎是领地意识极强的动物，诺拉使用了一系列相机和一套简单的规则框架来收集数据；这些数据汇总起来的结果将有助于保护所有的老虎。

Nora put camera traps along the paths, and every morning she collected the pictures and analyzed them in a small lab in the camp.
诺拉在小路两旁安装了自动相机，每天早上她都去收集照片，在营地的一个小实验室里进行分析。

The cameras showed an impressive sequence of images: the tigress drinking at the lake, hunting at night, and resting in the shade of a huge tree.
这些相机拍下了一组令人印象深刻的连续画面：母老虎在湖边喝水、夜间捕猎，以及在一棵大树的树荫下休息。

Because of the scarcity of deer in the dry season, the tigress sometimes had to walk more than twenty kilometres in one night to find food.
由于旱季鹿很稀少，母老虎有时一夜要走二十多公里才能找到食物。

Once, on a narrow path, Nora met the tigress face to face; the great cat stood poised on a rock, her tail moving slowly.
有一次，在一条窄窄的小路上，诺拉和母老虎迎面相遇；这只大猫蹲在一块岩石上，蓄势待发，尾巴缓缓摆动。

Nora remembered Mr. Das's advice: she did not run, but stepped backward slowly without turning her back, and after a long minute the tigress turned and disappeared into the trees.
诺拉想起了达斯先生的忠告：她没有跑，而是不转身地慢慢向后退，过了漫长的一分钟，母老虎转身消失在树林里。

Each photo was enlarged on the computer screen, and she checked every picture carefully to avoid any duplication in her counting.
每张照片都在电脑屏幕上放大，她仔细检查每一张，以免在计数时出现重复。

The cameras let her look at the tigers without disturbing them, and some pictures were so beautiful that they seemed rosy with the light of dawn.
这些相机让她能够在不打扰老虎的情况下观察它们，有些照片美得仿佛被黎明的光染成了玫瑰色。

She noticed that tigers and leopards lived surprisingly close to each other, and their peaceful coexistence was something nobody had described before.
她注意到，老虎和豹子出人意料地生活得很近，它们之间的和平共处是以前从没有人描述过的。

Then one day the pictures showed something wonderful: two small cubs following their mother.

后来有一天，照片上出现了一件美妙的事：两只小老虎跟在妈妈身后。

Nora could hardly breathe with excitement.
诺拉激动得几乎喘不过气来。

The birth of the cubs was a manifestation of hope, and Nora saw a clear similarity between the old tigress and the photo of her own mother holding her as a baby.
幼崽的诞生是希望的体现，诺拉发现，这只老母老虎和她母亲抱着婴儿时期的她的那张照片之间有一种明显的相似之处。

"They must have hatched from a miracle," Mr. Das joked. "Tigers don't come from eggs, but these two are a gift."
“它们一定是奇迹里孵出来的，”达斯先生开玩笑说，“老虎不是从蛋里生出来的，但这两个小家伙是一份礼物。”

But the tigers were in danger.
但老虎们正处于危险之中。

A ruthless gang of poachers had been hunting in the forest, and they sold the skin, bones and flesh of tigers in a black market abroad.
一伙残忍的偷猎者一直在森林里猎杀老虎，把虎皮、虎骨和虎肉拿到国外的黑市上去卖。

Their leader was a gangster known as "the Arrow," because in his youth he had killed animals with a bow and arrow.
他们的头目是一个外号叫“箭”的歹徒，因为他年轻时用弓箭猎杀动物。

At the same time, a big timber company wanted to cut down part of the forest, and it had the support of a local official from the Forest Bureau.
与此同时，一家大型木材公司想砍掉一部分森林，它得到了林业局一位地方官员的支持。

The official said publicly that he loved nature, but everyone knew that he was a hypocrite and a liar who took money from the company.
那位官员公开宣称自己热爱自然，但大家都知道，他是个伪君子和骗子，收了那家公司的钱。

The Forest Bureau was supposed to allocate money to the rangers, but the official deducted part of it for himself, and this diversion of funds hampered their work.
林业局本应给护林员们拨款，但那位官员从中克扣了一部分归自己，这种挪用资金的行为妨碍了他们的工作。

There was not even enough money for radios, and this hindered communication between the rangers in different parts of the forest.
连买无线电台的钱都不够，这阻碍了森林各处护林员之间的联络。

The rangers had old guns, few cars, and no money for petrol, so their defense against the poachers was weak.
护林员们只有旧枪和寥寥几辆车，也没钱买汽油，所以他们对付偷猎者的防御力量很薄弱。

It was outrageous, but the official was clever at manipulating people, and every complaint seemed to disappear on his desk.
这实在令人愤慨，但那位官员很会摆布人，每一份投诉似乎都在他的办公桌上不了了之。

One evening, a boy came to the camp, hungry and frightened.
一天傍晚，一个男孩来到营地，又饿又害怕。

His name was Ali, and he was a refugee who had crossed the border from a neighbouring country where there was a war; refugees often suffered discrimination, and he was afraid that the police would deport him.
他叫阿里，是一个从正在打仗的邻国越境而来的难民；难民们常常受到歧视，他害怕警察会把他驱逐出境。

His parents had been killed, and he had walked through the forest alone for days.
他的父母被杀了，他独自在森林里走了好几天。

His experience had been traumatic, and at first he could not utter a single word.
他的经历给他留下了深深的创伤，起初他连一个字都说不出来。

At night he often woke up in distress, crying for his mother, and Nora would sit beside him until he fell asleep again.
夜里他常常在痛苦中惊醒，哭着找妈妈，诺拉就会坐在他身边，直到他重新睡着。

Mr. Das's sister gave him a bath, clean clothes and a warm meal, and that night he slept for fourteen hours.
达斯先生的姐姐给他洗了个澡，给了他干净的衣服和一顿热饭，那天晚上他睡了十四个小时。

In the following days, Ali slowly began to talk, and he told them something important: on his way, he had seen men with guns setting traps near the lake.
在接下来的几天里，阿里慢慢开口说话了，他告诉他们一件重要的事：他在路上看到有一些拿着枪的人在湖边设置陷阱。

Nora and Mr. Das went to the lake the next morning.
第二天早上，诺拉和达斯先生去了湖边。

They found three metal traps hidden in a ditch, and the ground around them was full of footprints.
他们在一条沟里发现了三个藏起来的金属夹子，周围的地上满是脚印。

Mr. Das removed the traps carefully, and Nora took photos of everything with her camera; she also picked up a cigarette that one of the men had dropped, as evidence.
达斯先生小心地拆除了这些夹子，诺拉用相机把一切都拍了下来；她还捡起一个人掉下的一个烟头，作为证据。

Back at the camp, she immediately sent copies of the photos to a friend at a newspaper in the city, in case the evidence disappeared.
回到营地后，她立即把照片的副本发给了城里一家报社的朋友，以防证据丢失。

"They will come back," Mr. Das said. "We must be ready."
“他们还会回来的，”达斯先生说，“我们必须做好准备。”

They called the police, but the nearest station was two hours away, and the phone line often broke during the rainy season.
他们报了警，但最近的警察局在两个小时车程以外，而且雨季时电话线经常断。

There was no alternative, so they decided to watch the lake themselves.
别无选择，于是他们决定自己守在湖边。

For three nights they waited in hiding behind a rock, and the suspense was terrible; Nora's state of arousal was so high that she could hear every leaf move.
他们一连三个晚上都躲在一块岩石后面等待，那种紧张的心情令人煎熬；诺拉高度警觉，连每一片树叶的晃动声都听得见。

On the fourth night, they heard voices, and four men appeared with guns and a large basket.
第四天晚上，他们听到了说话声，四个男人拿着枪和一个大筐出现了。

Nora's heart was beating so loudly that she was afraid they would hear it.
诺拉的心跳得那么响，她都担心那些人会听见。

Mr. Das tapped her arm, and that was the cue: she switched on a powerful light and shouted, "Police! Don't move!"
达斯先生拍了拍她的胳膊，这就是信号：她打开一盏强光灯，大喊：“警察！不许动！”

In an instant, the poachers were so shocked that they dropped their guns and ran into the forest.
一刹那间，偷猎者们吓得扔下枪，逃进了森林。

One of them fell into the lake, and he screamed so loudly when he saw the crocodile that the others came back to help him.
其中一个人掉进了湖里，他看到鳄鱼时吓得大声尖叫，其他人只好又跑回来救他。

By then, the real police had arrived, and they detained all four men.
这时，真正的警察赶到了，把四个人全都抓了起来。

The leader of the gang, the Arrow, was not among them, but the men told the police everything.
团伙的头目“箭”并不在其中，但这几个人把一切都告诉了警察。

They revealed that the official from the Forest Bureau had helped the gang in exchange for cash.
他们透露，林业局的那位官员为了钱一直在帮助这伙人。

He had told them where the rangers would be each night, and he had allowed the timber company to cut trees in the protected area.
他告诉他们护林员每晚会在哪里，还允许木材公司在保护区内砍伐树木。

When the police accused him, he tried to dodge the questions, and his denial was loud and angry; but nothing he said could negate the evidence.
当警察指控他时，他试图回避问题，大声而愤怒地否认；但他说什么也推翻不了证据。

But Nora's photos and the poachers' statements were enough; he was arrested, and his dismissal from the Bureau was immediate.
但诺拉的照片和偷猎者们的供词已经足够了；他被逮捕了，并立即被林业局开除。

A few weeks later, the Arrow was caught at the border, trying to escape with a bag full of tiger bones.
几个星期后，“箭”在边境被抓获，当时他正提着一袋虎骨试图逃跑。

The arrests were a crushing defeat for the poachers, and they were a strong warning that would deter others in the future.
这些逮捕行动给了偷猎者毁灭性的打击，也是一个强有力的警告，将对今后的其他人起到威慑作用。

The story became nationwide news, and soon it became global news as well.
这件事成了全国性的新闻，很快又成了全球新闻。

Nora wrote an article about the tigress and her cubs; she kept the copyright of her photos, and they were printed in newspapers all over the world as a medium for telling the forest's story.
诺拉写了一篇关于这只母老虎和它的幼崽的文章；她保留了自己照片的版权，这些照片作为讲述这片森林故事的媒介，被世界各地的报纸刊登出来。

People were moved by the depiction of the old tigress protecting her cubs, and her portrayal of the tigers' lives was praised as both scientific and beautiful; thousands of letters arrived at the camp.
人们被那只老母老虎保护幼崽的画面所感动，她对老虎生活的描绘被称赞为既科学又美丽；成千上万封信寄到了营地。

Nora became a popular interviewee on television, and even a well-known biographer of famous scientists came to interview Mr. Das.
诺拉成了电视上很受欢迎的受访者，就连一位著名科学家传记作家也来采访达斯先生。

A civic group was founded to protect the forest, and at its founding meeting a leftist politician and a conservative one sat side by side as delegates, a pleasing example of democratic cooperation.

一个保护森林的公民团体成立了，在它的成立大会上，一位左派政治家和一位保守派政治家作为代表并肩而坐，这是民主合作的一个令人欣慰的例子。

The group's nominee won the next local election, and the new government made the forest a priority.
这个团体的候选人赢得了下一次地方选举，新政府把保护这片森林列为优先事项。

The federal government decided to act, and the parliament began to legislate new protection for the forest.
联邦政府决定采取行动，议会开始立法对这片森林实行新的保护。

An important component of the new law was a plan to pay the villagers who helped the rangers to watch the forest.
新法律的一个重要组成部分是一项计划：向协助护林员看守森林的村民支付报酬。

The hurdles were great, and some people were full of pessimism, but nothing could dampen Nora's hope. A year later, the forest became a statutory reserve, and no hunting or cutting of trees would be allowed there henceforth.
障碍重重，有些人非常悲观，但什么也不能浇灭诺拉的希望。一年后，这片森林成为法定保护区，从此以后，那里禁止任何狩猎和砍伐活动。

Hitherto, many people had believed that protecting the tigers was an impossibility, but the result proved them wrong.
在此之前，许多人认为保护老虎是不可能的事，但结果证明他们错了。

A strict code of rules was made for visitors, and a small fee was charged for every visit.
政府为游客制定了一套严格的规则，每次参观都要收取少量费用。

At the inauguration of the reserve, the minister apologised for the government's failures in the past, and he thanked Nora, Mr. Das and Ali, and the local villagers held a great celebration with music and dancing.
在保护区的揭幕仪式上，部长为政府过去的失职道歉，并向诺拉、达斯先生和阿里表示感谢，当地村民们用音乐和舞蹈举行了盛大的庆祝活动。

Nobody doubted his sincerity, because on the same day he promised to double the rangers' budget.
没有人怀疑他的诚意，因为就在同一天，他承诺把护林员的经费增加一倍。

The rejoicing lasted all night, and Nora felt a deep gratitude toward the people who had made it possible.
欢庆活动持续了一整夜，诺拉对那些促成这一切的人深怀感激。

Ali was allowed to stay in the country as a legal resident, and Mr. Das and his sister adopted him.
阿里获准作为合法居民留在这个国家，达斯先生和他的姐姐收养了他。

He went to school for the first time in two years, he enrolled in an English class that Nora taught, and he wanted to become a ranger like his new father.
两年来他第一次上了学，还报名参加了诺拉教的英语班，他想成为一名像他的新爸爸那样的护林员。

Nora stayed for three more years and wrote her doctoral thesis about the tigers, and she also made a glossary of local words for future researchers.
诺拉又待了三年，写了关于老虎的博士论文，她还为将来的研究者编了一份当地词汇的词汇表。

During an exploration of the rocks near the lake, she also made a small discovery: a fossil of an ancient fish, which showed that the area had once been under the sea.
在对湖边岩石的一次考察中，她还有了一个小小的发现：一条古鱼的化石，这表明这一地区曾经是一片汪洋。

Over millions of years, layers of mud had accumulated around it, and now it emerged from the rock as clearly as a picture.
数百万年来，泥沙一层层地堆积在它周围，如今它从岩石中显露出来，清晰得就像一幅画。

She liked to say that the forest was a cradle of life, and that its purity must be protected for the whole planet.
她喜欢说，这片森林是生命的摇篮，为了整个地球，它的纯净必须得到保护。

She calculated that the sum of the tigers in the forest, minus those lost to poachers in the past, was still enough for a healthy population, if the forest stayed safe.
她算了算，只要森林保持安全，森林里老虎的总数，减去过去被偷猎者杀害的那些，仍然足以维持一个健康的种群。

Her viewpoint was positive but moderate: the tigers had a real potential to recover, but only if people continued to protect them.
她的观点积极而不过分乐观：老虎确实有恢复的潜力，但前提是人们要继续保护它们。

Eco-tourism soon came into vogue, and visitors came from farther and farther away, attracted by the allure of the forest.
生态旅游很快流行起来，被这片森林的魅力所吸引，游客们从越来越远的地方赶来。

The government used the money to modernize the camp, and every ranger received a new uniform and a radio.
政府用这笔钱把营地现代化，每个护林员都领到了一套新制服和一部无线电台。

The transformation of the camp was amazing: the old huts were repaired, solar panels were put on the roofs, and the computer could now connect to the internet every day.
营地的变化令人惊叹：旧木屋修好了，屋顶装上了太阳能板，电脑现在每天都能上网了。

Nora's contract was flexible, and she decided to stay on for a short term to train new rangers, whose work would help the forest for years to come.
诺拉的合同很灵活，她决定短期留下来培训新的护林员，他们的工作将在今后许多年里守护这片森林。

When she finally went home, the old tigress had died, but her two cubs had grown into strong young tigers, and the population in the forest had begun to grow.
当她终于回家时，那只老母老虎已经死了，但它的两只幼崽已经长成了强壮的年轻老虎，森林里的老虎数量也开始增长了。

Eventually, the time came for her to leave; on her last night, Nora sat by the lake with Mr. Das and Ali, listening to the sounds of the forest that surrounded them on every side.
终于，她离开的时候到了；最后一个晚上，诺拉和达斯先生、阿里一起坐在湖边，聆听着四面环绕着他们的森林的声音。

Somewhere in the darkness, a tiger roared, and Nora smiled.
黑暗中的某个地方传来一声虎啸，诺拉笑了。

"That's her son," Mr. Das said. "He is telling us that he is still here."
“那是它的儿子，”达斯先生说，“它在告诉我们，它还在这里。”

She knew that she would miss this place terribly, but she also knew that the forest would always be a part of her, wherever she went.
她知道自己会非常想念这个地方，但她也知道，无论她走到哪里，这片森林永远都是她的一部分。

As she walked back to the camp, Ali held her hand and asked, "Will you come back?"
她走回营地时，阿里握着她的手问：“你还会回来吗？”

"Of course," she said, "and next time I will bring my surfboard, so you can teach me how to look for waves in the lake."

“当然会，”她说，“下次我会带上我的冲浪板，这样你就可以教我怎么在湖里找浪了。”

Ali laughed, and the sound of his laughter was the most beautiful thing Nora had heard since the beginning of her journey.

阿里笑了，他的笑声是诺拉自旅程开始以来听到的最美的声音。

She was optimistic, humorous and thoughtful, but she could also be blunt, and some readers thought her articles were rather sarcastic.

她乐观、幽默、体贴，但有时也很直率，一些读者觉得她的文章有点尖刻。

She lived in a small flat above the newspaper office, and besides her work at the paper, she wrote a blog about life in the town, which had more readers than the paper itself.

她住在报社楼上的一套小公寓里；除了报社的工作，她还写一个关于小镇生活的博客，读者比报纸本身还多。

Her twin brother, Tom, was a technician at the town's power station, and in his free time he was an enterprising inventor.

她的双胞胎哥哥汤姆是镇上发电站的技术员，业余时间他是个很有进取心的发明家。

Tom was quiet and a little moody, and he liked machines rather than people, but he was loyal to his friends and sympathetic to anyone in trouble.

汤姆话不多，有点喜怒无常，比起人他更喜欢机器，但他对朋友很忠诚，对任何遇到困难的人都充满同情。

Their grandfather had been an astronomer, and when they were kids he took them up the hill behind the house at night to look at the stars.

他们的爷爷曾是一位天文学家，他们小时候，他常常在夜里带他们爬上屋后的小山去看星星。

He showed them the polar lights dancing across the sky, and he told them that the earth was only a tiny sphere in an endless universe.

他给他们看在天空中舞动的极光，告诉他们地球只是无尽宇宙中的一个小小球体。

"Every star you see is a sun," he said, "and the light from some of them began its journey before humanity existed."

“你们看到的每一颗星星都是一个太阳，”他说，“其中一些星星的光在人类出现之前就开始了它的旅程。”

"Some people think that science will civilize the world," he once said, "but only kindness can do that."

“有些人认为科学会让世界变得文明，”他有一次说，“但只有善良才能做到。”

Those nights of quiet contemplation gave the twins a deep love of nature and a wish to understand how things worked.

那些静静沉思的夜晚，让这对双胞胎深深热爱大自然，也让他们渴望了解事物的运作原理。

When he died, the twins buried him on the hill, and they were so sorrowful that for weeks they hardly spoke.

他去世后，双胞胎把他葬在那座小山上，他们悲伤得好几个星期几乎不说话。

Tom still had the old encyclopaedia their grandfather had given him, and its pages were full of his notes in pencil.

汤姆至今还留着爷爷送给他的那套旧百科全书，书页上写满了爷爷用铅笔做的笔记。

People had inhabited the peninsula for thousands of years, and in the old days the town had been a fishing commune, where families shared their boats and their catch.

人们在这个半岛上居住了几千年，过去这个小镇是一个渔业公社，各家共用船只，共享渔获。

A century ago the town had been rich, because it had the biggest shipyard in the north, and thousands of workers built ships there.
一个世纪以前，这个小镇很富裕，因为它拥有北方最大的造船厂，成千上万的工人在那里造船。

But after the Second World War, mechanisation and foreign competition drastically reduced the work, and the shipyard finally closed when Lena was ten.
但第二次世界大战之后，机械化和外国竞争使那里的工作大幅减少，莉娜十岁时，造船厂终于关门了。

Since then the peninsula had become one of the most underdeveloped areas of the country, and many young people left to find jobs in the city, where they rode the subway or the metro to work every morning.
从那以后，这个半岛成了全国最不发达的地区之一，许多年轻人离开去城里找工作，每天早上坐地铁上班。

The only road to the south was often closed by snow in winter, and the old power lines were so weak that the lights went dim whenever the wind was strong.
唯一一条通往南方的公路冬天常被大雪封住，旧电线又非常不稳，一刮大风灯光就会变暗。

The voltage was so unstable that it could burn out a fridge, and the people who suffered most were the consumers at the end of the line: the farms on the hills.
电压很不稳定，能把冰箱烧坏，受害最大的是线路末端的用户：山上的农场。

Agriculture on the peninsula was hard: the soil was stony, the summer was short, and there were no trees, only low shrubs and bushes bent by the wind.
半岛上的农业很艰难：土壤多石，夏天很短，这里没有树，只有被风吹弯的低矮灌木和树丛。

The main crops were potatoes and carrots, and the yield was small even in a good year.
主要的庄稼是土豆和胡萝卜，即使在好年景，产量也很低。

Some farmers kept sheep, and their lamb and woollen goods were famous, while others kept bees, and their honey was a local delicacy.
有些农民养羊，他们的羊肉和羊毛制品很有名；还有些人养蜂，他们的蜂蜜是当地的美味。

Many of the farm workers were migrants from the south, who came for a period of three months every summer to help with the harvest.
许多农场工人是来自南方的外来务工者，他们每年夏天来这里待三个月，帮忙收获。

The old shipyard was owned by Mr. Hale, a bald, rich manufacturer who lived in a big white house on the hill and drove an expensive old automobile.
旧造船厂归黑尔先生所有，他是个秃顶的富有制造商，住在山上一座白色的大房子里，开着一辆昂贵的老式汽车。

He was a snob who looked down on the farmers, and he belonged to an older generation whose ideology was simple: big factories, big profits.
他是个势利小人，瞧不起农民；他属于老一辈人，他们的思想很简单：大工厂，大利润。

His predecessor, his father, had at least been loved by the workers, but Mr. Hale cared only about money.
他的前任——也就是他的父亲——至少还受工人们爱戴，而黑尔先生只关心钱。

The shipyard was now empty except for the pigeons; its metal had begun to corrode in the salty air, its windows were opaque with dirt, and a drunk youth had painted the word "fuck" on the front gate.
造船厂现在除了鸽子空无一物；它的金属在含盐的空气里开始锈蚀，窗户脏得不透光，还有一个喝醉的年轻人在正门上涂了一个脏字。

Next to it stood the cathedral, and inside there was a stone plate that commemorated a famous event.
旁边矗立着大教堂，里面有一块石牌，纪念着一件著名的事件。

A century ago, when the ambassador of a foreign country visited the shipyard, an assassin tried to shoot him in front of the workers.
一个世纪前，一位外国大使参观造船厂时，一名刺客试图当着工人们的面开枪打死他。

A young worker named Erik jumped in front of the ambassador, and he died of his wounds two days later.
一个名叫埃里克的年轻工人扑到大使身前，两天后因伤去世。

His bravery was remembered all over the country, and his martyrdom became a symbol of the town's courage; the town's militia arrested the assassin, and he spent the rest of his life as a prisoner.
他的勇敢传遍全国，他的牺牲成了小镇勇气的象征；镇上的民兵逮捕了刺客，此人作为囚犯度过了余生。

Every year on that day the people gathered in the cathedral, sang a gospel song, said a prayer for Erik, and read a poem from a book of local poetry.
每年的那一天，人们都聚集在大教堂里，唱一首福音歌，为埃里克祈祷，并朗读一本本地诗集里的一首诗。

Tom had been working on an idea for years, and his motivation was simple: he did not want the farmers to suffer through another cold winter.
汤姆多年来一直在琢磨一个想法，他的动机很简单：他不想让农民们再熬过一个寒冷的冬天。

He wanted to build a small power grid for the farms, using the wind, the sun and the heat of the earth, and to manage it with clever software that he had written himself.
他想为农场建一个小型电网，利用风能、太阳能和地热，并用他自己编写的巧妙软件来管理它。

With his background in engineering, he knew that the most thorny problem was the cold, because ordinary batteries lose power at low temperatures.
凭借他的工程背景，他知道最棘手的问题是寒冷，因为普通电池在低温下会失去电量。

After months of planning, he found a way to extract heat from the warm water deep under the hill and use it to keep the batteries warm.
经过几个月的筹划，他找到了一种方法，从山下深处的温水中提取热量，用来给电池保温。

He also designed a portable battery, no bigger than a suitcase and weighing about forty kilograms, that could be carried in a trailer behind a car and could keep a house warm for two days.
他还设计了一种便携式电池，不比一个手提箱大，重约四十公斤，可以装在汽车后面的拖车里运送，能让一座房子保暖两天。

It was not a great technological breakthrough, but in his estimation the grid would cost much less than new power lines.
这算不上什么重大的技术突破，但据他估算，这个电网的成本会比新建电线低得多。

It would also greatly increase the productivity of the farms: with heated greenhouses, the farmers could grow organic vegetables all year round.
它还会大大提高农场的生产效率：有了供暖的温室，农民们一年四季都能种植有机蔬菜。

In theory, the effect would be tremendous; however, he needed money, land and the support of the town council.
从理论上讲，效果会非常显著；然而，他需要钱、土地和镇议会的支持。

He applied for loans from several banks, but they all said that the plan was too hypothetical.
他向几家银行申请贷款，但它们都说这个计划太过于假设性了。

One banker even said, with a detached smile, that a technician from a small town could never be a real inventor, and Tom thought that his attitude was contemptible.
一位银行家甚至带着冷漠的微笑说，一个小镇来的技术员永远不可能成为真正的发明家，汤姆觉得他的态度很卑劣。

Tom was a brilliant engineer but a poor speaker, so he asked Lena to help him.
汤姆是个出色的工程师，却不善言辞，于是他请莉娜帮忙。

"You're the one who can talk," he said. "I only know how to talk to machines."
“你才是会说话的那个，”他说，“我只知道怎么跟机器说话。”

Lena wrote an article about his plan, and she put special emphasis on what it could mean for the farmers.
莉娜写了一篇关于他的计划的文章，她特别强调了这个计划对农民意味着什么。

She described the long cold nights and the kids doing their homework by the flame of a candle, and she inserted a few photos of the farms in winter.
她描述了漫长寒冷的夜晚，以及孩子们在烛光下做作业的情景，还插入了几张农场冬天的照片。

The article was a success, and many readers wrote to thank her.
这篇文章大获成功，许多读者写信感谢她。

But Mr. Hale wrote a forceful letter to the paper, calling Tom's plan "a pathetic dream" and "an expensive toy".
但黑尔先生给报社写了一封措辞强硬的信，称汤姆的计划是“可悲的白日梦”和“昂贵的玩具”。

He said that the town needed real factories, not "imitative technology copied from foreign countries".
他说小镇需要的是真正的工厂，而不是“从外国抄来的模仿性技术”。

Lena replied in her blog: "Mr. Hale says this idea is imitative. In fact, nobody in the world has tried it in such a cold place."
莉娜在博客上回应：“黑尔先生说这个想法是模仿的。事实上，世界上还没有人在这么冷的地方尝试过。”

Some readers also accused him of hypocrisy, because his own factory in the city used cheap power from abroad.
一些读者还指责他虚伪，因为他自己在城里的工厂用的就是从国外进口的廉价电力。

The council held a public meeting to discuss the plan in the old town hall, and the chamber was so full that people had to stand at the back.
镇议会在老市政厅召开公开会议讨论这个计划，会议厅里挤得满满的，人们只好站在后面。

The ruling party on the council was divided: some members liked the plan, but others were worried about the cost.
议会中的执政党意见不一：一些议员喜欢这个计划，另一些人则担心成本。

Mr. Hale spoke first, and his speech was full of misleading numbers.
黑尔先生第一个发言，他的讲话里满是误导人的数字。

He said that the grid would cost ninety million dollars, but the real cost was only a tenth of that.
他说这个电网要花九千万美元，但实际成本只有十分之一。

He also said that the wind machines would kill innumerable birds and that their noise would make the animals ill, though nobody had any evidence of that.
他还说风力发电机会杀死无数的鸟，噪音会让动物生病，尽管没有人有任何证据。

When an old farmer asked where he had got his numbers, Mr. Hale refused to disclose his references.
当一位老农问他这些数字从哪里来时，黑尔先生拒绝透露他的资料来源。

The debate soon became heated, and the farmers said that the price of power was the most crucial issue for them, because their need for heat had almost no elasticity: they needed it whatever it cost.
辩论很快变得激烈起来，农民们说电价是他们最关键的问题，因为他们对取暖的需求几乎没有弹性：无论多贵都得用。

Then Tom stood up. His hands were shaking, and for a second he could not speak.
接着汤姆站了起来。他的手在发抖，有一瞬间他说不出话来。

Lena could see the anxiety in his eyes, but she smiled at him from the front row, and despite his inward fear, he began.
莉娜能看到他眼里的焦虑，但她在前排对他微笑，尽管他内心害怕，他还是开始讲了。

He did not try to contradict Mr. Hale in a direct way; instead, he showed a simple chart and spoke in short, declarative sentences: "This is what it costs. This is what it gives. This is who it helps."
他没有试图直接反驳黑尔先生；相反，他展示了一张简单的图表，用简短的陈述句说道："这是它的成本。这是它的产出。这是它帮助的人。"

His speech was so clear and coherent that even the people who had laughed at him began to listen.
他的讲话清晰而有条理，就连那些曾经嘲笑他的人也开始认真听了。

An analyst from the regional government, who had come to study the plan, said that the numbers were correct and that the potentiality of the idea was great.
一位来研究这个计划的地区政府分析师说，这些数字是正确的，这个想法的潜力很大。

His conclusion was that the plan was sound, and he called it an exemplary project for poor regions.
他的结论是这个计划是可靠的，并称它是贫困地区的一个模范项目。

At the end, the council decided to give Tom a small piece of land and a contract to build a test grid; the contract confined the test to three farms, and the council agreed to purchase any extra power they produced.
最后，镇议会决定给汤姆一小块土地，并和他签订合同建一个试验电网；合同把试验限定在三个农场，议会还同意购买它们生产的多余电力。

The farmers' willingness to try something new surprised everyone.
农民们愿意尝试新事物，这让所有人都很意外。

But Mr. Hale was angry, and he used every trick he knew to obstruct the project.
但黑尔先生很生气，他用尽各种手段阻挠这个项目。

He said that the land was needed for a new road, but everyone knew that this was only a pretext.
他说那块地要用来修一条新路，但人人都知道这只是个借口。

When the council offered him another piece of land for his road, he said coldly that the matter was not negotiable.
当议会提出另给他一块地修路时，他冷冷地说这件事没有商量的余地。

He claimed that the batteries contained a potent poison which, even if diluted by the rain, would kill the crops.
他声称电池里含有一种烈性毒素，即使被雨水稀释，也会害死庄稼。

He also insisted that the three farms must be segregated from the town's main grid, so that if anything went wrong, the town would not be affected.
他还坚持要求这三个农场必须与镇上的主电网隔离开来，这样一旦出了问题，镇上也不会受影响。

He wrote to the government, and the government sent a man to make an appraisal of the plan, which took four months; then, because of an oversight in an office, the papers were sent to the wrong city and had to be sent again.

他写信给政府，政府派了一个人来对这个计划进行评估，评估花了四个月；后来，由于一个办公室的疏忽，文件被寄到了错误的城市，只好重新寄送。

Every delay was an aggravation, and the delays had a psychological effect on Tom: he became restless and depressed.

每一次拖延都让人恼火，这些拖延对汤姆产生了心理上的影响：他变得焦躁不安、情绪低落。

Lena tried to cheer him up. "Every great inventor had enemies," she said. "Don't lose hope."

莉娜努力让他振作起来。“每个伟大的发明家都有敌人，”她说，“别失去希望。”

Meanwhile, the money was running out: Tom had to pay for the batteries in instalments, and he had spent all his savings.

与此同时，钱快用光了：汤姆只能分期付款买电池，他已经花光了所有积蓄。

It was then that an unexpected friend appeared.

就在这时，一位意想不到的朋友出现了。

Rosa Vale, a famous actress and a national icon who had been born on the peninsula, had read Lena's blog.

罗莎·韦尔是一位著名女演员，也是一位国民偶像，她出生在这个半岛上，读过莉娜的博客。

She had left the town when she was eighteen, and now she lived in the capital, where she worked in a film studio.

她十八岁时离开了小镇，现在住在首都，在一家电影制片厂工作。

Although she had spent most of her life in the limelight, she disliked big parties and preferred quiet places.

虽然她大半生都处在聚光灯下，但她不喜欢盛大的聚会，更喜欢安静的地方。

She called Lena and said, "I want to help. My father was a worker at the shipyard, and I remember the cold winters."

她打电话给莉娜说：“我想帮忙。我父亲曾是造船厂的工人，我还记得那些寒冷的冬天。”

She offered to give a performance in the school auditorium, and all the money would go to Tom's project.

她提出在学校礼堂演出一场，所有收入都捐给汤姆的项目。

The concert was a tremendous success; the auditorium was full, and she held a captive audience from the first second to the last.

这场音乐会大获成功；礼堂座无虚席，从第一秒到最后一秒，观众都被她深深吸引。

After the show, Rosa made a heartfelt speech, and she announced that she would make a large donation of her own as well.

演出结束后，罗莎发表了一番真挚的讲话，并宣布她自己也会捐一大笔钱。

People from all over the country followed her example; the town also organized a marathon, and hundreds of people ran through the snow to raise money.

全国各地的人都效仿她；小镇还组织了一场马拉松，数百人在雪地里奔跑筹款。

The local school held a skiing race, the children sold honey and woollen hats, and an old woman baked so many sausage rolls that the whole town smelled of them for a week.

当地学校举办了一场滑雪比赛，孩子们卖蜂蜜和毛线帽，一位老太太烤了那么多香肠卷，整个小镇一个星期都飘着香味。

By the spring Tom had enough money to begin.
到了春天，汤姆已经有足够的钱开工了。

He put aside everything else, and he and three friends worked in the middle of the farms every day.
他把其他一切都放在一边，和三个朋友每天在农场中间干活。

On hot days they were always thirsty, and the farmers would bring them cold milk, hot soup and boiled eggs.
天热的时候他们总是口渴，农民们就会给他们送来冷牛奶、热汤和煮鸡蛋。

Tom was responsible for everything, from the software to the smallest nail.
从软件到最小的一颗钉子，一切都由汤姆负责。

One day he cut his hand on a piece of metal, and the wound left a scar, but he did not stop.
有一天，他的手被一块金属划伤了，伤口留下了一道疤，但他没有停下来。

To test the system, he had to transmit signals from each farm to a receiver at the power station, but at first there was so much static on the line that the screen showed only a row of meaningless digits.
为了测试系统，他必须把信号从每个农场传送到发电站的接收器上，但起初线路上的静电干扰太多，屏幕上只显示一串毫无意义的数字。

For a week he could not grasp the problem, and he spent long nights at his desk, thinking.
整整一个星期，他都没弄明白问题出在哪里，他在书桌前度过了一个个漫长的夜晚，苦苦思索。

Then, suddenly, he found it: a loose wire in a metal tube, which had been damaged by salt water.
后来，他突然发现了问题所在：一根金属管里有一根松动的电线，已经被盐水损坏了。

Lena wrote about every step in her blog, and her reports gave the project a new impetus.
莉娜在博客上记录了每一步进展，她的报道给这个项目带来了新的动力。

A university in the city offered to help with the research, and students from the campus came to spend their summer on the farms.
城里的一所大学提出帮助开展研究，学生们从校园来到农场度过暑假。

For the students, those weeks were a kind of initiation into a hard but honest life.
对学生们来说，那几个星期是一种入门仪式，让他们初次体验了一种艰苦而诚实的生活。

They liked to swim in the cold sea, and they bathed in a hot spring on the hill, which was the town's favourite place of recreation.
他们喜欢在冰冷的海里游泳，还在山上的一处温泉里泡澡，那里是小镇最受欢迎的休闲场所。

In the evenings they played games with the farmers' children, and the farmers taught them how to weave baskets and tie the knots that sailors used.
晚上，他们和农民的孩子们一起玩游戏，农民们教他们编篮子，打水手们用的绳结。

In return, the students taught the farmers how to use computers, and Lena wrote that the project had enriched both sides: the students broadened their view of the world, and the farmers gained access to new knowledge.
作为回报，学生们教农民使用电脑；莉娜写道，这个项目让双方都受益匪浅：学生们开阔了眼界，农民们获得了新的知识。

In November the test grid was ready.
十一月，试验电网建好了。

The whole town gathered at the first farm for a small ceremony, and everyone joined in the countdown: "Ten, nine, eight..."
全镇的人都聚集在第一个农场参加一个小小的仪式，大家一起倒计时：“十、九、八……”

When they reached zero, the lights in the three farmhouses came on, and above them the wind machines began to hum softly.
数到零时，三座农舍的灯亮了，农舍上方的风力发电机开始轻轻地嗡嗡作响。

The crowd cheered, and an old farmer who had spent ninety winters on the hill wept with joy.
人群欢呼起来，一位在山上度过了九十个冬天的老农喜极而泣。

Nobody expected what happened next.
没有人料到接下来发生的事。

Two weeks later, a violent storm hit the peninsula.
两周后，一场猛烈的暴风雨袭击了半岛。

The wind was so strong that it pulled the roofs off houses, the old power lines cracked under the weight of the ice, and the whole town went dark.
风大得把房顶都掀了，旧电线在冰的重压下断裂，整个小镇陷入一片黑暗。

The devastation was terrible: boats were thrown onto the road, the only bridge to the south was closed, and all communication with the outside world was cut off.
破坏非常严重：船被抛到了公路上，唯一一座通往南方的桥被封闭，与外界的一切通讯都中断了。

Worst of all, the town hospital lost its power in the middle of a surgery, and the nursery for newborn babies grew colder every hour.
最糟糕的是，镇医院在一台手术进行到一半时断了电，新生儿育婴室里的温度每小时都在下降。

The hospital's own generator was old, and it broke down after a few hours.
医院自己的发电机很旧，几个小时后就坏了。

Tom knew that his test grid was still working, because, thanks to Mr. Hale, it was not connected to the main line.
汤姆知道他的试验电网仍在运转，因为多亏了黑尔先生，它没有和主线路连在一起。

He loaded his portable batteries onto a trailer, and he and Lena drove through the storm to the hospital, while branches fell on the road in front of them.
他把便携式电池装上拖车，和莉娜一起冒着暴风雨开车去医院，树枝不断落在他们前面的路上。

It was a reckless journey, and twice their vehicle nearly slid off the road, but they arrived safely.
这是一次冒险的行程，他们的车两次差点滑出路面，但他们还是平安到达了。

Tom connected the batteries, and the lights in the hospital came on again; the doctors were able to finish the operation, and the babies in the nursery were kept warm.
汤姆接上电池，医院的灯又亮了；医生们得以完成手术，育婴室里的婴儿们也保住了温暖。

For three days the batteries kept the hospital running, while Tom drove back and forth to the farms to charge them.
三天里，这些电池维持着医院的运转，汤姆则开着车在农场和医院之间来回给电池充电。

A helicopter from the army brought food and water, and the pilot, who had seen many disasters, said that he had never seen such bravery in a small town.
一架军用直升机送来了食物和水，飞行员见过许多灾难，他说他从没在一个小镇上见过如此的勇敢。

After the storm, nobody could deny the facts, and the status of the project changed overnight.
暴风雨过后，没有人能否认这些事实，这个项目的地位一夜之间改变了。

People began to recognise Tom in the street, and even Mr. Hale, whose white house had been dark for five days, came to the hospital to thank him.
人们开始在街上认出汤姆，就连黑尔先生——他的白房子黑了五天——也来到医院感谢他。

He paused at the door, and for the first time he seemed humble.
他在门口停了一下，第一次显得谦卑起来。

"I was wrong," he said. "My dislike of your plan was based on pride, not on facts. I hope we can be reconciled."
“我错了，”他说，“我不喜欢你的计划是出于傲慢，而不是基于事实。我希望我们能够和解。”

Lena could not help peeping at her brother's face; Tom looked surprised, but he shook Mr. Hale's hand.
莉娜忍不住偷偷瞄了一眼哥哥的脸；汤姆看起来很惊讶，但他还是和黑尔先生握了手。

Mr. Hale later offered the empty shipyard as a place to build the batteries, and the old building became a factory again.
后来，黑尔先生把空置的造船厂提供出来，作为生产电池的场地，这座老建筑又变成了一座工厂。

Lena wrote that his change of heart was the most fascinating part of the story, but she tried not to overstate it: "He has not become a saint," she wrote, "but he has begun to think about the town rather than himself."
莉娜写道，他的态度转变是整个故事中最引人入胜的部分，但她尽量不夸大其词：“他并没有变成圣人，”她写道，“但他已经开始为小镇着想，而不只是为自己。”

The story reached the capital, and the legislative assembly discussed a new law to legalise small local power grids, which had been forbidden before.
这个故事传到了首都，立法议会讨论了一项新法律，使此前被禁止的小型地方电网合法化。

The new law gave towns more autonomy over their own energy, and it required the government to compensate farmers who produced extra power for the main grid.
新法律赋予各镇在能源方面更大的自主权，并要求政府对为主电网生产多余电力的农民给予补偿。

It also gave a tax deduction to families who used clean local power.
它还给使用本地清洁电力的家庭减免一部分税款。

An international conference on clean energy invited Tom to speak, and he conducted a tour of the farms for visitors from twenty countries.
一个关于清洁能源的国际会议邀请汤姆发言，他还带领来自二十个国家的来宾参观了这些农场。

His success was indicative of a wider change: small, local solutions were becoming as important as huge power stations.
他的成功预示着一个更大的变化：小型的本地解决方案正变得和大型发电站一样重要。

Experts pointed out that the alleviation of poverty in remote areas depended on cheap energy, and that the incidence of illness during the winter had fallen on the three farms.
专家们指出，偏远地区的脱贫取决于廉价的能源，而这三个农场冬季的患病率已经下降了。

The health of the old people had improved, because their houses were warm and dry, and with heated greenhouses the yield of vegetables had doubled.
老人们的健康状况改善了，因为他们的房子温暖干燥；有了供暖的温室，蔬菜产量也翻了一番。

The shipyard was cleaned, the ugly word on the gate was painted over with a brush, and the workers recycled metal from old boats to build the frames of the wind machines.
造船厂被打扫干净，大门上那个难看的字也被刷子涂掉了，工人们回收旧船的金属来制造风力发电机的框架。

Tom became the head of the new factory, and every worker received a bonus at the end of the first year.
汤姆成了这家新工厂的负责人，第一年年底每个工人都得到了一笔奖金。

He selected his workers carefully, and he gave priority to young people who wanted to stay on the peninsula; the factory gave them coarse but warm uniforms, and they wore them with pride.
他精心挑选工人，优先录用那些想留在半岛上的年轻人；工厂发给他们粗糙但暖和的制服，他们穿着很自豪。

For the town, the reopened shipyard was a potent symbol of hope, and Tom had a sudden realization that his grandfather's lessons about the stars had been lessons about people too.
对小镇来说，重新开张的造船厂是一个强有力的希望象征；汤姆突然意识到，爷爷关于星星的那些教诲，其实也是关于人的教诲。

Lena became the editor of the Northern Tribune, and she kept a file of every article she had written about the project.
莉娜成了《北方论坛报》的主编，她把自己写过的每一篇关于这个项目的文章都存了档。

She later summarised the whole story in a book, and on the first page she alluded to her grandfather: "To the man who taught us to look at the stars."
后来她把整个故事写成了一本书，并在扉页上暗指她的爷爷："献给那个教我们仰望星空的人。"

That Christmas, the farmers invited the twins to dinner, and they ate roast lamb with stuffing in a warm, bright farmhouse.
那年圣诞节，农民们邀请这对双胞胎吃晚饭，他们在温暖明亮的农舍里吃了带填料的烤羊肉。

After dinner, the twins climbed the hill behind their house, as they had done when they were kids.
晚饭后，双胞胎爬上了屋后的小山，就像他们小时候那样。

Below them, the lights of the farms shone like tiny stars, and above them the polar lights moved across the sky like a coloured cloud.
在他们下方，农场的灯光像小小的星星一样闪烁；在他们上方，极光像一片彩色的云在天空中流动。

"Grandpa would be proud," Lena said.
"爷爷会感到骄傲的。"莉娜说。

Tom was quiet for a while, and then he said, "He always said that we are tiny. But I think even tiny people can make a little light."
汤姆沉默了一会儿，然后说："他总说我们很渺小。但我觉得，即使是渺小的人，也能发出一点光。"

List 27 The Inn by the Castle

古堡旁的客栈

本篇使用 List 27 单词 267/267 个（加粗处为首次出现）

Sophie was a young chemist who worked in a large laboratory in the capital, where she spent most of the daylight hours looking through a microscope.

索菲是一名年轻的化学家，在首都一家大型实验室工作，白天的大部分时间她都在用显微镜观察。

Her job was to study the friction of a new alloy used in the petroleum industry; the work was both mathematical and experimental, and she had to measure every parameter with great consistency.

她的工作是研究一种石油工业所用新合金的摩擦性能；这项工作既需要数学计算又需要实验，她必须非常稳定一致地测量每一个参数。

She was conscientious and disciplined, and her employer valued her, but she was tired of the stress of city life, and she often had the same nightmare: she was trapped in a tunnel with no light at the end.

她认真负责、自律严谨，老板很器重她，但她厌倦了城市生活的压力，还经常做同一个噩梦：她被困在一条看不到尽头光亮的隧道里。

Besides, the price of petroleum had great volatility, the company depended on the exportation of its products, and there were rumours that many jobs would be cut.

此外，石油价格波动很大，公司依赖产品出口，还有传言说将要裁掉很多岗位。

Her only leisure was gardening on the small balcony of the flat she rented, where she grew tomatoes and herbs.

她唯一的休闲活动是在租来的公寓的小阳台上种花草，她在那里种了西红柿和香草。

Then, one rainy day, a letter arrived: her aunt had died and had left her an inn in a village in the mountains.

后来，在一个下雨天，一封信寄到了：她的姑妈去世了，给她留下了山里一个村子里的一家客栈。

Sophie's sister, Mia, who worked in marketing and was very persuasive, said, "Sell it. Nowadays nobody wants to stay in a desolate place like that."

索菲的姐姐米娅从事市场营销工作，很会说服人，她说：“卖了吧。现在没人愿意住在那种荒凉的地方。”

But Sophie had happy memories of the inn: when she was a teen, she had spent her summers there, and her aunt had taught her to fry fish and bake cake.

但索菲对那家客栈有着美好的回忆：她十几岁时，每年夏天都在那里度过，姑妈教她煎鱼、烤蛋糕。

She decided to go and see it herself, and she took a week away from work.

她决定亲自去看看，于是请了一个星期的假。

She packed her stuff into a small bag and took the train; the journey took twelve hours.

她把自己的东西装进一个小包，坐上了火车；这趟旅程花了十二个小时。

The village was a peaceful place along a mountain stream, far from any big town.

这个村子坐落在一条山间小溪边，宁静祥和，远离任何大城镇。

It was not a convenient place to reach: the nearest train station was thirty kilometres away, and the bus came only twice a day.

这个地方交通不便：最近的火车站在三十公里外，公交车一天只来两趟。

It had not been urbanized like the villages near the city, and the only shop was also the post office and the bus depot.

它不像城市周边的村庄那样已经城市化了，村里唯一的商店同时也是邮局和公交车站。

The inn stood next to an old castle, which had been built in a distant epoch by a knight who had fought for an empress.
客栈就在一座古堡旁边，古堡是在一个遥远的时代由一位为一位女皇作战的骑士建造的。

According to a mythical story, a terrible beast had once lived in the tunnels beneath it.
根据一个神话传说，古堡底下的地道里曾经住着一头可怕的野兽。

History said that the castle had been besieged for a whole year; the provisions ran out, and the soldiers suffered from hunger and a deficiency of vitamins, but the knight had fortified the walls so well that the enemy finally went away.
史书上说，这座古堡曾被围困了整整一年；粮食吃光了，士兵们饱受饥饿和维生素缺乏之苦，但骑士把城墙加固得非常坚固，敌人最终撤走了。

In the castle's small museum there was a knight's skeleton in a glass case, an old painting of a nude goddess, and a red cloak that was said to have belonged to the empress.
古堡的小博物馆里有一具陈列在玻璃柜中的骑士骸骨、一幅古老的裸体女神画像，还有一件据说属于那位女皇的红色斗篷。

The museum had few visitors, and most of its objects were covered in dust.
博物馆里没什么参观者，大部分展品上都落满了灰尘。

Its architecture was simple but beautiful, and many artists had found inspiration there.
它的建筑风格简朴而优美，许多艺术家都曾在那里找到灵感。

The inn itself was in a poor state: the roof was leaking, the kitchen was smoky, the appliances were outdated, and the bathroom was so steamy that the mirror was always grey.
客栈本身状况很差：屋顶漏雨，厨房烟雾弥漫，电器都过时了，浴室里水汽太重，镜子总是灰蒙蒙的。

The old gardener, Mr. Bell, was still there; he was a pensioner of seventy, lame in one leg, but he worked in the garden every day.
老园丁贝尔先生还在那里；他是个七十岁的退休老人，一条腿瘸了，但他每天都在花园里干活。

He wore dull, old-fashioned clothes and spoke very little, but he was polite, and Sophie soon discovered that he was a man of great goodness and compassion.
他穿着暗淡老式的衣服，话很少，但很有礼貌，索菲很快发现他是一个非常善良、富有同情心的人。

He had no formal education, but he was an intellectual in his own way: he read books about gravitation and the stars, and he once explained to her how sailors had found their longitude centuries ago.
他没受过正规教育，但他自有一番学问：他读关于万有引力和星星的书，还曾向她解释几个世纪前水手们是如何测定经度的。

"The castle belongs to the state," he said, "but the inn is yours now, and the village people think of it as theirs too."
“古堡归国家所有，”他说，“但客栈现在是你的了，村里的人也把它当作他们自己的。”

Behind the inn he grew vegetables on a small plot of land, and he said that a garden of that size could feed ten guests all summer.
他在客栈后面的一小块地上种菜，他说那么大的一个菜园够十个客人吃一整个夏天。

That evening Sophie stood in the garden and watched the mountains glow in the pale light of sunset, and she felt something she had not felt for years: peace.
那天傍晚，索菲站在花园里，看着群山在夕阳淡淡的余晖中发光，她感受到了一种多年未曾有过的感觉：平静。

She made a drastic decision: she would quit her job and run the inn herself.

她做出了一个大胆的决定：辞去工作，亲自经营这家客栈。

Mia thought that she had gone mad. "How will you pay the bills? You know nothing about business!"
米娅觉得她疯了。“你怎么付账单？你对做生意一窍不通！”

"Yeah, I know nothing," Sophie said, "but I can learn."
“是啊，我一窍不通，”索菲说，“但我可以学。”

Her employer was sorry to see her go, and he said that she could come back sometime if she changed her mind.
老板很舍不得她走，说如果她改变主意，什么时候都可以回来。

The first months were hard. She had little money, and the bank refused to give her a loan, because she had no credentials in business.
头几个月很艰难。她没什么钱，银行拒绝给她贷款，因为她没有任何经商资历。

She did most of the work herself: she learned to use a hammer, she painted the walls, and she bought a few cheap but efficient appliances.
大部分活都是她自己干的：她学会了用锤子，粉刷了墙壁，还买了几件便宜但高效的电器。

She upgraded the kitchen, furnished the rooms with old furniture from a clearance sale at the market, and revised the menu, keeping the prices to a minimum.
她改造了厨房，用市场上清仓甩卖时淘来的旧家具布置了房间，还修改了菜单，把价格压到最低。

The flavour of her food was simple but excellent: fried fish from the stream, fresh tomato salad, poultry from the farm next door, and cereal with milk for breakfast.
她做的饭菜味道朴素却很棒：小溪里的煎鱼、新鲜的番茄沙拉、隔壁农场的家禽，早餐则是牛奶麦片。

She used less sugar than most cooks, and the taste of her cakes was subtle; after one mouthful, the guests always asked for more.
她用的糖比大多数厨师少，她做的蛋糕味道细腻；客人们吃上一口，总会再要一块。

Her neighbor, a farmer, kept chickens in a small enclosure, and he sold her eggs for a few cents each.
她的邻居是个农民，在一个小围栏里养鸡，他几分钱一个把鸡蛋卖给她。

Mr. Bell, who was generous with his advice, taught her how to get a bargain at the market and how to sharpen her kitchen knives.
贝尔先生毫不吝啬地给她出主意，教她怎样在市场上买到便宜货，怎样磨厨房的刀。

Mia, despite her disagreement with the plan, used her savings to buy a small share of equity in the inn and helped her advertise it.
米娅虽然不同意这个计划，还是用积蓄买下了客栈的一小部分股份，并帮她做宣传。

She made a website with photographic images of the castle, wrote a few witty paragraphs, and posted short ads in cyberspace.
她做了一个网站，配上古堡的摄影图片，写了几段妙趣横生的文字，还在网上发布了一些简短的广告。

"In marketing," Mia said, "you must catch people's attention in the first second."
“做营销，”米娅说，“你必须在第一秒就抓住人们的注意力。”

At first the villagers treated Sophie as an outsider, but her politeness and her courtesy to everyone slowly won them over.
起初，村民们把索菲当作外人，但她对每个人都彬彬有礼、谦恭有加，慢慢地赢得了他们的心。

Many old villagers had poor literacy, so she helped them read their letters and fill in forms, and she gave free meals to needy families after years of deprivation.
许多老村民识字不多，于是她帮他们读信、填表；对那些多年来生活困苦的贫困家庭，她还免费提供饭菜。

For the village children she gave a demonstration of simple chemistry experiments, and they screamed with delight when she made a liquid change colour.
她给村里的孩子们演示简单的化学实验，当她让一种液体变色时，孩子们高兴得尖叫起来。

Slowly, guests began to arrive.
渐渐地，客人们开始来了。

Some were adventurers who wanted to climb the mountains, some were birdwatchers with binoculars, and some were simply tired city people who wanted a few quiet days.
有些是想登山的冒险家，有些是带着双筒望远镜的观鸟爱好者，还有些只是想清静几天的疲惫城里人。

A professor came to study the linguistic history of the old words on the castle walls, a former Olympic skier came every winter, and a developmental psychologist came to study how the village children learned.
一位教授来研究古堡墙上古老文字的语言学历史，一位前奥运会滑雪运动员每年冬天都来，还有一位发展心理学家来研究村里孩子们的学习方式。

An old fisherman told stories about the stream to anyone who would listen, and the guests often left him a tip.
一个老渔夫对任何愿意听的人讲小溪的故事，客人们常常给他一点小费。

The village had a church choir, and every Sunday the bishop came from the town to lead the service; attendance was high, because it was a religious village.
村里有一个教堂唱诗班，每个星期天主教都从镇上来主持礼拜；来做礼拜的人很多，因为这是个虔诚的村子。

The choir's repertoire was small, but their voices were true and beautiful.
唱诗班的曲目不多，但他们的歌声纯正而优美。

The local school had a small ballet class, and once a year the children gave a performance on the stage of the village hall.
当地学校有一个小型芭蕾舞班，孩子们每年在村礼堂的舞台上表演一次。

Sophie made the inn a kind of salon, where guests and villagers could converse over dinner in the evenings, and these merry evenings soon became famous.
索菲把客栈办成了一种沙龙，客人和村民们晚上可以边吃晚饭边聊天，这些欢乐的夜晚很快就出了名。

But not everything in the village was as peaceful as it seemed.
但村里并不是一切都像表面上那样平静。

Late at night, Sophie sometimes heard trucks on the road behind the castle, and once she saw lights moving near the old barracks where soldiers had lived during the civil war.
深夜里，索菲有时会听到古堡后面路上有卡车的声音，有一次她还看见内战时期士兵们住过的旧营房附近有灯光在移动。

The trucks polluted the stream with oil, and the fisherman complained that he found dead fish along the bank.
卡车漏出的油污染了小溪，老渔夫抱怨说他在岸边发现了死鱼。

Mr. Bell told her not to worry. "It's probably young people having a party," he said, but his answer was ambiguous, and she could see that he was worried too.
贝尔先生让她别担心。“可能是年轻人在开派对。”他说，但他的回答含糊其辞，她看得出他也很担心。

One morning, while she was digging in the garden, she found a small plastic bag full of white powder, half buried in the soil.
一天早上，她在花园里挖土时，发现了一个装满白色粉末的小塑料袋，半埋在土里。

She could guess what it was, but she wanted to be sure, so she mixed a little of the powder with a solvent and examined it under her old microscope.
她能猜到那是什么，但她想确认一下，于是她把一点粉末和溶剂混合，放在她的旧显微镜下检查。

Her observation confirmed what she had feared: it was cocaine.
她的观察证实了她所担心的事：那是可卡因。

With shaking hands, she picked up the phone to dial the number of the police.
她用颤抖的手拿起电话，拨打了警察的号码。

An investigator came from the city the next day: Chief Inspector Roy, a tall, quiet man with a sharp perspective on crime.
第二天，一位调查员从城里来了：罗伊总督察，一个高个子、沉默寡言、对犯罪有敏锐洞察力的人。

He listened to her with great attention, and he said that her information was credible.
他非常专注地听她讲述，说她的信息是可信的。

"We have been following a gang for months," he said. "We know they bring drugs across the mountains because of the proximity of the border, but we don't know where they hide them."
“我们跟踪一个团伙好几个月了，”他说，“我们知道，由于靠近边境，他们从山那边运毒品过来，但我们不知道他们把毒品藏在哪里。”

Mr. Bell finally told them the truth: as a boy, he had played in a secret tunnel that ran from the castle to the old barracks.
贝尔先生终于说出了真相：他小时候曾在一条从古堡通往旧营房的秘密地道里玩过。

"Very few people know of its existence," he said, "but I'm sure it's still there."
“很少有人知道它的存在，”他说，“但我确信它还在。”

The investigator instructed Sophie to keep the information to herself, and she vowed to say nothing, not even to her sister.
调查员指示索菲对这些情况保密，她发誓什么都不说，连对她姐姐也不说。

It was hard to verify Mr. Bell's story, because the entrance to the tunnel was hidden somewhere in the castle's museum.
贝尔先生的说法很难核实，因为地道的入口藏在古堡博物馆的某个地方。

But one night, Sophie and the investigator went into the museum with a torch, and behind the empress's cloak they found a narrow door.
但一天夜里，索菲和调查员打着手电筒走进博物馆，在女皇的斗篷后面发现了一扇窄门。

Inside, the air was cold and smelled of earth; there were snails on the walls and beetles on the ground, and water splashed under their feet.
里面的空气很冷，有一股泥土味；墙上爬着蜗牛，地上有甲虫，水在他们脚下溅起。

At the end of it, in the cellar of the barracks, they found boxes full of drugs and a large sum of dollars.
在地道尽头的营房地下室里，他们发现了装满毒品的箱子和一大笔美元。

There was also a voluminous notebook with the names of the gang's members and its affiliation with a larger network abroad.
那里还有一本厚厚的笔记本，上面记着团伙成员的名字，以及该团伙与国外一个更大网络的关系。

One of the names stunned them both: it was the deputy mayor of the village.
其中一个名字让他们俩都惊呆了：那是村里的副村长。

He was a popular politician who gave patriotic speeches about family values and the evils of drugs, and he used flattery and his influence to make people trust him.
他是个很受欢迎的政客，经常就家庭价值观和毒品的危害发表爱国演说，还用奉承和自己的影响力让人们信任他。

Sophie now remembered that he was often absent from village meetings, and that he had used his power to stop the police from checking the old barracks.
索菲这才想起，他经常缺席村里的会议，还曾利用手中的权力阻止警察检查旧营房。

The revelation that such a hypocritical man had been in charge of the village for years was a great disappointment to Sophie.
得知这样一个伪善的人多年来一直掌管着村子，索菲非常失望。

The police planned a raid for the following Friday, when the gang was expected to carry a new load through the tunnel.
警方计划在下个星期五进行突击搜查，那时团伙预计要通过地道运送一批新货。

Sophie was nervous; that night she could not sleep, so she sat in the kitchen and waited for the old clock to strike twelve.
索菲很紧张；那天夜里她睡不着，就坐在厨房里，等着那座老钟敲响十二点。

At midnight, the trucks arrived, and the police, who had been hiding in the castle, surrounded the barracks.
午夜时分，卡车到了，一直藏在古堡里的警察包围了营房。

There was a short fight: one of the men hit a policeman with his fist, and another tried to escape through the tunnel, but he slipped in the mud and was caught.
双方发生了短暂的搏斗：其中一人用拳头打了一名警察，另一人想从地道逃跑，但在泥里滑倒被抓住了。

A single shot was fired into the air, and then it was over.
有人朝天开了一枪，然后一切就结束了。

The police operation was a remarkable feat: seven men were arrested, including the deputy mayor, who had tried to drive away fast in his car.
这次警方行动非常出色：七个人被捕，其中包括想开车快速逃走的副村长。

He was abusive to the officers, and when a young reporter asked him a question, he tried to slap her camera away.
他对警察出言不逊，一个年轻记者向他提问时，他还想一巴掌打掉她的相机。

Later, the court indicted him on thirteen charges, and the judge said that his crimes were a grave menace to the young people of the region.
后来，法院以十三项罪名起诉了他，法官说他的罪行对该地区的年轻人构成了严重威胁。

His lawyer said that it was only a case of negligence and asked the court for moderation, but his argumentation was weak.
他的律师说这只是一起疏忽案件，请求法庭从轻处理，但他的论证站不住脚。

The court's rejection of the appeal was swift, and all the offenders were sent to prison.
法庭很快驳回了上诉，所有罪犯都被送进了监狱。

The case had a great impact on the region, and the inn suddenly gained prominence.
这个案件在该地区产生了巨大影响，客栈一下子出了名。

The rapidity of the change surprised everyone, and Sophie began to realise that her quiet life had come to an end, at least for a while.
变化之快让所有人都很吃惊，索菲开始意识到，她平静的生活结束了，至少暂时是这样。

Journalists came from all over the country, and a newspaper even printed a cartoon of Sophie looking at a gangster through a microscope.
记者们从全国各地赶来，一家报纸甚至刊登了一幅漫画，画的是索菲用显微镜观察一个歹徒。

Every room was full, and Sophie had to refuse many reservations; the availability of rooms became a real problem.
每个房间都住满了，索菲不得不拒绝很多预订；房间是否有空成了一个实际问题。

Mia was delighted. "This is better than any marketing campaign!" she said.
米娅很高兴。“这比任何营销活动都管用！”她说。

But Sophie felt uncomfortable; her involvement in the case had brought her fame, but she did not want the inn to be known only for crime.
但索菲感到不自在；参与这个案子给她带来了名气，但她不希望客栈只因犯罪案件而出名。

"I want people to come for the mountains and the food," she said, "not for a nightmare."
“我希望人们是为了山和美食而来，”她说，“而不是为了一场噩梦。”

Mia reproached herself for thinking only of money, and she gave her sister a warm embrace. "You're right," she said. "Let's focus on what really matters."
米娅责备自己只想着钱，她给了妹妹一个温暖的拥抱。“你说得对，”她说，“我们把注意力放在真正重要的事情上吧。”

After the case, the villagers elected a new mayor, a former ballet teacher who was realistic and full of foresight.
案件过后，村民们选出了一位新村长，她以前是芭蕾舞老师，务实而富有远见。

She formed an advisory group to plan the village's future, and she invited Sophie to join it as an advisor.
她成立了一个顾问小组来规划村子的未来，并邀请索菲作为顾问加入。

The group's first idea, a summer festival, was contentious at first: it was the old versus the young, and the old people said that it would bring too much noise.
小组的第一个想法——举办夏季节日——起初引起了争议：老人和年轻人意见相左，老人们说这会带来太多噪音。

"It is dangerous to generalize," Sophie told them, "but I think most guests will respect the village, and the festival will bring work for everyone."
“以偏概全是危险的，”索菲对他们说，“但我认为大多数客人会尊重这个村子，而且节日会给每个人都带来活计。”

In the end, both sides agreed, and the Ministry of Culture gave the village money to repair the castle.
最终，双方都同意了，文化部还拨款给村里修缮古堡。

The festival was a terrific success: the choir sang a new song, the ballet class performed a dance, and a guitarist played the same three chords until everyone was singing along.
节日办得非常成功：唱诗班唱了一首新歌，芭蕾舞班表演了一支舞蹈，一位吉他手反复弹着同样的三个和弦，直到所有人都跟着唱了起来。

A local writer wrote a satirical comedy about the gang and the deputy mayor, and its lyrics were so funny that people laughed until they cried.

一位本地作家写了一部关于那个团伙和副村长的讽刺喜剧，歌词非常滑稽，人们笑得眼泪都出来了。

There was also a musical quiz for children, and the contestants had to answer questions about the history of the castle, the knight and the empress; the participants were so diverse that the youngest was six and the oldest was eighty.
还有一个面向孩子们的音乐知识竞赛，参赛者要回答有关古堡、骑士和女皇历史的问题；参加的人五花八门，最小的六岁，最大的八十岁。

Children in shirts with red and white stripes ran through the crowd, tickling each other and laughing.
穿着红白条纹衬衫的孩子们在人群中跑来跑去，互相挠痒痒，笑个不停。

The weather was favourable, and the festival ended with fireworks over the castle, which lit up the whole valley.
天公作美，节日在古堡上空的烟花中落下帷幕，烟花照亮了整个山谷。

In the winter, Mr. Bell fell ill: a gland in his neck was swollen, and he had a slight stroke, which made his bad leg even weaker.
冬天，贝尔先生病倒了：他脖子上的一个腺体肿了，还得了轻微的中风，这让他那条坏腿更加无力了。

The doctor said that he needed rest and that the illness had no bearing on his heart, but Sophie still worried.
医生说他需要休息，这病跟他的心脏没有关系，但索菲还是很担心。

She treated him with great sensitivity: she visited him every day, gave his leg a gentle massage, and cooked his favourite soup.
她非常体贴地照顾他：每天去看他，轻轻地给他按摩腿，还给他做他最爱喝的汤。

"You may not be able to prolong my life," he joked, "but you are making it a lot more pleasant."
“你也许没法延长我的寿命，”他开玩笑说，“但你让它变得愉快多了。”

He told her that wealth was only temporal, but goodness lasted forever, and she never forgot those words.
他告诉她，财富只是暂时的，而善良是永恒的，她永远没有忘记这些话。

By the spring he was well again, and she gave him a small room at the inn so that he would not have to live alone; as a pensioner, he was entitled to free medical care, but it was the company he needed most.
到了春天，他康复了，她在客栈给了他一个小房间，这样他就不用一个人住了；作为退休老人，他有权享受免费医疗，但他最需要的是陪伴。

A year later, Sophie received an award from the government for her courage, and a television crew came to film her for the evening news.
一年后，索菲因她的勇气获得了政府颁发的奖项，一个电视摄制组来拍摄她，准备在晚间新闻里播出。

When she saw herself on the screen, she laughed: "I look like a stranger."
当她在屏幕上看到自己时，她笑了：“我看起来像个陌生人。”

Her old employer called and asked if she would return to the laboratory, but she politely said no; she had found a new profession, and she wanted to pursue it.
她以前的老板打电话来，问她是否愿意回实验室，但她礼貌地拒绝了；她找到了一份新职业，她想继续干下去。

She had also learned that problems will always arise, but that a good team and a little chemistry can neutralise almost any danger.
她还明白了，问题总是会出现的，但一个好的团队加上一点“化学反应”，几乎可以化解任何危险。

The output of the inn's kitchen was now so large that she had to hire two young cooks, and she taught them everything she knew.
客栈厨房的出菜量现在非常大，她不得不雇了两个年轻厨师，并把自己会的一切都教给了他们。

She was bound to make mistakes, and the work was hard, but there was no interference from anyone, and there was no more fear in the village.
她难免会犯错，工作也很辛苦，但没有任何人干涉她，村里也不再有恐惧了。

Mia came to visit every month, and she no longer said that Sophie was mad, nor did she talk about selling the inn.
米娅每个月都来看她，她不再说索菲疯了，也不再提卖掉客栈的事。

"It was hell at the beginning," Sophie told her one evening, "but this place has given me more than I ever gave it."
“刚开始的时候简直是地狱，”一天晚上索菲对她说，“但这个地方给我的，比我给它的多得多。”

Presently the stars came out over the castle, and the two sisters sat in silence, enjoying the supreme happiness of a quiet night.
不一会儿，星星出现在古堡上空，姐妹俩静静地坐着，享受着一个宁静夜晚带来的无上幸福。

The bad dream about the dark tunnel never came back, and Sophie was undoubtedly happier than she had been in a decade.
那个关于黑暗隧道的噩梦再也没有出现过，索菲无疑比过去十年里任何时候都要快乐。

How strange it was, she thought, that a real tunnel had helped her get rid of the one in her dreams.
她想，多么奇妙啊，一条真实的地道竟帮她摆脱了梦中的那条隧道。

List 28 The Stolen Cub

被偷走的熊猫幼崽

本篇使用 List 28 单词 267/267 个（加粗处为首次出现）

Lily Moore was a columnist for a big metropolitan newspaper, and she was known for her talent, her strong opinions and her combative style.

莉莉·穆尔是一家大都市报纸的专栏作家，她以才华出众、观点鲜明和咄咄逼人的文风而闻名。

She was confident and fast, but she could be careless with details, and her editor, Mr. Grant, often had to correct her copy.

她自信、敏捷，但有时对细节不够仔细，她的编辑格兰特先生经常得修改她的稿子。

Mr. Grant was an old, reserved man who still used a fax machine, kept a bottle of brandy in his desk, and never let a mistake get into print.

格兰特先生是个沉默寡言的老人，他仍在用传真机，书桌里放着一瓶白兰地，从不让任何错误见报。

He had started as a boy who carried coffee for the reporters, and his advancement had been slow, but he had become a formidable editor whom everybody respected.

他最初是个给记者们端咖啡的男孩，升迁很慢，但他已成为一位令人敬畏、人人尊敬的编辑。

Since the recession began, the newspaper had been in trouble: there had been years of economic stagnation, readers had moved to the web, and the paper was close to bankruptcy.

自从经济衰退开始以来，报社一直陷入困境：经济停滞了好几年，读者都转向了网络，报社濒临破产。

The owners wanted to maximise profits, and they had already made a big reduction in expenditure, closing the offices elsewhere in the country.

报社老板们想把利润最大化，他们已经大幅削减了开支，关闭了国内其他地方的办事处。

They were even planning the conversion of the paper into a free website full of ads, which Mr. Grant thought would be the negation of real journalism.

他们甚至打算把报纸改成一个满是广告的免费网站，格兰特先生认为那将是对真正新闻业的否定。

The morale of the staff was low, and every morning at breakfast Lily wondered whether she would still have a job by noon.

员工们士气低落，每天早上吃早餐时，莉莉都在想到中午她是否还有工作。

She lived on coffee, the only stimulant she needed, and she worked long hours in a dusty office above the printing room.

她靠咖啡度日，那是她唯一需要的提神剂，她在印刷车间楼上一间满是灰尘的办公室里长时间工作。

Lily lived with her younger brother, Sam, who was twelve and wanted to be an astronaut.

莉莉和她的弟弟萨姆住在一起，萨姆十二岁，想当一名宇航员。

He had just won a maths Olympiad at his school, and his room in the attic was full of model rockets, books about the galaxy, and a small glider he had built himself.

他刚在学校的数学奥林匹克竞赛中获奖，他在阁楼上的房间里堆满了火箭模型、关于银河系的书，还有一架他自己制作的小滑翔机。

He found the school curriculum boring, especially English grammar; "Who cares whether a word is a preposition or not?" he would sigh.

他觉得学校的课程很无聊，尤其是英语语法；“谁在乎一个词是不是介词？”他常常叹气说。

He spent hours in the city library, where the librarian, an old friend of their mother's, let him read whatever he wanted.

他在市图书馆里一待就是好几个小时，那里的图书管理员是他们母亲的老朋友，什么书都让他看。

Their neighbour, a carpenter, had helped him make the glider's smooth wooden wings.
他们的邻居是一位木匠，帮他做了滑翔机光滑的木头机翼。

Their parents had died in a car accident, and Lily had raised him through great adversity, so they were very close.
他们的父母死于一场车祸，莉莉在极大的困境中把他抚养长大，所以他们感情很深。

One day in November, Mr. Grant called Lily into his office for a briefing.
十一月的一天，格兰特先生把莉莉叫到他的办公室作一个简短的交代。

"A panda cub has been born at the reserve in the mountains," he said. "It's the first one in sixty years. I want a long, warm story for the weekend, and it's due on Friday."
“山里的保护区出生了一只熊猫幼崽，”他说，“这是六十年来的第一只。我要一篇温暖的长篇报道，周末刊登，星期五交稿。”

Lily was not happy; she thought that animal stories were a soft genre for young reporters, not for a serious columnist like her.
莉莉不太高兴；她认为动物故事是给年轻记者写的软性题材，不适合她这样严肃的专栏作家。

But she could not refuse, so she took Sam with her, because it was a school holiday.
但她不能拒绝，于是她带上了萨姆，因为那时正好是学校放假。

The reserve lay in a remote zone of virgin forest, a long distance from the city.
保护区位于一片原始森林中的偏远地带，离城市很远。

Heavy rain fell on the way, worms covered the road, and by the time they reached the mountains, they were soaked.
路上下起了大雨，路面上爬满了蚯蚓，等他们到达山里时，全身都湿透了。

On the way they passed fields where farmers still used a plow pulled by a bull, ducks swimming in muddy ponds, and beehives in which every hive was painted a different colour.
一路上，他们经过了一片片田野，那里的农民还在用公牛拉犁耕地，鸭子在泥泞的池塘里游着，还有一个个蜂箱，每个蜂箱都涂成了不同的颜色。

Agricultural life here had changed little in a century; the farmers grew pumpkins and eggplants, and children sold candy and lemonade by the road.
这里的农业生活一个世纪以来几乎没有变化；农民们种南瓜和茄子，孩子们在路边卖糖果和柠檬水。

On a hill above the reserve stood the ruins of an old fortification and a temple built by a king a thousand years ago, and every spring people made a pilgrimage there.
保护区上方的一座小山上有一座古老防御工事的遗迹，还有一座一千年前由一位国王修建的寺庙，每年春天人们都会去那里朝圣。

The noble faces of ancient gods were carved in the stone walls, and deep grooves had been worn in the steps by millions of feet.
石墙上刻着古代神灵庄严的面孔，台阶上被千百万双脚踏出了深深的凹槽。

The reserve was run by Professor Ruth Lin, a famous scientist who had specialised in pandas for thirty years.
保护区由林露丝教授负责，她是一位著名的科学家，专门研究熊猫已有三十年。

She was a hospitable woman, and she welcomed them with a cordial smile and a dish of hot noodles.
她是个热情好客的人，带着亲切的笑容迎接他们，还端上了一盘热面条。

She explained that pandas, unlike most bears, do not hibernate, and that their digestion is so poor that they must eat bamboo for most of the day.
她解释说，熊猫与大多数熊不同，它们不冬眠，而且消化能力很差，所以一天中大部分时间都必须吃竹子。

"The origin of the panda goes back millions of years," she said, "and pandas attract visitors from all over the world, but very few people know how hard it is to save them."
“熊猫的起源可以追溯到几百万年前，”她说，“熊猫吸引着世界各地的游客，但很少有人知道拯救它们有多难。”

Her team had used a new methodology to help the pandas breed: they measured the temperature of the forest, analysed the soil, and studied the microscopic changes in the pandas' food.
她的团队采用了一种新的方法来帮助熊猫繁殖：他们测量森林的温度，分析土壤，研究熊猫食物中细微的变化。

They had discovered that the soil was poor in nitrogen, so the bamboo was not healthy, and after a careful calculation they had added natural fertilizer to a fraction of the forest.
他们发现土壤缺氮，所以竹子长得不好；经过仔细计算，他们给一小部分森林施了天然肥料。

"It was a collaborative effort," the professor said. "Scientists, farmers and volunteers all worked together, and we have tried to standardise our methods so that other reserves can copy them."
“这是一次协作的成果，”教授说，“科学家、农民和志愿者都一起努力，我们还尽量把我们的方法标准化，以便其他保护区可以效仿。”

She called it a new paradigm for conservation, and the result was the conception and birth of the cub.
她称之为一种新的保护模式，成果就是这只幼崽的孕育和诞生。

The cub was tiny and hairy, about twenty centimetres long, and when Lily saw it, she felt a profound emotion she had not expected.
这只幼崽很小，毛茸茸的，大约二十厘米长，莉莉看到它时，感受到一种出乎意料的深深感动。

It was the embodiment of everything that was fragile and precious in the world.
它是世界上一切脆弱而珍贵之物的化身。

Every eye in the room was on the cub, and nobody dared to make a sound.
屋里每个人的目光都落在幼崽身上，谁也不敢出声。

One of the volunteers was Clara Vance, a young heiress from a wealthy family, who wore an old sweater and had polished boots instead of jewels and velvet.
志愿者中有一位名叫克拉拉·万斯的年轻女继承人，她来自一个富裕家庭，穿着一件旧毛衣和一双擦得锃亮的靴子，而不是珠宝和天鹅绒。

She played the guitar and the piano, and in the evenings she played old romantic songs while Sam played the recorder and the guards beat a drum.
她会弹吉他和钢琴，晚上她弹奏老式的浪漫歌曲，萨姆吹竖笛，警卫们打鼓。

There was a lot of laughter and merriment, and Lily began to understand why people chose to live in such a place.
那里充满了欢声笑语，莉莉开始明白为什么有人会选择住在这样的地方。

But on the third night, disaster struck.
但在第三天晚上，灾难发生了。

That evening most of the guards had gone to a bar in the town to celebrate the cub's birth, and only one old guard stayed at the reserve.
那天晚上，大部分警卫都去镇上的一家酒吧庆祝幼崽的出生了，只有一个老警卫留在保护区。

An intruder broke into the panda house, knocked out the guard, and snatched the cub from its mother.
一个闯入者闯进熊猫馆，打晕了警卫，从熊猫妈妈身边抢走了幼崽。

The guard was found tied up with a coil of rope, and the mother panda was walking around in misery, crying for her baby.
警卫被人发现时身上缠着一圈绳子，熊猫妈妈痛苦地走来走去，呼唤着她的孩子。

The professor sat down and shivered; she could not speak.
教授坐了下来，浑身发抖，说不出话来。

The police came at noon the next day, but they seemed uncertain what to do; the head of the local police seemed to assume that the cub had wandered away, and he was fairly content to call it "an odd accident".
第二天中午警察来了，但他们似乎不知道该怎么办；当地警察局长似乎认定幼崽是自己走失的，还相当满足地称之为“一起奇怪的意外”。

Lily could not tolerate such inertia. "A cub doesn't just run away," she said. "Somebody took it, and somebody wanted it."
莉莉无法容忍这种消极怠惰。“幼崽不会自己跑掉，”她说，“有人偷了它，而且有人想要它。”

The professor was frustrated too, and she begged Lily to help solve the case.
教授也很沮丧，她恳求莉莉帮忙破案。

Her gut told her that this was not the act of a single thief but part of something bigger.
她的直觉告诉她，这不是一个小偷的单独行为，而是更大的事情的一部分。

She called Mr. Grant. "Forget the warm story," she said. "I want to write about animal trafficking."
她给格兰特先生打电话。“别管那篇温暖的报道了，”她说，“我想写动物走私。”

There was a long pause, and then he said, "Be careful. People in that business are dangerous. Don't underestimate them."
电话那头沉默了很久，然后他说：“小心点。干那一行的人很危险。不要低估他们。”

Lily learned that the trafficking of rare animals had become a big business since the coup d'etat in the neighbouring country.
莉莉了解到，自从邻国发生军事政变以来，珍稀动物走私已经成了一桩大生意。

The army there had seized power, the president had been assassinated, and the disruption had caused havoc along the border.
那里的军队夺取了政权，总统遭到暗杀，这场动乱在边境一带造成了极大的混乱。

There was almost no enforcement of the law, and a rich collector abroad would pay a fabulous sum for a panda cub; the desirability of rare animals to such people was absolute.
法律几乎得不到执行，而国外的富有收藏家愿意为一只熊猫幼崽支付一笔惊人的钱；对这种人来说，珍稀动物具有绝对的吸引力。

It took Lily a day to orient herself in the narrow streets of the town, and then she spent days talking to everyone, and finally she found an informant: an old barber who knew everybody's secrets.
莉莉花了一天时间才在镇上狭窄的街道里摸清方向，之后她连续几天和每个人交谈，最后她找到了一个线人：一个知道所有人秘密的老理发师。

At first he looked at her antagonistically and refused to talk, but on the third night there was a quiet rap at her door, and he confided in her.
起初他带着敌意看着她，拒绝开口，但到了第三天夜里，她的门上响起了轻轻的敲门声，他向她吐露了实情。

"There's a warehouse near the old airport," he whispered. "Trucks go in and out at night. It used to be a match factory, and it still smells of sulphur."
“旧机场附近有一个仓库，”他低声说，“卡车夜里进进出出。那里以前是火柴厂，现在还有一股硫黄味。”

He also said that the warehouse was owned by Victor Crane, a wealthy businessman who was the governor's brother-in-law.
他还说，那个仓库归维克多·克雷恩所有，他是一个富有的商人，也是州长的妹夫。

Lily knew that this was a dangerous allegation: Governor Hart was a powerful conservative politician, and many people believed that his party had rigged the last election.
莉莉知道这是一项危险的指控：哈特州长是一位很有权势的保守派政治家，很多人认为他的政党在上次选举中做了手脚。

She had no conclusive evidence, and without it, no editor would dare to publish the story.
她没有确凿的证据，没有证据，没有哪个编辑敢发表这篇报道。

Lily called Max, an old classmate from university who now worked for the customs service at the airport.
莉莉给马克斯打了电话，他是她的大学同学，现在在机场海关工作。

Max listened to her and said, "Customs can't search a private warehouse unless we have a reason. Get me something real."
马克斯听她说完后说：“除非我们有理由，否则海关不能搜查私人仓库。给我一些实实在在的东西。”

It was Sam who had the idea. "My glider has a camera," he said. "I can fly it overhead and take pictures without anyone seeing me."
想出办法的是萨姆。“我的滑翔机上有摄像头，”他说，“我可以让它从上空飞过去拍照，不会有人看到我。”

Lily hesitated, because she did not want to involve her brother in something dangerous, but he promised to stay far away.
莉莉犹豫了，因为她不想把弟弟卷进危险的事情里，但他保证会离得远远的。

The next evening, from a field two kilometres away, Sam sent his glider upwards into the grey sky, and it circled over the warehouse while he held the controls with a firm grip.
第二天傍晚，萨姆在两公里外的一片田野上把滑翔机放上灰色的天空，它在仓库上空盘旋，他紧紧握着遥控器。

The pictures were clear: men were loading wooden boxes into a truck, and one of the boxes had small holes in it, as if something inside needed air.
照片很清楚：一些人正在往一辆卡车上装木箱，其中一个箱子上有一些小孔，好像里面的东西需要透气。

In another picture, a man in a helmet was carrying a box labelled "Agricultural Tools" toward a truck that said "Fresh Vegetables".
在另一张照片里，一个戴头盔的人正把一个标着“农具”的箱子搬向一辆写着“新鲜蔬菜”的卡车。

That night someone threw a stone through Lily's window, and a note was tied to it: "Stop, or your brother will be next."
那天夜里，有人往莉莉的窗户里扔了一块石头，上面绑着一张纸条：“住手，否则下一个就是你弟弟。”

It was clear intimidation, and Lily felt a momentary wish to give up and go home.
这显然是恐吓，莉莉一时间想放弃回家。

She lingered at the window for a long time, brooding over what to do, and her conscience would not let her stop.
她在窗前久久徘徊，苦苦思索该怎么办，她的良心不允许她停下来。

"If I stop now," she told Sam, "they will win, and they will do it again."

“如果我现在停下来，”她对萨姆说，“他们就赢了，而且他们还会再干。”

She sent Sam to stay with Clara, whose family house had strong walls and guards, and she sent the photos to Max.
她把萨姆送到克拉拉那里住，克拉拉家的房子墙壁坚固，还有警卫，她又把照片发给了马克斯。

Max showed them to his chief, and the outcome was immediate: customs officers and the national police would coordinate a raid that very night.
马克斯把照片给他的上司看，结果立竿见影：海关官员和国家警察将协同在当晚进行突击搜查。

Lily was not supposed to be there, but she followed the police cars at a distance.
莉莉本不应该在场，但她远远地跟在警车后面。

The tension was terrible as the officers waited in the dark and watched smoke rise from the warehouse chimney; then, at a signal from the officer in command, the lights of a dozen police cars flashed and dazzled the men in the warehouse.
警察们在黑暗中等待，看着烟从仓库的烟囱里冒出来，气氛非常紧张；接着，随着指挥官发出信号，十几辆警车的灯光同时闪亮，照得仓库里的人睁不开眼。

One man pulled out a knife with a long blade, but an officer used pepper spray, disarmed him and threw a net over him.
一个人拔出一把长刀，但一名警察用胡椒喷雾制服了他，缴了他的械，又用一张网把他罩住。

Another man shouted an obscenity and tried to hit an officer with a whip, but he was clumsy, and he fell over a pile of scrap metal.
另一个人骂了一句脏话，想用鞭子抽一名警察，但他笨手笨脚，被一堆废金属绊倒了。

"You idiot!" his confederate shouted, but a moment later he was caught too.
“你这个白痴！”他的同伙大喊，但片刻之后他也被抓住了。

Inside the warehouse, among boxes of eggplants and a loaf of old bread, the officers found the cub, sleeping in a box lined with old clothing.
在仓库里，在一箱箱茄子和一条不新鲜的面包之间，警察们找到了那只幼崽，它正睡在一个垫着旧衣服的箱子里。

Max carried it out, and Lily could not stop her tears; it was cold and hungry, but it was alive.
马克斯把它抱了出来，莉莉忍不住流下了眼泪；它又冷又饿，但还活着。

There were other animals too: rare birds, a young tiger and a box of tortoises, all waiting for delivery to buyers abroad.
那里还有其他动物：珍稀鸟类、一只小老虎和一箱乌龟，都在等着运给国外的买家。

The warehouse was not the only target; that same night, the police also searched Crane's house, and the whole team felt victorious.
仓库并不是唯一的目标；同一天晚上，警察还搜查了克雷恩的家，整个团队都有一种胜利的感觉。

The next morning, Lily's story was on the front page under the headline "The Stolen Cub", and although the paper printed an extra hundred thousand copies, every possible copy was sold out by noon.
第二天早上，莉莉的报道以“被偷走的熊猫幼崽”为标题登上了头版，尽管报社加印了十万份，到中午还是全部卖光了。

Mr. Grant read it twice, poured himself a glass of brandy, and said only, "Good. Not a single mistake."
格兰特先生读了两遍，给自己倒了一杯白兰地，只说了一句：“很好。一个错误都没有。”

Victor Crane, a key player in the network, was arrested, and the police found records of the trafficking network in his office; allegedly, he had sold animals to collectors in eight countries.
维克多·克雷恩是这个网络中的关键人物，他被捕了，警察在他的办公室里找到了走私网络的记录；据称，他曾把动物卖给八个国家的收藏家。

The governor said that he knew nothing about it, and he tried to persuade the public that he was being persecuted by the press.
州长说他对此一无所知，还试图让公众相信他正遭到新闻界的迫害。

But his own housing minister had been a partner in the warehouse, and it soon became impossible for him to lie.
但他自己的住房部长就是那个仓库的合伙人，他很快就无法再撒谎了。

Lily's evidence was convincing, and the tide of public opinion turned against him.
莉莉的证据令人信服，公众舆论的潮流转而对他不利。

The state decided to prosecute Crane and his partners, and a parliamentary committee was set up to evaluate how the trafficking had been allowed to grow.
国家决定起诉克雷恩及其合伙人，议会还成立了一个委员会，评估走私活动是如何得以发展壮大的。

Lily made a long submission to the committee, with an outline of everything she had found, and her interpretation of the evidence was accepted in every detail.
莉莉向委员会提交了一份长篇材料，概述了她所发现的一切，她对证据的解读在每个细节上都被采纳了。

As a result, the parliament passed a new law to curb the trade in wild animals.
结果，议会通过了一项遏制野生动物贸易的新法律。

It made it a crime to possess a rare wild animal, put new restrictions on the transport of animals, restricted the entry of foreign trucks at night, and paid for the enhancement of security at every reserve.
它规定拥有珍稀野生动物属于犯罪，对动物运输施加了新的限制，限制外国卡车夜间入境，并拨款加强每个保护区的安保。

Governor Hart tried to veto the law, saying that it would destroy the farmers' trade, but the parliament rejected his veto, and in the next election people cast their votes against him.
哈特州长试图否决这项法律，声称它会毁掉农民的生意，但议会驳回了他的否决，在下一次选举中，人们都投票反对他。

His rival, a young woman who promised to fight corruption, won easily, and the old establishment began to collapse.
他的竞争对手——一位承诺要打击腐败的年轻女性——轻松获胜，旧的权势集团开始瓦解。

She said that the government's mentality had to change: "We cannot globalise the economy and leave our borders open to crime."
她说政府的思维方式必须改变："我们不能一边让经济全球化，一边让边境对犯罪敞开大门。"

The neighbouring country, which had been accused of protecting the traffickers, said that it would remain neutral, but a few months later the two countries signed an accord to normalize relations and fight the trade together.
那个被指责包庇走私者的邻国表示将保持中立，但几个月后，两国签署了一项协议，使两国关系正常化，并共同打击走私活动。

Experts said that the illegal wildlife trade was part of a global black market worth more than a trillion dollars, and that only firm action could prevent another disaster.
专家们说，非法野生动物贸易是一个价值超过一万亿美元的全球黑市的一部分，只有采取坚决行动才能防止再次发生灾难。

Firstly, the success saved the newspaper: sales went up, the owners stopped talking about bankruptcy, and the paper was able to acquire a new website.
首先，这次成功挽救了报社：报纸销量上升，老板们不再谈论破产，报社还得以购置了一个新网站。

Lily was offered a job by a rival paper, but she said no; Mr. Grant had stood by her, and she wanted to repay him.
一家竞争对手的报社请莉莉去工作，但她拒绝了；格兰特先生一直支持她，她想报答他。

She also became less careless; since the case, she checked every detail twice, just as Mr. Grant did, and she finally understood why he cared so much.
她也不再那么粗心了；从这件案子以后，她每个细节都检查两遍，就像格兰特先生那样，她终于明白了他为什么那么在意。

Sam received a prize for his help, and a film studio made a short animation about a boy who saves a panda with his glider.
萨姆因为他的帮助获得了一个奖项，一家电影制片厂还制作了一部动画短片，讲一个男孩用他的滑翔机救出一只熊猫的故事。

He was triumphant, and he told everyone that he would build a real rocket one day, possibly with Clara's money.
他得意扬扬，告诉每个人他总有一天要造一枚真正的火箭，可能会用上克拉拉的钱。

Clara laughed. "First learn your prepositions," she said, "and then we'll talk about rockets."
克拉拉笑了。“先把你的介词学好，”她说，“然后我们再谈火箭的事。”

The cub was returned to the reserve, and the professor gave it the name "Hope".
幼崽被送回了保护区，教授给它取名叫“希望”。

It needed a lot of care at first, and the vets treated it every day, but within a few weeks it was healthy again.
起初它需要大量的照料，兽医们每天给它治疗，但几个星期之内它就恢复了健康。

The professor said that the maintenance of a stable population would take decades, but that it was certainly feasible if people continued to help; "We will strive to make it possible," she said, "but the hard work is still ahead."
教授说，维持一个稳定的种群需要几十年，但只要人们继续提供帮助，这当然是可行的；“我们会努力让它成为可能，”她说，“但艰苦的工作还在后头。”

The reserve received a new charter from the government, a supply of money for ten years, and a new research center where students could specialise in wildlife.
保护区从政府那里获得了一份新的特许状、十年的资金供应，还有一个新的研究中心，学生们可以在那里专攻野生动物研究。

Every November there is now a yearly festival of remembrance for the cub's rescue, with music, food, riotous laughter and a children's parade.
现在每年十一月都会举行一年一度的纪念活动，纪念幼崽获救，有音乐、美食、阵阵哄笑和儿童游行。

The farmers bring pumpkins and honey, the children drink litres of lemonade, and Clara plays the piano while the old barber, who has become a local hero, tells the story again and again.
农民们带来南瓜和蜂蜜，孩子们喝下一升又一升的柠檬水，克拉拉弹奏钢琴，而那位成了当地英雄的老理发师则一遍又一遍地讲述这个故事。

Nobody wants to spoil his fun, though each version of his story varies a little, and his own role in it seems to grow every year.
谁也不想扫他的兴，尽管他每次讲的版本都略有不同，而他自己在故事中的作用似乎每年都在变大。

Lily often goes back to visit, and on those evenings she sits outside with a fork and a plate of noodles, watching Hope climb trees in the moonlight.

莉莉常常回去探望，在那些夜晚，她拿着叉子、端着一盘面条坐在外面，看着“希望”在月光下爬树。

She could not foresee, on that first day in Mr. Grant's office, that a soft animal story would turn into the most important case of her life.

在格兰特先生办公室的第一天，她无法预见，一篇软性的动物报道竟会变成她一生中最重要的案件。

She knows now that big stories often begin with small, elementary questions: Who wanted it? Who paid? Who else knew?

她现在知道了，重大的报道往往始于一些简单而基本的问题：谁想要它？谁付的钱？还有谁知道？

Her objective as a writer had always been to tell the truth, but now she also wanted to protect the things that could not speak for themselves.

作为一名写作者，她的目标一直是讲出真相，而现在，她还想保护那些无法为自己发声的事物。

"We did it," she says to young reporters who ask her about it, and she points at the young panda in the tree. "Not me alone. All of us."

当年轻记者问起这件事时，她总是说：“我们做到了。”她指着树上的那只年轻熊猫，“不是我一个人，是我们所有人。”

List 29 The Novelist's Missing Manuscript

小说家失踪的手稿

本篇使用 List 29 单词 267/267 个（加粗处为首次出现）

Detective Anna Price had worked for the city police for eight years, and she had a reputation for being stubborn, patient and very hard to mislead.

安娜·普赖斯探长在市警察局工作了八年，她以固执、有耐心、很难被误导而出名。

Before she joined the police, she had studied genetic science at university, and her specialisation in the analysis of human tissue made her unique among her colleagues.

加入警队之前，她在大学里学的是遗传科学，她专攻人体组织分析，这让她在同事中独树一帜。

Her method was simple: first check the facts, then deduce, and never pretend to know what you don't know.

她的方法很简单：先核查事实，然后推理，永远不要假装知道自己不知道的东西。

One morning in March, her commander called her into his office.

三月的一天早上，她的上司把她叫进办公室。

"Have you heard of Oliver Grey, the novelist?" he asked.

“你听说过小说家奥利弗·格雷吗？”他问。

Of course she had: his novel "The Last Spaceship", about a spacecraft propelled by sunlight, had been a best-seller in forty countries.

她当然听说过：他的小说《最后的宇宙飞船》讲的是一艘靠阳光推进的航天器，在四十个国家都是畅销书。

"Someone has stolen the manuscript of his new book," the commander said. "He lives on Palm Island, in the tropics. I want you to go there tonight."

“有人偷走了他新书的手稿，”上司说，“他住在热带的棕榈岛上。我要你今晚就去那里。”

Anna packed a few clothes, a sweater and her mobile phone, and she took the night boat to the island.

安娜收拾了几件衣服、一件毛衣和她的手机，乘夜班船去了那座岛。

The sea was rough, and the boat rolled from side to side, but Anna sat on the deck in the cool breeze and watched the lights of the island grow closer.

海上风浪很大，船左右摇晃，但安娜坐在甲板上吹着凉爽的微风，看着岛上的灯光越来越近。

Palm Island was a small, beautiful place: a green volcano with a round dome rose in the middle of it, and the landscape was full of palm trees, white beaches and blue water where dolphins played.

棕榈岛是一个美丽的小地方：岛中央耸立着一座绿色的火山，山顶是圆形的穹顶，到处是棕榈树、白色的沙滩，还有海豚嬉戏的蓝色海水。

According to an old myth, a fire god lived underground beneath the volcano, and whenever he was angry, he threw ash into the sky.

根据一个古老的神话，一位火神住在火山下的地底深处，每当他发怒时，就会把火山灰抛向天空。

For the islanders the mountain was a spiritual place, and they left flowers at its foot every week.

对岛民们来说，这座山是一个神圣的地方，他们每周都在山脚下献上鲜花。

Because of its geographic position, the island was often hit by storms, and the onset of the rainy season was always a time of dread.

由于地理位置的原因，这座岛经常遭受风暴袭击，雨季的来临总是让人心生恐惧。

The island also had a long and painful history.

这座岛还有一段漫长而痛苦的历史。

For two centuries it had been under the reign of foreign princes, and the local people had lived in oppression and subordination.
两个世纪以来，它一直处在外国王公的统治之下，当地人生活在压迫和屈从之中。

In the small town museum Anna later saw coins from the old coinage of the princes, and portraits of the nobility in gold frames.
后来安娜在镇上的小博物馆里看到了王公时代旧币制的硬币，还有装在金色画框里的贵族肖像。

Later, a separatist movement led by a colonel fought for independence, and the war was devastating; thousands of people were displaced from their homes.
后来，一个由一位上校领导的分离主义运动为独立而战，那场战争是毁灭性的，成千上万的人被迫离开家园。

The war finally ended with a treaty after long negotiation, although some historians said that the treaty was not equitable and was really an act of appeasement by the big powers.
经过长期谈判，战争最终以一项条约结束，不过一些历史学家说这项条约并不公平，实际上是大国的一种绥靖行为。

Since the advent of tourism, the island had lived on visitors and handicraft, and the women in the central market sold baskets and jewellery made of shells as white as ivory.
自从旅游业兴起以来，这座岛就靠游客和手工艺品为生，中心市场上的妇女们出售篮子和用象牙般洁白的贝壳做成的首饰。

The demographic changes of recent years were obvious: the young people wanted to urbanise the island, while the old people wanted to keep it as it was, and school enrollment had fallen because so many families had left.
近年来人口结构的变化很明显：年轻人想让岛屿城市化，而老人们想保持原样；由于很多家庭离开了，学校的入学人数也下降了。

New hotels had begun to sprawl along the coast, but island society was still traditional and not at all permissive, and the old people looked at the tourists' short clothes with disapproval.
新酒店开始沿着海岸杂乱地扩展开来，但岛上的社会仍然很传统，一点也不开放，老人们对游客们的短衣短裤很看不惯。

Oliver Grey lived in a large white house on a hill above the sea, with a terrace, a big lawn and a fence around the garden.
奥利弗·格雷住在海边山丘上一座白色的大房子里，有一个露台、一大片草坪，花园四周围着篱笆。

He was seventy, gentle and a little sleepy, and he walked around the house in his slippers with a stick.
他七十岁了，性情温和，总有点昏昏欲睡，他拄着拐杖、穿着拖鞋在屋里走动。

But when he was writing, he was so absorbed in his work that he often forgot to eat.
但他写作时会全神贯注，常常忘了吃饭。

He was recovering from a bad influenza, which he had caught during an outbreak on the island; his doctor had given him an antibiotic for a chest infection, and he came every week to check his blood and urine.
他在岛上一次流感暴发时染上了重感冒，现在正在康复；医生给他开了抗生素治疗胸部感染，每周都来检查他的血液和尿液。

He had a son, Leo, who was a musician and played the violin in an orchestra, and who had come home to look after him.
他有一个儿子叫利奥，是一名音乐家，在一个管弦乐团拉小提琴，他回家来照顾父亲。

The housekeeper, Mrs. Ross, had worked for the family for thirty years; her daughter, who had studied linguistics and had written a pamphlet about the island's old language, was in the last month of her pregnancy.

管家罗斯太太为这家人工作了三十年；她的女儿学的是语言学，写过一本介绍岛上古老语言的小册子，现在正处于怀孕的最后一个月。

There was also a young secretary, Daniel, whom Mr. Grey had employed for three years; he typed the novelist's work on a computer, ran his errands and managed his website.

家里还有一位年轻的秘书丹尼尔，格雷先生雇用他已经三年了；他负责把小说家的作品输入电脑、替他跑腿，还管理他的网站。

Daniel always wore a tie, he was polite and charming, and he liked to socialise with the tourists in the hotel bar.

丹尼尔总是系着领带，彬彬有礼，很有魅力，喜欢在酒店酒吧里和游客们交往。

Mr. Grey received Anna in the living-room, a large room with shelves full of books, an old encyclopedia, and a big analogue clock that ticked loudly.

格雷先生在客厅里接待了安娜，这是一间很大的屋子，书架上摆满了书，有一套旧百科全书，还有一座滴答作响的大指针钟。

"It is an honor to meet you," Anna said, and the old man smiled sadly.

“能见到您是我的荣幸。”安娜说，老人悲伤地笑了笑。

"I have been writing this book for five years," he said. "It's the last story of my life, and I wrote it by hand. There is no copy."

“这本书我写了五年，”他说，“这是我一生中最后一个故事，是我亲手写的。没有副本。”

The importance of the book to him was obvious; his hands were shaking as he spoke.

这本书对他有多重要是显而易见的；他说话时双手都在发抖。

"The labour of five years has gone, and I feel as if I am grieving for a child."

“五年的心血没了，我觉得就像在为一个孩子哀悼。”

The manuscript had been kept in a wooden box on his desk, and it had disappeared on Saturday night, while everyone was at a barbecue on the beach.

手稿一直放在他书桌上的一个木盒里，星期六晚上大家都在海滩上烧烤时，它不见了。

The box had belonged to his late wife, and he kept his most precious things in it.

这个盒子是他已故妻子的，他把自己最珍贵的东西都放在里面。

The strange thing was that the box was not empty: someone had made a substitution, putting old newspapers in place of the manuscript, so the theft was not discovered until the next morning.

奇怪的是，盒子并不是空的：有人搞了个调包，用旧报纸替换了手稿，所以直到第二天早上才发现手稿被偷了。

The disappearance had already caused a sensation; a correspondent from a national newspaper had arrived, and the publisher, who had scheduled the publication for the autumn, was calling every hour.

手稿的失踪已经引起了轰动；一家全国性报纸的记者已经赶到，原计划在秋天出版这本书的出版商每小时都打来电话。

Anna began with the house, and she spent the first day trying to familiarize herself with every room.

安娜从房子入手，第一天她试图熟悉每一个房间。

There was no sign of a burglary from outside: the doors had been locked, and the windows were closed, and there was no electronic alarm.

没有从外面入室盗窃的迹象：门是锁着的，窗户关着，也没有电子警报器。

"So, either the thief had a key, or the thief was someone with an intimate knowledge of this house," she said.
“所以，要么小偷有钥匙，要么小偷对这座房子了如指掌。”她说。

In the study she found a few clues, but they seemed superficial: a feather from a cushion, a moldy biscuit under the desk, and a paper napkin with a little tomato sauce on it.
在书房里她发现了几条线索，但看起来都无关紧要：一根靠垫里的羽毛、桌子底下一块发了霉的饼干，还有一张沾着一点番茄酱的纸巾。

On the lawn outside, under the study window, there were footprints in the dirt, and they led to a small door in the fence, whose lock was defective.
书房窗户下面的草坪外有一些留在泥土里的脚印，一直通向篱笆上的一扇小门，那扇门的锁是坏的。

Anna photographed every footprint, and when she measured them, she noticed something odd: they were much deeper than normal, as if someone had pressed them into the ground on purpose.
安娜给每个脚印都拍了照，测量时她注意到一个奇怪的地方：脚印比正常的深得多，好像有人故意把它们踩进地里的。

She reckoned that it was a deception: the thief wanted everyone to believe that a stranger had entered from outside.
她估计这是个骗局：小偷想让所有人相信是一个陌生人从外面进来的。

In the wastebasket she found a used tissue, and she remembered that the house had a cat, a big lazy one called Prince.
她在废纸篓里发现了一张用过的纸巾，她想起这家里有一只猫，一只又大又懒、名叫“王子”的猫。

"Is anyone in this house allergic to cats?" she asked.
“这家里有人对猫过敏吗？”她问。

"Only Daniel," said Mrs. Ross. "He sneezes all day long, poor boy, but he never complains."
“只有丹尼尔，”罗斯太太说，“他整天打喷嚏，可怜的孩子，但他从不抱怨。”

Anna interviewed everyone in turn.
安娜依次询问了每一个人。

She was a good judge of character, and over the years she had gained a deep insight into the way people behave when they are afraid.
她很善于看人，多年来她对人们害怕时的表现有了深刻的洞察。

The repetition of the clock's loud ticking made the living-room feel even more tense.
时钟一遍又一遍响亮的滴答声，让客厅里的气氛显得更加紧张。

Leo was nervous, and his shyness made him look guilty, but Anna knew that this was only a stereotype: shy people are not more likely to lie than others.
利奥很紧张，他的腼腆让他看起来像是做贼心虚，但安娜知道这只是一种刻板印象：害羞的人并不比别人更爱撒谎。

He said that he had been at the barbecue all evening, eating hamburgers, playing the violin to entertain the guests, and acting as the referee in a football game on the beach; twenty people had seen him.
他说他整个晚上都在烧烤会上，吃汉堡、拉小提琴给客人们助兴，还在沙滩上的一场足球赛中当裁判；有二十个人看见了他。

Mrs. Ross had been in the kitchen of a beach café with her daughter, stirring a big pan of fish in a tasty sauce for the party.
罗斯太太和她女儿一直待在海滩咖啡馆的厨房里，为聚会搅拌着一大锅浇着美味酱汁的鱼。

Daniel said that he had gone back to the house alone at nine o'clock to fetch more ice from the fridge, but that he had stayed there only a few minutes. "Anyway, I was back at the beach in ten minutes," he said.

丹尼尔说，九点钟他一个人回过房子，去冰箱里多拿些冰块，但他只在那里待了几分钟。“反正，我十分钟后就回到海滩了。”他说。

He spoke calmly, but he kept poking at the ice in his glass, chewing his lip and sucking on a sweet, and he did not look at her once.

他说话很镇定，但他不停地戳着杯子里的冰块，咬着嘴唇，嘴里含着一颗糖，一次也没有看她。

He gave her his assurance that he had seen nothing unusual. "I would never do anything to hurt Mr. Grey," he said. "He has been like a father to me."

他向她保证自己没看到任何异常。“我绝不会做任何伤害格雷先生的事，”他说，“他就像我的父亲一样。”

Anna calculated the time carefully: the walk from the beach to the house took ten minutes, and the substitution of the papers would have taken only a few minutes more.

安娜仔细地计算了时间：从海滩走到房子要十分钟，而调换文件只需要再多几分钟。

She sent the tissue to the police laboratory in the city; with modern computation, the lab could compare the genetic molecules from the nucleus of a single cell with a sample from a suspect within a day.

她把纸巾送到了城里的警察实验室；借助现代计算技术，实验室能在一天之内把单个细胞核里的遗传分子与嫌疑人的样本进行比对。

But before the result could arrive, the story took a twist: the volcano woke up.

但还没等结果出来，事情就出现了转折：火山苏醒了。

Early on Monday morning the ground shook, and a column of ash rose from the dome of the volcano.

星期一一大早，大地震动，一股火山灰柱从火山的穹顶升起。

The eruption was not large, but the government decided to evacuate the towns near the mountain, and the police had to mobilise every officer on the island.

这次喷发规模不大，但政府决定疏散火山附近的城镇，警方不得不动员岛上的每一名警察。

The army sent boats to facilitate the evacuation.

军队派来了船只协助疏散。

The evacuation was full of confusion: people ran in all directions, roads were blocked, and the sky turned dark at noon.

疏散过程一片混乱：人们四处奔跑，道路被堵，中午时分天空就暗了下来。

There was intermittent rain, the ash turned into grey mud, and its permeation into every house and every machine made life very hard.

雨时下时停，火山灰变成了灰色的泥浆，渗进了每一座房子和每一台机器，让生活变得非常艰难。

In spite of the danger, Anna helped the local police until the evening, carrying old people to the boats and organising buses, and by night most families had reached their respective shelters.

尽管危险，安娜还是一直帮助当地警察到傍晚，把老人们抬到船上，安排公共汽车；到了夜里，大多数家庭都到达了各自的避难所。

In the confusion, nobody noticed that Daniel had disappeared.

在一片混乱中，谁也没有注意到丹尼尔不见了。

Then Mrs. Ross told Anna that she had seen him leave on his bicycle with a bag on his shoulder.

后来罗斯太太告诉安娜，她看见他肩上背着一个包，骑着自行车走了。

Anna ran to the port, where a freight ship and an oil tanker were about to leave, and workers were loading the last containers.
安娜跑到港口，那里有一艘货船和一艘油轮正要起航，工人们正在装运最后几个集装箱。

The water was full of foam, barrels and pieces of rope, and the flags on the ships flapped in the wind.
水面上漂满了泡沫、木桶和一截截绳子，船上的旗帜在风中呼啦啦地飘动。

Then she spotted a shadow moving between the containers: it was Daniel, trying to climb onto the freight ship.
接着她发现集装箱之间有一个影子在移动：是丹尼尔，他正想爬上那艘货船。

The confrontation was short. "It's over, Daniel," she said. "Give me the bag."
对峙很短暂。“结束了，丹尼尔，”她说，“把包给我。”

For a moment he looked as if he would run, but then his shoulders dropped, and he surrendered.
有那么一会儿，他看起来像是要跑，但随后他的肩膀垂了下来，他投降了。

In the bag were the manuscript, wrapped in a plastic sheet to protect it from moisture, an electric shaver, and a wallet full of foreign money.
包里有那份用塑料布包着以防受潮的手稿、一把电动剃须刀，还有一个装满外币的钱包。

At the police office, Daniel told the whole story.
在警察局里，丹尼尔交代了全部经过。

He earned a decent wage, but he had incurred large debts, because he had a habitual love of gambling, and his wage and allowance could not support it; inflation on the island was high, and every month he fell deeper into trouble.
他的收入还算体面，但他欠下了巨额债务，因为他嗜赌成性，他的工资和津贴根本支撑不起；岛上的通货膨胀率很高，他每个月都陷得更深。

A notorious collector of rare books had offered him a lot of money for the manuscript, because a handwritten book by a famous novelist would be a rarity worth more than gold.
一个臭名昭著的珍本书收藏家出一大笔钱要买这份手稿，因为一位著名小说家的手写书稿会是比黄金还值钱的稀罕物。

But the money would only materialise when the manuscript arrived safely abroad, so he had to take it there himself.
但这笔钱只有在手稿安全运到国外后才会兑现，所以他只好亲自把它带过去。

He had conspired with the collector for months, and on the night of the barbecue he had entered the study, made the substitution, and pressed the false footprints into the dirt to mislead the police.
他和那个收藏家合谋了好几个月，在烧烤那天晚上，他进入书房调了包，又在泥土上踩出假脚印来误导警方。

But the cat had been sleeping on the desk, and in his hurry he had sneezed and left a tissue behind.
但那只猫当时正睡在书桌上，他在慌乱中打了个喷嚏，留下了一张纸巾。

The next day the lab result arrived and confirmed it: the genetic material on the tissue was his.
第二天实验室的结果出来了，证实了这一点：纸巾上的遗传物质就是他的。

Mr. Grey sighed when he heard the news. "He was a wolf in sheep's clothing," he said, "and I never saw it."
格雷先生听到这个消息时叹了口气。“他是一只披着羊皮的狼，”他说，“而我从来没有看出来。”

Daniel's deceit had lasted for months, and nobody in the house had suspected him.
丹尼尔的欺骗持续了好几个月，家里没有一个人怀疑过他。

In the court proceedings a few months later, Daniel's lawyer argued in his defence that he had acted on impulse, and that the severity of his punishment should be limited.
几个月后的庭审中，丹尼尔的律师为他辩护说，他是一时冲动，对他的惩罚应该从轻。

But the judge said that the crime had been carefully planned, and that the court must uphold the law irrespective of the thief's personal problems.
但法官说，这起犯罪是经过精心策划的，法庭必须维护法律，不管小偷个人有什么问题。

"In the context of his debts, his crime is easy to understand," the judge said, "but it is not easy to excuse."
“联系到他的债务来看，他的罪行不难理解，”法官说，“但不容易原谅。”

The judge also explained some of the niceties of the law to the jury, including the difference between a crime of impulse and a planned one.
法官还向陪审团解释了一些法律上的细微之处，包括冲动犯罪和预谋犯罪之间的区别。

Daniel was sent to prison for two years, and the collector, who had amassed a huge collection of stolen books, was imprisoned for much longer.
丹尼尔被判入狱两年，而那个收藏了大量被盗书籍的收藏家被判了更长的刑期。

During his confinement, Daniel wrote Mr. Grey a long letter of apology, and the old man answered it.
在服刑期间，丹尼尔给格雷先生写了一封长长的道歉信，老人给他回了信。

Mr. Grey asked the court to show mercy to Daniel: "He violated my trust, and that was wrong, but he is young, and I don't want his life to be destroyed."
格雷先生请求法庭对丹尼尔宽大处理：“他辜负了我的信任，这是不对的，但他还年轻，我不想毁了他的一生。”

The old man's words were relevant to everyone in the room, because they exemplified a kind of morality that is rare nowadays.
老人的话触动了在场的每一个人，因为它们体现了一种现在已经很少见的道德。

The book was published in the autumn under the title "The Orbital Garden".
这本书在秋天出版，书名为《轨道上的花园》。

It told the story of a spaceship whose crew built a garden under a glass dome, using a deep shaft of sunlight and a machine to neutralize the poison in the air.
它讲述了一艘宇宙飞船的故事，船员们在一个玻璃穹顶下建了一座花园，利用一道深深射入的阳光和一台中和空气中毒素的机器。

In the novel, Mr. Grey envisaged a world where people had learned to live without destroying nature, and the story moved in a loop, ending where it had begun.
在这部小说中，格雷先生设想了一个人们学会了在不破坏自然的情况下生活的世界，故事以一种循环的方式展开，在开始的地方结束。

One review said that it was the best work in the realm of science fiction in a decade, and another said that not a single adjective in it was wasted.
一篇书评说它是十年来科幻领域最好的作品，另一篇说书中没有一个形容词是多余的。

The publisher publicised it all over the world, its sales soon exceeded those of "The Last Spaceship", and critics said that nothing comparable had appeared for years.
出版商在全世界宣传这本书，它的销量很快就超过了《最后的宇宙飞船》，评论家们说多年来没有出现过可与之媲美的作品。

Mr. Grey gave a short presentation of the book in the capital, and a retrospective exhibition of his whole life's work was organised at the national library.

格雷先生在首都为这本书做了一个简短的介绍，国家图书馆还为他一生的作品举办了一次回顾展。

He said that the book had been his pursuit for five years, and that he was lucky to have it back alive.
他说这本书是他五年来的追求，他很幸运能让它“活着”回来。

He gave part of his earnings to the people who had been displaced by the eruption, and he became the biggest donor to a fund to rebuild the island.
他把一部分收入捐给了因火山喷发而流离失所的人，成为岛屿重建基金最大的捐赠者。

The government also gave a grant to beautify the old port, and a consultative committee of islanders was established to administrate the money.
政府还拨了一笔款项来美化老港口，并成立了一个由岛民组成的咨询委员会来管理这笔资金。

The opposition in parliament endorsed the plan, which was a rare reversal of their usual position.
议会里的反对党也支持这项计划，这与他们一贯的立场截然相反，实属罕见。

The publisher was so grateful that he agreed to waive his share of the profits from the island edition of the book.
出版商非常感激，同意放弃这本书岛屿版的利润分成。

Before Anna went home, Mrs. Ross's daughter gave birth to a healthy baby girl, and they asked Anna whether they could name her after the detective.
安娜回家之前，罗斯太太的女儿生下了一个健康的女婴，她们问安娜能不能用这位探长的名字给孩子取名。

Anna was so moved that she could not speak, and Mrs. Ross kissed her on both cheeks.
安娜感动得说不出话来，罗斯太太在她的两颊上各亲了一下。

Leo wed his girlfriend, a skating teacher, in the garden that summer, and Mr. Grey sat on the terrace in his slippers, as happy as a boy.
那年夏天，利奥在花园里和他的女朋友——一位滑冰教练——结了婚，格雷先生穿着拖鞋坐在露台上，开心得像个孩子。

The volcano was quiet again, the ash had drained away into the sea, fruit was abundant in the gardens, and tourists wandered on the beaches once more.
火山又平静了下来，火山灰已经被冲进了大海，花园里水果丰收，游客们又在海滩上漫步了。

On her last evening, Anna sat with Mr. Grey under the palm trees, and he asked her what she had learned from the episode.
在她离开前的最后一个晚上，安娜和格雷先生坐在棕榈树下，他问她从这件事中学到了什么。

"I have learned that the essential clues are often the small ones," she said, "and that a clever thief is never as clever as a cat." "What do you mean?" he asked, and she reminded him of the tissue.
“我学到了，关键的线索往往是那些不起眼的小东西，”她说，“而且一个聪明的小偷永远没有一只猫聪明。”“你这是什么意思？”他问，她提醒他想想那张纸巾。

He laughed, and then he said, "And I have learned the limitations of my own judgement, and that I have an obligation to make copies of my work."
他笑了，然后说：“而我认识到了自己判断力的局限，也明白了我有义务给自己的作品留副本。”

Anna's ticket home was due to expire that night, so she said goodbye, and she could not suppress a smile when the cat followed her to the gate.
安娜回家的船票当晚就要到期了，于是她道了别，当那只猫跟着她走到大门口时，她忍不住笑了。

Many people later asked her to convey the details of the case, but she never understood why they found it so incredible; they thought that detectives were as clever as a fox, but for her it had simply been a question of patience, and of being willing to look at a used tissue.

后来很多人请她讲讲这个案子的细节，但她一直不明白他们为什么觉得这么不可思议；他们以为侦探都像狐狸一样狡猾，但对她来说，这只是一个耐心的问题，以及愿意去看一张用过的纸巾。

List 30 My Father's Bamboo Garden

父亲的竹园

本篇使用 List 30 单词 267/267 个（加粗处为首次出现）

This is the story of my dad, who turned seventy last Thursday.
这是我父亲的故事，他上星期四满七十岁了。

On his birthday he told us that he had finished an autobiographic book, and that he wanted to dedicate it to my mother, who had been at his side for forty-five years.
他生日那天告诉我们，他写完了一本自传体的书，他想把这本书献给我的母亲，她已经陪伴他四十五年了。

I am a photographer, and he asked me to take the picture for its cover.
我是一名摄影师，他让我为这本书的封面拍照片。

While I was helping him to prepare the book, I read every word of it, and I learned more about him than I had learned in my whole life.
在帮他准备这本书的过程中，我读了书里的每一个字，我对他的了解比我这辈子了解到的还要多。

He has had an eventful life, and I want to narrate some pieces of it here, in my own words.
他的一生经历丰富，我想在这里用我自己的话讲述其中的一些片段。

Dad was born in a small village at the foot of a volcanic mountain, where the soil was rich but the people were poor.
父亲出生在一座火山脚下的小村子里，那里土地肥沃，人们却很贫穷。

Most of the men worked in an old coal mine, and his family lived by subsistence farming: they grew wheat and berries, kept a few chickens, and killed a pig only once a year, when the village butcher came to make pork sausages for the winter.
大多数男人都在一个旧煤矿里干活，他家靠自给自足的农业为生：种小麦和浆果，养几只鸡，一年只杀一头猪，那时村里的屠夫会来做过冬吃的猪肉香肠。

Their food was mostly carbohydrate: bread, rice and potatoes; meat was a rare treat, and a piece of chicken breast was kept for guests.
他们吃的主要是碳水化合物：面包、米饭和土豆；肉是难得的美味，一块鸡胸肉要留给客人吃。

One summer a plague of insects destroyed the wheat, and the prevalence of disease in the village was so high that two of his classmates died before they were ten.
有一年夏天，一场虫灾毁了小麦，村里疾病流行得很厉害，他有两个同学不到十岁就死了。

Behind the house there was a meadow full of fragrant flowers and butterflies, and a small forest of bamboo, where he and his brother played and dreamed of faraway places.
屋后有一片长满芬芳花朵、蝴蝶飞舞的草地，还有一小片竹林，他和他的兄弟在那里玩耍，梦想着遥远的地方。

The village had no electric light until he was ten, and in winter the only heating was a wood fire in the kitchen, whose smoke went up a black chimney.
直到他十岁，村里才通了电灯；冬天唯一的取暖靠的是厨房里的柴火，烟从一根黑乎乎的烟囱里冒出去。

His teacher at the village school was a Marxist who believed that communism would civilise the world, and he talked about it in a very earnest way.
他在村小学的老师是一位马克思主义者，他相信共产主义会让世界变得文明，谈起这些时总是非常认真。

Dad did not care much about politics, but he says that the teacher's knowledge and his benevolent heart were invaluable to him.
父亲对政治不太感兴趣，但他说老师的学识和仁慈的心肠对他来说是无价之宝。

It was this teacher who noticed that Dad was exceptional at mathematics, and who helped him win a scholarship to a university in the city.

正是这位老师发现父亲在数学方面才能出众，并帮他赢得了城里一所大学的奖学金。

Dad was the first person in the village to enroll at a university, and on the day he left, his mother cried with both joy and fear.

父亲是村里第一个上大学的人，他离开的那天，他的母亲哭了，既是高兴，也是害怕。

At university he studied engineering, and he received his diploma with the highest marks in his class.

在大学里他学的是工程学，他以全班最高的成绩拿到了毕业证书。

The republic was young in those days, and every young man had to serve in the army, so after graduation he joined an airborne regiment as an engineering officer.

那时共和国还很年轻，每个年轻人都必须服兵役，所以毕业后他作为工程军官加入了一个空降团。

He started as a trainee, and soon he was in charge of a squad of twelve men who looked after the regiment's weapons, including a powerful missile system whose official designation was only a number.

他从见习生做起，很快就负责管理一个十二人的班，负责照管团里的武器，其中包括一套威力强大的导弹系统，它的正式代号只是一个数字。

"A missile is a strange weapon," he writes. "We hoped that it would only be a deterrent, and that nobody would ever use it."

“导弹是一种奇怪的武器，”他写道，“我们希望它只是一种威慑，希望永远没有人会使用它。”

His squad was sent to a desert near the border, where the neighbouring army was hostile and there was constant provocation: their soldiers shouted insults, fired flares into the night sky, and once one of their planes made an intrusion into our airspace.

他的班被派到边境附近的一片沙漠，那里的邻国军队充满敌意，挑衅不断：他们的士兵叫骂，往夜空里发射照明弹，有一次他们的一架飞机还侵入了我们的领空。

The odds of a real war seemed high, and every night the officers listened to the news bulletin on the radio and waited.

真正打起仗来的可能性似乎很大，每天晚上军官们都收听收音机里的新闻简报，等待着。

But Dad's commander was a wise man who told his men to resist every provocation, and he never gave the order to fire.

但父亲的指挥官是个明智的人，他要求部下顶住一切挑衅，从未下达开火的命令。

Finally the two governments reached a diplomatic agreement, and after the ratification of a peace treaty, the troops went home.

最终，两国政府达成了外交协议，和平条约获得批准后，部队都回家了。

At the end of his service, an old marshal came to watch the regiment's last manoeuvre, and he gave Dad a prize for the accuracy of his work.

他服役期满时，一位老元帅来观看团里的最后一次演习，并因为父亲工作的精准给他颁了奖。

Dad says that the prize meant nothing; what mattered was that he had never fired a single shot at another human being.

父亲说这个奖不算什么；重要的是他从来没有朝另一个人开过一枪。

In his book he uses a beautiful metaphor for those years: "We were like a gigantic arch between the two banks of a river; our job was not to move, but to hold everything up."

在书中，他用了一个优美的比喻来形容那些年："我们就像横跨河两岸的一座巨大的拱桥；我们的任务不是移动，而是撑起一切。"

He still keeps his old army boots in a cupboard, and the fabric of his uniform is now thin and pale.
他至今还把那双旧军靴放在柜子里，他那身军装的布料现在已经又薄又褪色了。

After the army, Dad found a job at a steel factory in the city, where he was the engineer in charge of the furnaces.
退伍后，父亲在城里的一家钢厂找到了工作，他是负责炼钢炉的工程师。

He met my mother at a dance in the factory hall; she was a nurse who gave vaccinations to the workers' children, and she had silky black hair and a smart, quick tongue.
他在工厂礼堂的一场舞会上认识了我母亲；她是一名给工人子女打疫苗的护士，有一头柔顺的黑发，伶牙俐齿。

Their first flirtation was not a success: Dad stepped on her foot, and she laughed at him.
他们第一次调情并不成功：父亲踩了她的脚，她笑话了他。

But he persisted, and every Thursday evening, at precisely seven o'clock, he waited for her outside the hospital with a bunch of flowers.
但他坚持不懈，每个星期四晚上七点整，他都捧着一束花在医院外面等她。

"Your father was not a glamourous man," my mother told me, "but he was honest and tolerant, and he made me feel safe."
"你父亲不是个有魅力的男人，"母亲告诉我，"但他诚实、宽容，让我觉得很安全。"

They married a year later, and they moved into a small flat in a suburb on the edge of the city, where my brother and I were born.
一年后他们结了婚，搬进了城郊的一套小公寓，我和弟弟就是在那里出生的。

The steel industry was very important to the economy at that time, and the factory produced an immense tonnage of steel every year.
当时钢铁工业对经济非常重要，这家工厂每年都生产大量的钢材。

On most days a grey veil of smoke hung over the factory, and the atmosphere inside was hot and dirty.
大多数日子里，一层灰色的烟雾笼罩着工厂，厂里的环境又热又脏。

Dad was enthusiastic about his job, and he worked hard for the automation and modernization of the old machines.
父亲对工作充满热情，他努力推动旧机器的自动化和现代化。

He designed a new system for the lubrication of the rolling machines, which saved the factory a lot of money, and he received a promotion.
他为轧钢机设计了一套新的润滑系统，为工厂节省了很多钱，他也因此得到了晋升。

But in the second quarter of a difficult year, the price of steel fell, and the fluctuation of the market brought the factory close to ruin.
但在一个困难年份的第二季度，钢材价格下跌，市场的波动使工厂濒临破产。

Then came an awful disclosure: the managers had been guilty of fraud.
接着，一个可怕的真相被揭露出来：管理层犯有欺诈罪。

Driven by greed and the wish to maximize their own profits, they had inflated the value of the factory's assets, and they had been guilty of the appropriation of the workers' pension money for their own use.
在贪婪和使自己利润最大化的欲望驱使下，他们虚报了工厂的资产价值，还挪用了工人们的养老金供自己使用。

The factory went bankrupt, and there was a mass layoff; two thousand workers lost their jobs, including Dad.
工厂破产了，并进行了大规模裁员；两千名工人失去了工作，其中包括父亲。

It was a time of economic reformation, and many old factories were closed, but this one had been ruined by its own managers.
那是一个经济改革的时期，许多老工厂都关闭了，但这一家却是被它自己的管理层毁掉的。

He was appalled by the cruelty of the managers, who had been able to sell their own shares before the collapse and escape with their money.
管理层的冷酷让他震惊，他们在工厂倒闭前就把自己的股份卖掉了，带着钱逃之夭夭。

For the workers it felt like a stab in the back, and the debts of many families were slowly strangling them.
对工人们来说，这就像背后被捅了一刀，许多家庭的债务正慢慢地把他们勒得喘不过气来。

Dad decided to fight, and he became the main plaintiff in a court case against the former administration.
父亲决定抗争，他成了起诉前管理层一案的主要原告。

His long letter to the court, signed by five hundred workers, set the whole case in motion.
他写给法院的一封长信有五百名工人签名，正是这封信让整个案子启动了。

My mother became the spokeswoman for the workers' families, and she was very vocal in the newspapers; the managers even accused her of trying to agitate the workers.
母亲成了工人家属的发言人，她在报纸上大胆发声；管理层甚至指责她煽动工人。

The managers tried to flatter Dad, and they tempted him with a well-paid job if he dropped the case, an offer that would have been very advantageous for him, but he refused.
管理层试图奉承父亲，用一份高薪工作引诱他撤诉，这对他本人来说本是非常有利的，但他拒绝了。

"Money will not suffice," he told them. "The workers want justice."
“钱是不够的，”他对他们说，“工人们要的是公道。”

The case lasted three years, and many people thought that it was utterly hopeless.
这个案子持续了三年，很多人认为它毫无希望。

The managers refused to cooperate, and their lawyers were evasive and tried to make every fact seem disputable, but Dad kept his answers simple and consistent.
管理层拒绝合作，他们的律师闪烁其词，试图让每一个事实都显得有争议，但父亲的回答始终简单而一致。

The quantification of the losses was difficult, but Dad sat at the kitchen table every night with a stack of papers and calculated every figure himself.
损失的量化很困难，但父亲每天晚上都坐在厨房的桌子旁，面对一大摞文件，亲自计算每一个数字。

In the end the court found the managers guilty of a serious offense, and after you subtract the lawyers' fees, the workers received most of their pension money back.
最后，法院判决管理层犯有严重罪行，扣除律师费之后，工人们拿回了大部分养老金。

Mum was instrumental in winning the case, and Dad says that it was the proudest moment of his life, more than any prize.
母亲在打赢这场官司中起了重要作用，父亲说那是他一生中最自豪的时刻，比任何奖项都更让他骄傲。

During those years, life at home was hard; Dad found work in a small company that made auxiliary engines for boats, and Mum worked extra nights at the hospital.
那些年家里的日子很艰难；父亲在一家为船只制造辅助发动机的小公司找到了工作，母亲在医院多上夜班。

We had little money, so we had to minimise our spending and simplify our lives.
我们没什么钱，所以不得不尽量减少开支，简化生活。

But I remember that time as happy.
但我记忆中那段时光是幸福的。

Dad's parenting was patient and fatherly: he never shouted, and when we did something wrong, he only raised his eyebrows and said, "Was this your best choice?"
父亲教育孩子很有耐心，充满慈爱：他从不大喊大叫，我们做错了事，他只是扬起眉毛说："这是你最好的选择吗？"

He had a big beard, and every Sunday morning, before we went to church, he would shave it a little shorter while my brother and I sat on the edge of the bath and watched.
他留着大胡子，每个星期天早上去教堂之前，他都会把胡子刮短一点，我和弟弟就坐在浴缸边上看着。

He was a strong, manly figure, but his idea of masculinity included cooking, sewing buttons on our shirts with a needle and thread, and crying at sad films in the cinema.
他身材魁梧，很有男子气概，但他心目中的男子气概包括做饭、用针线给我们的衬衫钉扣子，以及在电影院看悲伤的电影时流泪。

He was full of contradictions: a soldier who hated war, and an engineer who loved poetry.
他身上充满了矛盾：一个痛恨战争的军人，一个热爱诗歌的工程师。

He taught us sailing on the lake in summer, and in winter he took us to the mountains, where we sat by the fire and he told us about the darkness of the desert and the cosmic size of the sky at night.
夏天他教我们在湖上驾帆船，冬天带我们去山里，我们坐在火边，听他讲沙漠里的黑暗和夜空那宇宙般的浩瀚。

My brother, who was always full of energy, became a cyclist; he won his first contest at fifteen, and later he rode solo across the whole country.
我弟弟一向精力充沛，后来成了一名自行车运动员；他十五岁时赢得了第一场比赛，后来还独自骑车横穿了整个国家。

Before his first race Dad bet a week's pocket money that he would win, and he was right.
在他的第一场比赛之前，父亲拿一个星期的零花钱打赌他会赢，结果他赌对了。

I was quieter, and my passion was photography; when I was twelve, Dad gave me an old camera of a famous brand and said, "Look at the world carefully, and it will show you its secrets."
我比较安静，我的爱好是摄影；我十二岁时，父亲送给我一台名牌旧相机，他说："仔细观察这个世界，它就会向你展示它的秘密。"

From that day on, I always wore a camera around my neck.
从那天起，我的脖子上总是挂着一台相机。

When I was in my teens, we moved to a house with a small garden, in a quiet neighbourhood near a river.
我十几岁时，我们搬进了河边一个安静街区里一座带小花园的房子。

Dad devoted every free hour to his beloved garden.
父亲把每一个空闲的小时都花在了他心爱的花园里。

He planted bamboo like the bamboo of his childhood, and he grew indigenous plants that brought butterflies back to the neighbourhood.
他种下了像他童年时那样的竹子，还种了一些本地植物，让蝴蝶又回到了这个街区。

He never used chemical fertiliser; instead, he made his own from dead leaves and kitchen waste, and the decay of the leaves turned into rich black soil.
他从不使用化肥，而是用枯叶和厨房垃圾自己制作肥料，腐烂的叶子变成了肥沃的黑土。

He hung a swing from an old tree, and in the evenings he sat in it with a cushion behind his back, watching the swallows dart over the grass.
他在一棵老树上挂了一个秋千，傍晚他就背后垫着一个靠垫坐在秋千上，看着燕子在草地上方飞掠而过。

He used to say that a garden was a lesson in patience: you cannot hasten the growth of a plant, and you cannot force the sunrise.
他过去常说，花园是一堂耐心课：你不能催促植物生长，也不能强迫太阳升起。

For him "home" was a synonym for "garden", and the garden made him prosper in a way that money never could.
对他来说，“家”就是“花园”的同义词，花园让他以一种金钱永远无法做到的方式变得富足。

At Christmas he hung paper ornaments on the bamboo, and the neighbours' children came to marvel at it.
圣诞节时，他在竹子上挂起纸做的装饰品，邻居家的孩子们都来惊叹地观赏。

Five years ago, misfortune came.
五年前，不幸降临了。

Dad began to cough, and he could not breathe easily when he climbed the stairs.
父亲开始咳嗽，爬楼梯时呼吸困难。

He had always been wary of doctors, but when the tests indicated that something was wrong, he had no other option.
他一向对医生心存戒备，但当检查结果显示有问题时，他别无选择。

The doctors found a tumour in his lung, probably caused by the years he had spent near the furnaces.
医生在他的肺里发现了一个肿瘤，很可能是他多年在炼钢炉旁工作造成的。

I will never forget the day he told us: he sat in the kitchen with his hands on the table, and he said, "Don't be scared. We will fight this together."
我永远不会忘记他告诉我们的那一天：他坐在厨房里，双手放在桌上，说：“别害怕。我们一起来对付它。”

The gravity of the situation was clear, but he spoke in a calm and earnest voice, and his love for us seemed to override his own fear.
情况的严重性显而易见，但他的语气平静而真诚，他对我们的爱似乎压过了他自己的恐惧。

He had an operation for the removal of the tumour, and then months of therapy, part of which used radioactive material to kill the cells that remained.
他做了切除肿瘤的手术，接着是几个月的治疗，其中一部分是用放射性物质杀死残留的细胞。

The therapy was awful: it rendered him so weak that he could not go upstairs, his skin became dry and grey, and his body weighed only fifty-five kilos.
治疗非常痛苦：它让他虚弱得上不了楼，他的皮肤变得干燥灰暗，体重只剩下五十五公斤。

My mother prayed for him every night, and people from our church came with soup and cakes.
母亲每天晚上都为他祈祷，教堂里的人们也带着汤和蛋糕来看他。

The uncertainty was the hardest part: nobody could tell us whether the remainder of the tumour had been killed.
最难熬的是那种不确定性：谁也无法告诉我们残留的肿瘤是否已被杀死。

I remember sitting beside his bed in the darkness, listening to him breathe and wondering how much time we had left.
我记得自己在黑暗中坐在他的床边，听着他的呼吸声，心里想着我们还剩下多少时间。

One night, half asleep, he muttered something I did not understand, and then he whispered, "The bamboo needs water."

一天夜里，他半睡半醒地嘟囔了些我听不懂的话，接着他低声说：“竹子需要浇水了。”

I laughed and cried at the same time; even when he was so ill, he was still conscious of his garden.

我又哭又笑；即使病得这么重，他心里还惦记着他的花园。

When I visited him the next morning, he squeezed my hand, kissed my forehead and said, "Don't worry, I am a soldier."

第二天早上我去看他时，他握紧我的手，亲了亲我的额头，说：“别担心，我是个军人。”

In the end the odds were on his side, and after a year the doctors said that there was no sign of the tumour; the chance of it coming back was almost nil.

最终运气站在了他这边，一年后医生说已经没有肿瘤的迹象了，复发的可能性几乎为零。

Mum called it a salvation, and she still believes that her prayers were answered.

母亲称之为一次拯救，她至今仍相信是她的祈祷应验了。

As his strength returned, Dad threw himself into the restoration of the garden, which had been neglected during his illness, and soon he was working in the sunshine from morning until evening again.

随着体力的恢复，父亲全身心地投入到修复花园的工作中——花园在他生病期间无人照料——很快他又从早到晚在阳光下忙碌起来了。

After his illness, Dad decided to write his story.

病好以后，父亲决定写下他的故事。

"My memory is fragmentary," he said, "so I must write it down before it is erased."

“我的记忆已经零零碎碎了，”他说，“所以我必须在它被抹去之前把它写下来。”

He wrote every morning at his own pace, on a computer that my brother had given him, though he was often irritated when a dialog box appeared on the screen and he did not know which button to press.

他每天早上按照自己的节奏在弟弟送给他的电脑上写作，不过每当屏幕上弹出一个对话框，而他不知道该按哪个按钮时，他常常很恼火。

He checked every date with great accuracy, he read a stack of old letters, and he called old friends from the army to ask them what they remembered.

他非常准确地核对每一个日期，读了一大摞旧信，还打电话给部队里的老朋友，问他们还记得些什么。

Some memories were so deeply embedded in his mind that he could describe every detail, while others were only a tangle of random pictures.

有些记忆深深地嵌在他的脑海里，他能描述出每一个细节，而另一些则只是一团杂乱无章的画面。

Writing was also emotional for him: some chapters saddened him so much that he had to stop and walk in the garden.

写作对他来说也是一件动感情的事：有些章节让他非常难过，他不得不停下来到花园里走走。

His language is simple, but it is full of allusions to the books he loved, and he still uses some old words; for example, he writes "connexion" instead of "connection", as his teacher taught him sixty years ago.

他的语言很朴素，但其中充满了对他所喜爱的书籍的引用，他还在用一些老式的词语；比如，他把“联系”写成老式拼法“connexion”而不是“connection”，就像六十年前他的老师教他的那样。

When the editor asked him to change it, he gave a quick retort: "If 'connexion' was good enough for my teacher, it is good enough for me."

编辑请他改过来时，他马上反驳道：“如果‘connexion’对我的老师来说足够好，那对我来说也足够好。”

He has never liked to conform, but he has agreed that the American edition will change every "neighbourhood" into "neighborhood", and he has pledged not to criticize it.
他从来都不喜欢随大流，但他已经同意美国版把所有的“neighbourhood”都改成“neighborhood”，并保证不对此提出批评。

The book covers his whole life, from the village to the factory and the garden, and it is not always a happy book: it tells of cruelty, greed and misfortune.
这本书涵盖了他的一生，从村庄到工厂再到花园，它并不总是一本快乐的书：书中讲述了残酷、贪婪和不幸。

But Dad says that, contrary to what many people suppose, a sad story can also be a hopeful one.
但父亲说，与许多人的想法相反，一个悲伤的故事也可以是充满希望的。

His book is a synthesis of history and personal memory, and the story transcends the life of one man; it is the story of a whole generation.
他的书是历史与个人记忆的综合，这个故事超越了一个人的一生，它是整整一代人的故事。

The publisher nominated it for a literary prize, and a newspaper put a short column about it on its front page.
出版商推荐这本书参评一个文学奖，一家报纸还在头版刊登了一篇关于它的短评。

To my amazement, one critic even wrote that it was "one of the most intelligent books of the year", although he added the supposition that Dad must have had a professional writer to help him, which made Dad laugh.
令我惊讶的是，一位评论家甚至写道，这是“今年最睿智的书之一”，不过他又加了一句猜测，说父亲一定请了一位专业作家帮忙，这让父亲哈哈大笑。

"That is a monstrous lie," he said with a smile. "Nobody helped me except your mother, who corrected my spelling."
“这真是个天大的谎言，”他笑着说，“除了你妈妈帮我改拼写，谁也没帮过我。”

Last month, he gave his first reading in a bookshop in our neighbourhood.
上个月，他在我们街区的一家书店里举办了第一次朗读会。

He was nervous, so Mum accompanied him and sat in the front row, and I was there with my camera to record the scene.
他很紧张，所以母亲陪他去了，坐在第一排，我也带着相机到场记录下那个场景。

Many people had registered for the event, and the shop was full: old soldiers from his regiment, former workers from the factory, neighbours, and young people who had read about the book online.
很多人报名参加了这次活动，书店里挤得满满的：有他部队里的老兵、工厂的老工人、邻居们，还有在网上读到过这本书的年轻人。

There was a warm atmosphere, and an old friend from his regimental days stood up to show everyone a photograph of the two of them in the desert, in the prime of their lives.
现场气氛温馨，他在团里服役时的一位老朋友站起来，向大家展示了一张他们俩在沙漠里的合影，那时他们正当壮年。

Dad read the chapter about the garden slowly, with a lot of emotion, and at one point I saw the old soldiers in the back row secretly wipe their eyes.
父亲慢慢地、饱含感情地朗读了关于花园的那一章，有一刻我看到后排的老兵们偷偷擦了擦眼睛。

At the end of the session, a young woman asked him what the secret of a good life was.
朗读会快结束时，一位年轻女子问他美好人生的秘诀是什么。

Dad thought for a while, scratching his beard, and then he said, "Work hard, be kind, and never let anger rule you. Fury is a poor messenger; it always brings bad news."
父亲想了一会儿，挠了挠胡子，然后说："努力工作，待人善良，永远不要让愤怒支配你。愤怒是个糟糕的信使，它带来的总是坏消息。"

Everyone clapped, and the shop owner said that it was the best reading she had ever had.
大家都鼓起掌来，书店老板说这是她举办过的最好的一次朗读会。

Then someone asked whether he regretted anything, and he said, "Only that I did not start writing earlier. But I suppose everything has its time, just like the plants in a garden."
接着有人问他是否有什么遗憾，他说："只遗憾我没有早点开始写作。不过我想，一切都有它的时机，就像花园里的植物一样。"

Dad is ageing now; he walks more slowly, and his legs are not as strong as they were.
父亲现在老了；他走路慢了，腿也不像从前那么有力了。

But he is still in the garden every morning, and he says that he has resolved to live until the bamboo reaches the top of the house.
但他每天早上仍然在花园里忙碌，他说他已下定决心，要一直活到竹子长到屋顶那么高。

My brother and his wife are expecting their first baby, and they have decided not to find out its sex until it is born.
我弟弟和他妻子正在等待他们的第一个孩子出生，他们决定在孩子出生前不去打听它的性别。

Dad has already built a small fence around the vegetable beds so that the baby will be able to crawl safely in the garden.
父亲已经在菜地周围搭了一圈小篱笆，好让宝宝以后能在花园里安全地爬来爬去。

"The baby will be adorable," he says, "and I have ample time to teach it the names of all the plants."
"这个宝宝一定会很可爱，"他说，"我有足够的时间教它认识所有植物的名字。"

Some people believe in destiny, but Dad doesn't; he says that a life is like a garden, and that what grows in it depends on what you plant and how you care for it.
有些人相信命运，但父亲不信；他说人生就像一座花园，里面长出什么，取决于你种下什么、怎样照料它。

Last week I finally took the photograph for the cover of his book.
上个星期，我终于为他的书拍好了封面照片。

I got up before sunrise, and I found him in the garden, standing in the bamboo with a cup of tea, his face turned toward the light.
我在日出前起床，发现他站在竹林里，端着一杯茶，脸朝着光亮的方向。

I enclosed the photograph in a letter to the publisher, with a short note: "This is my father, who is still super at seventy."
我把照片附在给出版商的一封信里，还附了一张小纸条："这是我的父亲，七十岁了依然很棒。"

When the first copy of the book arrived, Dad held it in his hands for a long time without a word, and then he took it out to the garden and read the first page aloud to the bamboo.
第一本书寄到时，父亲把它捧在手里，很久没有说话，然后他把书拿到花园里，对着竹子大声朗读了第一页。
